The Social Realm

There's a great deal of love on this earth.

Are you getting your share?

There are laughter and music and mirth.

Are you getting your share?

There are joys here a-plenty

For three-score or twenty:

The world's full of blisses,

Like kind deeds and kisses

And sunshine and roses to spare;

But tell me today,

As you travel your way,

Are you getting your share?

STORM EXACTS HUMAN TOLL

Four Score or More Fatalities
In the South

SCAR LEFT ON MANY STATES

Number of Deaths in Tennessee Alone
May Reach Sixty—Northern States
Also Suffer, Six Deaths Being Recorded at Chicago—Tidal Wave in Lake Michigan—Snowplows Out in Many Places

Louisville, May 1.—Dispatches
gathered throughout the south indicate that from sixty to seventy-five persons met sudden death in Tennessee in the great wind that spread havoc throughout the region south of the Ohio. The number of injured is probably three-fold that of the killed.

While the storm, which reached the south from the upper Mississippi valley shortly after midnight, left its scar on Mississippi, Arkansas, Kentucky, Alabama, Missouri and more remote states, Tennessee perhaps suffered the most severely.

It is substantiated that sixty people were killed, distributed among the following towns: Young's Crossing, 5; Poyetteville, 15; Nokesville, 1; Har-deman county, 2; Medina, 4; Clarksville, 1; Centerville, 1; Franklin, 1;
Hillsboro, 4; Somerville, 3; Laconia,
2; Bells, 2; Quito, 8; Giles, 12.

Mississippi's most disastrous point was Hern Lake, where 18 met death.
Arkansas reports a total of 12 dead
and 90 injured.

Alabama has 4 dead near Hartsell.

Kentucky escaped with much property damage, but no deaths.

Missouri has 7 killed at Somerville and 11 at Golden.

Georgia lost 2 lives when a boat capsized at Atlanta.

District Forecaster Walze at Louisville predicts fair and colder weather for the next few days and frosts for two nights in the portions of the south
reporting to Louisville.

Six Killed in Chicago

Chicago, May 1.—Six persons were killed and hundreds injured in Chicago and environs, during the storm. The list of injured includes only those whose names were officially reported.
Probably as many more received private attention, information of their condition therefore not becoming public.

The property loss cannot be estimated exactly now, but it will be enormous. Lorraine, O., reports $300,000 damage. On both sides of the Mississippi for hundreds of miles
it was a gust-threatening night, with here and there a puff of wind which knocked trees over and which isolated many sections of the south for hours from communication even with neighboring communities.

The storm in every respect was peculiar and would seem to be a record breaker in number and variety of freakish atmospheric disturbances.
Tornadoes, snow, sleet, rain, hail,
lightning, flood, flame and electrical phenomena were among its features.

A tidal wave in Lake Michigan has done great damage in Waukegan and Kenosha. Towns have been flooded and cut off from all communication with the world.

Trains have been damaged and their progress halted by the falling of telegraph poles across the tracks.

A blizzard is raging on the Great Lakes, a large steamer is probably lost, and snow plows are out in the northern tier of states.

POLO AND FANCY DIVING

Championships to Be Decided in Tank
of Chicago Athletes

Chicago, May 1.—The National Amateur Athletic union championships
in water polo and fancy diving will be decided tonight in the tank of the Chicago Athletic association. In the polo games teams from the Chicago Athletic association, the Illinois Athletic club and the Missouri Athletic club,
the leading western sides, are entered.

There are no eastern entries in any of the events. In the fancy diving contest the leading entries are George Gaidzick and Frank Bormann, both members of the Chicago Athletic association.

Britt Had Poison Tablets

New York, May 1.—Willis Britt, manager for Stanley Ketchell, the middleweight pugilist, who is suffering from what is believed to have been poison, will in all probability recover.
Britt was found unconscious in a doorway. A search of his effects brought to light a bottle of poison tablets.

Receiver For Evelyn Thaw

New York, May 1.—Justice McAvoy
signed an order appointing George B.
Hayes receiver for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, in the supplementary proceedings brought by Elsie Hartwig, a milliner, to enforce a judgment of $253.25 obtained against Mrs. Thaw.

Siege of Tabriz Raised

Tabriz, May 1.—The advance guard of the Russian expedition entered the gates yesterday. The Russians have brought supplies for the starving people. Tabriz is quiet. The advance of the Russians was not seriously contested.

What They Make Judges Out Of.

Justice David Brewer of the United States supreme court, during an address before the students of law at the University of Pennsylvania, told them one of the experiences of his judicial career at his own expense.

"It happened I was sitting at one time on a number of cases in which a good friend of mine was interested as counsel, and it also happened that in many of them my decisions were rendered against my friend's clients.
One day after the completion of such a case we sat together talking, when a very bashful young man from the rural districts came in to see me bearing a card of introduction to obtain
my advice upon the choice of a profession. 'What do you think you want to do?' I asked him. 'I kind of thought I'd better study law,' he replied, 'not that I want to very much, but because I guess I'd like to be a judge. They make judges out of lawyers, don't they?' he asked, somewhat hesitatingly. 'Once in a while,' my legal friend replied before I could answer. 'Once in a while they do, but not often.'" Philadelphia Press.

He Wasn't Fooled.

A once famous publisher was a man
well acquainted with general literature, and it was often said of him that he never failed to name the author of any given passage. A would be wit, thinking to have a little fun at this gentleman's expense, told his friends
at a dinner party before the said publisher's arrival that he had himself written some verses in imitation of Southey and that he intended to puzzle old F. with the question of their authorship.

Accordingly later in the evening the guest quoted his lines, and, turning to Mr. F., he said: "I am sure they are Southey's from their style, but I cannot remember where they occur. Of course you can tell us."

"I cannot say I remember them," replied Mr. F., "but there are only two periods in Southey's life when he could have written them."

"When were those?" asked the joker,
with a wink at his friends.

"Either in his infancy or his dotage,"
was the quiet reply.

Spanish Railroad Trains.

The Spanish train averages possibly twenty miles an hour—to allow one to make time exposures of the scenery perhaps. It makes frequent and long halts. At every station the guards run up and down, shouting the name of the town and the number of minutes for each stop. At every station also the two military guards who accompany each train descend and walk around the cars, looking to see that no robbers are concealed. As there is at least one stop an hour these guards get some exercise before the day is over. They say this custom was adopted to drive away any brigands who might be concealed in or under the train and that it has been successful. These military guards are very fine looking men and wear an impressive uniform. We saw more than one black eyed senorita look approvingly
after them as they passed by.—Outing Magazine.

Getting at the Truth.

At twenty-three he thought fate was making a special effort to keep him down.

At thirty-five he thought he might have done great things if his wife had not been such a handicap.

At forty he believed he would have been a great man if his children had not made it necessary for him to cling to the sure things.

At fifty he was positive that there was a conspiracy against him on the part of his fellow men.

At sixty he felt that if he could have been thirty-five again nothing could have stopped him.

At seventy he began to believe that he had failed because of a lack of courage and inability to make the most of his opportunities.

At eighty he was almost sure of it.—
Chicago Record-Herald.

Savages.

In the New Hebrides are many islands whose interiors have never been visited by Europeans, for the simple reason that to attempt to do so would be to court certain death at the hands of the treacherous and vindictive natives. A little to the north of Assam, too, almost within sight of the tea gardens and the pretty bungalows of the planters, is the country of the Padamites, wherein no white man has dared to set his foot for at least 500 years past.

Punishment and Crime.

"She seems to be having a pretty good time now that she and her husband are separated," whispered the three girls in the corner as she entered the room.

"I don't blame her," said one. "He beat her, didn't he?"

"Well, I don't blame him for beating
her," the third declared, "if she dressed like that. That red is awful."—Exchange.

Cause For Regret.

"I kicked the stuffin' out o' Dick Smith this mornin'."

"You bad boy! Aren't you sorry for it?"

"Yessum—awful sorry. I jest found out that he's goin' ter have a birthday party tomorrow."—Cleveland Leader.

In the Toils.

"Were you ever sent up in a balloon, Sam?"

"No, sah. I's been sent up several times, but never in a balloon, sah!"— Yonkers Statesman.

Beware the geese when the fox
preaches.—Spanish Proverb.

Boston, April 30.

Set another black mark against the white plague. A report from the board of health of Boston indicates a winning fight against tuberculosis.
The mortality resulting from the disease in the territory within the jurisdiction of this board shows a considerable decrease in the last decade, although heart disease and pneumonia have increased. It is a long pull, but with perseverance great results may be obtained and the dread spectre of consumption be banished from the land.

Long live the Autocrat. Flags floating gracefully in the breeze April 27 paid tribute to the memory of Oliver Wendell Holmes, illustrious son of Cambridge and Boston, born
one hundred years ago to be the New England capital's favorite poet of all occasions, and one of its most devoted physicians. A number of commemorative exercises were held, the most prominent among them being those at which Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson recalled his boy-hood days when with the nephew of Dr. Holmes he used to build forts with the big encyclopedia in the Holmes library and bombarded them with the contents of the doctor's inexhaustible apple barrel.

As the year of 1809 was remarkable for the number of births of notable people, so will 1909 go down as remarkable for the number of deaths in literary and musical circles. It is rarely, indeed, that in the short span of twelve months the world
loses such shining lights as Swinburne, Cardou, Crawford, Mme. Mod-jeska, B. J. Lang, Charles Warren Stoddard and Heinrich Corried, to say nothing of those in other lines
of thought and work who have died lately. With one or two exceptions the Hub has been closely associated with the lives of these famous artists, and each recurring loss is felt very keenly by the generation which has watched them struggle toward the pinnacle of success only to be struck down on attaining its height.

The increasing number of single women in our communities can not be attributed entirely to an inclination on their part toward commercial occupation. Recently published statistics in England state that in that country there are 1,070,000
more women than men, and according to population there must be a considerably larger number of women
in excess of men in the United States. It seems rather necessary, then, unless we adopt the Mormon faith, that there should be an increasingly greater proportion of women to men from century to century,
since the mortality of women is much lower and the average duration of their lives much longer. Imagination pictures the earth many centuries
hence robbed of its last man while several million damsels weep at his bier.

HEIR TO DUTCH THRONE

Princess' Advent Extravagantly Celebrated in the Netherlands

The Hague, May 1.—Wilhelmina, queen of the Netherlands, gave birth to a daughter Friday and Holland is celebrating the happy event from one end of the country to the other, with expressions of joy and gratification, such as seldom before have been witnessed on the part of this placid people.

QUEEN WILHELMINA.

Splendidly illuminated streets, thronged with a rejoicing populace, dancing, singing and throwing confetti, gave to the city a carnival appearance last night. A torchlight and lantern procession was held by students. The crowds in front of the royal palace made the thoroughfare almost impassable.

Queen Wilhelmina slept well during the day and is progressing nicely. She expresses the intention of nursing the princess, beginning today.

BOND MEETS WITH HOSTILE RECEPTION

Gets Ducked and Changes His Mind About Speaking

St. John's, May 1.—Sir Robert Bond, the former premier, is touring the towns and villages along Conception bay in the interests of his party. When he started to go ashore from his steamer at Western Bay last evening to address a political rally he was met by a crowd of voters in sympathy with Sir Edward Morris' party and warned that the electors of Western Bay did not desire to hear him.

Bond charged that the objectors were engaged by the Morris party to prevent him from speaking and announced his intention of landing and making an address.

The crowd made a rush for the landing place and in the confusion Bond was pushed overboard. He was not injured and succeeded in climbing into a rowboat. He rejoined the steamer and made no further attempt to land.

REVOLUTION ABOUT DUE

Rebellious Tribes Sack Town Close to Capital of Morocco

Washington, May 1.—Conditions in the interior of Morocco are bad, according to advices which have reached the state department from the legation at Tangier.

Previous reports indicated that the sultan was shut up in Fez and that the rebellious tribes were active at Mequinez. Now the story is that they have entered that place, which is about fifteen miles to the south of Fez, and have sacked it. Fez is in a state of siege and there are serious fears of a revolution.

American commercial interests are not of any material extent in Morocco, but there are some naturalized Americans, mostly Jews, in that country.

SIDESTEP ON SUFFRAGE

But Few Religious Liberals Vote on Question of Women's Rights

Philadelphia, May 1.—The National Federation of Religious Liberals, at its closing sessions here last night, declared for equal suffrage, indorsed child labor laws and expressed hope for universal peace through treaties of amity among the nations.

Only 149 of the thousand and more delegates went on record in the equal suffrage question. The vote was 132 to 17. Eight women voted against the resolution.

LETTER FROM STATE HOUSE.

Boston, April 28, 1909.

John L. Billard seems to have the whip hand just now. His block of Boston and Maine stock has become an object of such suspicion that Gov. Draper sends a message to the legislature that it be not allowed to fall into the hands of any purchaser foreign and hostile to Massachusetts who may cripple the prosperity of the state. If the stock has such commercial possibilities then the foreign possible purchaser will doubtless want it. Massachusetts will want it and Mr. Billard can say to each: "You must bid higher." In consequence of the hearing held yesterday by the railroad committees, considering Gov. Draper's message, all sides agree that the message is all right, albeit they do not seem to understand exactly what may be done under it. The big men of the anti-merger side were there—Charles H. Jones and Bernard J. Rothwell, representing the business interests and ex-Senator William B. Lawrence and Louis D. Brandeis, representing the stubborn opposition during two years to the merger proposition—and they agreed with the governor. It is therefore now the function of the railroad committee to draft a suitable bill.

But the consequence of Gov. Draper's alarm over the danger that the Billard stock will fall into hostile hands is seen immediately in the conclusion that safety is only to be found in making the state the owner and so preventing the sale forever. Indeed, the Billard situation opens up an interesting vista of opportunity. If any holder or holders of a large block of railroad stock, whether of Boston & Maine or New Haven or Boston & Albany, can imperial the prosperity of the state by threatening to sell to hostile owners, why cannot such holders work up a scare any time they please and force up the price of their holdings? That would be a practical blackmailing of the state into buying the stock. But how is it to be avoided under the new policy? Hence this incident promises to mark an epoch in the relation of the state to the railroads. Advocates of state ownership are quick to seize the opportunity, and Martin M. Lomasney has put in, for Daniel J. Kiley, former chairman of the democratic state committee, a petition and bill for state ownership of the stock. Gov. Draper proposes a high degree of state regulation in his message to keep control of the Billard stock in the hands of a controlling corporation to be created by special act with special powers. So the railroad problem, in its broad aspects, is still before the legislature in an acute form, it looks still as if Billard, the New Haven and the Boston & Maine were masters of the situation, in spite of the fact that the state has compelled the New Haven to drop its trolley holdings and to keep clear of any suspicion of absorbing the Boston & Maine. To complicate the situation, politics is mixed up with it badly. Presumably, all the democrats are anti-mergerites. Gov. Draper, in view of the protest of Boston business men, regardless of party, will hesitate, for political reasons, to throw cold water upon the anti-merger side, and it is impossible to consider the proposition as a pure transportation and commercial problem.

Speaker Walker has twice lately taken a decisive part in legislation. The other day he prevented, by taking the floor and making a strong argument against the bill, the passage of the bill for 80 cent gas for East Boston. Yesterday he gave his vote to make a tie and defeated, for the time only, however, the bill for direct nominations in Essex county. He shows no lack of courage to meet emergencies, but his critics in the House, who are sore for lack of getting committee positions, are preventing him from making a short session record.

By the death of State Librarian Caleb B. Tillinghast at the Boston homeopathic hospital early this morning, Massachusetts loses an official who was remarkably efficient in his sphere. He made the state library which must always be on a different basis from any other library, very useful and satisfactory to its many patrons. He made a specialty of collections of laws of all states and countries. By exchanges with the states of the United States and with foreign state departments he kept in touch with all current legislation in all parts of the world. By watching his opportunities and buying wisely, he secured valuable collections of the past, so that it is a fair proposition that no other library in this country has such extensive collections of the laws of all nations. It was his theory that the laws constitute in a peculiar degree the history of a nation. Hence there is in the Massachusetts state library an exceptionally favorable opportunity for the student who is collecting national historical materials. Personally Mr. Tillinghast was considerate of those in his service, courteous to those of the public who came to be served and was so well fitted for the position that he would have held it for life, even if his 66 years had been much prolonged. When I first knew him, he was city editor of the Boston Journal, and he was more thorough in avoiding beats against himself and in getting them on other city editors than any of the modern school are. He was very much disturbed by the recent attack in the House upon the library because it did not have a legislative reference department, an idea utterly impracticable in the form in which it was proposed. The effort reached its end in the senate yesterday in a total fizzle, but the outcome came to late to work his recovery.

While it is too early to foretell the fate of the bill to incorporate the trustees of Massachusetts college, yet the unanimous vote of the House yesterday, without debate, gives it first class promise of going through the House. It had been passed for debate repeatedly, but its questioners seemed to have been satisfied by the time they had an opportunity to talk. The two dissenters of the committee are in the senate, and it is there, if anywhere, that the bill will meet serious opposition.

Yesterday the House passed to be engrossed the Senate bill for the incorporation of credit unions. This is a new thing for this country, but it has some 25,000 practical illustrations in Europe. It owes its favor here to Pierre Jay, our recent savings bank commissioner. It is for the particular benefit of men and women without capital, but with good character, and it has operated for the material financial benefit of the members, as it is managed in Europe. Regulations are strict for borrowing, but the actual demonstration of the success of relying upon the character of borrowers who can put up no collateral but their honesty has made it advisable to try the system here. Mr. Jay has been enthusiastic and it has marked advantages over our present savings bank system in way of giving opportunities to borrowers.

From the committee on agriculture comes an appropriation of $150,000 a year for three years for the suppression of the gypsy and brown tail moths. It is expected that $15,000 of this will go for experiments with parasites. State Forester Raue estimates that for each of these three years about $1,000,000 a year will be spent here in Massachusetts fighting the pests. This is made up of about $200,000 from the national government, plus the $150,000 from the state and what will be spent further by cities and towns by individuals, and by the metropolitan district in its parks and boulevards. There is a growing appreciation of the destructive nature of the pest and the need of thorough action.

Rule.

IT WAS HIS DOG.

An automobile dashed along the country road. Turning a curve, it came suddenly upon a man with a gun on his shoulder and a weak, sickly-looking old dog beside him. The dog was directly in the path of the motor car. The chauffeur sounded his horn, but the dog did not move—until he was struck. After that he did not move.

The automobile stopped, and one of the men got out and came forward. He had once paid a farmer $10 for killing a calf that belonged to another farmer. This time he was wary.

"Was that your dog?"
"Yes."
"You own him?"
"Yes."
"Looks as if we'd killed him."
"Certainly looks so."
"Very valuable dog?"
"Well, not so very."
"Will $5 satisfy you?"
"Yes."
"Well, then, here you are." He handed a five-dollar bill to the man with the gun, and added, pleasantly, "I'm sorry to have broken up your hunt."

"I wasn't going hunting," replied the other, as he pocketed the bill. "Not going hunting. Then what were you doing with the dog and the gun?"

"Going down to the woods to shoot the dog."—Youth's Companion.

COULD HAVE MARRIED HER.

Sir Thomas Lipton, apropos of bachelorhood and marriage, said in an after-dinner speech in Chicago:

"Bachelors, I admit, are villains, but it is a shame to play such tricks on them as it is customary everywhere to do.

"A nasty trick was played on a bachelor friend of mine at a dance. A woman was reproaching him for never having married, when her husband, a little bored perhaps, said gruffly:

"He says he could have cut me out and married you if he had wanted to."

"The woman started."

"Indeed!" she cried. "Why didn't he do it, then?"

"He says he owed me a grudge," the husband explained, with a chuckle."—New York Tribune.

HOW HE REASONED.

"You are not putting on two undershirts on such a warm morning as this, are you?" said an Alleghany young man to his room-mate one close morning.

"Yes."
"That's a very curious performance."

"Not at all. You see that this is a very thin one, don't you?"

"Yes."
"And it will keep me cool?"

"Yes."
"The other is a thin one, too."
"Well, if one will keep me cool, two will keep me twice as cool, won't they? Where is your arithmetical ability?"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

There are lots of women who can make a man sit up and take notice. They are all married. So are the men.

It isn't any use to tell a woman to do as she pleases. It won't make the slightest difference in the general result.

Everybody has sympathy for the underdog, but still most people sort of feel that it is nice to stand in with the top dog.

Be kind to all you chance to meet, but not too kind or you will soon cease to be able to meet anybody.

Some people would be so disappointed that they would be unhappy if all the world were happy.

No matter how occupied, there are a great number of people who would rather do anything else under the sun than to do what they may chance to be doing.

Undesirable Chum.

It's a nuisance,
So it is,
Just to have
The rheumatiz.
Ever have that Busy pest
Put your temper
To the test?
Not 'Ah, well,
You needn't sigh.
It will catch you
By and by.

Maybe at Your garden gate
With a club
It lies in wait
And will take
You down the line,
Though you're feeling
Mighty fine
And have never Known an ill
Nor have met
A doctor's bill.

When it gets you
You will know Whether in the Back or toe,
For it always
Has a way—
Too familiar,
You will say—
Of proclaiming
It is there
And your bed
And board to share.

Every anxious Friend you meet
As you hobble
Down the street
Will present you
With a cure
That for rheumatiz
Is sure.
They should know—
If not, who would?
For it did
Their case no good.

A Word to the Wise.

A breezy friend is a charming companion, but is apt to blow away with a lot of your personal belongings.

A Luxury.

"Jenks got his pay boosted."
"His wife will be so glad."
"I suppose so."
"I know it. She has been wishing for some time that she could afford to have nervous prostration."

Knew It Was Good.

"I heard such a good story last night."
"You did?"
"Yes."
"Who told it?"
"I did."

Precaution.

A man should keep his little wife informed on all the score. For if he tries to keep it dark she'll guess it all and more.

Had a Collection.
"She knows a lot about husbands."
"Indeed! Whose husbands?"
"Her own."

Adjustable.
"Is your eyesight as good as ever?"
"Depends on who is coming."

"O that we two were amaying" would be pretty dull pleasure today.

Long life and happiness to the Princess of Orange, Netherlands' new heir to the throne.

Snow, blizzards and loss of life are reported in the vicinity of Chicago, ten inches of snow in Pennsylvania and storms in New York state. It's none to warm or pleasant in New England.

What a pity there is no way of stopping vandalism. Last year the city set out a number of trees which have suffered all kinds of treatment at the hands of hoodlums, whose favorite method seems to be to use a jackknife and cut away strips of bark.

Enterprise shows itself in various ways and one to be commended is the lighting of show windows by some of our merchants on the nights that the stores are closed. It gives a cheerful aspect to City square and the windows attract many passers-by.

Few City Solicitors have been called upon as often by the members of the City Council to render what is known as snap shot opinion as has City Solicitor McAnarney. There is scarcely a meeting when one or more questions are not put to him but never up to the present time has he been caught napping. His replies are delivered straight from the shoulder and are devoid of ifs and ands so that there can be no misunderstanding of how he rules on the question.

Mr. McAnarney has also been before committees frequently this year and has rendered verbally opinions and answered questions which he could, had he so desired, demanded they be submitted to him in writing.

Some question has been raised as to the exact meaning of the conditions tacked onto the orders granting liquor transportation permits by the City Council. The conditions in question read as follows:—

"Every driver transporting liquor into this city for use herein shall file with the police officer who shall be stationed at some convenient point, a list of each load of liquor so transported, containing the name of the consignee, the amount of liquor and kind and the name of the consignee."

The point raised is when are such lists to be filed. It was evidently the intention of the originator of the amendment that such lists should be filed every day. It does not so state, however, and the opinion has been expressed if the driver does not file his list but once a month or once a year he complies with the conditions. It is probable, however, that before the Mayor signs any of the permits he will have an understanding with the expressmen that lists shall be filed each day.

ANNIVERSARY CONCERT.

Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor Celebrate in Hibernian Hall.

The Loyal Ladies of Clan McGregor held an anniversary concert, supper and dance last evening in Hibernian hall and although the weather was anything but pleasant a large crowd attended. Each lady had the privilege of inviting a gentleman, and if she could not get one, was obliged to come alone.

An excellent concert of Scotch songs, dances and recitations was given from 8 to 9, with music by Thomson's orchestra. After the concert a Scotch supper was served by the ladies in the banquet hall. Dancing was then enjoyed until 2 o'clock.

D. E. Wadsworth & Co., report an unusually good spring trade especially in suits and their corps of clerks have their hands full to keep up with the rush.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Intelligent and well-directed enterprise can give to almost any town, even a small one, enviable prominence, says the Boston Transcript. For instance, Deerfield is well and favorably known throughout the State and country by the thoroughness with which it has preserved and made public its historical records, and the comprehensiveness of its collection of local antiquities. Now Brimfield is coming into public notice because of the attention that is being given to forestry there. Principal Kenny of that place is an enthusiastic and a skillful planter of trees. He is developing a forest tract to which he has this year added a thousand white pine seedlings, two thousand Norway spruce and four thousand American beeches. Last year he set out two thousand white pines and a hundred catalpas which are doing well. A number of his pupils work for him Saturdays and they as well as some of the citizens are catching his spirit to the great benefit of the town. He purposes to transform a part of the school campus into an arboretum, containing many specimens of trees both useful and ornamental. There is no waiting for Arbor Day proclamations. Every day when opportunity offers is an arbor day there, and the impulse that has been started will continue to have a healthful influence upon the community.

DEATH OF MISS CAVANAGH.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cavanagh have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the loss of their oldest daughter, Miss Beatrice Cavanagh who died Friday at their home on Sea street after a brief illness.

She was a particularly attractive girl in her twelfth year and was the universal favorite with all who knew her.

She was a pupil of the Coddington school and the whole school mourns her loss. Funeral services will be held Sunday from the St. Frances church by the Sea at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Cavanagh had the distinction to be the first child to be baptised at this church.

THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title Incorporated 1892).
The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and requests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Clive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy) Incorporated 1890.
The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such name may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.
The Secretary, TIMOTHY REED, Adams Street, Quincy, or the Treasurer, RICHARD D. CHASE, Savings Bank Building, Quincy, will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

EXPRESS PERMITS SIGNED BY MAYOR

His Honor Imposes Additional Condition to the Permits

Mayor Shea was at his office in City Hall bright and early this morning anticipating a rush of expressmen for permits to transport liquor. Under the law the permits for the coming year could not be signed until this morning.

The Mayor was not exactly satisfied with the new clause added to the orders granting permits this year as it was capable of being construed to mean something different from what was intended by the Council.

The Mayor therefore had drawn up a condition which he required all expressmen to sign before he would attach his signature to the orders. Some of the expressmen did not like the new condition but the Mayor was firm and it was signed the condition or no permit. The condition imposed by the Mayor was as follows.

"The undersigned hereby agrees that in accepting from the City Council of the City of Quincy a permit to transport intoxicating liquor into said City for the year ending April 30, 1910 does so, not only on the conditions set forth therein, but also on the following conditions, viz:

A correct schedule of all liquor transported into said City under said permit on the preceding day shall each day be given to the officer in charge at the Police Station in said City. Said schedule shall set forth the names and addresses of the consignees or purchasers of said liquor.

A failure to comply with either of said conditions shall be deemed sufficient cause to revoke said permit."

Up to noon the following permits had been granted:—

H. H. Lowe
John Callahan
Michael Connelly

N. Di Paulillo
Frederick Evans
N. T. Murphy

LOCAL MATTERS DISCUSSED.

Houghton Neck Associates and Ladies Hold Joint Meeting.

The Houghton Neck Associates, and the Houghton Neck Ladies Associates held a joint meeting Friday evening at Pandora Hall.

The meeting was called for the purpose of taking action for a meeting place during the summer months. A committee consisting of George E. Uram, Hiram Darrow, Michael G. Coughlin and Oliver G. Fosdick, was appointed to hire the old Head House if possible.

John P. Moses, owner of the Pandora property offered the property to the associates for $7,500 being only one fourth the assessed value. He suggested that a stock company be formed to raise the fund. He said that the rents received from the different buildings would pay a large dividend.

Oliver G. Fosdick reported for the school committee. He said that the committee would meet the councilman from ward one Sunday to see what could be done about the school question. He talked about the needs of school and said that if forced to, the people of Houghton Neck could appeal to the State Board of Education.

After the meeting an informal farewell reception was held until eleven o'clock.

Hervey, superintendent of the Malden schools upon "The relation of the Young Men's Christian association to the home, school and church, in regard to the boys." Music will be furnished by the orchestra and light refreshments served by the Auxiliary.

Many people are especially interested in the Mother Goose Festival which Unity Circle of King's Daughters are planning to give at Bethany chapel because of the fact that they have engaged, as an extra attraction, the Young American Boys' band of Gloucester, Arthur S. Wosnon, Jr., leader. This band of seven boys from nine to fourteen years of age, made their first public appearance at a church festival last summer and since then have been in great demand, playing at many church fairs and entertainments and twice at the Y. M. C. A. vesper services on Sunday afternoons. These young players have a great regard for sacred music and for national and patriotic airs, always taking off their caps and standing to play the Star Spangled Banner even at their informal rehearsals. They have received some fine press notices praising them for the musicianliness and for their earnest efforts to do good work. This will be their first appearance outside the limits of their home city.

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts—exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

MASONIC DEGREES.

The Masonic exemplification for the 25th Masonic district, Rt. Wor. Edward B. Pratt of Hingham, district deputy grand master, was held at the Masonic Temple at Braintree last Saturday afternoon and evening, and all the eight lodges in the district participated. Probably twenty or more lodges were represented among the brethren. Grand Lecturer Putnam kept the lodges strictly to business from 1.30 to 6, and from 7 to 9, and officers and members felt well repaid for their attendance, and the instruction was valuable.

The degree work was performed by the officers of these lodges in the following order:

Konohasset of Cohasset.
Satuit of Scituate.
Plymouth of Plymouth.
Corner Stone of Duxbury.
Delta of Braintree.
Old Colony of Hingham.

It is the aim of the officers of these lodges to give the work letter perfect, and some of the sections could not be excelled, and all the lodges will profit from the exemplification.

From 6 to 7 P. M. a grand banquet was served by Delta lodge, W. C. Spratt being the caterer. The menu included salads, fish, croquettes, fritters, ices and coffee, and the supply was bountiful. Many who visited the temple for the first time envied Delta lodge its finely appointed headquarters, which are complete in all their details.

Braintree is to have a new physician, Dr. Pratt, who has many friends here, and is well known as an organist, having located in the Vinton house near the depot.

CHILDREN'S GARDENS.

William Patterson the well known florist of Wollaston has made the following generous offer to the Children's Garden committee of the Quincy Women's club: donation of one thousand zinnia plants delivered on or about the first of June. Mr. Patterson also offers a prize of $3 for the finest flowers raised from these plants. Children who wish to secure the plants may send their names and address to the Children's Garden committee, Quincy Women's club, Goffe street.

The boy who kept the following record won the first prize for his vegetable garden last year. It is hoped that other children will start such a garden diary this year. The committee will publish in the Quincy Daily Ledger the best garden report received at the end of the season's work. Edgar Pinel, aged fourteen years, began his diary as follows: "I water my garden every night except when it rains," which was a good plan. The diary goes on as follows:

BRAINTREE.

Another enjoyable whist party was held last evening by Delta lodge of Masons at Delta hall.

The letter carriers appeared out in new suits on Wednesday, and were on dress parade, for it was the day for the semi-annual inspection. The inspectors came from Boston in an automobile.

Selectman W. L. Gage went to the Boothby hospital in Boston on Monday for an operation on his ear. It is said that the operation was very successful and that Mr. Gage will soon recover. He was at the Town House on Friday.

F. Edgar Norris has been away the greater part of the week, his business calling him to Portsmouth and Rochester, N. H.

H. L. White, Charles W. Hollis and other Masons attended on Wednesday evening the meeting of the lodge at Campello, and witnessed the M. M. degree. Mr. White also presided at a meeting of the Past Masters' Association held the same evening.

Mrs. Wheeler and daughter Grace have returned from their trip to New York.

Mrs. George H. Wetherbee is expected home today from her trip to Washington and New York.

CALLED OFF.

No Base Ball Games Today on Account of Rain.

Rain put a damper on baseball yesterday all through New England and in fact pretty much all over the country. Every game in the New England league was postponed on account of rain, while in the American and National leagues only one game was played. All the college and school games were called off too on account of the bad weather.

Today several good games were scheduled for Quincy but again Mr. Weather stepped in and prevented play. Makaria had the crack Page class team billed to appear at the Park today and a swell game would surely have resulted. Both the Big-Flows and the Fore River Apprentices had fast teams on the bill, but it was out of the question to try to play.

Some crack college games are scheduled for today unless the rain stops them. Fordham, the speedy aggregation from New York appears at Soldier's field, Cambridge, against Harvard and a warm game is assured. "Chris" Mahoney of Milton, well known in Quincy as baseball and basket ball player, is with the Fordham team and will probably do the box work. Harvard lost to the New Yorkers last year, with Mahoney on the slab.

Another game that is sure to be a corker is that between Dartmouth and Holy Cross at Worcester. Both teams are playing good ball and a close game will surely result. In case of rain these two big games will probably be played off on Monday. Besides these there is a big string of professional, semi-professional, amateur and school games scheduled.

VIGILANT EYE KEPT ON TURKEY

Washington Officials Take Hopeful View of the Situation

PRESENCE OF WAR VESSELS

It Means That American Lives and Property Will Be Safeguarded in Disturbed Provinces—Force of Arms Necessary to Bring About Permanent Cessation of Slaughter of Americans—Conditions Improved

Washington, May 1.—Increasing confidence obtains in the state department regarding the situation in provincial Turkey, and the hope is expressed that conditions will continue to improve. This feeling is based largely on the dispatches which have reached the department from the American embassy at Constantinople.

A vigilant watch will be kept on developments throughout Turkey, to the end that American lives and property shall be safeguarded, supplementing its representatives to the port by the presence of war vessels that are scheduled soon to reach Asia Minor.

Dispatches from Constantinople say that reports from Hadjin and other places in the disturbed provinces indicate that the trouble are almost over. The arrival of the troops and the change of government has had a most salutary effect. The opinion of the embassy officials is that order will be completely restored soon.

It has been realized by persons acquainted with conditions in Turkey that there is no hope of a cessation of the religious strife which resulted in the slaughter of thousands of Armenians and such great danger to missionary interests until the offenders are summarily dealt with by force of arms.

It probably will be ten days before the armored cruisers North Carolina and Montana reach the disturbed sections in Asia Minor. They will arrive at Gibraltar on May 4 or 5, will coal hurriedly and proceed with all speed to their destination. If circumstances warrant it, the revenue cutter Tacoma, now nearing Gibraltar, also will proceed to the vicinity of Alexandretta.

The two cruisers will go to Mersina, which is the terminus of a railroad line reaching Adana and other small places where American missionary interests are located. Should the presence of marines be needed at any of these places they readily can be transported.

Mersina is across the water from Alexandretta, and if the occasion demands it one of the vessels will go to the latter place. Ambassador Leishman will be given discretion in disposing of the vessels in a manner best suited to the requirements of the occasion.

TEWFIK HAS NEW CABINET

Mehmed V Divests Himself of Frills Displayed by Abdul Hamid

Constantinople, May 1.—Tewfik Pasha finally has succeeded in forming a new ministry to preside over the destinies of the Turkish Empire, a task he undertook reluctantly when some of the influential members of the Committee of Union and Progress displayed opposition to Himla Pasha resuming his old position of premier.

Mehmed V drove through the streets in democratic fashion on his way to the mosque to offer up the regular Friday prayers. The pomp and ceremonial that formerly attached to functions during the reign of Abdul Hamid were altogether lacking, and the subjects of the new sultan seemed to appreciate his democratic manner and accepted it as evidence of the beginning of more lenient rule.

Hatched in Constantinople
Adana, May 1.—The conviction is held by the Armenians that the Moslem attacks against them had their origin in Constantinople. The massacres began simultaneously in the districts covering 100 miles around the Gulf of Alexandretta, and therefore they maintain that they could not have started from a local row in Adana, in which two Turks were shot by an Armenian as he was leaving a church with his bride, whom the Turks were trying to capture.

Engineer Held For Manslaughter
Dedham, Mass., May 1.—Elmer E. Jones, a railroad engineer, was held for the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by Judge Grover. Bail was fixed at $1000, which Jones furnished. It is charged that he caused the death of Walter H. Daggett, a yardman, through negligence.

Long Play to Be Presented
St. Petersburg, May 1.—Count Tolstoy's novel, "War and Peace," is now being dramatized here and will be staged at the Imperial Opera. The adapters have worked it into fifty scenes, the performance of which will cover five successive evenings.

Trolley Car Kills a Boy
Natick, R. I., May 1.—Ernest Fretette, 8 years old, was killed in front of his home here when a trolley car ran over him. No arrests are expected, as the motorman is generally held to be without blame.

Natural Gas And Miranda.

By MARY
ALDINE

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

Mr. Samuel Perkins, assisted by two Italians, all with their coats and vests off and perspiring profusely, was boring an artesian well on his farm.

Suddenly the drill was forced out of the ground. There followed a great puff of vapor that had the odor of bad eggs and sulphur mixed together. Mr. Perkins had struck a natural gas well.

A month later Mrs. Perkins was saying to him: "Samuel, remember that we spell our name P-a-r-k-i-n-s; also that a month hence we sail for Europe. We've got money, and we've got a daughter Miranda. We are going to give her a chance."

"A chance for what?" asked the husband, who was trying to get used to wearing a collar and a coat around the house.

"To get polished up and to marry some one worthy of her. You needn't sit there thinking that a few weeks ago Miranda was hanging out the clothes. We've struck natural gas, and that makes a difference. We sail in four weeks."

"I did kinder think we might go to Niagara Falls for a week or so," began Samuel as he rubbed his chin.

"What's Niagara Falls to people with money? What are they to Miranda? Samuel Perkins, can't you realize that you struck gas?"

"I know I did." "We are climbing for the top of the ladder. We can't be kept down. Haven't you got it through your head yet? It's Europe and polish. It's Europe and a husband for Miranda. If them Chicago butchers can take their daughters to Europe and marry them off to lords and dukes, why can't we?"

"Isn't natural gas just as high toned as pork chops? You keep a coat on and your shoes black and get used to looking like somebody and leave the rest to me."

Mr. Perkins would rather have sat on the steps of the village and related for the five hundredth time what his emotions were when he struck gas, but he was dragged off to Europe.

Miranda betrayed a surprising lack of interest, but Mrs. Perkins did the thing with all her might. She had native wit and observation. By sitting in a corner most of the time and having as little as possible to say the husband and father made out after a fashion.

In due time he even became interested in things. He became so interested that one evening after they had been in London for a fortnight he asked his wife:

"Mary, are we hitting the pike all right?"

"Hitting the pike!" she repeated in scornful tones. "Samuel, cut the pike and other things out. Miranda and me are watching ourselves every minute, and you want to do the same. Don't you leave the spoon in the cup when you drink your coffee, and don't tuck your table napkin clear up under your ears. If you spoil Miranda's chances I'll never forgive you."

"But what I want to know is has any feller come around yet?" persisted the husband.

"No, not exactly. But I've noticed different ones looking at her and sorter edging around. You leave that part of it to us, and you tend to yours. Whenever you can, you just drop in a word about natural gas and millions."

"Oh, I won't spoil nobody's chances. I didn't want to come at first, but now that I've got over here I rather like it. Makes a feller feel as if he was somebody to have a boy ready at every turn to brush off his coat."

"I guess I'd be proud to have a lord or a duke for a son-in-law. That's Miranda's lowest finger, hain't it? She hain't coming over here and then take up with no hayseed?"

It was Paris after four weeks in London, and there was a continual improvement in the family. Miranda and her mother picked up as much as one French word a day, and the husband and father left his fears behind him and assumed a little swagger and a patronizing air that sat well on him.

He had struck natural gas at home simply by accident. He reasoned that he might strike a husband for Miranda abroad in the same way. Therefore whenever he came across any one who would listen to him and who could speak English he introduced gas wells into the conversation.

It was always in the plural. It was never one gas well, but half a dozen. He also tried his best to make the head waiter understand the gas question, and if he did not succeed entirely he at least elicited the exclamation: "Gas from the ground, mon dieu! And each well $1,000,000! How you must suffer with so much money!"

"Yes, a heap of suffering, but I grit my teeth and stand it."

When Mrs. Perkins announced that they were to leave Paris for a resort in the Alps, Mr. Perkins had his opportunity to ask:

"Any feller in sight yet?" "Samuel, hain't you got no polish in these last two months?" demanded the wife.

"Of course I have."

"Then show some of it. No gentleman would speak in that brutal manner. I'm glad Miranda was not here."

"Well, has any lord or duke been making up to her?" "Making up! Making up! Humph! Mr. Perkins, are you in Europe or Texas? My daughter Miranda cannot be made up to. I catch your meaning, however, and in order that you may not use any more such expressions let me say that I'm not worrying."

"You mean?" "I mean that we are going to Switzerland to stop for a month or more at the same hotel with a lord."

"By George, but you don't mean it!" exclaimed the husband. "How in thunder did you bring it about?" "Samuel!"

"Yes, but that's a cute trick of yours. You'll have him panned right up." "Samuel Perkins?" cried the wife as she flushed up.

"Oh, well, I won't say nothing more. You'n Miranda go right ahead, and I'll back you with natural gas enough to run all France. I guess it hain't for me to mix in."

Just how Mrs. Perkins located the lord doesn't matter. For a five franc piece Parisian chambermaids have been known to locate a whole duke. He wasn't registered as a lord, but that wasn't expected. He would be Inco. Mr. Perkins took it that any of the forty men around the hotel might be his lordship, but the wife, with the keener intuition of her sex, spotted the right man within twenty-four hours.

Then Mr. Perkins came to the front like a man. He introduced himself to the victim and talked of America and gas wells and dollars. There was enthusiasm in his voice as he talked of the gas that would continue to pour out of the earth for centuries to come, and he worked up considerable pathos over the admission that he hadn't enough wells to supply over half the United States. Mr. Perkins had done his full share. The rest devolved upon other shoulders.

A day or two later his lordship strolled up a mountain path by himself. A little later Mrs. Perkins and Miranda strolled up the same path. His lordship was overtaken just in time to rescue Miranda from walking out on an overhanging rock that would have surely given way with her weight and dropped her into the valley a mile below.

The half fainting girl and the shattered mother were assisted down the path to the hotel, and Mr. Perkins found them in bed to recover from the shock. He heard the story and then rushed downstairs. When he appeared half an hour later there was a bland smile on his face, and he was rubbing his hands.

"Mr. Perkins, what have you done?" asked the wife as she sat up in bed. "Have you been saying anything to his lordship?"

"Now, don't you folks get into a sweat about me," replied Mr. Perkins. "Mebbe I haven't polished up quite as fast as you have over here, but I know when to do the right thing for all that."

"And you've seen the lord?"

"I have."

"And talked with him?"

"For sure. Yes, sir—had quite a talk with him."

"Samuel Perkins, what did you say?" asked the wife as she sat up straighter and a look of fear came into her eyes.

"What should I say under the circumstances? I thanked him from the bottom of my heart for saving Miranda's life. You don't think I spoke about the weather, do you?"

"And what else, Samuel?"

"What else, pa?"

"I offered him $25 in cold cash."

Two shrieks shrieked out in chorus, and two females went into mild hysterics, only Miranda's was suspiciously like laughter, while her mother's was the real thing. It was a long minute that Mr. Perkins stood there, hands in pockets and wondering what had happened. Then his wife forced back her emotions and faintly asked:

"And—what?"

"And he took it and said, 'Thank ye!'"

Two days later as they sat in the train bound for home Mr. Perkins noticed a tear stealing down Mrs. Perkins' cheek. He turned to her and asked:

"Ain't you feeling chipper today?"

"Chipper! Chipper! How could I feel chipper?" exclaimed Mrs. Perkins in fierce tones.

"Dunno, but you musn't blame me. I didn't know that he was a lord that went about saving human lives for cash on the nail! And, anyway, Miranda kin marry Joshua Rawlins to home. He writes to me that he's going to give up farming because he's struck gas too."

The Facetious Suburbanite.

The second story man had climbed into the front window of the facetious suburbanite's villa and was engaged in rifling the latter's pockets of such random possessions as were to be found therein.

"Ah, good evening, my friend," said the facetious suburbanite from the depths of his bedclothes. "Aren't you working overtime?"

"We can't help it in our business, Governor," replied the burglar. "We ain't got no regularly organized hours of work. It's to do while you can with us, day and night."

"That's a shame!" said the facetious suburbanite. "You ought to get together and form a burglars' union for your own protection."

"We ain't a trade," retorted the burglar scornfully. "We're an industry."

"Then you should be incorporated into the steal trust," said the facetious suburbanite.

Whereupon the midnight marauder laughed so long and loud that he was overheard by the policeman on the corner, who, recognizing the laugh, immediately fled to a place of safety.

Cheap Lodging House In Santa Bar-

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 1.—Mrs. Nettie E. Shaw of Brookline, Mass., wife of James F. Shaw, a Massachusetts state senator, was found occupying a room in a cheap lodging house with H. K. Marble, formerly employed by the Shaws as a chauffeur.

Detectives employed by Shaw traced the woman here with the primary object of obtaining possession of the woman's 11-year-old son, Eldredge, who was found in an adjoining room. Mrs. Shaw appeared to be contented with her bare quarters. It was learned that the funds of the couple were so meagre that the woman had been spending long hours every day and night selling tickets at a dime theatre conducted by Marble.

Mrs. Shaw was in bed when the detectives forced their way into the room. She consented to sign a release on her son, but later repented of the act and announced that she would appeal to her father for money with which to fight her husband.

It was 3 o'clock in the morning when the couple were discovered after being trailed from the cheap little show house. Both Mrs. Shaw and Marble readily admitted their identity.

Eldredge, following the signing of a release by Mrs. Shaw, remained in the custody of the chief of police. Against the chief habeas corpus proceedings were instituted and a hearing set for Monday.

A private detective from Boston and Louis Field, for many years a colored butler in the Shaw home, had traced the woman to Pasadena, and there secured the clues that led to Santa Barbara.

The La Petite theatre was watched and the couple were followed to the Tremont House, where they were registered as man and wife under the name of the former chauffeur.

Troubles of the Shaws
Boston, May 1.—The news of the seizure of the son of James F. Shaw by detectives in his employ, from the boy's mother at Santa Barbara, caused a great surprise in society circles of this section, where the Shaws are well known.

The father of the boy is one of the most prominent financiers of the city, a leading figure in the Republican politics of the state and a well known society figure of Boston and Manchester-by-the-Sea.

Mrs. Shaw is the eldest daughter of H. F. Eldridge, one of the wealthiest men in New Hampshire and owner of the Eldridge brewery at Portsmouth, where the family reside.

The seizure of the boy yesterday was the third attempt to gain possession of him. In October, 1907, three men caught the lad in a crowd at Springfield. The attempt was almost successful, but Mr. Eldridge, the grandfather, frustrated the would-be kidnappers and placed the child in an automobile and carried him to his home in Portsmouth.

Another attempt was made in December of the same year at the Eldridge home in Portsmouth, but the men were outwitted. Detectives were employed to watch the premises and the mysterious men finally departed from the vicinity.

Labor War Against Employers In New York's East Side

New York, May 1.—A ten-hour day, a fixed minimum scale of wages, more sanitary surroundings and recognition of the union, were made the slogan of a labor war declared against 400 bakeries of the lower East Side last night.

After four hours of discussion the question of a strike was put to a vote with the result that members of union 110 decided to cease work until full compliance with their demands by the employers was obtained.

The strike, which went into effect at once, affects 2000 employees.

I Love Shep, and Shep Loves Me

A Story of a Boy and a Dog.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

I love to think of those happy days now far gone when we were boys. There was Abe and Sam and Ned and myself, all of whom lived within a mile of each other and were inseparable. While we were out of school we were thinking of one another. When we were told to write compositions on subjects of our own choice we wrote about what we loved, most usually either a cat or a dog or a horse or a lamb or our swimming hole or the circus. We were only from six to nine, and our good teacher did not expect us to soar higher.

I remember one of the essays was upon the subject of a dog called Shepherd, the name being abbreviated to Shep. There was a sentence in it that I have never forgotten. I delight to nurse it in my heart as an epicure will roll rare wine on the tongue. It was this: "I know a dog by the name of Shep. I love Shep, and Shep loves me." Could there be anything more touching? Alas, how rare, how brief, is a real affection of a human being for an inferior animal! It can never be as real as in childhood.

We boys all lived along a road that led toward a city. An omnibus passed every morning to take people to town, and I can hear today the bugle notes that served for a signal ringing out clearly as Josh drove by, picking up the passengers. We all knew Josh. And many a free ride he gave us. One of the regular passengers used to stand at his gate every morning when the stage was late with his watch in his hand. Josh used to call him Colonel Minute, but his name was Colonel Ringgold, a veteran of the Mexican war. He had been shot all to pieces, being minus an eye, an ear, a leg and an arm. I do believe that the only spur that forced Josh to keep any sort of time was the thought of the colonel, watch in hand, standing at the gate, his single eye darting between it and the driver.

We boys were in great terror of Colonel Ringgold. We told each other awful stories about him which we invented ourselves, but which in time became real to us. One was that his house was fortified with an unlimited number of guns, pistols, sabers, and the like. It was avowed by one boy that he had killed a man with his wooden leg. There is no one like a boy for making real things out of dreams, and all we had to do was to fancy these things, tell them to each other and they had happened.

Colonel Ringgold was the owner of the dog Shep. Shep was a collie, and the collie is a very intelligent dog. Shep stood, as I remember him, about two feet high, his color being a mixture of white and brown. During the night Shep was expected to be "in" by 8 o'clock, but during the day he was free to romp with us boys. I think he loved Ned best. That was because Ned loved him best, for Ned, you know, was the boy who wrote the composition mentioning Shep so affectionately.

We were all very careful that Shep should not get into trouble, first, because we loved him and, second, because we feared that his owner would blot us from the face of the earth if any harm came to the dog while in our company. Many a bigger dog we beat off when he was driving our comrade to the wall.

One afternoon when we were all together teaching Shep to jump a rope we saw the colonel coming toward us, walking with the limp occasioned by his wooden leg. Every boy's heart sank into his boots. Had the whole United States army come down on us we could not have been more terrified. What caused us the chief alarm was the thought that he was coming to order us in future to leave Shep out of our fraternity. I can see the old man now making his way across a cornfield, trying to walk erect, his stern countenance making up for his dilapidated body. We would have all run, but we were paralyzed.

"What do you boys mean by stealing my dog?" he asked in his stentorian voice.

I scarcely distinguished what he said. I thought it something like: "Column forward; guide right Charge!" Every boy was too frightened to answer.

"Some one is keeping him nights," added the colonel. "Whoever is doing it shall be put in the—I mean deserves to be punished." Again there was silence, ended by a little trembling voice. It was Ned's.

"I'm the one who has been keeping Shep," he said. "I have locked him in, and he has come up and slept on my bed."

"You locked him in! Don't you know that he is not your dog?"

"Yes, sir, I knew that."

"Well, don't you ever do such a thing again. I want my dog in the house nights. Eight o'clock is taps for him—8 o'clock precisely, not five minutes after 8 or five minutes before 8, but 8. As a punishment you," addressing Ned, "are forbidden to have anything to do with Shep in future. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir," came a faint tremolo.

"Why did you keep the dog?"

"Because I love him and he loves me."

The colonel stood a moment looking at the boy, something evidently dawning on his bachelor brain. Then he turned away.

The next morning he sent the dog to Ned to have and to hold as his property forever.

THE SHOOTING OF ANNIS

Defense Leaves It to Prosecution to Bring Out Details

Flushing, N. Y., May 1.—Incidents of Aug. 15, 1908, leading up to the shooting of William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht club by Peter C. Hains, Jr., were graphically reviewed on the witness stand by Thornton J. Hains, the defendant's brother.

John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for the defense, carefully piloted the witness through a minute description of his movements and those of Captain Hains on the fateful day, up to the time they reached the yacht club float, where Annis was shot down as he was stepping from his catboat. But at this point the lawyer suddenly broke off without asking the witness a single question in regard to the shooting.

It was evidently the purpose of the defense to let the prosecution bring out the details of the killing on cross-examination. However, this turn in affairs was executed so unexpectedly by the army officer's counsel that it created considerable confusion among the state's forces.

NO GENERAL STRIKES

Labor Situation in Boston Appears to Be Unusually Peaceful

Boston, May 1.—Peace reigns in the labor circles of Boston, and with contracts between employer and employee expiring there is none of the widespread industrial disputes over the making of new agreements that in the past have ushered in May Day.

The only exception to the general rule is among the painters. They demand that after today their rates of wages will be 41 cents an hour for house painters and 46 cents an hour for decorators, an increase of 1½ cents over the old rate.

Other trades having differences to settle will probably submit them to arbitration. Labor leaders say that the probability of general strikes is remote.

WASHINGTON'S MEMORY HONORED

President Taft Participates In Dedication of Park

Alexandria, Va., May 1.—President Taft attended in this city a celebration of the 120th anniversary of the first inauguration of George Washington and the laying of a cornerstone in dedication of a park in memory of the first president. Every branch of the United States and some of the most famous of the military organizations of the old dominion were represented in an imposing array of troops.

President Taft made the journey from Washington and return in an automobile. Governor Swanson was the orator at the dedicatory exercises. The cornerstone was laid with full Masonic ceremonies by the Alexandria lodge, F. and A. M., of which George Washington was the first master.

The people of Alexandria always have regarded Washington as a townsman, for he attended church here and was an active member of the volunteer firemen.

COLLAPSES IN JAIL

Strain Upon Boyle, Alleged Kidnapper, Proves Too Much For Him

Mercer, Pa., May 1.—James H. Boyle, whose trial on a charge of kidnapping "Billy" Whitt, was yesterday continued to next Wednesday, collapsed last evening in the Mercer jail and is said to be in a critical condition. The jail physician is in constant attendance upon him.

The reason given for the continuance were the illness of the wife of W. S. Anderson, attorney for the defense, and the mysterious disappearance of the original information against Boyle. There is a prevalent belief among the people here that neither side is anxious for an immediate trial.

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

For the Ledger.

Washington, April 26, 1909.

The tariff fight that is now being waged in Washington is increasing in intensity and interest with every day that passes. The representatives of the great corporations and trusts that want a law amounting to a license to plunder the American people are here on the ground demanding the highest tariff that was ever known to this country. Unfortunately the $5,000,000 consumers seem to have no agent to represent them, but they are, however, sending some very vigorous and spicy letters to their Senators and Representatives they sent to Congress. If the people of this country would do more letter writing to their Congressmen, they would get better laws from Congress than they have been getting. About 200 years ago the French Nobles secured laws exempting them from taxation, so that all the burdens of the Government fell on the middle and lower or peasant classes. The "American Nobles" are now trying to do the very same thing.

One of the things that frightens Senators most is the proposal of an income tax which President Taft heartily favors and which would do more towards placing the proper share of the burdens of the Government on the wealthy and prosperous, than any measure that was ever proposed. The leading Senators that detest the income tax are crying out that this is Democratic doctrine and are endeavoring to have it squelched by raising this kind of a partisan cry. This charge is nothing less than an infamous lie. The first income tax law, was passed by a Republican Congress and signed by the immortal Lincoln and yielded millions of dollars of revenue during the war times of '61 to '65. We have now come to the point where more revenue must be raised and nothing is more just than that a tax shall be levied on the enormous incomes that a few men in this country enjoy. Senator Aldrich, whose daughter is the wife of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., which of course, makes him closely akin to the S. O. and Rockefellers, is horrified at the idea of an income tax and says that if we have an income tax, it will mean the abolition of tariffs and consequently the abolition of protection. This is one of his trick arguments. The Government at the present time is failing to raise revenue for its necessary expenses by about $100,000,000 per annum and an income tax which would yield about $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 would still be inadequate even with the tariff to raising the necessary revenue for running the Government.

Senator Aldrich is working overtime to convince his fellow Senators that the revenue from an income tax will not be needed, and so tenderly does he feel for the millionaires of the country, that he is deliberately trying to deceive the country into believing this untruth, which he knows too well to be false.

This wily old Senator, denies that the country was promised a reduction of the tariff, he claims that a "revision" is all that was promised, and while he knows the country understood that both parties promised to "reduce," he holds that revision means a raising as much as a lowering, and raising is what he insists, as long as it enables the monopolists to gouge deeper and deeper into the pockets of the common people, which Abraham Lincoln said God must have loved or he would not have made so many of them.

One thing, however, about Congress that all people heartily endorse, and that is their desire to pass a tariff bill quickly, and get away as soon as possible, so the country can have an era of quiet and rest.

—A newspaper writer, sympathizing with women because there is no longer any cradle to rock, or hardly a baby to care for, no home schooling necessary in the presence of the modern kindergarten, no sewing to do in this ready-made age, little housework in this day of flats and suites and restaurants and prepared foods, and asks with concern: What are we going to do with the woman out of a job? Let him put that question face to face to his women acquaintances and dollars to doughnuts he will find them all so busy trying to keep up with their engagements that they won't have time to answer his foolish questions.—New Bedford Standard.

—Massachusetts will wage war against the house fly this summer. All the boards of health throughout the State will act together as far as their means will go, and their first move will be the distribution of a fly circular entitled "Beware of Flies." This circular is the product of the commission named last year by the Massachusetts Association of Boards of Health to study the fly, and it describes in most convincing language how the flies collect and distribute disease-loaded filth.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Orpheum Theatre.

At last Boston theatre-goers are to have an opportunity of seeing that most wonderful of all modern dancers, Saharet. She comes to the Orpheum theatre next week after an engagement in New York which has been termed by the critics of that city, "a cyclonic sensation." Saharet has never been seen in Boston before, but in one respect she is not a stranger. From her and thousands of reproductions practically everyone familiar with it are also familiar with Saharet. Most of the modern dancers today are not beautiful and few beautiful know how to dance, but Saharet combines both beauty and the dancing art to such an extent that she is in a class by herself. Perhaps not act booked to come to Boston has been so eagerly looked forward to as Saharet. That versatile Scotch comedian, Jack Lorimer, will again be seen here and those who have heard his uncanny singing and dancing will not wish to miss this opportunity of seeing him again. Pauline Saxton, famed as the Sls Perkins Girls, A. K. a novelty Calypso company in a novelty equibristic act and the Morriscope showing some interesting and instructive pictures will complete one of the strongest bills ever seen in Boston.

Keith's Theatre.

The week of May 3rd at Keith's theatre will be notable for two of the biggest productions that has probably ever been seen in vaudeville. The first is "The Top of the World" Dancers and the Colie Ballet in "Kris Kringle's Dream." This is a beautiful dancing and singing spectacle that was put on in New York a week ago and made a tremendous hit. The second big feature will be in the dramatic line. It is called "The Van Dyck" and will be presented by Mr. Harrison Hunter and a capable company. It is a one act classic, probably the most pretentious literary work ever presented in vaudeville. The vaudeville features of the bill will be of the same high order including Melville & Higgins in their humorous sketch; Will H. Fox; Carroll Johnson; O'Brien Hayes & Company in a sketch that has been making a great success; Monie Mine, Newbold and Carroll and others.

Castle Square Theatre.

The expected has happened at the Castle Square. The third week of "The Runaway Girl" begins Monday evening, and there is no doubt that it will continue to amuse large audiences. The two opening weeks have brought a large crowd to see and hear Mr. Craig's second musical production of the season, and the pleasure in it, and praise for it, has been unanimous. Many and cordial have been the comments upon it, upon the music, upon the scenic production, upon the interpretation by the John Craig Stock Company, and all appear to be of the unanimous opinion that it excels even "The Circus Girl," which ran for nine consecutive weeks during the past winter at the Castle Square. The singing of "The Circus Girl," "The Boy Guesses Right," "Soldiers in the Park," "The Singing Girl," and all its other songs demands and redeems a succession of encores at every performance. It should be remembered that for the remainder of the season the Monday matinees at the Castle Square will be omitted.

Boston Theatre.

Augustus Pitou offers as an attraction at the Boston theatre beginning May 3 Chaucer's Olcott in his new play "Ragged Robin," a romance of Ireland in the early part of the century. It has been wonderfully successful throughout the country and is credited with being one of the daintiest and most beautiful vehicles that Manager Pitou has ever provided for his star. It is a tale of a wandering minstrel the son of a titled land owner, who has been driven from home by the false accusation of a crime. He meets the fair Margaret Grattan and a spell is cast over the two through a draught of water from an enchanted well. Margaret is living forced to a hateful marriage, and the prospective bridegroom, viewing with jealous eyes the working of the spell, has Robin driven out into the world again. Three years pass and Robin returns a wealthy and titled man, through the death of his father with whom he has become reconciled. He finds his rival, Martin, dead, and the Grattans are reinstated by the fairies he crosses the moorland in the dead of night and the land finds the lovers united. Manager Pitou has given in the way of costumes and scenic effects.

THE "POP" CONCERTS.

The twenty-fourth season of "Pop" concerts in Symphony hall, Boston, will open Monday evening, May 3 and continue every evening from eight to eleven until July 31, Sundays excepted. The "Pops" are a peculiarly Boston institution. Boston is the only city in this country which has been able to maintain such concerts through a number of years and the "Pop" concerts are noted from one end of the country to the other as being the best of their kind that America affords. In some of the larger German cities similar concerts are given but it seems strange that in Anglo-Saxon countries as a rule such undertakings are foredoomed to failure. The success of the Boston "Pop" concerts is due primarily to the excellent quality of music given, because the orchestra is made up of 5 members of the Boston Symphony orchestra which is sufficient to insure good music. Light refreshments are served and it is possible to assuage one's thirst with beer and light wines and altogether it is a rather remarkable fact that in New England is the only city in the country which has the most favorable conditions. The programmes will be made up of music from current and light operas and musical comedies, waltzes, dances, have made two trips in Vienna, ballet music, and lighter selections from the classical repertory. There will also be special musical nights when the major part of the programme will be devoted to the works of one composer; as Wagner nights and Tchaikowsky nights among the classics; Victor Herbert nights and Arthur Sullivan nights among the writers of lighter music. The usual College nights will be given, one devoted to the Institute of Technology, one devoted to the undergraduates of Harvard, all of which will be announced later. The concerts will begin at eight o'clock and will be over between quarter to eleven and eleven o'clock.

CATHOLIC CHURCH LEADS.

Foremost in the fight against consumption is the Roman Catholic church. In this church, under the direction of the archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, an educational crusade against tuberculosis is being carried into all the parochial and other schools in its control. As a result, over 1,250,000 school children in 13,000 parishes are being reached. The clergy of the church have been asked also to instruct their congregations on the dangers and methods of preventing tuberculosis, for the purpose of bringing the simple doctrines of the cure and prevention of this disease to every one of the 17,000,000 Catholics in the United States.

—The yearly meeting of Friends in Philadelphia shows a diminishing remnant of the founders of the "city of brotherly love." Yet they are still represented there by two colleges and two secondary schools of the highest order, a great hospital, and publication committees and charities innumerable. Their lessening numbers continue to be identified with the highest interests of city and State. In 1900 there were about 120,000 Quakers in the United States and it is a fair presumption that the members of the "Friends" have not increased appreciably since that date.

"what do you do when trouble strikes you?"
"Shout hallelujah!"
"Does that scare him on?"
"Yes; he thinks I'm so happy he takes to the woods!"

Telephone Protection

A SUBSCRIBER'S STORY--

As told to an official of the Traffic Dept.

ABOUT one o'clock this morning I accidentally overturned the telephone, which stood on a small table by my bedside, and it fell to the floor. As I picked it up I heard the operator say: "Number 2?" I explained what had happened, and apologized for having troubled him. He replied in an exceedingly pleasant tone of voice: "It's all right—no trouble at all, madam." I wish you would express to him my appreciation of his courtesy. I assure you I resumed my slumber with a new sense of security at the thought that someone was so near in case of need.

Telephone "Protection"

Assures Telephone "Security"

With a telephone in your house there is always "someone near in case of need."

In case of illness, it will outspeed any messenger in summoning a doctor.

(Incidentally, in desperate emergencies, doctors have saved lives by giving instructions by wire.)

It will call the fire department ere you could run to the box on the corner.

It will bring the police, should skulkers lurk about.

Its mere presence will give the absent husband assurance that wife and children are protected.

Likewise will its presence reassure the wife and children, dispel their nervousness and banish loneliness.

The value of such a service is not to be measured by the number of calls made, any more than police protection is measured by the number of arrests, or fire protection by the number of alarms answered.

One emergency call may outweigh in value a life time of cost. Let us show you how small will be the insurance charge for protection to your home and security to your family.

Telephone the Local Manager (free of charge) and a Contract Agent will call.

EXCITING RESCUE IN QUINCY BAY

Three Men Saved From Watery Grave by Motor Boat Party

Three men had a narrow escape from drowning in Quincy Bay, Sunday afternoon when their boat was overturned during a fifty mile gale. Their rescue was accomplished with much difficulty by Arthur P. Homer, who went to their rescue in his motor boat.

Mrs. Homer and her 11 year old daughter Anna also played an important part in their rescue.

Two of the men were unconscious when rescued, but revived at the Quincy Yacht club boathouse, where all were attended by Dr. Frederick E. Jones. They were removed to the Great Head House at Houghs Neck, where they are under a physician's care.

The three men came from Campello. They are Olaf and Oscar Nelson, brothers, and Mr. Sanberg. Olaf was the least fatigued of the three and was able to leave at 9 o'clock Sunday for his home.

In the dangerous condition of the sea no effort was made to save the overturned craft. It washed in toward Peddock's island, where it was secured by men from the West Head Inn.

The gale was puffy and dangerous for sailing craft and kicked up a bad sea for motor boats so that very few ventured out onto the water. Mr. Homer, with his wife and daughter, his father, Arthur B. Homer, and his boatman, H. L. Mitchell, went to the Quincy Yacht club and boarded the Debutante, but decided that the conditions were too dangerous. The party went into the cabin for dinner. Some time later Mr. Homer put his head through the hatch to see if the wind was abating, when he saw a small sloop shoot out by the head of Peddock's island. The little craft met the full force of the gale and went over.

Shouting an order, Mr. Homer started his engine, and the lines were quickly cast off. The Debutante is speedy, and, running with the gale, covered the mile to the scene of the accident in short time. Three men were seen struggling to retain a hold on the overturned craft. They were benumbed with the cold and exhausted from their struggle.

It was no easy task to effect a rescue. The waves tossed the Debutante in perilous fashion. Mr. Homer, with his father and the boatman, took a position in the bow, as Mrs. Homer at the wheel, brought the boat about so as to bring the men in the lee of the Debutante. Each man was armed with a stout line in which to make a fastening on to one of the three men struggling in the water. The position of Mrs. Homer was the all important one at this point in the rescue. Anything but skilled handling of the wheel of the big motor boat would have sent it crashing into the overturned craft and might have resulted in sinking the Debutante. Mrs. Homer proved herself a well trained woman of nerve and brought the Debutante up so that the three men could just reach the two men who appeared to be the most fatigued.

Homer and Mitchell got a line fastened under the waists of the two men and made the line fast. In doing so they shipped a foot of water in the cockpit of the motor boat and all of the men were drenched. Their attention was then given to the third man in the water. He was in better condition than the other two and was hauled aboard the Debutante over the bow.

The other two men were then hauled aboard, one at a time. They had on heavy rubber boots, oil skins and sweaters, and in their water-soaked and helpless condition it was a difficult task to get them aboard. Mrs. Homer, who had to give a hand to the three men, had one of her hands severely cut by the slipping of one of the ropes. Each of the men weighed over 200 pounds, and as both were unconscious at this time the work of the rescue party was one of endurance as well as daring.

During this part of the rescue the daughter Anna remained in the cabin, but she had been working. She secured whiskey and had found a number of blankets. These she laid out on the floor and on the bunks of the cabin, prepared for the work of resuscitation of the unconscious men.

Whiskey was forced between the lips of the two men, and all were stripped of their wet clothes and wrapped in the blankets. The motorboat then landed the men at the yacht club pier.

Commodore H. W. Robbins of the Quincy Yacht Club saw that every facility of the clubhouse was opened to the rescued men and summoned Dr. Jones, who arrived a few minutes after the men were brought in. Commodore Robbins warmly complimented Mr. Homer and party for their rescue.

FUNERAL OF HENRY TURNER.

Once a Prominent Boston Business Man.

Henry Turner an old time Boston business man died Friday at the home of his daughter Mrs. Herbert J. Polk of Beach street and was buried Sunday. Rev. Dr. George L. Perin of the Beacon Universalist church officiated. The burial was at Mt. Hope.

Mr. Turner was born in Roxbury 33 years ago. When quite young upon the death of his father he moved with his mother to Boston living on what was then Sea street, about where the Hotel Essex now stands. He attended the Fort Hill school and was later apprenticed to a prominent builder, who constructed many of the residences in the South Cove district.

Later he took up pattern making and for many years conducted a pattern making business first on Hawley street and later on Haverhill street. During his business life he was connected in business ways with many of the prominent manufacturers and mechanics of Boston, among whom were Isaac Eddy, the refrigerator manufacturer, Sturtevant, the blower maker Mellen of stove fame, and the late Mellen Gray, of the Tubular Rivet and Stud Co.

He was married to Miss Cordelia Richards of Attleboro. They made their home in the south end Boston until Mrs. Turner's death in 1897. Since then he has lived with his daughter in Wollaston.

TENDERED SURPRISE.

Miss Rosina A. McNaughton Presented With Locket and Chain.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Rosina A. McNaughton on Friday evening in Doble's hall. There were about seventy couples present, and all enjoyed a pleasant evening. Dancing was the principal feature of the party.

About 9 o'clock Miss McNaughton was requested to come forward and as she did John Whalen presented her with a gold locket and chain. The happy recipient responded briefly thanking all for the beautiful gift. During the evening songs were rendered by John Whalen, Thomas Melrose, James Grant and Master Russell McDonald. The committee in charge of the affair was Miss Laura McDonald, Miss Jennie Ellis and Miss Barbara Ross.

A REMARKABLE SIGN.

Just south of the Linnell bath-houses, Wollaston beach, there is a large sign facing the parkway, which for several days has attracted considerable attention. Upon it is the following notice in large letters: "Notice. Mayor Shea, and all others employed by the City of Quincy direct or indirectly, strictly prohibited on any part of this estate of about 25 acres without consent of owners. $25 reward leading to the conviction of said persons. Miss M. A. Wilson, George H. Wilson, A. C. French, L. E. Brown."

—A May Breakfast was held at Lynn Saturday morning which was attended by 3500 people and will probably net a thousand for charity.

NOTES AND EVENTS IN SPORTING WORLD

Running Track Being Made at Merrymount Park

Again on Saturday baseball games were cancelled by the wholesale. Only two major league games were played, one in each league, and about one high school contest, while hundreds of college league, amateur and school games were called off. It is estimated that nearly 4000 ball players were disappointed by the weather all over the country.

The games that were played were contested under the greatest difficulties. Never in the history of Detroit baseball has a game been played under such varying conditions as that of Saturday between the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns. They had everything but sunshine. It snowed, rained, hailed, the wind blew and everything else in the bad weather line was on the job all through the game.

The Harvard-Fordham game scheduled for Cambridge will be played off this afternoon Chris Mahoney of Milton will probably twirl for the New Yorkers and he will do his best to make the Crimson bite the dust. The Tufts University of Maine game will also be played off today at Tufts Oval, Medford. The Maine boys remained over Sunday at College Hill.

Holy Cross and Dartmouth were scheduled to meet at Worcester on Saturday, but will probably clash today at Hanover, inasmuch as there is a regular scheduled game down for tomorrow at the Dartmouth town.

Here in Quincy the Makaria, Bigelow and Fore River teams all cancelled their games. These contests will probably be played off later in the season.

In the ten-mile road race held Saturday at Lynn under the auspices of the Lynn Y. M. C. A., Hackett of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., got second place. It was a handicap race and Hackett ran next to the scratch man, so it will be seen that he put up a good race. Keep up the good work Hackett and soon there will be some interest in track athletics in this city.

It is gratifying to record that a track is under process of construction at Merrymount park. This will be a great incentive to the boys to get out and do something. Not only for the sake of winning prizes, but for the sake of one's health, should the boys get out and train in pure, free, fresh air.

The Iroquois club are enthusiastic over the game and have some excellent runners in their ranks, among them being Joe Elcock, the Norfolk County 100 yard champion. With the new track at the Park the old athletic field will see some busy times in the near future. Why not have a field day open to all amateur athletes of the city and see if something can't be started. Think it over, boys.

TWO BOYS LOST.

Returned as Soon as the Lost Child Call Was Sounded.

The lost child call followed by one called to an extract from Ordinance No. 21, Section 3:—

"The boys were Pasquale Gianusso aged 9 years of 189 Liberty street and Rigo Battucio aged 9 years of Brook road.

They had left home early in the morning and as night was coming on and they had not returned the parents became worried.

Shortly after the call was sounded the boys came home tired and hungry.

CUMMINGS—PIKE.

Mr. N. L. Cummings and Miss Sadie E. Pike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Pike of 90 Quincy avenue, a popular Quincy couple, were quietly wedded Saturday evening at the parsonage by Dr. Edwin N. Hardy.

Mr. Cummings has for the past few years held a responsible government position at the navy yard and has recently returned from government work in California.

Both the bride and groom have spent the most of their lives in Quincy and have a host of friends who rejoice in their happiness.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings will make their home in Quincy and will give a reception to their friends in the near future.

NEW RECTOR AT CHRIST CHURCH

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong Speaks On "The Quest Of Life"

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong began his rectorship at Christ church Sunday and was greeted by a large audience.

Mr. Armstrong preached on "The Quest of Life," taking his text from Matthew, vi. 33, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness."

"In our parish life let us remember this that the congregation is not so much a field for the minister as an organization to serve the community. Let it be known that this church stands ready to help in all efforts for civic righteousness, for public morals. The limits of our usefulness are not in the walls of the church, nor yet the bounds of the parish. Our service should be given wherever there is need. We should take a large-hearted, broad-minded view of what constitutes parochial activity. Especially should we be quick to join forces with those who with public spirit seek the highest welfare of the city."

Miss Beatrice Cavanagh.

The funeral of Miss Beatrice Cavanagh, aged 12, was held Sunday afternoon from the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. John T. Cavanagh of Sea street, Houghs Neck. Services were held at 2.30 in the church of St. Francis by the Sea, Rev. John J. Coan, officiating.

A large number of relatives and friends attended the services. There was a large display of floral offerings. Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Although the weather may not seem like it, the circus season is drawing near. One of the first announcements so far is the coming of "Polly of the Circus," who is said to be a most winsome lass.

We received a very clever cartoon Saturday morning from a reader at the Point. To the right was a square little figure smiling and steady on its legs labelled "Quincy Daily Ledger," to the left the following lines:

"Rah! Rah! Who has won?
The Quincy Daily Ledger.
Rah! Rah! Who got stung?
The Boston Daily Papers."

Underneath was a lop-sided figure, with black eye and bruises and legs very unsteady, labelled "Boston Daily Papers." The Ledger appreciates the compliment.

This week is Merchants' week in Brockton and the business men of the city are vying with each other in booming their already lively city. They are combining to do all they can to stimulate home trade and industries. Such a week might be a good thing for Quincy.

Quincy needs something like this to wake it up from its Rip Van Winkle sleep. No stores outside of Boston carry a larger or more select stock than do Quincy stores, yet scores of people will pay car fare to Boston for the sake of buying an article marked $2.98 that can be purchased in Quincy for $3.

They think doubtless they have secured a great bargain forgetting that in order to save that two cents they have expended twenty or thirty cents in car fares.

Trade in Quincy and encourage home stores is a maxim that should be borne in mind by every household.

In Brockton every man seen talks Brockton first, last and always. To their way of thinking there is no city on earth like Brockton. Oh, how different in Quincy. How many people do you hear shouting for Quincy?

It is understood that the matter of a Merchants' week and a boom for Quincy will be taken up at the meeting of the Board of Trade Wednesday evening.

The Board of Trade if it takes hold of the matter in earnest can do much to boom our city.

It would seem much more important to help along present industries than it would to get new ones here. Boom what we have already got and then other manufacturing firms will seek to locate in Quincy without any solicitation.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Spring has brought unpleasant and apparently inevitable accompaniments of the outdoor season. We refer to the exuberant hoodlum already making life miserable for those who frequent summer resorts in advance of summer taking possession of strays, filling the air with obscenity and profanity, and otherwise making decent people wish vainly for relief from his presence.

In the suburbs the home-makers are already receiving fair notice that the hoodlum season is wide open. Early spring buds and blossoms are plucked, shrubbery is broken down or torn up by the roots and protest are answered with abuse and indecency. The police force of this city is too small to patrol those sections in which the hoodlum makes himself most pestiferous at this season, and apparently there is nothing to do except enter formal protest and wait for the next visitation.

The outing season hoodlum is not always the ignorant son of ignorant parents. Some of the most outrageous instances of hoodlumism in the suburban districts can be traced directly to the children of well-to-do, intelligent fathers and mothers who, apparently, have relinquished control over their own offspring in order to take a firmer grip upon the general, broader work of uplift. If one of the well-placed hoodlums is arrested, immediately all of the influences that can be brought to bear are exerted in his behalf, he is released, usually with warning and he becomes, for the time being, a hero to his fellow hoodlums.

What can be done about it? What will be done about it? It is a problem of importance to those who realize the fact that the boy hoodlum of today, is the citizen of tomorrow. It is a problem that cannot be ignored in any intelligent consideration of "the boy question."—Boston Journal.

OLD GARRISON IN UGLY MOOD

Marines Make Armed Protest Against Leaving Constantinople

SPEEDILY BROUGHT TO TERMS

Ringleaders Being Sorted Out For Court Martial—Parliamentary Commission Overhauling Great Collection of Treasures Collected by Abdul Hamid in Yildiz Palace—No Trace of Hoards of Cash

Constantinople, May 3.—The marines in the Kassim barracks, which are situated behind the American embassy, mutinied Saturday night. They refused to embark for distribution to the various ports.

The marines belong to the old disaffected garrison, and although they had nominally surrendered, were in an ugly mood. They were easily persuaded by agitators to make an armed protest against exile from the capital.

When the American ambassador, Mr. Lelshman, looked out of his bedroom window Sunday morning, he observed a battery of mountain howitzers occupying a commanding position on a terrace near the embassy. Farther up field pieces had been stationed, while battalions of infantry were spread out through the Turkish cemetery and on the slope overlooking the Golden Horn. General Scheffket, commander of the forces, lost no time in bringing the mutineers to terms. After they had surrendered he said:

"It was the last flicker of resistance. After we had disposed several battalions of troops and some batteries within easy range of the barracks, we asked which it was to be, obedience to order or the fate of their comrades in the Taksim arsenal? The white flag was then hoisted on the barracks."

"I do not blame the men for the mutiny," added Scheffket; "it was the work of a few ringleaders. We are now sorting them out for court martial."

The treasures of the palace of Yildiz are being inventoried by a parliamentary commission. Abdul Hamid thirty years ago took the open, hilly pastures, and gradually transformed them into gardens, among which he constructed pavilions for himself, his wives, his children and the palace favorites.

He gathered there an immense variety of objects of art and luxury, services of silver and gold, French and Oriental carpets, Greek sculptures, taken from the museums of Constantinople, presents from most of the sovereigns of Europe and gifts from wealthy subjects. Within the walls of the palace are artificial lakes, a zoological garden, with a specially fine collection of giraffes, various breeds of camels and rare birds, and an automobile course.

The art objects taken from the museums will be returned; the furniture, rugs, porcelains and jewels will be distributed to the other palaces, the new sultan, Mehmed V, taking the choice of these for the Dolmabahatche palace, which he is at present occupying.

A particular search is being made for the cash which Abdul Hamid is reported to have had on hand. He has also great sums invested abroad. None, however, has been found as yet, although the former sultan must have had at least a few hundred thousand pounds in the domestic exchequer.

Disease Rampant in Adana.
Adana, May 3.—Smallpox has broken out in epidemic form. There are always cases of this disease in Adana as well as other virulent diseases, because of the poor sanitary conditions. It is impossible to estimate the number of cases, for there is no system of medical reports, but during the past two weeks the spread of the disease has been frightful, because of the terrible disorders and the homeless element about the city.

Congressmen Endorse Lock Type in Construction of Big Ditch

New York, May 3.—Further endorsement of the lock type of canal and the accuracy of the Gatun dam were voiced here by members of the congressional party which returned on the steamer Panama after an unofficial inspection of the canal zone.

Most of the representatives expressed themselves as delighted with their experience, and a number were outspoken in their praise of the work being accomplished on the canal.

N. E. TELEPHONE COMPANY.

Nearly a million calls a day is the average patronage of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, according to the annual report of General Thomas Sherwin, its president. The exact figures given are, approximately, 301,600,000 local calls and 15,500,000 toll calls for the year 1908, and they emphasize the widespread usefulness of the telephone and its intimate relation to the business and social life of the community. It is estimated by careful observers that 1,500,000 persons, or about one-third of the population of New England, are in daily touch with telephone service.

The rapid development of the company is another feature of the report that forcibly strikes one as he peruses the figures presented. Last year only 13,737 stations were added, owing to a restrictive policy induced by the unsettled conditions of business. For 1909, however, an increase of 25,000 stations is expected.

Considering that the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company was not organized until 1883, it is interesting to note that in four northern New England States in which it operates, the system of which it is the centre had, at the end of 1908, 304,896 telephones connected therewith, a number that has since increased to over 312,000.

GOT THREE LIONS
IN THREE SHOTS

Roosevelt Upholds His Reputation as a Mighty Hunter

Nairobi, May 3.—Four lions are trophies of Theodore Roosevelt's camp in the Mau Hills, and the native followers are joining with the American party in the celebration of the unusually good luck.

Colonel Roosevelt's gun brought three of the lions to earth, each on the first shot. Thus one of the president's fondest ambitions has been realized, and he is proud, too, that the fourth of the jungle kings fell before the rifle of his son, Kermit, who, however, took three shots to kill his quarry.

Lions have been plentiful in the hills for the past month, and the English hunter, F. C. Selous, has been out for several days, laying plans for their extinction. How well he succeeded can be seen from the results of the chase. Selous accompanied Roosevelt, who also was attended by the usual retinue of beaters.

MAY BE QUARANTINED

Canadian Solons Have Been Exposed to Genuine Smallpox

Ottawa, May 3.—There is a good deal of alarm among the lawmakers of Canada over the disclosure that they have been exposed to smallpox. The 10-year-old son of Senator Comeau came to Ottawa last week and spent a day or two with his father about the precincts of parliament. On Friday he was taken sick and as there was a rash on his face he was placed under medical supervision.

Sunday the doctors pronounced the trouble a genuine case of smallpox. Should another case develop and the quarantining of the parliamentary precincts and of members and senators be required, the work of the session will be seriously interfered with.

BOOKS WILL TELL TALES

Expenses of State Officials in Iowa Must Be Accounted For

Des Moines, May 3.—A new regime in state officers' expenses went into effect in Iowa today. The state will keep absolute record of all expenses by a system of books given to officers and employees.

The record will embrace railroad fares, hotel bills, livery, express and meals, with a complete record of time and place when such expenses were incurred. The books will be turned into the executive council.

Great Lakes' Largest Steamer

Detroit, May 3.—The largest steamer on the great lakes, the freighter Chenango, was launched here. The Shenango is 607 feet long, 58 feet beam and 32 feet depth. Completed, her cost will be $475,000.

BOND'S EXPERIENCE.

Ex-Premier Was Kicked Overboard by Political Opponents

St. John's, May 3.—The attack on Sir Robert Bond, the former premier, at Western Bay, caused a sensation throughout the colony when it became generally known. According to Bond the incident was more serious than at first reported. He says that while climbing from his steamer to the wharf at Western Bay, where he intended to address a political rally, he was attacked by a hostile crowd, several of whom kicked him in the chest and knocked him overboard. He saved himself from drowning by climbing into a small boat nearby and making his way to the steamer. The political meeting was abandoned and Bond proceeded to another town.

It is recalled that the late Sir William Whiteway, a former premier, underwent an experience somewhat similar in 1892.

A few years previously Sir James Winter was carried off by his opponents and marooned for some time on a barren island. In the struggle with his captors Winter had an arm fractured.

BANKERS IN SESSION

Matters of Interest to Money Institutions Under Discussion

New York, May 3.—Leading bankers of the United States, comprising the membership of the executive council of the American Bankers' association, met today at Briarcliff Manor to discuss matters of interest to the money institutions of the country.

The council, whose chairman is F. O. Watts, president of the First National bank of Nashville, Tenn., will remain in session until Wednesday. It is composed of the officers of the association and representatives of the various states. There are about seventy-five members of the council in attendance at the meeting.

The important committees of the association will report to the council at the meeting. Among the matters to be discussed are the convention of the association to be held in Chicago in September, legislation, uniform laws, taxation, trust companies, etc.

WAS PANAMA'S FIRST PRESIDENT

Manuel Amador Passes Away
After Lingerin Illness

Honor of Being Head of New Republic Came to Him Unsought, as He Had Refused High Political Offices
After Being Elected President of State of Panama and Being Cheated
Out of It by an Uprising

Panama, May 3.—Dr. Manuel Amador, first president of the Republic of Panama, died Sunday afternoon, after a lingering illness. He was 75 years old.

Manuel Amador was one of the prime movers in the revolution in 1903 against Colombia, which led to the independence of Panama. He was born at Cartagena. He engaged in business with his brother at Santiago de Veraguas, state of Panama, and then went to Panama city and began the practice of medicine, finally becoming one of the eminent physicians of the country.

Dr. Amador in politics was a Conservative and in 1869, much against his will, he was nominated and elected to the presidency of the state of Panama. He never took office, however, for a revolution was started and succeeded before his inauguration.

Afterward he steadfastly refused to accept high political offices tendered him and when at last he was chosen president of the Republic of Panama the honor came to him unsought.

Dr. Amador, prior to the last presidential election, wrote a letter to his constituents declining renomination, and General Obando last December was elected in his stead.

Immediately after Panama asserted its independence on Nov. 4, 1903, it was recognized by the United States, and 14 days later the treaty between the United States and the Republic of Panama was signed, which permitted the building and maintenance of the Panama canal.

WEDDED AT MIDNIGHT
Romantic Marriage of Singer to Western Railroad Man

Boston, May 3.—Miss Pearl Dillon, one of the most popular girls at the New England Conservatory of Music, who leaped into sudden fame by her duet with Signor Constantino at the recent musicale at Jordan hall, is now Mrs. Arthur A. Wood.

The marriage came at the end of a record-breaking trip by Wood across the continent from Los Angeles, Cal., and was celebrated at midnight a short time after his arrival here.

The couple were married by Rev. Fred B. Fisher, pastor of the Temple Street Methodist church.

The operative stage loses a star by Miss Dillon's marriage, for Constantino urged strongly that she sign a contract with the Boston opera company. Wood is an official of the Southern Pacific Railroad company and his family is reported wealthy.

INVESTIGATION IN ORDER
Charred Bodies of Man and Woman Found in Charred Ruins

Rockland, Mass., May 3.—The charred bodies of Benjamin Lee and his niece, Edith Winslow, were found in the ashes of the little cottage which they occupied in Hanover. As much mystery attaches to the cause of the fire, which occurred Sunday morning while the occupants of the house were presumably sleeping, Medical Examiner Osgood has asked the state police to investigate.

Both the victims were negroes. The man was 65 years old and his niece 31. They were the only persons in the house when the fire broke out, as far as is known.

Occupants of a neighboring cottage, which took fire from the Lee house, were forced to make a hasty exit to save their lives.

ENJOYING THEIR VISIT
Seven Hundred Men From Japanese Warships Entertained by Americans

San Francisco, May 3.—Six hundred sailors and about 100 officers and cadets of the Japanese training squadron were entertained in Golden Gate park Sunday. The visitors were enthusiastic in their praise of the beautiful playgrounds. The sailors attended a band concert provided by the city.

After the concert the guests were escorted to the Japanese tea garden, which was copied by the landscape gardeners after a Japanese scene. Day fireworks, acrobatic exhibitions and a basket luncheon were the features of the program at the garden.

Three Boys Drowned
New York, May 3.—Three boys, David Hultz, Henry Ludlow and William Kunz, set out on a clamming expedition. A stiff wind was blowing and their boat was overturned, all three being drowned.

Big Strike in Montreal
Montreal, May 3.—One thousand employees of the Dominion Textile company's works joined in a strike today for a restoration of a 10 percent cut made last May in their wages.

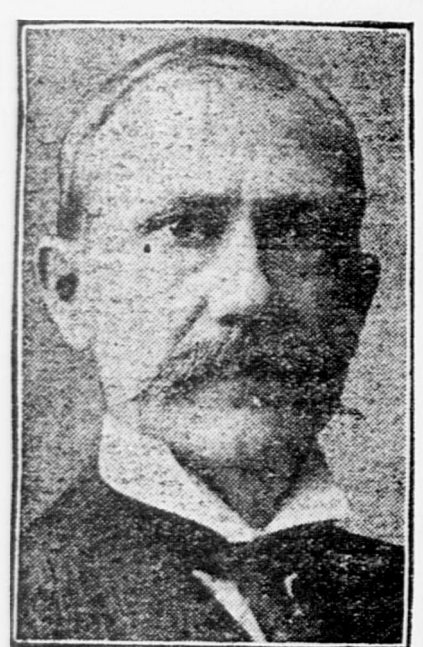

NATIONS MEET TO TALK PEACE

Congress of War's Enemies
Assembles in Chicago

MANY LANDS REPRESENTED

United States, Great Britain, France, Germany, China, Japan and the South American Countries Officially Interested in Pacific Movement—Delegates Welcomed by Illinois Governor and Chicago Mayor

Chicago, May 3.—The second national peace congress, which opened in this city today and will remain in session until Wednesday evening, is wider in scope than the United States. It should be termed an international peace conference, since the representatives of many nations are taking part in its deliberations.

RICHARD A. BALLINGER.

The nations represented in the congress, besides the United States, are the South American republics, Great Britain, Germany, France and Japan. Envoys and other official delegates from the embassies and legations of these countries will deliver addresses. Among the other speakers will be the greater part of the American women and men who have been active in the movement for the abolition of war among nations.

It had been expected that Secretary of War Dickinson would represent the government at the opening of the congress and deliver one of the opening addresses. His trip to Panama intervened, however, and Secretary of the Interior Ballinger was delegated by President Taft to declare the cordial sentiments of the Washington government toward the congress and its purposes. Among the other Americans interested in the congress are Edward Everett Hale, Archbishop Ireland, Charles W. Elliot, former president of Harvard; President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford, Jr., university; Mrs. Philip N. Moore, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston; Senator Theodore E. Burton, Governor Deneen and Samuel Gomper.

An address of welcome to the state of Illinois was delivered to the delegates by Governor Deneen, and Mayor Busse spoke for the city of Chicago. Other opening addresses were those on "The Present Position of the Peace Movement," by Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society; "A word Petition to the Third Hague Conference," by Mrs. Anna B. Eckstein of Boston, and "The Biology of War," by Professor Jordan.

Among the questions to be discussed at the congress is that of the establishment of a supreme court of the nations at The Hague to settle disputes between nations. The present congress is the successor of the first national peace congress, held in New York in April, 1907.

LICENSES SUSPENDED
Steamship Captains Anxious to Make Time Caused a Collision

Boston, May 3.—Equal responsibility for the collision in Pollock Rip Slue on March 10 between the steamers H. F. Dimock and Horatio Hall was placed on their respective commanders, Captains Thompson and Jewell, by the board of government inspectors, and their licenses have been suspended for fifteen days.

The collision took place in a thick fog at 8 a. m. and the Hall sank in fifteen minutes, but without loss of life, while the Dimock was beached to prevent a similar occurrence.

Each master was anxious to make time through the fog and disregarded the rules, according to the inspectors.

Cold Wave in France
Paris, May 3.—Northeastern France is in the grip of an unprecedented cold wave. There have been snowfalls at several places. The fruit crops and vineyards may have been seriously damaged.

Discouraging Labor Conditions
New York, May 3.—Labor conditions in New York city have not improved since the panic of 1907, according to the annual report of John N. Bogart, the city's commissioner of licenses.

CHECKING OF CRIME

More Important Than Punishment in Dealing With Children

New York, May 3.—Speaking here last night before Judge Brown of the Salt Lake City juvenile court urged the application of the same methods employed in combating tuberculosis to the problem of reclaiming juvenile delinquents.

"In our efforts to save these youthful criminals," said he, "our first duty is to protect the child who is clean. The truancy department of the New York public schools could conduct a better juvenile court than the so-called children's court, which is but the juvenile criminal division of the common law courts which exist to punish and not to save."

"Give just one-tenth for the checking of crime in children of that you expend in the punishment, and in ten years you can turn some of our jails into special schoolhouses."

TESTIMONY IS ALL IN

Alienists Fail to Agree on Question of Jordan's Sanity

Cambridge, Mass., May 3.—A clash between well known alienists of the prosecution and defense on the question of the responsibility of Chester S. Jordan for the murder of his wife closed the evidence in the case and there is some prospect of the case reaching the jury this afternoon.

Three experts on mental disorders, called by the defense, declared that Jordan was not capable of understanding the nature of the penalty for his act. With this evidence placed in a strong light before the jury, the defense rested.

The rebuttal brought out another array of doctors, who arrived at entirely different conclusions. As the defense had nothing to offer in rebuttal the trial closed after ten days occupied in placing the case before the jury.

FORCED TO RETURN TO FRENCH SHORES

Castro May Bring Suit Against Government of France

Paris, May 3.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, is reported to be consulting with lawyers here with a view of bringing a damage suit against the French government for his recent expulsion from Martinique.

As the government has the power to expel foreigners at its discretion, Castro, it is said, proposes basing his action on the fact that he was forcibly placed aboard a ship at Martinique and compelled to return to France without being given the option of choosing his destination.

EXPOSED BY BERTILLON
Man Arrested in San Francisco Is a Dangerous Criminal

Paris, May 3.—Mr. Bertillon has fully identified a man now being held by the San Francisco police as Arthur Bernard, a dangerous criminal. Bernard was arrested recently in San Francisco and gave the name of Raoul. The California authorities forwarded Bertillon measurements and photographs of the prisoner and it was through these that the identification was made.

Bertillon says Bernard twice has been tried and condemned, the first time for theft and the second time for the murder of Mme. Sarrazin, at Versailles. For the latter crime he was exiled to New Caledonia, from which place he escaped to the United States.

WEARY OF CHAUFFEUR
Mrs. Shaw Says That She Will Fight For Possession of Her Son

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 3.—Mrs. Nettie E. Shaw has thrown defiance at her husband and father and swears that she will fight for the possession of her son to the bitter end. She also declares that she is tired of H. K. Marble, the chauffeur, with whom she eloped months ago and will leave him.

"Go back to Mr. Shaw?" she exclaimed. "No, no, not for me. I had fourteen years of life with him and that is all I need, thank you. I would never have married that man in the first place had it not been for my father. He forced me into the marriage and for years it was only my love for him that kept me with Shaw."

Suicide in Church
Nicholasville, Ky., May 3.—Brooding over a quarrel with his sweetheart, Alexander Jennings, 21 years old, son of wealthy parents, threw the congregation at a crowded country church into a panic when he committed suicide by firing a bullet into his brain.

Portuguese Deputies in Duel
Lisbon, May 3.—Following a violent altercation in the chamber of deputies, Mello Barretto and Rodrigues Nogueira fought a duel with words. Nogueira received a wound in the wrist and the duel was stopped.

New Discus Throwing Record
New York, May 3.—Martin J. Sheridan made a new record by throwing the Olympic discus, free style, from a seven foot circle, 138 feet, 3 inches. The previous record was 132 feet, 1 inch.

Have not coughed once all day?

Yet you may cough tomorrow! Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine at hand. Your doctor's approval of its use will certainly set all doubt at rest. Do as he says.

Why RALSTON SHOES fit the feet

Ask any man who has ever worn a pair of RALSTONS what he thinks of them. He will tell you they're the most comfortable shoes he has ever worn. Try on a pair yourself and you'll say the same.

The secret of the exceptional fitting qualities of RALSTON SHOES lies in the fact that they're made over foot-moulded lasts—exact replicas of human feet, following the graceful foot curves on top and sides and moulded on the bottom in conformity with the mounds and depressions of the natural foot. RALSTON SHOES—for this reason—need no "breaking in."

We shall be pleased to show you how perfectly we can fit your feet.

Many a Head of Hair, Apparently Healthy, is Slowly Starving to Death

BRIEFS

"Polly of the Circus" has booked a date for Quincy.

The assessors have a fine day in which to begin their yearly rounds of the city.

Leo Elcock of Marsh street spent the week end with relatives in Ipswich.

Maurice Smith of Chubbuck street has accepted a position with the Fore River Company.

The members of the Iroquois club were given a reception Sunday evening at the home of Miss Louise Cotter of Neponset.

A May breakfast is to be held in First Church chapel Wednesday from twelve until five under the auspices of the Fragment society.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hillman Eggleston who have resided in the West the past three years, have returned to Quincy and will make their home on Upland road.

Half necked youths making the streets a race track on Sunday afternoon is not agreeable to some people. If they must keep in practice why not take to the woods or wait until after dark. It does not show a reverent feeling for the Sabbath day.

Next Sunday will be the first national Mothers' day in the United States and everyone on that day should wear a white carnation as a tribute to his or her mother. Some of the churches will hold special services appropriate to the day.

The Bonita club gave a May dancing party Saturday evening in Electric hall, and even with the inclement weather, entertained a large crowd. The club is composed of girls who summer on the banks of Town River, Quincy Point, and they proved good entertainers.

The Country Club enjoyed dinner and a theatre party in Boston on Friday evening. There were nine in the party, chaperoned by Miss Marion Bolster and on account of the storm, taxicabs were taken at the South Station. The party was then hurried to the Majestic theatre, where they witnessed David Warfield in The Music Master.

The next meeting of the club will be tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Willis, Presidents avenue.

The three steel steam colliers Malden, Melrose and Everett, have given such great general satisfaction that the New England Gas and Coke Company has decided to order another of the same size and design. While the contract has not been awarded as yet, the Fore River Company will in all probability receive it. The three colliers already in commission were built at Quincy.

Tuesday evening there will be a special meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club to elect a Vice-Commodore. Already the names of three prominent members who are yacht owners have been mentioned, Charles L. Seavey, owner of the knockabout Hathor; Frank F. Taylor, one of the owners of the schooner Leda; and Fred W. A. Schultz, owner of the power boat 26 Broadway. At the adjournment of the meeting there will be an informal smoker.

Regular meeting of the City Council tonight.

Commissioner Bainbridge commenced this morning to place dust preventative on the streets named in the street watering schedule.

Members of the city government have been invited to attend the annual opening of the Northman pavilion at Houghs Neck next Saturday. Supper will be served at 6:30.

Miss Sigrid Westerlund, the Finnish singer who recently sang in Quincy at Music hall is to give a recital of Finnish and Swedish folk songs Saturday evening at Steinert hall, Boston.

On account of illness, Mr. E. Land's Snyder was unable to direct the High school orchestra at the Senior dramatics on Friday evening.

William D. Pardon and family of Berlin street moved last week to 245 Newport avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pease nee Egan of Furnace Brook parkway are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son born April twenty-fifth.

Young friends of Miss Edna L. Gray of Newton street gave her a surprise party Friday evening and presented her a gold chain and locket on which her monogram was engraved. Games were played and refreshments were served. At the party were Buelah Collett, Ella Cain, Frances Cain, Edna Smith, Kathleen Jones, Elizabeth Merrill, William Cahill, John Cahill, Harry Collett, Allen Marden, Frances Marden, Fred Kingsbury, Bowdoin Smith, Ralph Smith, and Spencer Gray.

The Copeland club of West Quincy will present "The House of Too Much Trouble" Thursday evening in St. Mary's hall. All the characters under the coaching of Andrew J. Dinegan, the well known musical director, have their parts down fine and will give a clever exhibition of acting.

The sailor boys from the U. S. scout cruiser Salem, now at the shipyard for repairs, are spending their time playing ball. Every afternoon the Fore River athletic field is the scene of some exciting games. Last week, even though the weather was bad every day, the boys had had their daily contests. Weather doesn't stop them.

George McKay, deputy city engineer and son of Lieutenant R. McKay of the Quincy police department, returned to his home Sunday after three weeks confinement in the City Hospital where he underwent an operation. George is coming round fast now and will soon be in the best of health.

THE SPIRIT OF '76

It is Kept Alive by Descendants of Revolutionary Heroes

Baltimore, April 29.—The Sons of the American Revolution, descended from the men who freed the colonies from Great Britain, met here today in annual congress. More than 500 delegates, representing the thirty-eight states which have branch societies, with delegates from the District of Columbia and Hawaii, are assembled at the congress.

The first meeting for the transaction of business, after the address of welcome by Mayor Mahool, was held today. Cardinal Gibbons delivered the opening invocation. Today's sessions are held in the Hotel Belvedere. Tomorrow the delegates and visitors will go to Annapolis for a visit to the Naval academy and a reception by Governor Crothers at the executive mansion. A review of the naval cadets will be held, and after visits to the old senate chamber in the statehouse, where Washington resigned his commission as commander in chief of the Continental armies, and to other points of interest, the delegates will assemble for the election of officers.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Talking much about oneself is quite effective in keeping others from indulging in that pastime.

An ingrowing grouch will do more to upset a man's liver than half a dozen doctors can set right.

NOW THAT I'VE GOT YET—SWEEZEY—I WANT YET TO WASH YET FACE AND LOOK HUMAN

A great many people consider that the right to criticize is embodied in any declaration of friendship.

There is nothing so effective in keeping a man from getting good rest as too much rest.

There may be two sides to a question, but what is the use? You can be only in one place at a time.

When the days are too short the amiable gas company will be pleased to lengthen them.

There is one good thing about idleness—it shows how desirable employment is.

Ventilation.
 In regard to ventilation. No two men can hit it off. Some find health in open window; Others swear they feed a cough; Some insist that drafts are healthy; Giving vigor to their breath; Others fear the indoor breezes; Striking them will be their death.

Jones, he wants it nice and airy—Window always raised a bit. Brown, it 'tis the least bit drafty. Has his regulation fit. Gray would have the room so heated Like an oven it would seem. Benson's rugged style of comfort Comes from turning off the steam.

In the morning bright and early One applies his cherished fad. Flinging open wide the window, And the others all get mad. "Goodness, gracious, shut the window! In what sawmill were you born?" Cries the man who counts drafts deadly.

In the finest kind of scorn. So they carry on their scrapping. Each one of a different mind. Each is striving for his hobby. To the other's none resigned. Pushing up and down the heat, Turning on and off the heat, At the antics of his fellows Kicking roundly with both feet.

People Who Know.

If there is one thing that this country is long on it is on people who know how it should be run.

Hard to Take.
 "He has no use for that doctor."
 "What's the matter?"
 "What to him to get something to make him sleep."
 "Couldn't the doctor give him anything?"
 "Yes; that was the trouble. The doctor prescribed sawing wood."

Could Qualify.
 "Let me show you something I have in a very fine count," said the marriage broker to the millionaire who was thinking of buying one for his daughter.
 "Is he gentle and house broke?"
 "He is broke all right."

Not Merchandise.
 Comes in the room the fresh air crank And opens up the sash. And, to your great annoyance, makes A draft you cannot cash.

Fell Short.
 "Jones inherited all of his talents from his mother."
 "At that he will never be as good a man as she is."

One Branch.
 "Does your friend know anything?"
 "He is well up in science."
 "Professor?"
 "Pugilist."

BRIEFS

"Polly of the Circus" has booked a date for Quincy.

The assessors have a fine day in which to begin their yearly rounds of the city.

Leo Elcock of Marsh street spent the week end with relatives in Ipswich.

Maurice Smith of Chubbuck street has accepted a position with the Fore River Company.

The members of the Iroquois club were given a reception Sunday evening at the home of Miss Louise Cotter of Neponset.

A May breakfast is to be held in First Church chapel Wednesday from twelve until five under the auspices of the Fragment society.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hillman Eggleton who have resided in the West the past three years, have returned to Quincy and will make their home on Upland road.

Half necked youths making the streets a race track on Sunday afternoon is not agreeable to some people. If they must keep in practice why not take to the woods or wait until after dark. It does not show a reverent feeling for the Sabbath day.

Next Sunday will be the first national Mothers' day in the United States and everyone on that day should wear a white carnation as a tribute to his or her mother. Some of the churches will hold special services appropriate to the day.

The Bonita club gave a May dancing party Saturday evening in Electa hall, and even with the inclement weather, entertained a large crowd. The club is composed of girls who summer on the banks of Town River, Quincy Point, and they proved good entertainers.

The Country Club enjoyed dinner and a theatre party in Boston on Friday evening. There were nine in the party, chartered by Miss Marion Bolster and on account of the storm, taxicabs were taken at the South Station. The party was then hurried to the Majestic theatre, where they witnessed David Warfield in The Music Master.

The next meeting of the club will be tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Willis, Presidents avenue.

The three steel steam colliers Malden, Melrose and Everett, have given such great general satisfaction that the New England Gas and Coke Company has decided to order another of the same size and design. While the contract has not been awarded as yet, the Fore River Company will in all probability receive it. The three colliers already in commission were built at Quincy.

Tuesday evening there will be a special meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club to elect a Vice-Commodore. Already the names of three prominent members who are yacht owners have been mentioned, Charles L. Seavey, owner of the knockabout Hathor; Frank F. Taylor, one of the owners of the schooner Leda; and Fred W. A. Schultz, owner of the power boat 26 Broadway. At the adjournment of the meeting there will be an informal smoker.

Regular meeting of the City Council tonight.

Commissioner Bainbridge commenced this morning to place dust preventative on the streets named in the street watering schedule.

Members of the city government have been invited to attend the annual opening of the Noremman pavilion at Houghs Neck next Saturday. Supper will be served at 6.30.

Miss Sigrid Westerlund, the Finnish singer who recently sang in Quincy at Music hall is to give a recital of Finnish and Swedish folk songs Saturday evening at Steinert hall, Boston.

On account of illness, Mr. E. Land's Snyder was unable to direct the High school orchestra at the Senior dramatics on Friday evening.

William D. Pardon and family of Berlin street moved last week to 245 Newport avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pease nee Egan of Furnace Brook parkway are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son born April twenty-fifth.

Young friends of Miss Edna L. Gray of Newton street gave her a surprise party Friday evening and presented her a gold chain and locket on which her monogram was engraved. Games were played and refreshments were served. At the party were Buelah Collett, Ella Cain, Frances Cain, Edna Smith, Kathleen Jones, Elizabeth Merrill, William Cahill, John Cahill, Harry Collett, Allen Marden, Frances Marden, Fred Kingsbury, Bowdoin Smith, Ralph Smith, and Spencer Gray.

The Copeland club of West Quincy will present "The House of Two Much Trouble" Thursday evening in St. Mary's hall. All the characters under the coaching of Andrew J. Dinegan, the well known musical director, have their parts down fine and will give a clever exhibition of acting.

The sailor boys from the U. S. scout cruiser Salem, now at the shipyard for repairs, are spending their time playing ball. Every afternoon the Fore River athletic field is the scene of some exciting games. Last week, even though the weather was bad every day, the boys had had their daily contests. Weather doesn't stop them.

George McKay, deputy city engineer and son of Lieutenant R. McKay of the Quincy police department, returned to his home Sunday after three weeks confinement in the City Hospital where he underwent an operation. George is coming round fast now and will soon be in the best of health.

It is Kept Alive by Descendants of Revolutionary Heroes

Baltimore, April 29.—The Sons of the American Revolution, descended from the men who freed the colonies from Great Britain, met here today in annual congress. More than 500 delegates, representing the thirty-eight states which have branch societies, with delegates from the District of Columbia and Hawaii, are assembled at the congress.

The first meeting for the transaction of business, after the address of welcome by Mayor Mahool, was held today. Cardinal Gibbons delivered the opening invocation. Today's sessions are held in the Hotel Belvedere. Tomorrow the delegates and visitors will go to Annapolis for a visit to the Naval academy and a reception by Governor Crothers at the executive mansion. A review of the naval cadets will be held, and after visits to the old senate chamber in the statehouse, where Washington resigned his commission as commander in chief of the Continental armies, and to other points of interest, the delegates will assemble for the election of officers.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Talking much about oneself is quite effective in keeping others from indulging in that pastime.

An ingrowing grouch will do more to upset a man's liver than half a dozen doctors can set right.

NOW THAT I'VE GOT YEEZ—SWEEZEY—I WANT YEE TO WASH YEE FACE AND LOOK HUMAN

A great many people consider that the right to criticize is embodied in any declaration of friendship.

There is nothing so effective in keeping a man from getting good rest as too much rest.

There may be two sides to a question, but what is the use? You can be only in one place at a time.

When the days are too short the amiable gas company will be pleased to lengthen them.

There is one good thing about idleness—it shows how desirable employment is.

Ventilation.
In regard to ventilation, no two men can hit it off. Some find health in open windows; Others swear they need a cough; Some insist that drafts are healthy. Giving vigor to their breath; Others fear the indoor breezes. Striking them will be their death.

Jones, he wants it nice and airy—Window always raised a bit. Brown, if 'tis the least bit drafty, Has his regulation fit. Gray would have the room so heated Like an oven it would seem. Benson's rugged style of comfort Comes from turning off the steam.

In the morning bright and early One applies his cherished fad, Flinging open wide the window, And the others all get mad. "Goodness, gracious, shut the window! In what sawmill were you born?" Cries the man who counts drafts dead.

In the finest kind of scorn.

So they carry on their scrapping, Each one of a different mind. Each is striving for his hobby, To the other's none resigned. Pushing up and down the window, Turning on and off the heat, At the antics of his fellows Kicking roundly with both feet.

People Who Know.

If there is one thing that this country is long on it is on people who know how it should be run.

Hard to Take.
"He has no use for that doctor."
"What's the matter?"
"Went to him to get something to make him sleep."
"Couldn't the doctor give him anything?"
"Yes; that was the trouble. The doctor prescribed sawing wood."

Could Qualify.
"Let me show you something I have in a very fine count," said the marriage broker to the millionaire who was thinking of buying one for his daughter.
"Is he gentle and house broke?"
"He is broke all right."

Not Merchandise.
Comes in the room the fresh air crank And opens up the cash. And to your great annoyance, makes A draft you cannot cash.

Fell Short.
"Jones inherited all of his talents from his mother."
"At that he will never be as good a man as she is."

One Branch.
"Does your friend know anything?"
"He is well up in science."
"Professor?"
"Pugilist."

CANCER, THOUGHT

HIS FAMILY

John A. Dodge, of Raymond, N. H., made the following statement about Sagwa, the great Indian vegetable medicine.

"About two years ago I suffered terribly with indigestion and awful pains and stomach troubles. I had three doctors, but even after a thorough examination they could not tell what ailed me. For a year I could not draw a long breath. My folks thought I had cancer in the stomach. I heard of Sagwa and commenced taking it. After taking four bottles I was completely cured. I can't half praise the great amount of good it has done me."

We do not recommend Sagwa, or believe it or anything else will cure Cancer, but we do know that Sagwa will cure a run-down and overworked stomach.

People whose stomachs get badly out of order as in the case of Mr. Dodge, may suffer from nervous depression, and are liable to imagine themselves afflicted with grave and complicated diseases, when such is not the case at all.

The Kickapoo Remedies are for sale at all drug stores. If you wish to test Sagwa before purchasing, drop us a postal card and we will gladly send you a free trial bottle. The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Clintonville, Conn.

PRIZES AWARDED.

George Haumann, of 144 Malden street, Revere, a student in the Revere high school was the winner of the first prize of $25 offered by the Boston & Northern Old Colony Street Ry. Co. for the best design submitted by the pupils of the high schools on their lines for a cover for the advertising folders issued by the passenger department of these companies. This is the decision of an impartial board of judges whose knowledge and judgment in such matters is unexcelled. The judges were Henry T. Bailey, formerly state supervisor of art in public schools of Massachusetts, and editor of the Art School magazine; George French, editor of Profitable Advertising, the leading publication of its kind in the United States, and the author of many valuable books on advertising; and G. Fred Crosby, an artist and professional illustrator and designer who has had much experience as a judge in various art exhibitions.

The design contest was a very great success. A surprisingly large number of designs were submitted by the pupils of the schools and the originality of idea and excellence of execution was remarkable, reflecting great credit upon the pupils themselves and their instructors. The average generally was so high that the work of the judges was not easy when it came to determining the best. The fact that the general quality was so good and that there was so much evidence of interest in the contest and much thought and work out into the designs, was the source of much pleasure to the officials of the companies and it has therefore been decided to further reward the contestants by giving two additional prizes beyond the one originally announced.

George E. Plaisted, Jr., 28 Wyoming street, Malden, has been deemed by the judges as deserving of the second prize of $15 and Miss Grace Chute of the Everett high school of the third prize of $10. The winning designs a little later will be appropriately framed and placed on exhibition in the office of the passenger department at 309 Washington street, Boston.

PUBLIC HEARING ON TROLLEY FREIGHT

Several Citizens Appear Before City Council In Favor of the Petition

The main thing of interest at Monday night's meeting of the City Council was the public hearing on the petition of the Old Colony street railway for approval of it operating a trolley freight in Quincy. Several citizens appeared in favor and the only opposition came from Peter T. Fallon. Every member of the Council was present.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mayor appointing James P. Dunn, Joseph A. Delory, Leo J. McMaster, Edward T. Monahan, John T. Cain and Eben Stocker as constables. Confirmed.

Communication from the Mayor appointing Maurice I. Gatoomb as sealer of weights and measures and Frank E. Burrell as keeper of the lockup.

PETITIONS.

Two largely signed petitions were received favoring the approval of the trolley freight. They were referred to the Committee on Streets.

Petitions from the Telephone Co. for a location of poles on Kendrick avenue and for attachments were referred to the Committee on Streets.

A petition for lights on Winthrop avenue was referred to the Executive. Councilman Flynn presented a petition for the acceptance of Madison avenue. Referred to Committee on Streets.

The Citizens Gas Light Co., petitioned for permission to keep gasoline. Referred to License Committee.

Petitions were received for minor licenses and referred. Action was refused on petitions to transport liquor and to collect junk as they were filed after the first Monday in April.

L. Grossman & Son, petitioned that the fee for a junk shop license be reduced from $20 to $2. Referred to License Committee.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The Finance Committee reported an order appropriating $1,500 for grade crossings. Read and ordered to a second reading.

STONE CRUSHING PLANT.

The Finance Committee reported an amendment adding the borrowing clause to the order appropriating $2,300 for a portable stone crusher. Rules suspended and order passed.

The Committee on Finance reported an order assessing half the cost of permanent sidewalks on Whitwell and Liberty streets on the abutters. Adopted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for a public hearing May 17, on petition of the Q. E. L. & P. C., for a location for poles. Adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order for a public hearing May 17, on petition of S. Scammell & Sons to keep and sell gasoline. Adopted.

The Committee on Licenses reported orders granting minor licenses. Adopted.

PUBLIC HEARING.

A public hearing was held at 7.45 on petitions of the Telephone Co. for attachments after which the order was recommended.

TROLLEY FREIGHT.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the approval of the street railway operating a trolley freight.

Supt. Conway said the company now had rights in all towns south of Quincy. The type of business was store supplies. He believed here was something for the benefit of Quincy.

Quincy should be a distributing point for other towns and it would bring business into Quincy. Cars are not run to interrupt passenger cars which have the right of way. He did not hesitate to say that there was something to recommend itself. We have a terminal station in each city. Goods are delivered to the parties directed. If not ordered to be delivered to a particular teamster the company had an arrangement with a teamster to deliver.

Councilman McDevitt asked questions about children's and working-men's tickets.

Councilman Richards asked if the feasibility of transporting granite to the water front had been looked into.

Mr. Conway replied that it had and that it was possible.

Councilman Gardner asked if a special permit would be asked to transport liquor to which Mr. Conway said no.

Councilman Gilson asked as to rates and Mr. Conway replied that he was not prepared to name them yet.

In reply to Councilman Flynn he said it was possible to order goods in New York and have them delivered in Brockton the following day.

Councilman Bryant said we should know what the rates would be. If we are to get no lower rates it will be no good. Unless it can be stated to the Committee so we may know we are to derive a benefit he should hesitate to vote for it.

Mr. Conway replied that this matter would be made clear to the Committee.

H. G. Smith of the Fore River Co., was in favor as he believed it a good thing. In a proposition of this kind the advantages are greater than the disadvantages. Any competition that will give lower rates is a good thing. He favored a franchise for a limited term.

In reply to Councilman Bryant, Mr. Smith said that he would favor it law would not permit a limited term.

W. Ward Whitaker said it was our duty to derive such benefits as we can from mechanical and scientific appliances we have at hand. As to rates, we will be the gainer by competition. This was a matter that must adjust itself.

Let the citizens enjoy something that other sections enjoy by the successful operation of the trolley freight.

In the history of all public service corporations there is always some opposition at first but if taken away all would miss it.

In reply to a question he said if allowed to derive a benefit from the trolley freight they will be better able to give the children better rates.

James P. Flanagan was in favor if all expressmen were to be treated alike as he understood they were.

Peter T. Fallon opposed. It was to open up an outlet for Brockton. It was not for the benefit of Quincy but for corporations.

Mr. Fallon spoke for nearly three quarters of an hour on franchises granted corporations. The use of streets, kind of rails used etc.

The hearing then closed and the order was recommended.

MOTIONS.

Upon motion of Councilman Hadlock the application for liquor permits were taken from the table and recommended.

Councilman Whiton moved reconsideration. Motion lost 8 voting yes and 12 no.

Councilman McDevitt rose to a question of personal privilege. He

INSTRUCTIVE TALK ON PHILIPPINES

Col. T. N. Wood Addresses St. Chrysostom's Men's Club

Ladies' night was observed by the Men's club of St. Chrysostom's church on Monday evening and many of the fair sex were present. Col. Thomas N. Wood, U. S. M. C. who is in command of the Charlestown Navy yard addressed those present on "The Philippines." He told in a most chatty and interesting manner of his personal experiences while on the islands beside giving much other valuable information.

"While under Spanish control," he said, "the natives were to a large extent uneducated, the Spanish only occupying a fringe of towns on the coast. Since the arrival of the Americans this has been changed and the uncivilized tribes are being pushed further and further back."

Col. Wood told of the inconveniences in the Philippines and of the mosquitoes, ants, lizards and other pests which at times make life intolerable. The chief pleasure of the natives is cock-fighting and wherever one goes on the islands he is apt to see a game-cock in the yard of the natives.

He told of a journey he made while on the islands with a companion Major Abercrombie. The country through which they passed was so rough and so obstructed by the natives, in order to keep back the American advance, that on the completion of their journey as he said, they were hardly fit for publication. Their means of communication, he said, was a sort of "cigar box" Spanish by which they managed to make themselves understood.

There is on the islands, said Col. Wood, a species of wild chicken which has escaped from civilization, which runs so fast that if there were any in this country they would be fined for exceeding the speed limit.

Americans are not looked upon with favor on the islands, continued the speaker, "most of the trading being carried on by the Germans and Spaniards. If an American wants to go into business there, he said, he generally opens a bar-room.

The effort to keep the natives under subjection until they are educated, is so strong that anyone who reads the Declaration of Independence at any public gathering makes himself liable to six months' imprisonment.

He spoke of the strange customs in vogue regarding the dead. There a body is allowed to remain in the cemetery as long as the rent is paid. This coming in arrears the remains are taken and thrown in an enormous bone pit where many others have met a similar fate.

Owing to climatical conditions, Col. Wood said, the soldiers there are unable to find many diversions and naturally take to drinking. Now that the canteen has been abolished in the islands the soldiers have taken to drinking a fiery native liquor which, if persisted in drives a man insane. This has been the cause of many deaths among our boys in the Philippines.

Col. Wood is in favor of the reestablishment of the canteen which would do away with the taking of this fiery native liquor and which, with the proper modifications, would bring on no evil effects.

In closing Col. Wood spoke of the customs of the Morros and how, in a sort of religious frenzy, they run amuck striking down every Christian within reach.

After his address a social interval was enjoyed, during which refreshments of sandwiches, orangeade, coffee, ice cream and cake were served.

EXCITING EXPERIENCE.

Dr. and Mrs. D. M. McFall of Mattoon, Ill., had an exciting experience last week with burglars. During a heavy thunder shower Mrs. McFall was awakened and thought she heard a noise down stairs and spoke to Dr. McFall who answered that it must be the storm. Mrs. McFall was not satisfied as she heard the rattling of something like a watch chain. She went to Dr. McFall's room, switched on the light and turned to confront a pistol in the hands of a burglar who ordered her to get into bed and keep quiet.

This she did while the burglar and his accomplice gathered up her jewelry, silver ware, etc. Mrs. McFall watched their movements but was covered all the time by a pistol. Just before they left the house the burglars went back to the chamber and left Dr. McFall's watch which was so heavily engraved they doubtless thought it best not to take it. A few minutes after they left the house Dr. McFall was in touch with the police but no trace of the burglars has been discovered.

Dr. and Mrs. McFall are well known in Quincy where they frequently spend their summers. Mrs. McFall will be remembered as Miss Frank Johnson, sister to Mrs. Isabelle Davis of Spear street, Robert Johnson of Maple street and Joseph Johnson of Russell park.

CHECKED SPEED

Obstructions Found In the Machinery of the Salem

DAMAGE TO DELICATE BLADES

Bolts Foreign to Construction of Vessel Found In Place Where They Could Not Have Been Dropped by Accident—May Have Been Result of Plot Because of Intense Rivalry
Over Scouts

Quincy, Mass., May 4.—The rivalry between the crews of the two fast
scout cruisers, Salem and Chester, has been intensified by the claim of the Fore River shipbuilders that the machinery of the Salem had been tampered with enough to reduce the speed three-quarters of a knot an hour. It is hinted that there was a plot to cripple the cruiser.

Instead of imperfect drainage in the turbines of the Salem, which was thought to have caused the discrepancy of fifteen revolutions a minute
between the starboard and port engines during the trials, it was announced that bolts, foreign to the construction of the engines, had been dropped into the turbine casings before the cruiser was turned over to the government, had damaged the delicate blades of the engine, and caused the disability.

A month ago in a 24-hour endurance run between the Chester and the Salem the Chester was the victor by half a knot an hour. The Salem, it was announced, had wasted 1000
horsepower an hour during the trials.

In regard to the discovery of bolts
in the casings of the turbines Rear Admiral Bowles of the Fore River
Ship and Engine company said:

"A bolt dropped through one of the nozzles of the port turbine and lodged between the nozzle and the buckets.
In the port turbine the damage was slight, as the obstruction was discovered before it had weakened the engine.

"In the starboard engine a bolt head was found. It had caused the edges of the buckets in the fifth section to close together, keeping steam from passing to the sixth and seventh sections of the turbine.

"These obstructions could not have got into the turbine after the ship had been turned over to the crew, and must have been placed in the chambers before the engines were finally assembled.

"After the damages have been repaired, the Salem will easily equal and probably surpass the record of the Chester. The Salem will have three-quarters of a knot more speed an hour."

Speculation is rife at the Fore River yards as to who placed the obstruction bolts in the machinery. The workmen are certain that they could not have got where they were found by accident.

The inference is that they were placed there for the purpose of slowing down the revolutions of the propellers.

The Chester was built at the Bath
Iron Works and fitted with Parsons turbine engines. The Salem is fitted with Curtis turbines. The Birmingham, built at the same time, is fitted with the reciprocating type. On this account the rivalry between the builders, as well as the crews of the two turbine cruisers, has been intense.

In the recent endurance run, April 13, the race went to the Chester. The Birmingham was obliged to withdraw on account of disabled machinery.

San Francisco, May 4.—Broughton Brandenburg, wanted in New York
for alleged grand larceny and forgery,
forestalled the arrival of Detective Fitzsimmons with an extradition warrant by obtaining a writ of habeas corpus.

When the detective arrived with the habeas corpus, which was made returnable on Saturday.

Brandenburg declares that he will

Washington, May 4.—Pedro Rojas,
the new Venezuelan minister to the United States, was formally presented to President Taft today by Secretary Knox.

The ceremony marked the complete resumption of diplomatic relations between the two countries, broken off a year ago, following the refusal of President Castro to arbitrate disputed questions.

Cut In Wire and Wire Products

products. The cut was at once met by the independents.

FOUR DAYS' CONVENTION

More Than Three Hundred Mechanical Engineers in Session

Washington, May 4.—The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, embracing in its membership 3455 of America's scientific men, began its annual spring meeting in this city today.

More than 300 engineers are in attendance at the meeting. During the convention, which will last four days, President Taft will hold a reception for the members at the White House.
The war department will give a special exhibition drill at Fort Meyer. At the same time, if the conditions are favorable, an ascension of a dirigible balloon will be made.

An address will be delivered by Rear Admiral Melville, retired, past president of the society and former engineer in chief of the navy, the subject being "The Engineer in the Navy," and P. H. Newell, director of the reclamation service, will deliver an illustrated address on "Homemaking in the Arid Regions."

SOIL STORAGE OF POISON

Not Likely to Result From Spraying
of Trees to Destroy Insects

Boston, May 4.—With reference to reports that the use of certain forms of arsenic in spraying trees to destroy insect pests might cause a storage of poison in the soil which would be dangerous to human beings, the Massachusetts highway commission has received a letter from L. O. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology of the department of agriculture at Washington, in which he says:

"To the best of my belief there is practically no danger of soil storage in the use of arsenate of lead. This compound carries only about 15 percent of arsenic acid. With proper spraying, such as is done in your state, I have not the slightest fear of any future trouble."

WRIGHT BROTHERS
HONORED ABROAD

Get First Gold Medal of British Aeronautical Society

London, May 4.—There was a demonstration of enthusiasm, remarkable in its character, at the institution of civil engineers when the Aeronautical Society of Great Britain conferred on Wilbur and Orville Wright, the aero-planists of Dayton, O., its first gold medal.

Those who had gathered at the institution to witness the presentation cheered and applauded repeatedly while the Wright brothers blushingly bore their honors through an hour of the warmest eulogies. Finally the entire assemblage rose up and gave three cheers for each of the brothers.

Both Wilbur and Orville Wright
made brief speeches, tersely expressing their thanks. A reception was then held and the brothers were surrounded, questioned and besieged for autographs.

FRIEND OF MISSIONARIES

Straus' Appointment to Turkish Post Considered Providential

New York, May 4.—Representatives of American mission work in Turkish territory are well pleased at the selection of Oscar S. Straus as ambassador to Turkey. District Secretary Creagan of the American Board of Commissioners for foreign missions,
in commenting on the appointment,
said:

"This is, indeed, a providential appointment at this time. Mr. Straus was an excellent representative when he was in Turkey before, and he is in close touch with the condition of affairs there. We have always found him most helpful to our work in the missions in that country, and we hail his return to Turkey with unqualified joy."

Straus Accepts Appointment

Washington, May 4.—Mr. Straus telegraphed from New York his acceptance of the mission to Turkey to Secretary Knox. It is not known at the state department when he will take up his diplomatic duties.

RABIES IN NEW YORK

Quarantines Have Become Necessary
In Many Cities and Towns

Albany, May 4.—During the past few months rabies has been more widespread in this state than ever before, according to a statement by Commissioner Pearson of the state department of agriculture, who says covering fifty-six towns, ten cities and four villages.

Pearson says that within a few months five persons bitten by rabid dogs have died and there have been a large number of deaths of cattle,
sheep and swine.

"I have more faith in Doan's Kidney Pills than any remedy I have ever known and it gives me great pleasure to publicly endorse them. For at least six months I was feeling all out of sorts as the result of kidney trouble. I became tired easily and had but little strength or energy to do my housework. Pains through the small of my back annoyed me a great deal. A friend, knowing of my condition, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills
and I obtained a supply at the Cox Drug store. A short time after beginning their use, they helped me and I now feel like a different person."

Following is the item in The Bos-

"Little Doris, after refusing to kiss said she did not like those things the lady had in her ears.

"Why, those are earrings," said her mother.

"What does she wear them for?"
"Oh I guess to make her look pretty."

"After a lapse of some time, during which mother had forgotten the incident:

"Mama, it's too bad ain't it?"

"What is too bad, dear?"

"That they don't make her look pretty."

Telephone Protection

A SUBSCRIBER'S STORY--

As told to an official of the Traffic Dept.

ABOUT one o'clock this morning I accidentally overturned the telephone, which stood on a small table by my bedside, and it fell to the floor. As I picked it up I heard the operator say: "Number 7?" I explained what had happened, and apologized for having troubled him. He replied in an exceedingly pleasant tone of voice: "It's all right—no trouble at all, madam." I wish you would express to him my appreciation of his courtesy. I assure you I resumed my slumber with a new sense of security at the thought that someone was so near in case of need.

Telephone "Protection" Assures Telephone "Security"

With a telephone in your house there is always "someone near in case of need."

In case of illness, it will outspeed any messenger in summoning a doctor.

It will call the fire department ere you could run to the box on the corner.

It will bring the police, should skulkers lurk about.

Its mere presence will give the absent husband assurance that wife and children are protected.

Likewise will its presence reassure the wife and children, dispel their nervousness and banish loneliness.

The value of such a service is not to be measured by the number of calls made, any more than police protection is measured by the number of arrests, or fire protection by the number of alarms answered.

One emergency call may outweigh in value a life time of cost. Let us show you how small will be the insurance charge for protection to your home and security to your family.

Telephone the Local Manager (free of charge) and a Contract Agent will call.

RAILROADS WIN PRINCIPAL POINT

Allowed to Hold Stock of Subsidiary Coal Companies

DECISION OF SUPREME COURT

Commodities Clause Affecting Anthracite Coal Carriers Declared Constitutional, but Contentions of Government as to Its Scope Are Not Conceded—General Surprise at Overturning of Ruling of Circuit Court

Washington, May 4.—It has been many a day since a decision of the supreme court of the United States has been received with so much interest as was manifested in the decision of that court in what are known as the "commodities clause" cases, affecting the anthracite coal carrying railroads. These cases had been decided by the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Pennsylvania favorably to the railroads, in that the clause of the Hepburn rate law, which prohibits interstate railroads from carrying commodities manufactured, mined or produced directly or indirectly by the roads, was declared unconstitutional, and the general impression was that the decision would be affirmed by the supreme court.

When, therefore, there was a reversal instead of an affirmation, the interest was much magnified. When, again, it was found that the reversal was based on technical grounds, and that the effect was really favorable to the railroads, sentiment took another turn and those who had been anxiously awaiting the announcement of the result found themselves much puzzled. Summed up, the act is held to compel companies to dissociate themselves only from the products they carry, and the contention of the government that the law applies to ownership of stock and prohibits the transportation of commodities simply because they have been produced by a railroad company, regardless of the fact that the company has parted with them, is held to be untenable and incapable of enforcement.

It thus appears, first, that the commodities clause is a vital and operative statute with respect to all products, such as coal, which the railroad companies actually own at the time of transportation, and that the railroads must sell such products to somebody else before they can lawfully ship them; and second, that unless the act is promptly amended so as to include stock ownership, the railroads can escape the law entirely by converting their direct ownership of coal properties into stock ownership by the organization of subsidiary coal companies.

The effect of the decision under existing conditions is favorable to the railroads and the government lost on practically every point except the sustenance of the principle involved. In holding that congress had not gone beyond its authority in enacting the law, the court conceded the right to legislate, and it is believed if so disposed congress might enlarge and extend the scope of the provision.

Hence, while the railroads gain a practical victory, the government is not confronted by a constitutional bar from further acting in the direction of control of the roads in the matter of shipment of their own commodities.

The cases made their first appearance in the supreme court on Oct. 10 last. They were argued during the month of January and the decision has been anxiously awaited ever since the latter date.

The decision, which was announced by Justice White, sustained the provision of the law exempting lumber from the operations of the clause.

BOTH SIDES REMAIN FIRM

Bakeries in New York's Strike Zone Are Guarded by Police

New York, May 4.—Every shop of the Master Bakers' association of the East Side, with fifty or more shops in Harlem, are guarded by a special detail of police to prevent any more of the disorders which were prevalent throughout the strike district Monday.

Both sides remain firm and there appears to be no indication of an amicable settlement. The union claims 1500 strikers, but the master bakers are obdurate.

More than twenty strikers were arrested, and while no one was fatally hurt as far as is known, onslaughts on bakeries operated by non-union men were frequent.

Another Lion For Roosevelt
Nairobi, May 4.—Theodore Roosevelt bagged one more lion at Nairobi. This gives him a total of three lions and one lioness on the expedition. Kermit Roosevelt succeeded in bringing down a cheetah. The hunting was exciting and both marksmen did excellent work.

Guilt of Intent to Kill
Auburn, Me., May 4.—Guilty of assault with intent to kill, but with a recommendation for clemency in the matter of sentence, was the decision of the jury before whom was tried John A. Doherty for shooting Peter E. Fahey. Sentence will be imposed later.

FRIENDSHIP.

Oh, friendship is a fragile plant. That should with care be tended. For oftentimes the closest one Is easily offended, And by a very careless turn It's tender buds are blighted. When it is farthest from your thoughts To have an old pal slighted!

'Tis not enough to say "Hello!" And hurry to your labor. Without inquiring as to health On meeting some old neighbor. You have to stand around and chat. Though minutes may be priceless. 'Twould never do to pass him up And go away adviceless.

A friend who really is a friend Is worth your best endeavor And your most earnest ways and means To treasure to him forever. And, though you may find need for him Not one time out of twenty. It's when you do, the proverb says. You need him good and plenty.

And, after all, the only thing Is friendship and remembrance bright. Though seas are intervening. To smooth the little jars that come And make time sweet and sunny. So do not slight the friends you have Or slip to them bad memory.

Referring to Her.
"This is a century plant."
"Does it blossom only every hundred years?"
"How should I know?"
"Miss Ophelia, you ought to be a authority on that."

Useless Advice.
"Don't be rash."
"I can't help it."
"Oh, yes, you can."
"I tell you I can't."
"Why?"
"I have measles."

Free Lunch Flend.

The man who takes the most chances often takes a lot of other things that do not belong to him.

One Pleasing Quality.
"Did you have something to say to me?"
"Yes. Will you marry me?"
"I like your nerve."
"Glad you do, for it is the only thing I have."

Just Like a Man.
"How's your watch? I want to set mine."
"It is almost human."
"So reliable?"
"Seldom tells the truth."

Not Available.
"I wish I had a rich uncle."
"I have one."
"How delightful!"
"And he has thirteen children of his own."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Sense is like money—the moment that you have the greatest need for it you are in possession of the minimum amount.

People who are afraid to do as they please don't succeed in doing as any one else pleases.

Never having a chance is often due to an inability to recognize a chance when it looms on the horizon.

We have to bump up against a cold, hard fact now and then to warm up our reasoning powers and keep our judgment sound.

A deadbeat is a live individual striving to benevolently assimilate the surplus change of the easy mark.

The man who is scared to death before trouble begins sometimes fights like a tiger when things warm up.

Wise people looking out for easy berths don't look in sleeping cars.

The best thing some people can do with themselves is to chase themselves down to the junk dealer and take the first offer he makes them.

Be sure your sins will find you, but not as suddenly as the collector/presenting the bills for the same.

Don't be envious of the splendor of another. His new shoes may cover aching corn.

ARGUMENTS ON WORLD'S PEACE

Effects of Immigration and War Run on Parallel Lines

BUT DIFFERENCE IS ENORMOUS

Loss of One Region by Emigration of Strong Men Is Gain of Another, but War Losses Yield No Corresponding Gain—Fraternal Organizations a Guarantee Against Another Civil War In This Country

Chicago, May 4.—"War always devours the best." These words, written by the German poet, Schiller, a century ago, formed the theme of an address at the second national peace congress by President Jordan of Leland Stanford, Jr., university.

"The only way in which any race as a whole has improved," said Jordan, "has been through the preservation of its best and the loss of its worst examples. The condition which favors this is democracy, equality before the law, the condition which equalizes opportunity and gives each man the right to stand or fall on the powers God has given him."

"The only race degeneration ever known is that produced by those forces which destroy the best, leaving for the fathers of the future those who could not be used in the business of war or in that of colonization."

"The effects of immigration run parallel with the effects of war, but with this enormous difference: The strong men who emigrate are not lost to the world. The loss of one region is the gain of another. But the losses in war can yield no corresponding gain."

"The warlike nation of today is the decadent nation of tomorrow. It has ever been so and in the nature of things it must ever be."

"Our republic shall endure so long as the human harvest is good, so long as the movement of history, the progress of peace and industry leaves for the future not the worst, but the best of each generation. The republic of Rome lasted so long as there were Romans; the republic of America will last so long as its people, in blood and in spirits, remain what we have learned to call Americans."

"It is in the great growth of fraternal organizations in the United States," said Joseph B. Burt of Chicago, speaking at the evening session, "that the peace movement has its greatest present factor."

"Perhaps," Burt said, "the greatest guarantee against another civil war in this country lies in the fact that over one third of our men belong to fraternal orders and are taught to regard their fellow-men as brothers. The members of nearly all of these orders have never charged each other with bayonets nor killed each other with bullets."

"How are these fraternal orders promoting peace? It will promote peace to teach man the brotherhood of man, the fatherhood of God, love, kindness, fraternity, friendship, charity, benevolence, truth and justice, then our six hundred fraternal orders with their thousands of lodges and millions of members in the United States are promoting peace, and our nation in years to come will be known as a fraternal nation."

CUTS RATES AGAIN

Boston and Maine Meets the Baltimore and Ohio Reduction

Boston, May 4.—Determined to hold its own in the rate war the Boston and Maine railroad has decided upon another cut. This latter move is a direct response to the latest cut announced by the Baltimore and Ohio, becoming operative from Baltimore on May 25, and leaves the relative position of the two roads where it is under the existing schedules.

The Boston and Maine has filed its new schedule with the Interstate commerce commission, to become effective on June 1, only a few days after the new rate on the Baltimore and Ohio goes into effect.

Mrs. Charles A. Hall left this morning for a trip to New York City.

Charles Hurst of Providence, R. I., is the guest of his aunt, Mrs. George E. Rundlett of Safford street.

Mr. Seiders of Crothers & Seiders, has moved from East Boston to Berlin street, Wollaston.

Eben Stocker takes the place of Gerald A. Sullivan, who declined to serve as one of the assistant assessors.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed at the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning.

The Bridge Whist club meets on Friday evening with Miss Josephine Kelley of Billings street.

Mr. Wendell Luce, formerly organist and choir master at Christ church, will supply the organ at First church (Unitarian) during illness of Mr. Snyder.

This week seems to be moving week and all change. The bad weather the last of last week delayed the movers and they were pretty busy Monday trying to catch up.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Barrett moved this week from Bigelow street to Mechanic street into the W. L. Brown house which has been remodeled for two families.

Mr. Arthur Foote will play his own compositions at the concert Saturday afternoon which Miss Spear has arranged with the help of prominent local singers.

The sailors of the U. S. scout cruiser Salem, who have been having shore leave for the past week, returned to duty today. The rest of the jacksies will probably be allowed a week's vacation beginning today.

The Art club met Monday night with Mrs. Arthur Rogers of Billings street and passed a few hours most delightfully. Next Monday Mrs. Marble of Squantum street will be the hostess. Members are much interested in a contest just now.

H. R. Benn, operator at the Scenic Temple holds the record for amateur house building. April 18, Mr. Benn received a permit to erect a six-room house on Littlefield street, Houghs Neck. He laid the posts the next day and unaided completed the house April 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harris Thompson and son Kenyon Read of Somerville spent the latter part of the week in Atlantic with Mrs. Harry Read, Mrs. Thompson's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson were present at Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Willey's celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary on Friday evening April 30th.

The Bay State Dredging Co. started dredging on Monday, the $7500 channel to the Wollaston and Squantum Yacht club houses. The job will take about five weeks. All of the dredged material has to be hauled to Chelsea creek, where it is used for filling. The channel will be 60 feet wide and 3 feet deep at mean low water, when completed.

"Parents' Evening" will be held tonight at the Y. M. C. A. This is a new feature and judging from the interest shown, a great success is assured. The program will include a gymnasium exhibition, music, refreshments and an address by H. D. Hervey, superintendent of the Malden schools.

C. B. Webber who has been living for a few years on Cherry avenue moved this week to Bigelow street.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blake of St. Louis are making plans to return to Atlantic very soon and take up their former residence on Billings street.

The many friends of B. C. Jilbert of Baxter street will be sorry to learn that he met with a painful accident last Friday, when he cut an artery in his right hand.

Quincy High against Everett today at Merrymount park in the first home game of the season. The boys are playing good ball this year and ought to win the majority of the games.

THE DELINQUENT.

Probation Officer Mulready Addresses Christ Church Men's Club.

E. J. Mulready state probation officer, addressed a largely attended meeting of the Christ Church Men's club on Monday evening in the parish house. Mr. Mulready's subject was "The Cause of the Delinquent."

Mr. Mulready has been connected with the probation service for many years and thoroughly understands the question on which he talked. He described the habits of the inmates of the State institutions and gave some idea of the customs in vogue.

Taking for an example the State Farm at Bridgewater Mr. Mulready stated that there were confined within those walls at times enough men to make a good sized town.

"What is the cause of this?" asked Mr. Mulready. "Is it because these men are born bad, because the causes which send them to these places are inherited?"

Mr. Mulready answered in the negative, saying that all men were born pure and good and that it was the surroundings and associations that caused him to go bad. He said that society was to blame, not the individual.

Continuing the speaker stated that it was the duty of every man to try and help to better those who are down and not push him down farther into the mire.

After the address there was a short musical program, followed by refreshments.

MISS SIBYLLA PFAFFMANN.

A large number of friends, classmates, pupils and neighbors attended on Monday the funeral services of Miss Sibylla A. Pfaffmann of 57 Clay street. For twenty years she was an invalid, but many will remember her as the star pupil at the Quincy High school in 1875, 1876 and 1877; and the same success attended her at Thayer Academy and also Radcliffe college, where she specialized. She was in her 15th year when she was graduated from the high school in the well known F. F. F. class, which for many years held excursions and reunions. Her death was the first among the graduates of that class. Miss Pfaffmann also taught at the Sharon grammar school, the Adams school and high school in this city, and later at the Newton High school, showing great proficiency and knowledge. All through her illness she was interested in the problems of the day.

The funeral service was conducted by the new pastor of the Wollaston Baptist church, Rev. Joseph Walther, who spoke of her high attainments, her patience during the long illness, and lessons from her life. His scripture selections were particularly appropriate. The Apollo quartette sang three beautiful selections, "Lead kindly light," "Crossing the bar," and "Looking this way." The floral tributes were beautiful, completely filling the room. Interment was at Mt. Wollaston. A mother, two brothers and three sisters mourn her loss.

CRUISER SALEM'S ENGINES DAMAGED

Was Crippled by Pieces of Metal in Turbines

That the failure of the scout cruiser Salem to make a better showing on her recent trial trips was because her engines had been tampered with was proven beyond all question Monday when a service bolt was found inside the port engine and was in position to do untold damage.

Not only was the port engine damaged but the starboard engine as well by a piece of metal pressing against the buckets.

Examination of the starboard turbine showed one-third of all the buckets on the fifth stage so badly jammed that steam could hardly be forced through them. The damage was done by a piece of metal, probably a nut or a bolt, that had evidently been ground up by the friction produced by the turbine engine turning over at the rate of 335 revolutions a minute.

Officials of the Fore River company are inclined to think the nuts and bolts were placed in the turbines by design. There was no reason, said an official of the company this morning, that a service bolt should be found inside a turbine engine.

Owing to the injuries discovered in both engines of the Salem it is possible that the trial tests of the scout cruisers which were recently held will be tried over again.

It is understood that Capt. Albert L. Key of the Salem will, if he has not already done so write to Washington for a new trial.

When the cruiser leaves the Fore River yards she goes to Liberia and it is proposed on the way back to have her trials.

The plan is to run at a speed of 18 or 20 knots from the Azores until within 360 miles of New York, then to steam at full speed.

Capt. Bailey the senior member of the official trial board, was at the Fore River Monday and saw for himself what the trouble was.

In view of this it is probable that he will ask the government to have the full official trials held again.

Y. P. R. U. MEETING.

The Y. P. R. U. of First church held an exceedingly interesting meeting Sunday evening. Miss Ruth Packard and Mr. Everett Rhodes, with Miss Ruth Pennington at the piano, gave a most pleasing violin duet, followed by the speaker of the evening, Mr. Houghton Schumacher, now studying at Harvard for the ministry, who gave very clearly and interestingly many facts about Unitarianism. He began with giving the early theories and problems that led to Unitarian belief and ended with the problem that he considers confronts the church now, namely, "Is there enough reverence in the church today?"

MONDAY NIGHT'S FIRE.

Department Called Out to Blaze at Baker Yacht Basin.

The alarm from box 273 Monday evening called the fire department on a hurry trip to the Baker Yacht Basin at Quincy Point, where a small fire was in progress in the engine room of the company.

Box 273 is a private box and whenever sounded means a quick run, because there are many valuable boats and engines at the Basin, besides quantities of gasoline and other inflammable and explosive substances.

Monday night's fire, however, did not develop into anything, being only a slight blaze inside the engine room. The fire was caused probably by an overheated boiler, and the damage was slight.

TODAY'S COURT.

George B. Armstrong was fined $20 for exceeding the automobile speed limit at Milton. Alexander McLaughlin was sent to the state farm for drunkenness at Quincy.

The boys of the Y. M. C. A. held a "Parents' Night" on Tuesday evening at association building, under the direction of Lester Clee the boys' director. This is a new feature at the Y. M. C. A. and it proved to be an unqualified success.

There was a large crowd on hand to enjoy the good time prepared by Mr. Clee and the boys, the mothers and fathers of the youthful athletes being present in large numbers. An excellent program had been arranged for the evening including music by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, gymnastic exhibition by the boys and addresses by H. D. Hervey superintendent of the Malden schools and Walter H. Bentley, principal of the Coddington school of this city.

After a pleasing concert by the orchestra all adjourned to the gym where the boys went through the regular class work under the direction of Physical director Maxwell. The boys did all kinds of stunts including military drills, calisthenics and apparatus work.

The guests then proceeded to the association hall where they listened to an address by Mr. Hervey. W. H. Bentley presided and before introducing Mr. Hervey, gave a brief talk on the work that has been done by Mr. Clee and the boys' department during the past year. He praised Mr. Clee highly for his energetic and faithful work with the boys.

Mr. Hervey was then introduced as the speaker of the evening. He took for his subject "The Relation of the Y. M. C. A. to the Home, the School, and the Church in regards to the Boys." He said in part:

"The Y. M. C. A. is built on broad and enduring lines. It is first and foremost a great religious organization, but preaches no narrow, one-sided religion.

It is broad, sane and robust and as such appeals to strong men. Men are not asked to choose in this world and the next, but are shown how to get the most out of both worlds.

"The Y. M. C. A. recognizes a three-fold nature, body, mind and soul, and tries to minister, in the most practical and effective way, to the needs of the whole man. For the body it provides gymnasium, athletic fields and summer camps. For the mind, lecture courses, evening schools and vacation schools. For the soul, Bible classes, men's meetings and personal work.

"The religion of the Y. M. C. A. is not sacredly guarded in a jeweled case, but is put to the hardest everyday use on the gridiron, the diamond, in the gymnasium on the billiard table, in the summer camp and in evening schools and is allowed to take its chance against all comers.

"One source of strength in the Y. M. C. A. is the fact that it does not make the building up of its organization the chief end of its existence. It always has a larger aim than its own up-building. It is always subservient to the church and never rivals it. It is always interested in all life wherever it finds a need. Without interfering with any other organization it sets about quietly to do its work.

"The men at the head of the Y. M. C. A. are highly trained individuals who know how to cooperate with other people and organizations."

As an example of the work now being done for the boys by the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Hervey told of the work now under way in Malden, where the Y. M. C. A. physical director is taking the public school boys in hand and running athletic meets for them to stimulate interest and give the boys a good, sound, healthy body.

In conclusion Mr. Hervey said: "If, as Ruskin says, among national manufactures, the making of souls of good quality stands pre-eminent, then the Y. M. C. A. must take high rank as an institution of national importance."

After the address there was a social hour during which refreshments were served, while the orchestra played.

The Ladies Auxiliary deserves a lot of credit for the earnest way they worked with Mr. Clee in putting this "Parents' Night" through.

Among The WOMEN'S CLUBS

of Quincy and Vicinity.

[A Wednesday Feature.]

By invitation of the Springfield Women's club the annual meeting of the State Federation will be held in Springfield May 19 and 20. The sessions the first day will be held in the High School hall at 3 and at 7.45 P. M., followed by a reception in the Springfield Women's clubhouse. The session May 20 will be held in the Unitarian church. The business of the meetings will be the annual reports of officers and chairmen of standing committees, amendments to the by-laws and the disposition of the surplus funds from the Boston biennial. By courtesy of the hostess club there will be an excursion Thursday, May 20, in the afternoon to the Country club. No luncheon will be provided for either day, but places and prices for procuring luncheon will be announced at Springfield.

The Quincy Women's club held their last meeting of the season on Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse. It will be the annual meetings with monthly and annual reports and the election of officers for two years. The work of the club will not cease during the summer although no regular meetings will be held until fall.

Junior Friday club members and guests were entertained on Monday afternoon at the home of Miss Abigail B. Wood. The club season is about closing. The last meeting being scheduled for the 17th when Mrs. Perry Lawton will entertain the club at a luncheon at her home on Presidents hill.

The Visiting Ten of Unity Circle of King's Daughters is planning to give a Mother Goose Festival at Bethany chapel on the afternoon of May 15, including a concert by the Young American Boys' band, Arthur S. Woson, Jr., leader. Many of the melodies written by L. E. Orth will be sung by children in costumes representing the several characters. Members of the Visiting Ten are greatly indebted to the Philergians of Brainerd, who have kindly presented to them the beautiful stage setting of green trees which was used in the annual club dramatics when Shakespeare's "As You Like It" was given. This splendid background of green will help to make the festival a very attractive stage picture.

The official register and directory of Women's clubs edited and published by Miss Helen M. Winslow, for 1909, besides being a sort of "who's who in clubland" contains information about the General Federation and about State Federations that answer questions every club woman finds it necessary to ask at times. Here and there through the book are pages devoted to the pictures of women most prominent in the club movement that help to make it generally interesting.

Classes in the Arts and Crafts department of the Quincy Women's club are to have an exhibition in their rooms at the clubhouse on Tuesday afternoon.

Wollaston Alliance is holding its annual meeting today in the vestry of the Unitarian church. There will be the routine business, reports and election of officers.

Mother's association meets this afternoon in Bethany chapel for their May meeting. After the June meeting there will be a recess during the summer until October.

Miss Alice Arnold was recently elected a member of the Junior Sons and Daughters of the Revolution of the National and State societies.

The annual meeting of the Child Nature club will be held Monday afternoon May tenth, at half past two with Mrs. H. H. Albee of 188 Warren avenue and will be the last meeting for this season.

Miss Annie V. Lingley of East Orange, N. J., formerly of Newton street Wollaston will be among those whose work in china painting will be displayed at the New Jersey State Federation meeting at Atlantic City this week. At the annual exhibition of the Newark Ceramic Art society recently held the specimens receiving the most favorable notice were set aside and used on a table set with single specimens of the appropriate dishes for a ten course luncheon. This was an honor accepted in lieu of prizes to be among the exhibitors on this table and of Miss Lingley's work was a bon-bon dish and a bread and butter plate and she is much honored in having a bon-bon dish and a bread and milk set of three pieces, pitcher, bowl and plate among the few chosen specimens for the Atlantic City exhibit as she has only been a member of the society since January.

The ladies of the Quincy Catholic club are looking forward to the May dancing party to be held tonight at Music hall. The affair promises to be a social success.

ADAMS CHAPTER D. R.

A well attended meeting Adams Chapter Daughters of the Revolution was held Monday afternoon at the birthplace of President John Adams, the regent presiding and the hostesses being Mrs. Francis Fernald Brewer, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Walter E. Piper.

Mrs. Frank F. Prescott secretary, was elected custodian of the gifts and loans to the old house and chapter; a complete record of past and future gifts to be kept in a separate book for that purpose and to purchase a suitable box to keep valuable papers in. It was voted to allow visiting chapters to make the old house headquarters during pilgrimages to Quincy, for $5.00.

It was decided not to invite visiting Daughters to Quincy during the annual session of the National society in Boston next week.

The marking of the graves of Revolutionary soldiers in Quincy was discussed, Mr. Arthur Newcomb of Quincy Point speaking in the interests of the Sons of the American Revolution, that society being anxious to see the work done in Quincy and thought the two societies could cooperate in doing the work.

The city some ten years ago appropriated $50 for marking the Quincy graves but up to date the markers had not been placed.

Mrs. N. V. Titus explained why the work had not been undertaken the past two years which was owing the ill health of members of Adams Chapter and because the records of names had not been entirely verified. No light being forthcoming as to why the work was not done eight to ten years ago when the city made the appropriation it was voted that the regent appoint a committee to cooperate with the S. A. R. committee.

The chapter was fortunate in having Mrs. Wilson Marsh for the speaker of the afternoon and she gave informal selections from old papers and diaries which proved very interesting.

Mrs. Titus invited the Chapter to hold an outing at Squantum, the invitation being accepted.

During the social hour the hostesses served delicious frappe, sandwiches and cake.

The June meeting will be in Randolph.

QUINCY HIGH LOSES TO EVERETT

Quincy Boys Rather Weak With Stick and Need Practice

Quincy High school opened its home baseball season Tuesday at Morrymount park, going down 7 to 5 before Everett High and the pitching of Rosenthal, the Everett captain, who fanned 18 of the local batters. The game, though interesting at times, was a loosely played contest, "Stan" Bates pitched for Quincy and after the first inning gave a good account of himself, striking out 12 of the visitors.

In the first inning Everett got four runs, Brickley starting the fun with a clean two-bagger to left centre and immediately stealing third. Munroe was safe on error by Howe. Brickley scoring. Three clean singles followed sending two more across the rubber. Rosenthal tallied the fourth run on a hit by Harrison.

This ended the scoring until the fourth when Everett got two runs and Quincy three, making the score Everett 6, Quincy 3.

In this session two hits, a sacrifice and two errors gave Everett its two scores. For Quincy "Billy" Manning got a life on an error by Vanechase and went to second on an error. "Midget" McCarthy, the diminutive short stop followed with a hit that was too hot for the pitcher to handle. Tabb sent Manning over the pan with sharp drive to centre, McCarthy being thrown out trying to make third on the hit. "Rus" Bates was safe on a fielder's choice and then with Tabb worked a double steal, Tabb scoring.

A minute later Rus stole home for the third run of the inning. This ended the fun for this inning as S. Bates and Howe went out by the air route, incidentally twice in succession for each batter.

In the sixth Quincy got two more tallies McCarthy got his second hit of the game. Tabb was safe on a fielder's choice. Then after R. Bates and Galvin had fanned and Stan Bates was safe on an error, Howe knocked a long fly into the centre-fielder's hands. This player made a rank muff and two men scored. Chapman ended the agony by flying out to left field. The only further scoring done was in the ninth, when on two hits, an error and an out at first, Everett got one man over the plate.

For Everett, the pitching of Rosenthal and the playing of Brickley and Harrison were the features. McCarthy, Tabb and Chapman excelled Quincy. Next Friday afternoon at the Park, the Quincy team meets Tufts.

Petitions bearing the names of 297
citizens were presented to the City Council Monday night approving the approval of the Old Colony Street Railway Company operating trolley freight cars on its lines in the city of Quincy.

Of this number 37 names were those of business men in City Square,
showing that it is generally conceded that the trolley freight has ceased to be an experiment and that its worth is fully realized.

It was brought out at the hearing that a package shipped from New York one day could be delivered the following morning.

This is an important factor to consider as by the ordinary method of shipment two or three days would be required for a package to arrive in Quincy from New York.

One of the questions asked at the hearing was in regard to what rates
would be charged. This is of course an important question and one which the citizens are entitled to know something of.

On the other hand however it is fair to presume that the Street Railway Company would make a reasonable rate. They must compete with the existing express companies as well as with the steam railroad and it stands to reason that if their rates are not as low or even lower they can not hope to get much patronage.

It has often been said that competition is the life of trade and it is only by competition that the business men can hope to get any cheaper rates than they now have.

Another matter that was brought out was the limiting of the franchise
to a definite term of years.

Some of the speakers favored this if it is possible under the law but they also said they would favor granting the petition even without a limit. The Railroad Commissioner it is understood do not favor a limited term for the reason that the railway must expend quite a sum in building terminals they should be assured that the approval should not be revoked because of some whim before the trolley freight plan had been thoroughly tried out.

Should the donor prefer, such sum

The Trustees of the Endowment fund,
this now amounts to over $60,000 but a

EXCHANGE OF VIEWS

Commissioners of Various States Discussing the Shellfish Problem

New York, May 5.—States along the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts interested in the preservation and extension of the large and growing shellfish industry are represented at the first convention of the National Shellfish association, which began today its sessions in the New York aquarium.

The purpose of the convention is the exchange of views by the shellfish
commissioners of the various states
who are charged with the preservation of an important source of food supply.
Among the subjects to be discussed is the scientific conservation of the supply of oysters, clams, lobsters,
crabs, crayfish, shrimps, scallops,
terrapin, etc.

The present convention is the outcome of agitation of the subject by James S. Whipple, the state fish and game commissioner, and Charles R.
Bacon, chairman of the New Jersey shellfish commission. The association was organized in this city in the office of B. Frank Wood, state superintendent of marine fisheries. The federal government is represented at the convention by Dr. J. K. Haywood, acting chief of the bureau of chemistry of the department of agriculture.

DEMOCRATS SILENT

Listen to Republican Senators' Arguments on the Tariff

Washington, May 5.—Notable speeches characterized the session of the senate Tuesday. Senator Dilliver made an attack on the methods under which protective tariff bills are formed and engaged in a constant exchange
of words with Senator Aldrich.

On the Democratic side senators remained mute. At times the debate threatened to be acrimonious, but Dilliver was ever ready with a humorous retort when angry words seemed unavoidable.

Senator Borah concluded his speech
on the income tax, delivering an extended legal argument to show that there is ample reason for believing that the supreme court of the United States might reverse itself if the constitutionality of that tax should again
be presented to it.

A strong plea for the extension of the protective tariff system to jute
was made by Senator Bradley.

WHOLESALE FORGER
GIVES GOOD ADVICE

Maxims Which Young Men May Safely Follow

Chicago, May 5.—Four maxims as a guide to young men entering business were given by Peter Van Vlissingen,
the former real estate operator whose gigantic forgeries were recently unfolded. Van Vlissingen is serving a sentence in Joliet prison, but is in Chicago trying to straighten out his books for his creditors. The maxims are:

"Be honest in small things."
"Do not permit your conscience to become calloused."

"Be economical and never risk other people's money, no matter how certain success may seem."

"Once you commit a wrong make restitution immediately, for delay
means ruin, maybe death."

Van Vlissingen said sadly that once he was known as "honest Pete." His first forgery was for $2500.

EDITOR TAKES POISON

Act of Man With Sunny Disposition
Surprises His Friends

Lynn, Mass., May 5.—Charles R.
Cutts, city editor of The Daily Evening Item, took his own life by drinking poison at his home in Swampscott last night. The cause of his act is an entire mystery to his friends. He was a man of sunny, jovial temperament, and yesterday attended to his newspaper duties as usual, seeming to be in his customary good spirits.

Cutts was 37 years old. He was a native of the city and had always lived here. He began work on The Evening Item twenty years ago. His connection with that paper continued
up to the time of his death.

FOUR LIVES LOST

New Haven, May 5.—Driving with terrible force over the upper waters of Long Island Sound and along a part of the Connecticut shore, a severe storm claimed a toll of four lives, sent four barges to the bottom of the sound off Branford, cast one ashore in that vicinity and piled three others on the rocks off Faulkner's Island.

The persons drowned were Captain Marshall A. Percy of the barge Susquehanna, his wife, 11-year-old son,
and a deckhand whose name has not been learned.

this city, charged with embezzling

P. Harris. Carter, it is said, has left town.

MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE

Report of the Jurymen in the Case of Chester Jordan

DELIBERATED NINETEEN HOURS

Prisoner Appears Nervous Only For a Moment as He Hears Fateful Words

And Then Relapses Into Usual Appearance of Unconcern—Defense
Will Have a Month to File Bill of Exceptions

Cambridge, Mass., May 5.—After being out nineteen hours, the jury which had under consideration the case of Chester S. Jordan, charged with murdering his wife, Honora, and dismembering her body, returned a verdict of murder in the first degree.

CHESTER S. JORDAN.

As soon as the jury had been polled,
Clerk of Courts Hurd asked if they had come to an agreement, and being told by Foreman Felton that they had done so, the latter was asked to announce it. "Guilty," said Felton, and in answer to further questioning, he gave the degree of the crime as the first.

Jordan, looking at the foreman,
drew in his lips nervously and then relapsed into his usual appearance of indifference. Jordan's father, his brother and his brother-in-law withdrew from the courtroom.

Judge Bell thanked the jury for the faithful discharge of their duty and urged upon each member of the panel
the desirability of not discussing the matter with anybody outside. Judge Stevens asked Mr. Bartlett, senior counsel for the defense, how long a time he wanted in which to file a bill of exceptions, and upon being told that a month would be sufficient, the court was adjourned without day.

Jordan, still unmoved, was taken to jail.

Upon awakening Tuesday morning
Jordan ate a hearty breakfast, and when told that the jury was still out he said he did not care. His whole appearance was that of unconcern.

A PROFITABLE GATHERING

American Delegates to Woman's Suffrage Congress Well Pleased

London, May 5.—The last function in connection with the congress of the Woman's Suffrage Alliance was a reception by women writers of the suffrage league, the hostesses being Sarah Grant and Beatrice Harraden.

Mrs. Catt, president of the alliance, and Rev. Anna H. Shaw, one of the American delegates, will remain in England until June. Both are enthusiastic over the congress, saying that they never knew of a convention where so much was accomplished in so short a time. The arrangement of a code of international rules of procedure has given special satisfaction to them.

SEVENTY-SEVEN DEATHS

Year's Record of Automobile Victims
In City of New York

New York, May 5.—What is considered the most accurate list yet compiled of persons killed by automobiles in New York city the past twelve months accompanies a petition which is being circulated urging Governor Hughes to veto a bill passed recently by the legislature which removes the fixed speed limit for motor vehicles.

The list contains seventy-seven names in all, nearly a third of which are children of 10 years or under,
while about one-fifth of the remainder are of persons of more than 60 years of age.

Cabinet Discusses "Victory"
Washington, May 5.—The "commodities clause" decision of the supreme court, which has been characterized as a "left-handed" victory for the government, came up for discussion at the regular semi-weekly meeting of the cabinet, but no determination as to the government's future
course in the matter was reached.

Grain Broker a Suicide
Boston, May 5.—Edward E. Vinal,
a grain broker and for many years a member of the chamber of commerce, committed suicide at his home by shooting with a revolver. Melancholia is ascribed as the cause of the act.
Vinal was 43 years old.

AGITATORS SUSPENDED

French Premier Will Not Tolerate
Strike of State Employees

Paris, May 5.—Premier Clemenceau apparently has taken the bit in his teeth and decided to test the power of the government to put down the present "syndicalist" movement so far as it affects state employees, even if this involves the precipitation of the threatened general strike.

He proclaimed the government's intention not to tolerate the right of its servants to strike, and then he began to elaborate preparations to meet a possible general strike.

Then suddenly the suspension of the chief agitators began. The agitators retaliated by threatening a new strike with the support of the General Federation of Labor.

WILL PROMOTE MORALITY

Measures Tending to Suppress Obscenity Signed by Governor Hughes

Albany, May 5.—Governor Hughes
last night signed a bill which makes it a misdemeanor to advertise or present an obscene, immoral or impure drama, play, exhibition, show or entertainment which would tend to the corruption of youth or others.

A companion measure, also signed by the governor, makes it a misdemeanor to post or display any indecent bill or picture, or permit the same to be displayed, which would tend to demoralize the morals of the public.

A Mile In Fifty-Six Seconds

Montgomery, Ala., May 5.—Louis Chevrolet of the Buick team drove an exhibition mile in 56 seconds with a 30-horsepower car at the Montgomery Automobile association meet. He also easily won the 100-mile race in 126
minutes.

An Indiana Phenomenon

Silver Lake, Ind., May 5.—A hitherto unknown subterranean lake broke out near here and submerged the highway to a depth of twenty feet and for a distance of more than 100 yards.
The lake is full of eyeless fish.

COMMODITIES DECISION

Many Public Men Believe That It Will Legalize Mergers

Washington, May 5.—That the government is likely to lose its case in the federal courts at Salt Lake City
for the dissolution of the Union
Southern Pacific merger, and that the Standard Oil company may be sustained as legal and regular, are two of the things strongly foreshadowed,
in the opinion of many public men,
by the commodities clause decision handed down Monday.

Lawyers have in some cases ventured the confident opinion that the holding company plan is sustained in a broad way by the commodities case decision. They look upon the Union Pacific as distinctly a holding company, as is also the Standard Oil company.

Therefore they are strongly disposed to the opinion that the government will find the commodities case decision quoted against it when these two cases reach the supreme court
and with the most telling effect.

ABOLISHMENT OF WAR

It is Further Discussed by Delegates to Peace Conference

Chicago, May 5.—Having viewed
the present aspect of the peace movement from various standpoints, including those of the politician, the business man and the educator, delegates to the second national peace congress last night considered plans for the future.

Edwin Glinn of Boston outlined a systematic campaign of education for peace, for in education the militant peace-makers base their hopes of universal abolishment of war.

Congressman Bartholdt of Missouri referred with sarcastic emphasis to the inconsistency of a race of people that insisted that the individual should settle his differences by peaceful means in the courts, while nations were left to refer their own squabbles to war.

Aged Woman Breaks Down Un-

Flushing, N. Y., May 5.—Mrs.
Virginia J. Hains, the aged mother of the defendant, concluded her testimony after a trying and pathetic ordeal on the stand in an effort to save her son, Peter C. Hains, Jr., on trial for the murder of William E. Aunts.

Mrs. Hains broke down and sobbed convulsively throughout her direct examination and when District Attorney DeWitt started his cross-examination
the strain proved too much for her.
She sank into the witness chair and sobbed bitterly. At this point DeWitt promptly announced that he had concluded the cross-examination and she was taken from the court room.

Both the defense and the prosecution were as gentle as possible with Mrs. Hains, and when she was admonished to refrain from interjecting her own impressions into the testimony
and confine herself strictly to answering questions she pleaded with the court to let her tell everything "for the sake of her boy," and it required
all the persuasive power of Justice Garretson and Counsel McIntyre to quiet her.

Attacked by Strikers

New York, May 5.—With sporadic
rioting unabated, the strike of 1500
bakers on the East Side and in Har-hope of a settlement. There were frequent attacks on shops employing non-union men and many clashes between strikers and strike breakers.

No one was seriously injured, however.

Thirty-five shops on the East Side have shut down for lack of men, and the unionists announce that several master bakers have agreed to the union terms, which fix a minimum wage scale and provide for improved sanitary conditions.

Two gasoline launches, manned by marines with a machine gun, under direction of Marshal Shoup, went from Sitka to the Kalsen. The Kalsen tried to escape but was overhauled.

The Japanese say their vessel ran toward shore for shelter from a storm.
They admit sealing. All the Japane-

POLLY
of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

Here is a circus romance red-olent of the fresh sawdust of the ring, vibrant with the incessant clamor of the band, panoramic in its ever moving display of clowns, acrobats, horses and captive wild animals. You will read of Polly, the daughter of the circus, and of Bingo, on whose broad back she rode; of the "leap of death" girl; of "Maver Jim," the boss canvasman, and Toby, the clown, who loved the circus orphan and cared for her like father and mother; of Deacon Strong, who hated a circus, and of Rev. John Douglas, who grew to love a circus girl. You will read of gossip that threatened to divide a pastor and his flock, of Ruth and Naomi, of a show girl's renunciation and of Polly's first and last ride on Barbarian, the circus horse.

CHAPTER I.

THE band of the "Great American Circus" was playing noisily. The performance was in full swing.

Beside a shabby trunk in the women's dressing tent sat a young, wistful faced girl, chin in hand, unheeding the chatter of the women about her or the picturesque disarray of the surrounding objects. Her eyes had been so long accustomed to the glitter and tinsel of circus flurries that she saw nothing unusual in a picture that might have held a painter spellbound.

Circling the inside of the tent and forming a double line down the center were partially unpacked trunks belching forth impudent masses of satins, laces, artificial hair, paper flowers and paste jewels. The scent of moist earth mingled oddly with the perfumed odors of the garments heaped on the grass. Here and there high circles of lights threw a strong, steady glare upon the half clad figure of a robust acrobat or the thin, drooping shoulders of a less stalwart sister. Temporary ropes stretched from one pole to another were laden with bright colored stockings, gaudy, spangled gowns or dusty street clothes discarded by the performers before slipping into their circus attire. There were no nails or hooks, so hats and veils were pinned to the canvas walls.

The furniture was limited to one camp chair in front of each trunk, the till of which served as a tray for the paints, powders and other essentials of makeup. A pall of water stood by the side of each chair, so that the performers

A few nights later the newcomer allowed herself to be strapped into the cumbersome "leap of death" machine which hurled itself through space at each performance and flung itself down with force enough to break the neck of any unskilled rider. Courage and steady nerve were the requisites for the job, as the manager had said, but any physician would have told him that only a trained acrobat could long endure the nervous strain, the muscular tension and the physical rack of such an ordeal.

What matter? The few dollars earned in this way would mean a great deal to the mother whom the girl's marriage had left desolate. Polly had looked on hungrily the night that the mother had taken the daughter in her arms to say farewell in the little country town where the circus had played before her marriage. She could remember no woman's arms about her, for it was fourteen years since tender hands had carried her mother from the performers' tent into the moonlit lot to die. The baby was so used to seeing "mumst" throw her self wearily on the ground after coming out of the "big top" exhausted that she crept to the woman's side, as usual, that night and gazed laughingly into the sightless eyes, gurgling and prattling and stroking the unresponsive face. There were tears from those who watched, but no word was spoken.

Clown Toby and the big "boss canvasman" Jim had always taken turns amusing and guarding little Polly while her mother rode in the ring. So Toby now carried the babe to another side of the lot, and Jim bore the lifeless body of the mother to the distant ticket wagon, now closed for the night, and laid it upon the seller's cot.

"It's allus like this in the end," he murmured as he drew a piece of canvas over the white face and turned away to give orders to the men who were beginning to load the "props" used earlier in the performance.

When the show moved on that night it was Jim's strong arms that lifted the mite of a Polly close to his stalwart heart and climbed with her to the high seat on the head wagon. Uncle Toby was intrusted with the brown satchel in which the mother had always carried Polly's scanty wardrobe. It seemed to these two men that the eyes of the woman were fixed steadily upon them.

"What do you think about it, Polly?" asked a handsome brunette as she surveyed herself in the costume of a Roman character.

"About what?" asked Polly vacantly.

"Leave Polly alone!" She's in one of her trances!" called a motherly, good natured woman whose trunk stood next to Polly's and whose business was to support a son and three daughters upon stalwart shoulders, both figuratively and literally.

"Well, I ain't in any trance," answered the dark girl, "and I think it's pretty tough for him to take up with a rank outsider and expect us to warm up to her as though he'd married one of our own folks." She tossed her head, the pride of class distinction welling high in her ample bosom.

"He ain't askin' us to warm up to her," contradicted Miss Eloise, a pale, light haired sprite, who had arrived late and was making undignified efforts to get out of her clothes by way of her head. She was Polly's understudy and next in line for the star place in the bill.

"Well, Barker has put her into the 'leap of death' stunt, ain't he?" continued the brunette. "Course that ain't a regular circus act," she added, somewhat mollified, "and so far she's had to dress with the freaks, but the next thing we know he'll be ringin' her in on a regular stunt and be puttin' her in to dress with us."

"No danger of that," sneered the blond. "Barker is too old a stager to mix up his sheep and his goats."

Polly had again lost the thread of the conversation. Her mind had gone roving to the night when the frightened girl about whom they were talking had made her first appearance in the circus lot, clinging timidly to the hand of the man who had just made her his wife. Her eyes had met Polly's with a look of appeal that had gone straight to the child's simple heart.

A few nights later the newcomer allowed herself to be strapped into the cumbersome "leap of death" machine which hurled itself through space at each performance and flung itself down with force enough to break the neck of any unskilled rider. Courage and steady nerve were the requisites for the job, as the manager had said, but any physician would have told him that only a trained acrobat could long endure the nervous strain, the muscular tension and the physical rack of such an ordeal.

What matter? The few dollars earned in this way would mean a great deal to the mother whom the girl's marriage had left desolate. Polly had looked on hungrily the night that the mother had taken the daughter in her arms to say farewell in the little country town where the circus had played before her marriage. She could remember no woman's arms about her, for it was fourteen years since tender hands had carried her mother from the performers' tent into the moonlit lot to die. The baby was so used to seeing "mumst" throw her self wearily on the ground after coming out of the "big top" exhausted that she crept to the woman's side, as usual, that night and gazed laughingly into the sightless eyes, gurgling and prattling and stroking the unresponsive face. There were tears from those who watched, but no word was spoken.

Clown Toby and the big "boss canvasman" Jim had always taken turns amusing and guarding little Polly while her mother rode in the ring. So Toby now carried the babe to another side of the lot, and Jim bore the lifeless body of the mother to the distant ticket wagon, now closed for the night, and laid it upon the seller's cot.

"It's allus like this in the end," he murmured as he drew a piece of canvas over the white face and turned away to give orders to the men who were beginning to load the "props" used earlier in the performance.

When the show moved on that night it was Jim's strong arms that lifted the mite of a Polly close to his stalwart heart and climbed with her to the high seat on the head wagon. Uncle Toby was intrusted with the brown satchel in which the mother had always carried Polly's scanty wardrobe. It seemed to these two men that the eyes of the woman were fixed steadily upon them.

Barker, the manager, a large, noisy, good natured fellow, at first mumbled something about the kid being "excess baggage," but his objections were only half hearted, for, like the others, he was already under the hypnotic spell of the baby's round, confiding eyes, and he eventually contented himself with an occasional reprimand to Toby, who was now sometimes late on his cues. Polly wondered at these times why the old man's stories were so suddenly cut short just as she was to "comfy" in the soft grass at his feet. The boys who used to look sharp because of their boss at loading time now learned that they might loiter so long at "Maver Jim" was "blinky" it found for the kid. It was Polly who had dubbed big Jim "Maver," and the sobriquet had stuck to him in spite of his six feet two and shoulders that an athlete might have envied. Little by little Toby grew more stooped, and small lines of anxiety crept into the brownish circles beneath Jim's eyes, the lips that had once shut so firmly became tender and tremulous, but neither of the men would willingly have gone back to the old emptiness.

It was a red letter day in the circus when Polly first managed to climb up on the pole of an unhitched wagon and from there to the back of a friendly Shetland pony. Jim and Toby had been "neglectin' her education," they declared, and from that time on the blood of Polly's ancestors was given full encouragement.

Barker was quick to grasp the advantage of adding the kid to the daily parade. She made her first appearance in the streets upon something very like a Newfoundland dog, guarded from the rear by Jim and from the fore by a white faced clown who was thought to be all the family because he twisted his neck so much.

From the street parade to Polly's first appearance in the big top had seemed a short while to Jim and Toby. They were proud to see her circling the ring in bright colors and to hear the cheers of the people, but a sense of loss was upon them.

"I always said she'd do it!" cried Barker, who now took upon himself the credit of Polly's triumph.

And what a triumph it was! Polly danced as serenely on Bingo's back as she might have done on the concert boards. She swayed gracefully with the music. Her tiny sandals twinkled as she stood first upon one foot and then upon the other.

Uncle Toby forgot to use many of his tricks that night, and Jim left the loading of the wagons to take care of itself while he hovered near the entrance, anxious and breathless. The performers crowded around the girl with outstretched hands and congratulations as she came out of the ring to cheers and applause.

But "Big Jim" stood apart. He was thinking of the buttons that his clumsy fingers used to force into the stiff, starched holes too small for them and of the pigtail so stubborn at the ends, and Toby was remembering the little shoes that had once needed to be laced in the cold, dark mornings and the strings that were always snapping.

Something had gone wrong. They were not philosophers to reason, like Emerson, that for everything we lose we gain something. They were simple souls, these two; they could only feel.

CHAPTER II.

WHILE Polly sat in the dressing tent listening indifferently to the chatter about the "leap of death" girl, Jim waited in a lot outside, opening and shutting a small leather bag which he had bought for her that day. He was as blind to the picturesque outdoor life as she, too, had been with the circus since his earliest recollection.

The circus inclosure where he waited was shut in by a circle of tents and wagons. The great red property vans were waiting to be loaded with the costumes and tackle which were constantly being brought from the big top, where the evening performance was now going on. The gay striped curtains at the rear of the tent were looped back to give air to the panting musicians, who sat just inside. Through the opening a glimpse of the audience might be had, for upon tier, fanning and shifting uneasily. Near the main tent stood the long, low dressing top, with the women performers stowed away in one end, the ring horses in the center and the men performers in the other end.

BRIEFS

The degree team of the Foresters of America hold a dance at South Quincy tonight.

Joseph W. Dennen has been making some needed improvements to his restaurant in City Square.

"Tara" a star of the cast, a five act entertainment, will be given tonight in the Bethany chapel.

Another crowd of the Salem's jacks were given a six days' leave of absence today.

Mr. Joseph Baraja-Frauenfelder is unable to assist at the Arthur Foote concert on Saturday afternoon as announced.

On the third page of this issue will be found the opening chapter of a serial story which is to run Wednesday and Saturdays.

A typewriter has been added to the equipment at the police station. Sergt. Barry will hereafter write his letters by this method.

All of the assistant Assessors have been appointed constables, giving them a little authority that will be of assistance in their work.

Wire screens have been placed over the windows at the Adams Academy to keep the boys from smashing the windows.

The Board of Trade will discuss industries at its meeting tonight. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

The ladies and gentlemen who are to give the comic opera Mikado for the Knights of Columbus next week, held a full rehearsal Tuesday evening at Colonial hall.

The Young Men's class of the Washington Street Congregational church will present "The Striped Sweater" tomorrow night in the vestry.

The Washington Social club held its regular cribbage party Tuesday evening in the clubhouse on Washington street. William Caldwell and Fred Spencer won the prizes.

The Copeland club of West Quincy will give "The House of Too Much Trouble" tomorrow night in St. Mary's hall. Andrew J. Dinegan has been coaching the characters and will take a prominent part himself.

The Makaria team will play the Boston Y. M. C. A. nine at Merry-mount park Saturday. Great rivalry exists between the two clubs and a hot game is expected.

The degree team of Abigail Adams court, Foresters of America, will give an exhibition drill tonight in Hibernian hall. After the drill there will be dancing.

"Tara," which is to be given in Bethany chapel this evening, is a five act entertainment, three of the scenes laid in India, with a cast of twelve in native "saris" and surrounded by local coloring. "Tara" is the story of an India woman and is full of dramatic situations.

Washington street, near the head of Coddington street is a great feeding place for teamsters. Nearly every noon of late a dozen or more teams can be seen there feeding their horses. The oats scattered on the ground are quickly gathered up by the pigeons.

PROMINENT CITIZENS
GET APPOINTMENTS

To Represent City at National Irrigation Congress at Spokane

Every Mayor that Quincy ever had, or probably ever will have has had scores of more applications for appointments to positions than there are positions to fill. It often happens that these applications come from personal friends and it is hard to give them the cold shoulder and say there is nothing.

So it is with the present executive and he has on his desk at City Hall one particular pigeon hole where these applications are filed.

When a vacancy occurs or there is occasion to have citizens for any particular purpose out comes the bundle of applications and the names are selected.

So it happened last week that there was a position to fill and the appointment to these positions were given to two prominent City Square business men.

The position in question was that of delegates to the seventeenth National Irrigation Congress to be held at Spokane, Washington, Aug. 9 to 14.

Charles C. Hearn and Frank S. Patch are the two citizens the Mayor has selected to represent him at this congress and they were very enthusiastic over it until it was learned that the contingent fund of the city was dry and that they would have to draw on their own private bank account if they accepted.

It is doubtful therefore if they are accepted, but whether they are or not the Mayor has the satisfaction of reducing his bunch of applications for positions by two.

SALEM'S REPAIRS.

Fore River Co. Will Bear Expense of the Work Necessary.

A Boston paper states that the repairs on the cruiser Salem's turbines will cost $10,000 and that there was a controversy as to whether the government or the Fore River Co. should pay the bill. It was stated by an official of the Fore River Co., however that there is no question as to the matter.

The company desired for its own interests to learn the cause of the trouble and volunteered to take the engines apart. There will be no dispute over the payment of the bill.

MAY BREAKFAST
FRAGMENT SOCIETY

Ladies Serve Appetizing Menu of Salads and Cold Meats

Many business men of City Square as well as ladies enjoyed the May breakfast served this noon at the First church chapel by the Fragment society. The hours of the breakfast were from 12 to 5 o'clock although the larger number reported between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock.

The menu served was a tempting one and as the several dishes were prepared by ladies who were thoroughly familiar with the culinary art it is hardly necessary to say that everything served was excellent.

The several dishes on the menu were lobster, chicken, egg, potato and fruit salads, hot macaroni, cold ham and chicken, coffee, rolls, ice cream and cake.

Individual tables were arranged in the main chapel while larger tables were set in the basement.

There was also a table for the sale of aprons in charge of Mrs. Thomas Fenn and a candy table in charge of members of the Junior Alliance.

Mrs. Mary Tisdale was chairman of committee having the breakfast in charge. She was assisted by Mrs. Helen Bass, Mrs. Edward Marsh, Mrs. J. L. Gow, Mrs. R. L. Lovell, Miss Lucy Spear, Mrs. Henry Wright, Mrs. Osborne Rogers, Mrs. Frank Flint, Mrs. John Holden, Miss Belle Nightingale, Miss Flora Underwood and Mrs. Warren Anderson.

SHERWIN WILLIAMS
PAINTS & VARNISHES

An appeal to the pride of the owner of a home

Everyone who owns a home is anxious that that home shall make the best appearance possible. Two things are necessary to produce satisfactory results in painting and varnishing a home:

First—A satisfactory color scheme.

Second—Paints, varnishes, stains and enamels of such good quality that they not only give the exact color effect required, but are sufficiently durable to keep up the attractive appearance of the house in spite of the wear and tear of living in it.

These are offered by the Sherwin Williams Paints and Varnishes. The Sherwin-Williams Co. not only make every kind of paint and varnish used for a house and the best quality of that kind, but they make suggestions for the selection of colors, varnishes, stains and enamels, so that any given idea can be carried out, and carried out with the best materials.

WOLLASTON YACHT CLUB.

At a special meeting of the Wollaston Yacht club held at the clubhouse on Tuesday evening, Mr. Louis E. Crosscup was elected vice-commander. After the election an informal smoke talk was held during which Capt. Josiah A. Penno presented to the club an old heirloom in the shape of a model of the once famous yacht of John Quincy Adams. This yacht was built at Quincy in 1855.

Mr. Frank F. Crane delivered an interesting talk on our inland water ways and Lieutenant Ferguson, U. S. N., on the cruise of the fleet around the world.

After the adjournment of the smoker, the executive committee held a meeting at which the Rev. Carl G. Horst was made an honorary member during his pastorate of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The following regatta committee was elected: George H. Stebbins, H. K. Ellis, George S. Lhennan and R. C. Crocker.

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSS IMPORTANT MATTERS

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of the Board of Trade was held Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served and altogether it was a very interesting meeting. President Richards presided.

Among communications was one from the Immigration Congress asking the Board of Trade to send delegates to Spokane where the convention is to be held in August.

Upon motion of F. F. Crane it was voted that it is with regret that the Quincy Board of Trade learns of the contemplated change of residence of E. B. Mellen of the Brockton Board of Trade, and wish here to express their appreciation of all his efforts to bring the City of Quincy into prominence as a port at the entrance of the New York, Boston and Brockton Canal and hope that his trip to California will be one of pleasure. That he will decide to return to this section of the country for his permanent residence.

PUBLIC LANDING.

Mr. Crane also spoke of the petition for public landing at Bent's Creek. C. Foster said he hoped one would not be located there as it would interfere with the future plans of the Port River Ship Company. E. R. Stone also spoke in a similar vein.

Mr. Crane thought it would be very inconvenient for launches or sail boats to have to pass through the draw to get at a public landing. The committee had made some investigations and deemed Bent's Creek to be the worst possible location.

Mr. Foster thought that the city's playground at the point, with a little dredging would make an ideal place. As the bath house has to have an attendant that would make it easier financially for the city. There is also deep water up to within a short distance of that place.

Mr. Whitman thought it would impede passenger service.

Mr. Foster wanted to know what will be the use of abolishing grade crossings and then allow freight trains to pass through our streets.

President Richards thought we should keep up with the rest of the world. Thought it might be a good thing for the people in general, but thought the city should be compensated for the franchise.

MAY DANCING PARTY OF CATHOLIC CLUB

MAY POLE DANCE AND OTHER FEATURES INTRODUCED

A social success in every way was the May dancing party of the Quincy Catholic club, Wednesday evening at Music hall. The party was very large, attended and many fetching gowns were worn by the ladies. While the dancing there were many others who enjoyed the pretty scene from the balcony. Among these were Rev. J. J. Coan, Rev. William Duffy and Rev. W. T. Deasy of Randolph.

Several novel and unique features were introduced, chief among which was a May pole dance, with which the party opened. In the center of the hall was a tall pole, from which hung long streamers of pink, green, white, yellow and blue ribbons, about which the May pole dance was given.

Cuff's orchestra furnished the musical accompaniment and as the first strains of "The New Arrival" march sounded the four guards, Miss Annie Blacklock, Miss Mildred Igo, Miss Margaret Gill and Miss Evelyn Kelley, marched in and with long streamers marked the four sides of a square within which the dance was held. Then sixteen young ladies came dancing in from one of the side rooms and formed about the pole. These young ladies were Miss Angela McCarthy, Miss Louise Dunn, Miss Helen Coughlin, Miss Gertrude Crowley, Miss Marguerite McCarthy, Miss Elizabeth Powers, Miss Alice Harkins, Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Elizabeth Elcock, Miss Zorine McDonald, Miss Ethel Elcock, Miss Julia Roche, Miss Marguerite C. Gavin, Miss Helena Moynahan, Miss Katherine McDonald and Miss Catherine Larkin.

Keeping in perfect time and step, with the music, the young ladies danced about the pole, then in pairs they made a double braid which was followed by a cross dance and then a single braid. The whole being executed in a manner that drew from the spectators well deserved applause.

Much of the credit for the execution of the May pole dance was due to Miss Georgiana C. Lane who trained the young ladies.

This over the dance proper was inaugurated with a waltz german which was led off by Charles C. Hearn, the floor director, with Miss Mary L. Gavin, the president of the club.

General dancing was then in order until midnight.

The ladies of the club were distinguished by yellow paper sunshades, and the floor director and aids wore silk sashes, of the club colors, white and yellow across the breast.

The programs were passed by Miss Emily Dinegan, Miss Esther Dasha, Miss Carmel Brogan, Miss Alice Maloney and Miss Clara Brown. These young ladies also served at the punch bowl.

Charles C. Hearn was the floor director and Leo J. McMaster, the assistant. They were assisted by the following aids: W. L. Russell, E. J. Barrett, J. A. Dasha, J. J. McAnarney, G. B. Gavin, L. W. Lyons, E. J. Murphy, J. J. Deasy, T. J. Dunphy, R. E. McDonnell, D. J. Deasy, Joseph Harkins, T. J. O'Connell, T. J. Carey, J. W. Walsh, W. E. Elcock, E. L. Dean.

The party was patronized by Hon. William T. Shea, Dr. J. P. Murphy, John W. McAnarney, Michael T. Sullivan, Thomas H. McDonnell, Robert E. Foy, Henry McGrath, John Heaney, John H. Dinegan, John Lyons, Eugene W. O'Connor, John Mahon, Dr. George M. Sheahan, John O'Hare, Edward J. Parker, Joseph D. Griffin, Dr. Daniel B. Reardon, Michael J. Walsh, Dr. James H. Maloney, Maurice P. Spillane, Dr. C. J. Lynch, P. F. Talbot, Frank F. O'Reilly, G. B. Powers, E. J. Fegan, Timothy J. Collins.

BILLIKEN CLUB.

The Billiken club held its meeting with Miss Georgiana Priest on Tuesday evening. Quite an interesting and laughable game was played in the first part of the evening and Miss Ardella Barker was fortunate enough to win the prize for the same. Two empty egg shells were placed on the floor and fanned by two girls to see whose shell would reach the other end of the room first. By two every girl had a chance, the shells however had a direction of their own and refused to respond directly to the fanning. Musical numbers and refreshments were enjoyed until ten-thirty. This meeting concluded the first series and will start again next Tuesday evening with the President, Miss Martha Jenkins.

It is announced that the general staff of the War Department has under consideration the authorization of a campaign badge for those who served in the army of Cuban pacification between October 6, 1906, and April 1, 1909. As similar decorations have been conferred for the various other campaigns through which our army has gone, it is but fair that such a badge or medal should be issued.

Unofficial information reaching Washington in regard to the recent cruise of the monitor Cheyenne, equipped with oil-burning apparatus, is gratifying to those who advocate the use of oil fuel on naval vessels. This vessel was able to make higher rate of speed than with coal, and her steaming radius was about 800 miles greater with oil than with coal.

President Taft is going about the conservation of the nation's water power in the right way. In the first place he has assigned to the Geological Survey, who has men in its service well qualified for the work, the task of finding out how much there is to conserve and in what parts of the country it is located. And the next point on which Mr. Taft will speak enlightenment is the existence of statutes under which the federal government is given the necessary authority to exercise special guardianship. The country will entirely approve of the President's desire to see his way clear before acting in this matter and will rest secure in the belief that he is upholding the Roosevelt policies in principle, though his methods of going about a thing are so diametrically opposed to those of his predecessor.

President Taft's decision that the present form of government of the District of Columbia should be changed will meet with the approval of all who have the interests of Washington at heart. It is considered not unlikely that Mr. Taft will advocate the same policy for the District that Mr. Roosevelt approved, the abolishing of the three commissioners and placing at the head of the District a governor or mayor on whom shall rest the entire responsibility for the local administration. The benefits which would accrue to the District of Columbia under a one-man rule have been recognized not only by the leading citizens of Washington, but also by a large majority of the members of the Senate and the House, as well as by President Roosevelt. It is understood that President Taft has not definitely decided on just what recommendations on this subject he will make to Congress, but it is known that he has gone into the situation thoroughly and will submit to Congress at the beginning of the next regular session recommendations for the reform of the District system, a system which has given great dissatisfaction to all concerned for a long time.

At the public hearing before the City Council Monday evening on the Old Colony Street Railway Co.'s petition for the right to carry freight and express, no tangible opposition appeared. On the other hand a strong favorable sentiment was manifested. In addition to the words of those who spoke in its favor, two strong petitions bearing the names of the great majority of the merchants and the employees of the Fore River Engine Co. were presented. As the Ledger has maintained the general sentiment of the people of Quincy who wish it to have the advantage of every possible modern improvement that it may develop and progress as it should, is that this franchise be granted and that the sooner the city can place itself in a position to reap the benefits which other cities are deriving from this excellent service the better.

In the line of the conservation of the interests of the city in the control of this franchise two points have been raised, as to the rates to be charged by the company and as to whether the franchise is to be limited or unlimited. In all such matters it is wisdom and displays a proper attitude of public spirit and city patriotism to carefully consider points of this kind when rights are asked for by a public service corporation. Nevertheless the consideration should be broad minded, not small and finicky. While the interests of the city should be fully guarded we should not go too far and unfairly hedge around with restrictions anyone who has something to offer which will benefit the city, even though the corporation or individual may also receive benefit.

In this particular matter it is right to ask that the company give, so far as it is able, an idea of what it will charge for rates, perhaps, but it is not fair to ask that it bind itself to any rates for a term of years. No merchant of Quincy would care to bind himself to sell certain goods of the same grade five or ten years from now at the same price for which he is now selling them. It is a self-evident truth and a plain business principle that if the company does not give a better express service than the city now enjoys, at a rate that is satisfactory, it cannot expect and will not get, the business. Furthermore the Railroad Commissioners now have jurisdiction over trolley express rates in the same way that they have over street railway fares, and should the rates charged be unsatisfactory the people have the same right of appeal to this board. This would apparently cover this question.

As to the limitation of the franchise to a term of years, it is fair to assume that this company, like any private concern or individual, would not care to invest a great amount of money in expensive equipment necessary to give the people the very best service possible if it had no way of knowing but that, at the expiration of the given period, it might be compelled to cease business and its equipment be of no value save as old junk.

It would seem that, with the right of termination of the franchise for cause at any time, vested in the City Council in conjunction with the Railroad Commissioners, the city would be perfectly safe. In any event this city should not be deprived of this service which has in other places proven of such undoubted public value.

CRIME ON DECREASE.

Report of Probation Officer For April Shows Less Cases Than a Year Ago.

Probation Officer, Francis A. Spear, reports the total number of criminal cases before the district court in April to have been 117. This is quite a decrease from the corresponding month in previous years. There were 186 cases in April of 1905 and 1906 but since then the number has been falling off.

In 1907 it had fallen to 148 and in 1908 to 125, while that of this year as stated above was but 117.

Of the April cases, 49 were for drunkenness, 8 for larceny, 7 for assault and 6 for automobile speeding. The balance of the cases were for various offenses.

TOO MANY CHILDREN.

In a sermon on "Boston's Boy and Girl Problem" at the First Parish church, West Roxbury, recently Rev. E. S. Meredith criticized ex-President Roosevelt and President Eliot for their attitude toward "Race Suicide." He said that it was the most unfortunate agitation of the last decade. "We are now so swamped with children that thousands receive less care than blooded horses, fancy cattle and prize dogs," he said. "We are wantonly sacrificing quality for quantity. Orphanages and institutions for the care of delinquent, defective or dependent children are all overcrowded. We complain of the inefficiency of the public school, when even in the suburbs we crowd from forty to sixty children in one room under the instruction of one teacher."

"Our population has been doubling every twenty-five years. If this continues, in less than a hundred years we shall have a billion people, with conditions such as now menace China and India. One million married women are now working in this country to help their husbands support themselves and their children."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

—Boston is doing something in the way of making it profitable for the dry goods dealers of New England to do their trading in that city. Recently a thousand dealers and jobbers from all the northern section were there as guests of the local members of the New England Dry Goods Association. This was in imitation of the annual or semi-annual enterprise of the New York wholesalers, who attract buyers from all over the country and from Canada. Boston is big enough to do a large business in that line and it is the natural source of supply for all the textiles needed in this corner of the nation. The more business it can do the better for all concerned.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

FIGHT TO BRING ABOUT PEACE

Grant Says It Shows That Soldiers Are Peace Lovers

PATRIOTISM CAN PREVENT WAR

Good Navy and Good Army Far More Essential Than "Speeches of Well-Fed Delegates"—Resolution Asking For Recognition of Socialist Movement Causes Somewhat of a Flurry at Chicago Congress

Chicago, May 6.—Major General Frederick D. Grant, commander of the department of the lakes of the United States army, appeared unexpectedly last night at the Association of Chicago Commerce banquet, which would have been the third day's gathering of the second national peace congress, and attacked the theories which had been carefully outlined by the various speakers of the evening concerning world peace.

"A good navy and a good army can do more to bring about peace than all the speeches of well-fed delegates," said Grant. "The soldier is the peace-lover. We love peace so much that when we are in trouble we fight to bring it about."

"If nations are prepared to defend themselves and stand firmly and a war is going to cost more than it is going to return, I think that the patriotism of the people will prevent war."

The only fireworks of the congress were set off at the business session presided over by Justice Moore of the supreme court of Michigan. Judge Brown read the resolutions as prepared by the committee appointed for the purpose. He moved their adoption, and was seconded by W. H. Galvani, representing the governor of Oregon.

Scarcely had the Oregonian taken his seat when A. H. Simon, of a Chicago Socialist daily newspaper, was his feet with a resolution which jarred the meeting. Simon alluded to the "exploitation of labor and the impoverishment of those who toil," declared that "the causes of war lie deep in the industrial and economic life of the nations, and closed as follows:

"Resolved, That this congress recognize in the international political organization of the working class, the international socialist movement with its 470 representatives in the national parliaments of the world, its thousands of officials in lesser legislative bodies, its nine millions of voters, and its multiplied millions of affiliated labor organizations—all openly and avowedly committed to uncompromising opposition to militarism and capitalist wars, the greatest peace force in the world."

Mr. Simon having finished, Miss Mary J. Pierson rose to speak but was interrupted by Rev. J. L. Jones on a point of order. Further parliamentary clouds obscured procedure when Samuel L. Hartman asked that the report of the committee on resolutions be read again.

Chairman Moore denied this request. Meanwhile cries of "Question, question!" rang through the hall, and the chairman, sustaining Jones' point of order, put the regular platform to a vote. A chorus of "yeas" carried it unanimously and left Simon's resolutions up for disposal.

Delegate Iglehart then moved to table the Simon resolutions. A viva voce vote apparently resulted in the defeat of the motion to table. A second test by this method apparently had the same result.

"We'll have a standing vote," shouted Chairman Moore above the hubbub. This vote showed the noisy capabilities of the minority, for it showed 2 to 1 in favor of tabling. This closed the business session and the delivery of addresses followed.

TO SECURE A PARDON

Prisoner Plotted to Kidnap Son of Governor of California

Oakland, Cal., May 6.—A plot to kidnap the 8-year-old son of Governor Gillett was unearthed at San Quentin prison when it was found that J. B. Clifton, a notorious criminal who is serving time for attempting the life of Detective Hodgins of Oakland, had completed arrangements with a confederate on the outside to steal the boy and hold him for a ransom.

The price of the lad's return to his father was to have been Clifton's pardon.

Decorations For Americans
Washington, May 6.—On eighteen United States naval officers who were on board the flagship Maine and the gunboat Dolphin in Venezuelan waters during the arrangement for the resumption of diplomatic relations between that country and the United States, the Venezuelan government has conferred the decoration of the Order of the Bust of Bolivar.

The Record Lion Hunter
Nairobi, May 6.—Theodore Roosevelt went lion hunting again and two more lions fell before his gun. Roosevelt now holds the record for lion-killing in the protectorate. Since Saturday of last week a total of five lions and one lioness have been bagged by him.

Electrician Awarded the Largest Verdict in Middlesex Records

Cambridge, Mass., May 6.—William F. Grebenstein of Somerville was awarded a verdict of $30,000, the largest ever granted in Middlesex county in a damage suit.

Grebenstein, who sued Stone & Webster, had one of his eyes destroyed and the other badly injured while working at his trade as an electrician in a power house of the Boston Elevated Street Railway company. He was in the employ of the defendants at the time of his injury. The verdict was for the full amount of the damages claimed.

Grebenstein claimed that he was ordered to work upon a cable which he was told was dead, but which proved to be alive and that as a result he was injured.

CHEATED THE GOVERNMENT

Grand Army Man Drew Pension He Was Not Entitled To

New York, May 6.—After having been for many years a respected member of Grand Army gatherings in Brooklyn, James Cunningham, an undertaker, pleaded guilty to having fraudulently obtained pension money from the United States government. He will be sentenced on Saturday.

Cunningham is 75 years old. For several years he received a pension on an affidavit claiming that he enlisted during the Civil war under the name of Edwin Walker, when, as a matter of fact, Edwin Walker is at the present time a resident of Ogdensburg, N. Y., and is drawing a pension under his own name.

JURY OF FARMERS
IN BOYLE CASE

Trial of Alleged Kidnapper May End This Week

Mercer, Pa., May 6.—James H. Boyle, charged with the abduction of Willie Whitley of Sharon, was placed on trial Wednesday afternoon. When court adjourned for the day a jury had been selected temporarily. Most of these jurors are farmers.

Little difficulty was experienced in securing the jury. It is believed the trial can be concluded before the end of the present week.

There are from forty to fifty witnesses for the state and several for the defense, but the testimony of most of them will be brief.

GRADES OF INSANITY

Discussed at Hains Trial After Question of 10,000 Words

Flushing, N. Y., May 6.—Wednesday was "hypothetical day" at the Hains trial. For nearly two hours the jury listened to the reading of the hypothetical question, containing more than 10,000 words, as propounded by the defense, upon which three alienists are to predicate their opinions about the mental condition of Peter C. Hains, Jr., on Aug. 15 last, when he shot and killed William E. Ansell.

During the long cross-examination of the first alienist, Dr. L. S. Manson of New York, many forms of insanity and their classifications, ranging from ordinary melancholia to the ravings of a hopeless lunatic, were discussed. And the jury and everyone but the witness appeared at times to be lost in the maze of psychological phenomena.

FARMER FATALLY STABBED

Result of an Altercation With a Polish Farm Laborer

Hardwick, Mass., May 6.—An altercation which began in the Hardwick inn was finished in the street outside last night when William Goodspeed was fatally stabbed. A Polish farm laborer, John Gyrastis, was arrested and was taken to the town lockup in Gilbertville, charged with the stabbing.

Goodspeed was taken to Gilbertville in quick time, but died from his wound a few minutes after reaching the office of a physician. An artery of one of his legs was severed. He was 30 years of age and was one of the thriving farmers of this section.

State Officer an Alleged Thief

Halifax, May 6.—A serious fire started among the warehouses along the water front this morning. The city fire department was assisted by the military apparatus and by the Dartmouth fire companies.

SHERWIN WILLIAMS PAINTS & VARNISHES

An appeal to the pride
of the owner of a home

Everyone who owns a home is anxious that that home shall make the best appearance possible. Two things are necessary to produce satisfactory results in painting and varnishing a home:

First—A satisfactory color scheme.
Second—Paints, varnishes, stains
and enamels of such good quality that they not only give the exact color effect required, but are sufficiently durable to keep up the attractive appearance of the house in spite of the wear and tear of living in it.

These are offered by the Sherwin Williams Paints and Varnishes. The Sherwin-Williams Co. not only make every kind of paint and varnish used for a house and the best quality of that kind, but they make suggestions
for the selection of colors, varnishes, stains and enamels, so that any given idea can be carried out, and carried out with the best materials.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION

Plans are completed for the eightteenth annual meeting of the General Society, Daughters of the Revolution, to be held in Boston next week. The programme is as follows:

Monday, May 10, committee on credentials, will meet delegates in the library room of Hotel Somerset at eleven o'clock. At 3 P. M. the greetings of the Massachusetts society will be extended at a reception at Hotel Somerset tendered to all visiting members by Daughters of the Revolution, State of Massachusetts.

Tuesday, May 11, the credentials committee will meet at 9.30 A. M. At 10.30 o'clock there will be a preliminary meeting of delegates for appointment of a nominating committee by States. Mrs. John H. Abel, first vice president general, will preside at this meeting. At eleven o'clock the convention will formally open with prayer by Rev. Charles W. Duane, D.
D., chaplain of the society and rector
of the Christ Church in Salem street,
the famous "Old North" of history.
After the singing by the assembly of "America," the report of the committee on credentials will be heard, and then will follow the rollcall of delegates. An address of welcome will be given by the State regent, Mrs. Smith, and a feature of interest at this meeting will be the presentation of the annual address by the president general,
Mrs. Adeline F. Fitz of Wakefield. Reports of officers of the General Society will follow.

At the afternoon session on Tuesday, opening at 2.30 o'clock, the minutes of the morning session and the report of the nominating committee will be given, as will reports of the standing committees: On organization, Mrs. John H. Abel; on junior sons and daughters, and Mrs. Alice M.
Granger; on patriotic work, Mrs.
Henry W. Helfer. Reports will be heard, as well, from State regents representing Canada, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Long Island, Louisiana and Maryland.

Wednesday, May 12, will be given up to a business session, beginning at 10
A. M., opening with music and the Lord's Prayer. Minutes of previous sessions will be followed by the election of managers.

After the election of managers, reports from State regents will be continued, representing Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin. In the afternoon unfinished and also new business will be considered and the adjournment will close the business meetings of the convention.

Much in a social way has been arranged by local committees for the entertainment of the visitors from other States during the balance of the week.
These social events will include a banquet of the General Society in the large ballroom of the Somerset, on Wednesday, May 12, at seven o'clock, preceded by a reception. It is desired to make this occasion a notable one by the presence of all members attending the convention and there will be both men and women present. There will be a programme of music and speaking and opportunity will be afforded to meet the special guests, officers of kindred societies and others. Members of the society are privileged to invite as their guests any friends, upon payment of the stated subscription, which includes both reception and dinner.

For Thursday, May 13, a drive along the famous North Shore has been planned, with luncheon at the Tedeco Country Club in Swampscott. The members and visiting guests will take a train at the North Station at 9.30 A.
M. for Revere, where vehicles will be in waiting. Those who may wish to continue on to Salem will have an opportunity to visit the historic "Witch City," under the leadership of members of North Bridge Chapter of Salem.

On Thursday evening an illustrated lecture on "The War of the Revolution"
will be given in Chickering Hall at eight o'clock. This lecture was written for the Daughters of the Revolution by Dr. Ida Dudley Clapp (Mrs.
John Bouve Clapp) of Dorchester, and will be delivered by her. The lecture will deal with the Revolution from its earliest beginnings to its close, and will be profusely illustrated by slides prepared under the direction of the lecturer, the pictures having been taken from rare old prints and from photographs and cuts, many of which are the exclusive property of the Daughters of the Revolution. Before the lecture there will be a concert by the Bostonian Orchestra, known as one of the prominent organizations of women musicians in the country, assisted by a quartet of singers from the D. R. Society.

Friday, May 14, will be given over to an excursion to Lexington and Concord by trolley and automobile, and luncheon may be had at Concord. Notice should be given by May 3 to Miss Alice M. Simpson, Claremont street, Arlington Heights, of desire to take this trip. On Friday, from five until seven o'clock, a reception will be given by the president general of the society, Mrs. Adeline Frances Fitz, at her home, "Lakeside," in Quincy, to visiting officers, members of the board of managers, State regents, members of the Massachusetts State council and chapter regents.

The sight-seeing excursion will be continued on Saturday, to close the week's events.

NEIGHBORING.

The Milford, N. H., Woman's club at its closing meeting used for the first time a complete outfit of stock pattern china and silver with which the club has been provided this season.
Together with what they have done in outside charities it is with pride and comfort that they may use a convenence of this sort for themselves. May the club principles continue, "In essentials—Unity, in non-essentials—
Liberty, in all things—Charity."

The annual meeting and May breakfast of the New England Wheaton Seminary club is to be held May eight at twelve noon at hotel Vendome, Boston. Annual reports and election will be followed by informal speaking and music.

Dick—How is your woman's club
getting along these days?

Eva—Fine. I am on the "hanging committee" now.

Dick—Hanging committee? Do you hang pictures?

Eva—Oh, no. The "hanging committee" sits at the club windows on rainy days and criticises the hang of their sisters' skirts as the latter pass outside.

The second annual meeting of the Whitman Woman's Club was held last week. Two years ago this club was started with a limited membership of three hundred. Today its membership is 450 and over seventy on the waiting list. The following officers were elected for the coming year. President, Mrs. Myra B. Hatch; first vice president, Mrs. Mary E. Charles; second vice president, Mrs. Margaret
R. Wilkie; recording secretary, Mrs.
Mattie M. Jenkins; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Helen Atwood; treasurer, Mrs. Allie A. Snow; auditor, Miss Deborah A. Partridge; custodian, Mrs. Florence M. Parker; directors, Mrs. Rose A. Kane and Mrs.
Helen G. Bonney.

A CHANCE FOR SAVING MONEY.

Not one deserving person should be deprived of the pension he is receiving. Not one of the gray-haired veterans who are now descending into the vale of years and who have not a competency, not one of their helpless or dependent children or aged and helpless widows should be deprived of the aid they are receiving from the Government. But if the names of all the wealthy pensioners, who do not need help; if the names of all the fake soldiers, the deserters and camp followers, of all the widows who married the aged soldiers in order to get pensions—if all these were taken from the rolls the pension list would then be a roll of honor and the United States would save enough money to build several Dreadnoughts each year,
and so shortly become the first naval

WEAK KIDNEYS MAKE WEAK BODIES.

Kidney Diseases Cause Half the Common Aches and Pains of QuinCY People.

As one weak link weakens a chain,
so weak kidneys weaken the whole body and hasten the final breaking
down.

Overwork, strains, colds and other causes injure the kidneys, and when their activity is lessened the whole body suffers from the excess of uric
poison circulated in the blood.
Aches and pains and languor and urinary ills come, and there is an ever-increasing tendency towards diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. There is no real help for the sufferer except kidney help.

Doan's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys and cure every kidney ill.
Quincy cures are the proof.
John R. Duffy, living at 14 Copeland St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I am so favorably impressed with Doan's Kidney Pills that it gives me pleasure to recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney complaint. I am fully convinced that this remedy will do all that it is claimed for. If anyone would like to obtain further details regarding my case, I will be glad to answer any question. Doan's Kidney

SIGNIFICANCE OF HOLIDAYS.

The readiness of the present day to overlook the real significance of the established public memorial days in this country finds typical indication in the plea of a New Yorker who writes to one of the newspapers of this city
for such change of date as shall bring them one and all to fall upon Mondays
—not that the people may come with sanctified minds from the observance of the Sabbath to the spirit of the day set apart for thanksgiving and grateful appreciation of the lives or events that have been counted epochal in our history; no such good reason is offered for the proposed change, but only that the people may have two holidays together, and, where the legal holiday comes in connection with the summer Saturday half-holiday, two days and a half. The plea from this standpoint will be mightily effective in many quarters. The suggestion that every Monday be a holiday would be accepted with even greater fervor.
The holiday spirit is certainly in the atmosphere. The people are greedy for freedom from responsibility. A sober settling down to a round of tasks that bring their own satisfaction
and that do not exhaust because they are accepted equably and are without competition from other pressing interests is not the habit of this day. To a much greater degree it existed in a time of simpler living and less stress of things.

The holiday is not to be begrudged
the people. It serves a splendid purpose, if well used, in resting the shoulders from the routine burden, in giving opportunity for desirable
change, in granting space for the development of interests incidental to the main issues of life but that are an inspiration and encouragement for all the other days. But this they can do, again if rightly used, as well in isolated spots as in groups of two days; and for the many people for whom a holiday is a temptation to throw discretion to the winds, but who are held to a measure of restraint by the remembrance of the next day, the double holiday would offer an added danger. This is no fair plea against a Monday holiday. Seriously proposed it would be an affront against the self-respecting masses of the people; but it is suggested as indicating that not all the advantage is in the direction of legal holidays following upon the Sundays. Moreover, there is no wisdom in encouraging the wrong and harmful view of Sunday
as a holiday. If Monday holidays were to make the Sunday holiday view more general or to give it seeming interment, then one argument is found that might be fairly urged against the correspondent's suggestion.

All this, however, is quite beside the main question. The idea of a holiday in its usual sense did not chiefly influence in the setting apart as special days of Washington's birthday, Fast Day (since turned into Pa-triot's Day), Memorial Day, Independence Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas. They were days of special significance in history, and as such were commended to the people for special observance. Rapidly their significance has been lost sight of by the mass and the days to the most of the people mean merely release from their usual work, with freedom to do as they please. In their observance as memorial days first and holidays
only incidentally, they will serve a higher purpose than they ever could as mere days free from work.—New Bedford Standard.

STATE MILITIA CAMPS.

Dates for the summer camps of the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia will be as follows: Ninth Infantry at Framingham, June 26 to July 3, a regimental camp.

the Battalion of Field Artillery at Patten's Pond; the First Corps of Cadets at Hingham.

From July 17 to 31 the First Brigade, consisting of the Second Infantry and Sixth Infantry, will be at Framingham each regiment having a week; the Second going into camp
the 17th and the 6th on the 24th.

The Second Brigade, excepting the Ninth Infantry, previously assigned,
will make a campaign in Boxford and
the Fifth Infantry and Eighth Infantry will be there from July 31 to Aug. 7. They will be followed by the Second Corps of Cadets at the same

Danderine

EVERYBODY CAN HAVE BEAUTIFUL HAIR NOW, and they don't have to wait weeks and months for results either.
You will notice marked improvement after
the very first application.

Danderine is quickly and thoroughly absorbed by the scalp
and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities. It is pleasant and easy to use—simply apply
it to the scalp and hair
once a day until the hair begins to grow,
then two or three times a week till desired results are obtained.

A lady from California writes
in substance as follows:
"I have been using your wonderful hair tonic for several months and at last I am now blessed with wonderful waves of hair that measure over 48 inches in length; the braid is over 3 inches around." Another from New Jersey:
"After using sixth bottle I am happy to say that I have as much a head of hair as anyone in New Jersey."

TELEPHONE EMERGENCIES

THREE VARIETIES of emergency telephone service
are, without charge, at the behest of the public.
They were devised years ago by the New England
Telephone & Telegraph Company to render what it believed to be a proper public service to the community at large, as well as a valuable service to the Company's subscribers. They are:

1. Emergency Calls For The Fire Department.
2. Emergency Calls For The Police.
3. Emergency Calls for Physicians.

Such calls may be made without charge, from this own telephone by a subscriber, or from a pay Station telephone
by a non-subscriber, if he states that he desires to make an emergency call.

TWO IMPORTANT WARNINGS

If there is an established fire alarm system in the place, a
call for the Fire Department also should be made from the nearest fire alarm box. The Company can assume no responsibility for an emergency notification, but will use its best endeavors
to connect you promptly.

If the emergency is of a particularly serious nature—a railroad wreck, a large fire, a serious accident, involving injury or death to many—do not leave the telephone without also calling for the Chief Operator, so that an executive official of our Traffic Department may take such further steps as the nature of the emergency shall suggest.

This advertisement is printed for two
purposes:

- 1.—To remind the public in general, as well
as our subscribers, of a privilege they may employ, absolutely without charge, and to
indicate the simplest and most effective method.
- 2.—To remind prospective subscribers of the great value of such service as a protective and
precautionary measure, and to suggest that
the quickest way to have a telephone installed
is to make a call (also without charge) to the Local Manager.

BRIEFS

Harry Edson of Brockton has returned to his work in Quincy after an extended stay in St. Augustine, Florida.

Mrs. M. A. Nichols of Bototh street announces the engagement of her daughter Bertha Marion to Chester F. B. Lewis of Dorchester.

The Mrs. John Q. Adams who was run over by a horse in Boston on Tuesday is not of the well known Adams family of this city.

Mrs. Ellen A. Bailey has returned to her home in Gloucester after a two weeks' stay with her daughter Mrs. Arthur Stanley of Elm avenue.

Mrs. Kate A. Blaisdel, has been elected delegate to the national convention of Woman's Relief Corps, which will be held at Salt Lake City Utah August 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Lyman of Prospect avenue have gone to Warwick where they will reside. Mrs. Ellen Tottingham, Mrs. Lyman's mother accompanied them.

The Soldiers' Home committee connected with W. R. C. 103 will meet with chairman Mrs. Edith B. Wolfe, Thursday afternoon at her home 16 Curtis street, North Weymouth.

Mrs. Jennie Ewell has returned from East Hartford, where she was called two weeks ago, her son being seriously ill with pleuro-pneumonia. He is improving although still confined to his room.

Owing to the steadily increasing membership of the National Sportsman's club of West Quincy, the club is to move to new quarters where they will have more conveniences and be able to entertain friends. There has been much dissatisfaction among members for some time because of the small and very much cramped quarters. When they find a club room more to their taste and needs, they will reorganize and hold their first annual ladies' night.

"Beauty and the Beast" and an entertainment under the direction of Mrs. Frank Butler's class of elocution will be held in Music hall, Atlantic on Wednesday evening. Others from out of town will assist on the programme. Mrs. Butler's entertainments are becoming very popular and the young members of her class are very enthusiastic little workers.

At the Memorial church on Monday evening Rev. J. Hopkins Dennison of the Central church, Boston, is to give a stereopticon lecture on the cannibal Islands. Dr. Dennison will present some curios from there also which he brought with him when he returned from his tour. The proceeds will be used by the music committee for the purpose of obtaining new music and promoting the musical interests of the church.

Mr. Albert P. Briggs of Cambridge has accepted the position of choral instructor for Memorial church, since the resignation of Mr. E. Landis Snyder. It is considered a great attainment to have Mr. Briggs as director, as his time is well taken up with chorus work in Cambridge. His popularity was gained in Atlantic by singing at meetings of the Monday Evening club which were at one time so largely attended; and also while director in Quincy during the evangelistic campaign with Dr. Weddell.

The fragrance of the cherry tree blossoms are in the air.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Balfour and daughter have moved from Alliston to Prospect avenue, Wollaston.

Wednesday evening was a busy one socially, entertainments and dances being held in all parts of the city.

Miss H. L. Farwell of Briggs street who is teaching in Winchendon is enjoying a week's vacation at her home.

Mrs. Parker Stiles has returned to her home in Sudbury after a short visit with Mrs. Samuel Kay of North Central avenue.

Rev. James Mattson, the new pastor of the Water Street Presbyterian church, will be installed this evening.

Mrs. George F. Bills and Master George L. Shepard of Fitchburg are visiting Mrs. John H. Whitehead of Kemper street.

OPENING ROUNDS.

Many Qualify for Wollaston Golf Club Silver Cup.

T. M. Cladin, of the Wollaston club, won the cup for the lowest gross score. In the qualifying rounds, for the Wollaston G. C. silver cup, played Wednesday at Montclair. His score was 75 with a handicap of one.

W. H. Leonard, also of the local club, took the cup for the lowest net score. He had a total of 93, with a handicap of 22, making 71 net.

Arthur J. Lockwood, of the Alliston G. C., was second to Cladin in the gross scores with a total of 77. He was a scratch man.

J. J. Gallagher, of Wollaston, with a score of 80 and a handicap of eight, was second to Leonard in the net scores. He missed tying for first place honors, at the last hole, when he failed to put the ball, at a yard's distance.

Sixty-six contestants took part and some excellent scores were made. Rain interfered with the play before noon, which compelled a goodly number to withdraw. The high wind also was a severe handicap in the morning, when the highest scores of the day were registered.

The 16 players with the lowest gross scores will compete for the second round tomorrow morning. The final drive will be held Saturday, when the contesting players will drive on a 36-hole course.

The annual meeting of the club was held in the clubrooms, following the tournament. Reports from the various officers showed the past year to have been the most successful one in the history of the organization.

C. M. Hart was elected president; W. L. Doten, vice-president; S. B. Reed, secretary and R. J. Dunkle, treasurer.

The board of directors consists of J. F. Morrill, J. F. Murphy, M. Alden, D. E. Little and H. L. Doten.

MISSIONARY PLAY.

"Tara" Star of The East, Given At Bethany Church.

The play, "Tara," was given Wednesday night in Bethany chapel under the auspices of the Missionary society most successfully. The first scene was laid in New York at the home of a wealthy society woman not at all in sympathy with missions. This part was played by Miss Alice Webb, who rendered it most naturally throughout. It was extremely long and showed Miss Webb's ability. Mrs. Whitcomb, one of Mrs. DeCraff's callers, was very well portrayed by Miss Helen Kingman. Another caller, the minister's wife, was well taken by Miss Blanche Morrison.

The rest of the scenes were in India, at the hospital, mission school, and at a summer home of Mrs. DeCraff's in India where she was traveling. Here Tara the star of the east, Miss Dulah Miller, is found. Miss Miller interpreted her part splendidly and her facial expression was remarkable all through her tortures, sorrow and finally her peace and joy when her husband, Naryan, played by Mr. Lester Cleo, comes for her after years separation, a Christian. Mr. Cleo held his audience every minute through the story of his life, his early religious beliefs and at length his conversion. Mr. Cleo's earnestness and fine portrayal of a Christianized heathen gave a most fitting climax to the play. Miss Minnie Hardwick as Dr. Ruth Hume did her part very creditably.

Chandri, Miss Esther Wetherell, and Maturabai, Miss Ruth Packard, two Hindu women were both excellent. Miss Wetherell giving her story in a most pathetic way. Miss Madeline Campbell, Miss Catherine Saville, acted her part well although she had little to say. Miss Ella Packard made a most acceptable Mrs. Hume. The child's part was very cunningly taken by Miss Bee Johnson.

The minor parts were played by Mr. Corliss Berry, Mr. Everett Rhodes, two Hindu men, and the women were, Misses Grant, Gardiner, Ruxton, Lawrence, Crane, Gould, Stegmire, Booth, Birnell, and Mrs. Hodgkinson. The cast was an exceptionally long one and the play very difficult of production but it went off without a hitch, its success being due to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Isabelle Davis who had the entertainment in charge. Mrs. Davis gets good results in any dramatic entertainment she undertakes and her services are always in demand.

ANNIVERSARY.

Maple Lodge K. and L. of H. Celebrates Its Twenty-Ninth.

The twenty-ninth annual anniversary of Maple Lodge, No. 313, K. and L. of H., was celebrated Wednesday evening in Electa hall. Sixty-two members, including ten charter members, were present. The degree was conferred upon four candidates. After the regular business of the lodge was disposed of, a march was taken to Protection hall, where the members found a bountiful repast awaiting them, consisting of salads, meats, rolls, coffee, ice cream, cake, etc.

After supper, the lodge returned to Electa hall and a bowling match was enjoyed, forty-three members taking part. Prizes were awarded to sisters M. Little Taber and S. A. Taber, brothers Royce and Crane, for the highest scores. Everyone declared that it was one of the most enjoyable meetings of the lodge for a long time.

The following sisters had charge of affairs: Sisters Oxford, Miner, Langley, Tirrell, L. Hewson, Mc Grath, S. Hewson, Williams and S. Taber. During the evening sister Reed favored with readings and sister Fletcher read an original poem.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Mothers' Association met in Bethany chapel Wednesday afternoon for their May meeting.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. H. Doble. After the routine of business, Mrs. Coffin gave a report of the quarterly meeting of the International Union Maternal Association, held in Park Street church, Boston. It was a meeting of reports and many helpful suggestions were mentioned. Mrs. Doble then reported the morning session of the Annual International Union Maternal Association, held at the Harvard Congregational church, Brookline. The subject of the address was "Mental Habits in Children," by Dr. Ryder of Malden. Mrs. Coffin reported the afternoon session, the addresses being "Glimpses of Alaska," by Mrs. John G. Brady, and "The Mutual Responsibility of the Home and School for Children," by Miss Mary McKimmon of the Pierce Grammar school, Brookline. These reports were enjoyed by all.

The devotional exercises were led by Mrs. Alfred R. Atwood, who took for her subject, "The Book of Books." After singing a hymn, Mrs. Doble introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Florence Peltier Pope, who spoke on "Literature for Children." It was a very scholarly paper, and held the close attention of all.

Mrs. John F. Hunt then rendered "Pierrette" by Chaminade, which was enjoyed by all.

The meeting then adjourned, after which tea was served by Mrs. Frank Prescott.

—Brockton merchants have arranged for half holidays in July and August on Tuesdays and the clerks will also be given a day off each week in September although the stores will be kept open.

INSTALLATION OF REV. A. J. MATHESON

Former Pastors Assist In Exercises at Presbyterian Church.

There was a large attendance of parishioners and friends at the Water Street Presbyterian church, Thursday evening at the installation ceremonies of Rev. James A. Matheson as its pastor.

Previous to the installation ceremony there was a special meeting of the Boston Presbytery, presided over by Rev. Malcolm McPhail at which the questions propounded to Rev. Mr. Matheson were satisfactorily answered.

Then came the installation exercises at which two former pastors took part, Rev. Dr. James Todd of South Boston and Rev. N. J. Sproul, M. A. of Newport, R. I.

The exercises were opened by an organ prelude with cornet solo by Wendell Clark and anthem "Lift up thy gates" by the choir and hymn by congregation. Mrs. D. Ross presiding at the organ.

Rev. N. J. Sproul read the scripture lesson and Rev. James J. Dunlop, D. D. of Roxbury offered the prayer, following which was a solo "There is an hour of Hallowed Peace" by Mrs. T. Milne.

The sermon was preached by Rev. N. J. Sproul, the charge to pastor by Rev. James Todd and the charge to the people by Rev. James J. Dunlop.

Then came a duet "Arie of Jesus" by Mrs. Thomas Gammon and Miss Margaret Michael and the address of welcome by Rev. M. A. Thompson of the United Presbyterian church a hymn "Lord Dismiss Us" and benediction by the pastor Rev. Mr. Matheson.

The new pastor Rev. James Matheson comes to Quincy with a brilliant record for constructive work. He was born in Australia but when a boy, he came to America with his parents and lived in Philadelphia, where he received his early education. Later he entered Princeton university and graduated from there in 1891. He then entered Princeton seminary, graduating in 1894. His first charge was at Manalapan, N. J. where he staid between seven and eight years. He then accepted a call to Freedom Plains, N. Y., and after his charge there he returned to New Jersey to accept the pastorate of the Presbyterian church in Delanco, where he remained until called to Quincy.

He is married and has a 13-year old son.

ASSISTANT CLERK.

Quincy Boy Gets Appointment to Quincy Court.

Lawrence W. Lyons one of Quincy's young lawyers was this morning appointed as assistant clerk of the East Norfolk District court. The appointment was made, under a law recently passed, by John P. S. Churchill clerk of the court with the approval of Judge Avery. Mr. Lyons entered upon his new duties.

Lawrence W. Lyons the new assistant clerk is a Quincy boy having been born in this city which has always been his home.

He attended the Adams school and the Adams Academy.

He then took the Harvard academic course and entered the Harvard law school from which he was graduated in 1904, being admitted to the bar that same year.

He was then for a time one of the assistant instructors at the Adams Academy, but later opened a law office in City Square.

He is a young man well qualified for the position to which he has been appointed and is being congratulated by his many friends.

He is a member of Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, and at present holds the office of Deputy Grand Knight.

A HEATED ARGUMENT.

Luigi Passelli and Pasquale Viglione, two Braintree farmers, had a heated argument early this morning which developed into a lively match. Later the two men met again in City Square, where a heated argument was started. It had just about reached the boiling point when Inspector Goodhue stepped in and placed both men under arrest.

The complaint against Passelli was for carrying a loaded revolver and that against Viglione for assault. Both were arraigned in court this morning.

Herbert I. Sullivan of Dorchester, who is employed at the power station of the Old Colony street railway at Quincy Point, has purchased a new motor cycle on which he speeds to and from his work.

LOVE FEAST.

Members of the executive board of the Quincy Women's club met Thursday morning for the closing business meeting of the year with Mrs. George W. Morton the ever faithful president in the chair. It also was the last meeting of the two years' term of the board as a new board will be elected Tuesday. All the members have been most earnest in their efforts to conduct the club's business for the best interests of the club and have been faithful in attendance. No detail brought to the attention of the board has failed to receive careful consideration and many weighty and important matters have been discussed which will ultimately result in benefits to the community. Charities and civic matters have always been topics of special interest and the Quincy Women's club will broaden over year by year and prove an important factor in the city's welfare.

Considerable business was transacted Thursday morning and also much of importance will be to the incoming board for further discussion and action.

Mrs. Morton thanked the board for the hearty support accorded her during the two years, and by a rising vote the board tendered Mrs. Morton their thanks and appreciation of her services as president.

At the close of the meeting the entire board were guests of Mrs. Morton at luncheon, two tables being laid in the club tea room. Covers were laid for twenty-two. Daybreak pinks decorated one table and Lawson pinks the other, which were later presented to board members by Mrs. Morton.

Before seats were taken at the table Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard of the Hospitality committee in behalf of those present, presented to Mrs. Morton a few graceful words a large bunch of pink and white pinks. A courtesy appreciated by Mrs. Morton and responded to feelingly. She said she had always felt about flowers given to her as though they grew for her and so with the pinks it seemed as though they surely grew for her and she prized them.

A delicious luncheon prepared by Mrs. Maria Anderson caretaker of the clubhouse was served; the rolls, salad, ice cream, cake and coffee receiving the same hearty attention from the board that all club matters have. Every vote in this instance was a yes, therefore unanimous.

It was a real love feast; eating social chat and anecdotes all contributing to make it a very happy occasion.

Mrs. Morton goes out of office as presiding officer of the board and club with the same loyal support and good feeling which has existed throughout her presidency and has the love and good wishes of every member. No president has or can have the interests of the club more at heart than has Mrs. Morton, who has been faithful through sunshine and storm, sickness and health.

THE HOUSE OF TOO MUCH TROUBLE

Copeland Club Present Play Before Large House

Having made a name in minstrel shows the Copeland club of West Quincy decided to try something else and consequently the comedy "The House of Too Much Trouble" was presented Thursday evening. Billy B. Van or Eddie Poy, none of them's got anything on the Copeland actors.

The play was given under the direction of Andrew J. Dinegan of West Quincy, who has been very successful the past few years in producing minstrel shows. Andrew also took a prominent part in the play. Every member of the cast did excellent work, and although naturally a little nervous, went through the show without a break.

The plot while simple was at the same time rather intricate, being laid in Chicago. Henry Stone, who loved his wife so much that he was jealous, decided to take a trip abroad in company with his wife and daughter Eva. In order to have the former all to himself, he left his mansion in charge of Tom Blaine his nephew, who was a medical student and who was supposed to be engaged to his cousin Eva. When Stone and family left, the first visitor was Daniel Webster White a colored gentleman.

Dan applied for the position of all round assistant and got the job. He then proposed turning the mansion into a boarding house in order to make a few dollars. This was done and then the plot thickens. Among those who came to secure rooms is John Davis, Catharina his wife and his daughter Augusta; also a comic opera singer Lillian Tussell. Other boarders who help work out the plot are Gustave Pruders, an insane composer and Julius Burton.

John Davis' wife is always chasing him about and suspecting him of flirting. He wants to have a good time and gets into conversation with Lillian, the actress. They are seen together by Samuel Hicks, a friend of Stone's. Hicks thinks Lillian is Stone's wife and when Stone returns tells what he has been doing. Stone thought he had slipped his wife, but she was home all the time and this led him to believe Hicks was right. This was finally settled, when Hicks saw the actress and Mrs. Stone.

In the meantime Tom Blaine becomes infatuated with Augusta and vice versa and they become engaged. One day Tom and the actress accidentally meet in the parlor of the house and are caught talking by Augusta, who immediately refuses to have anything to do with Tom. Tom tries to explain, but she remains firm. Later Davis' wife, finds out that he is true and they become reconciled. Then Gussie and Tom come out all right.

At this point what bothers Tom is what to do when Eva comes back. This is settled easier than is expected, for when Eva returns she immediately informs Tom that she loves another and both are happy. Eva's fiancé happens to be one Neil Browning, whom Henry Stone dislikes. Finally everything comes out all right, but for a time it is the worst mixup that one can want.

The principal parts Tom Blaine, Dan White, Lillian Tussell, John Davis, his wife and daughter, were very well acted. Joseph Monahan as Tom Blaine did a clever job, while Andy Dinegan as Dan White, the colored man, was right at home. Miss Rita Lyons, John Smith, Georgina Duncan and Virginia Farrell were also excellent, acting as if they had been on the stage for years.

The cast of characters was as follows:

James Stone—Willard Burke
Beatrice, his young wife—Anna Peterson
Eva, his daughter by his first wife—Frances Burke
Tom Blaine, his nephew, a student of Medicine—Joseph Monahan
Daniel Webster White, a colored gentleman of many accomplishments—A. J. Dinegan Gustave Pruders, a composer—R. Williams
Lillian Tussell, a comic opera singer—Georgina Duncan
John Davis, from Kokomo—John Smith
Catharina, his wife—Rita Lyons
Julius Burton, who flees from creditors, but is caught by a mother-in-law—Ed. Desmond Augusta, their daughter—Virginia Farrell
Samuel Hicks, Stone's friend from the rural districts—George Hebert
Neil Browning, Eva's suitor—John Dunn
Mrs. Miller, a widow—Anna Ogle
Hill, a shoemaker—George Hebert
William, a servant—Lawrence Duncan
Dora, a servant—Magnolia Flaherty
Anna, Lillian's maid—Rose Sullivan
A Constable—Barnard Riley

Between the acts there were special vaudeville acts, including songs by George Davey, Comedy sketch and dance by Quincy Billy Murphy, and a blackface singing and wooden shoe dancing act by Ernest Godfrey and Andrew Dinegan, introducing the popular song hit "I Remember You." This last pair made a big hit from the start with their clever steps. Both are veterans in minstrel shows and were right at home in such an act. Worse acts than this have been seen on the professional stage.

The ushers were: James M. Flaherty, Cyril Morrisette, Joseph Dunn, William Loran, Alphonse LeChair, Harry T. Boyd, Frank Hebert, Frederick White, Alexis Elcock, Rednor P. Coombs.

The following committee had charge of the show: R. Williams, T. J. Sullivan, John J. Dunn, John F. Joyce, Andrew J. Dinegan.

Tonight the show will be given again. Dancing will follow the performance.

SUSAN A. SISSON.

A prominent Quincy merchant takes exception to the statement in Wednesday's Ledger that it takes two or three days to get a package from New York and by the trolley freight it would only take one. He says he receives goods every day from New York, the goods being shipped one day and delivered to him by ten o'clock the next morning. He doubts if any method could be quicker or more satisfactory and is sure the trolley freight could not do the work in so short a time.

It is certainly queer weather that is being handed out this spring. The temperature was high all day Thursday and top coats were early discarded as being uncomfortable. It seemed as though summer weather had at last come. It was a delusion however for shortly after 4 o'clock the wind whipped round into the east and the air chilled one to the marrow. Top coats were quickly in demand again. The air remained cool all night. During the night there was a thunder shower, with a little rain. This morning the weather looked threatening but the sun came out again at 8 o'clock although the air remained cold.

Quincy which is vitally interested in the proposed Brockton canal will be interested in the following letter from a New York man who is a close friend of Engineer Parsons of the Cape Cod canal and whose office is near that of August Belmont the capitalist back of the Cape scheme in a letter to E. B. Mellen of Brockton says:

"If as I hear, the United States government has made an appropriation for a survey of the Brockton canal, I beg to congratulate you, as this would be the 'means to the end' so far as its being a national enterprise is concerned. If it was desired to have it go forward more expeditiously as a private enterprise I am confident that the necessary money could now be raised in this city."

The local Young Men's Christian Association is showing its unselfishness and ability to be of service to men, in a new way these days. A cordial invitation was extended by the general secretary through Commander A. L. Keys, to the enlisted men of the U. S. S. Salem, now at the Pore River for repairs, to use freely the Association building and equipment upon the same footing as the regular members, during their stay here. While nearly half of the men are away on leave a considerable number have already called at the building and are using with much pleasure the reading room, pool tables, etc.

The Association is "in right" with the navy as a result of the splendid buildings at the Brooklyn and Norfolk navy yards, and the way the men were treated by the Association of every country on the trip around the world.

KIDNAPPER
IS CONVICTED

State Had Remarkably Strong Case Against Boyle

DEFENSE OFFERS NO EVIDENCE

No Doubt of the Part Prisoner Took In Abduction of Billy Whittla—Trial of Wife of Convicted Man Begins With Legal Argument as to Admissibility of Certain Evidence Offered by Prosecution

Mercer, Pa., May 7.—James Boyle, charged with kidnapping "Billy" Whittla, was convicted after a trial lasting but a few hours. No defense was made and the jury was out but a few minutes.

Mrs. Boyle, indicted under the name of Mary Doe, with half a dozen aliases, was immediately placed upon trial charged with aiding and abetting the kidnapping. Hardly had the jury been sworn in the woman's case when the lawyers became engaged in a legal argument regarding the admission of certain testimony and the case was adjourned till today.

The first witness called by the state in Mrs. Boyle's case was Miss Ella Boyle, a sister of James Boyle. Apparently, from the line of questioning, the prosecution wanted to prove by her that the kidnapping conspiracy was formed while Mrs. Boyle was visiting in Sharon with her husband and that she was implicated in it. It is surmised that the object of this is to overcome her contention that she could not have violated a law in this state while she was living in Ohio.

From the earnestness with which the defense opposed the questions asked it is believed a great deal will depend upon the court's decision as to the admissibility of the testimony in dispute. It is believed this will be but the beginning of a long and bitter legal wrangle and it is predicted that the woman's trial will not be completed before Saturday afternoon at the earliest.

Mrs. Boyle took a prominent part in the selection of her jury, prompting her attorneys in numerous cases and evidencing a preference for young, unmarried jurors. The jury selected contains six farmers, and four of the jurors are members of the jury that convicted Boyle.

That Boyle's trial came to such an abrupt ending, immediately after the state had rested, was due to the fact that so strong a case had been made against him. From the night before the abduction, when he was seen in Sharon, till the time of his arrest in Cleveland, almost every movement he made was testified to by one or more witnesses. A man who hired him a horse and buggy, another who saw Boyle driving with "Billy" in the buggy, the barber who saw the two together and shaved Boyle's mustache off, train and electric railway conductors, who saw the couple on the way to Cleveland and identified them in court, all told stories which fitted in perfectly with that of "Billy" Whittla and left no doubt as to the part Boyle took in the case.

When the state rested, counsel for the defense held a conference and announced that they would offer no evidence. The court at once summed up the evidence, gave the case to the jury and a verdict was agreed upon in a few minutes.

The penalty is from one year to a life sentence in the penitentiary. Sentence has not been pronounced yet.

ON LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Rumor That Governor General Smith
Will Leave His Office

Washington, May 7.—President Taft received a telegram from Governor General Smith of the Philippines saying that he would leave Manila today for the United States on a leave of absence.

The president cabled Smith his congratulations on the work he has done in the islands and on the gratitude he "has earned from his fellow countrymen, both American and Filipino."

It has been persistently rumored that upon his arrival in Washington Smith may ask to be relieved from further duty in the islands, where he has served for a number of years.

STOLYPIN FACES THE CZAR

Latter Must Disavow Reactionaries or Accept Cabinet's Resignation

St. Petersburg, May 7.—The outcome of the Russian ministerial crisis is now entirely dependent upon the emperor's line of action, as Premier Stolypin's exhaustive report, submitted to the czar Thursday, left no doubt in the emperor's mind that the cabinet is a unit in favor of sanctioning the naval bill.

P. A. STOLYPIN.

The premier had a long audience with the emperor, and while the primary demand was for his approval of the bill creating a general staff for the navy, the underlying object of the visit was to force the emperor to disassociate himself from the hostile campaign of the reactionaries and the courtiers close to him.

The painful necessity for the retirement of the cabinet, in case of an adverse decision, was delicately implied.

Sheriff Has an Order For the Arrest of Evelyn Thaw

New York, May 7.—An order directing the sheriff to arrest Evelyn Nesbit Thaw for contempt of court for failing to pay a fine of $250 imposed last week was signed in the city court last evening after the announcement that the appellate division had refused to stay the proceedings.

The order was endorsed as soon as the sheriff's office opened today and an officer was at once sent to escort Mrs. Thaw to jail. The order directs that she shall be kept in close confinement until the settlement of her account.

The fine was imposed upon Mrs. Thaw for her failure to appear in supplementary proceedings on a judgment of $253 obtained against her by a milliner.

ELDRIDGE GETS GRANDSON

Shaw Differences Must Be Threshed
Out In Bay State Courts

Santa Barbara, Cal., May 7.—While H. F. Eldridge, the grandfather, was given the custody of Eldridge Shaw, to be turned over to the father, James F. Shaw of Boston, it was the mother who last night tucked the boy away in bed in the Potter hotel.

The order of Judge Crow does not hold beyond the limits of California, and the court so stated, but it was evident that the judge was impressed with the sincerity of the Portsmouth brewer, and for that reason abided by the pleadings of both attorneys and thereby washed his hands of the entire affair.

Any further differences between the Shaws will therefore have to be threshed out in the courts of Massachusetts. Although Mrs. Shaw says she will remain here, it is believed she will go east when her father does.

ZELAYA MAKING TROUBLE

Said to Be Continuing His Plans For

Panama, May 7.—The situation in Central America appears to be getting more complicated every day, judging from the news that comes slowly into Panama.

Passengers that have landed here say that Nicaragua, in spite of the vigilance of the American warships in Nicaraguan waters, is still endeavoring to invade Salvador by way of Honduras. Furthermore, President Zelaya has numerous troops on the Chinandega coast and the frontiers of Costa Rica and Honduras.

Motor Hearse Is Here
Worcester, Mass., May 7.—In a few weeks a local undertaking firm will begin to operate the first motor hearse and motor undertaker's ambulance ever to come into New England.

—In the 117 years since 1792, when Thomas Pickney represented the United States at the court of St. James, there have been only thirty-two American ministers or ambassadors to Great Britain—forty, if we count the Hon. Henry White, who served as charge d'affaires in 1898 between the missions of John Hay and Joseph H. Choate and other ad interim ministers who served in a similar capacity.—New York Commercial.

SAY LAWYERS
TOOK $12,000

Bostonians Accused of Conspi-

MYTHICAL HEIRS SUBSTITUTED

Money Belonging to Savings Bank De-positors Who Could Not Be Located
Said to Have Been Wrongfully Obtained—Indictments Against Prominent Men Were Secretly Returned
by the Grand Jury

Boston, May 7.—Two prominent local lawyers, Charles H. Adams and William W. Risk, the former a counsel for three countries and Massachusetts commissioner for all the states in the Union, pleaded not guilty to indictments charging them with obtaining $12,000 of unclaimed deposits from the Suffolk Savings bank by conspiracy.

The two lawyers have been acting as public administrators and as special administrators for persons living out of the state and interested in property in process of settlement in Massachusetts. The indictments charge the two men with conspiring in the substitution of mythical heirs to the estate of Ellis Gray in order to obtain the money from the savings bank.

Gray died in 1838, and in 1902 the Suffolk Savings bank published a list of unclaimed deposits, among them being seven depositors who could not be located, but who appeared as heirs of the Gray estate.

In 1902 Risk was appointed public administrator by the probate court, and it is charged in the indictment that with Adams certain heirs were brought forward and the money obtained from the savings bank.

Adams has occupied a prominent position in this city for a number of years, principally as a Massachusetts commissioner for other states. Recently he was appointed United States consul for Liberia and Nicaragua, and vice consul for Uruguay. He is 53 years old, and has extensive offices here.

Both men were held in $5000 bail, which was furnished. The arrest of these two well-known attorneys is the outcome of an investigation started three years ago by Attorney General Malone. During June, 1907, the attorney general's office filed interrogations with the probate court and a protracted hearing was held in which Adams claims both he and Risk were exonerated from all charges of irregularities.

After the case was heard the district attorney's office, through the late John B. Moran, renewed the investigations and found evidence that was placed before the grand jury last October.

Indictments on charges of larceny in ten counts were secretly returned. For some reason District Attorney Hill withheld the service of warrants until two days ago, when he handed the necessary papers for the apprehension of the two men to the police department.

ARMY OFFICERS TESTIFY

They Controvert Those Who Gave Evidence In Favor of Hains

Flushing, N. Y., May 7.—The rebuttal witnesses for the state in the Hains trial were principally army officers, who were stationed at Forts Hamilton and Hancock during June, July and August, 1908, and met and talked with Captain Hains at that time. Their testimony tended to controvert that of the army witnesses for the defense in that they all said Hains spoke and acted rationally a short time before the shooting on Aug. 15 last, when the defense contends he was suffering from "maniac depressive insanity."

John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for the defense, caused a stir in court by an evident effort to show that there was antagonism against Hains in certain army circles.

GOLD IN THE ROCKIES

Celebration of Fiftieth Anniversary of Its Discovery

Idaho Springs, Colo., May 7.—This town is celebrating today with speeches and meetings the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of gold in the Rocky mountains.

On May 7, 1859, a mining company headed by George W. Jackson, the discoverer of the precious metal at Jackson's bar, within the present city limits, began placer mining upon the first paying deposit of gold ever opened in the Rocky mountains.

Wrongfully Used the Mails

Fort Scott, Kan., May 7.—Fred Warren, business manager of a Social-ist publication, charged with sending scurrilous and defamatory matter through the mails, was found guilty by a jury in the federal court here. An appeal will be taken.

IN LONGFELLOW'S MEMORY

Dedication of $25,000 Statue of Poet
In Washington

Washington, May 7.—After years of effort by admirers of the poet Longfellow to honor his memory fittingly in the capital of the country which he loved, a statue of the famous writer was unveiled and dedicated here today. The statue stands in the little public reservation at the corner of Connecticut avenue and M street.

President Taft participated in the dedication exercises, over which Chief Justice Fuller, who is president of the Longfellow National Memorial association, presided. Other speakers were General A. W. Greeley, Hamilton
W. Mable and Brainard H. Warner.

The statue is the result of twelve years of work by the association. The sculptor, William Couper, has represented the poet seated, with his right hand raised to his head. His left hand, drooping at his side, holds a book, and there is another book under the left arm. The figure is clad in academic robes. The cost of the monument was $25,000, made up mainly of small contributions by admirers of the poet and his work. Congress appropriated $4000 for a pedestal for the monument and authorized its location in a public square of the capital.

Charleston, May 7.—Captain Fremont, commanding the battleship Mississippi, does not object to the portrait of Jefferson Davis upon the silver service which the war vessel is to receive from the state in whose honor she is named.

Responding to a telegraphic request whether he and the other officers of the Mississippi were in sympathy with the antagonism which the likeness of the dead chieftain of the Confederacy on the silver service has aroused, wired the Charleston News
and Courier from New Orleans as follows:

"The navy is without sectional prejudice and its patriotism knows no boundaries save those of the great country at large."

CONFESSES SETTING FIRE TO A CHURCH

Conscience of Firebug Leads Him to Surrender to Police

Newburyport, Mass., May 7.—Remorse and a troubled conscience, following his act of setting fire to the Second Congregational church at West
Newbury on April 24, led Charles Marshall, 24 years old, of that town,
to surrender himself to the police here, with the statement that he had set the fire.

"Just to see it burn," was his explanation of the reason prompting his act. The loss on the church was $12,- 000.

TRAGEDY IN WOODS

Slasher of Woman's Throat Takes His Own Life With Shotgun

Arlington, Mass., May 7.—Thomas Lynch, aged 32, cut the throat of Mrs. Emma Gleason, aged 34 years, wife of Thomas Gleason, while the two were together in the woods of the Crosby estate. Shortly afterwards Lynch borrowed a shotgun from a friend and blew off the top of his head
in a field.

Mrs. Gleason was seen running from the Crosby estate with blood flowing from her head and throat. Taken to a hospital, she stated that Lynch came up behind her in the woods and cut her throat with a razor. She is not expected to live.

Lynch had a wife and one child
and was said to be peculiar at times.

Manchester, N. H., May 7.—John Prokos, well known throughout New England as a wrestler, was sentenced and obtaining money under false pre-texts.

Prokos had been indicted for taking money from Grigor Markos, for whom he claimed to be acting as interpreter,
under the pretence that he was securing a lawyer to look after the latter's interests. About $40 was secured, it is alleged.

TELEPHONE EMERGENCIES
THREE VARIETIES of emergency telephone service
are, without charge, at the behest of the public.
They were devised years ago by the New England
Telephone & Telegraph Company to render what it believed to be a proper public service to the community at large, as well as a valuable service to the Company's subscribers. They are:

1. Emergency Calls For The Fire Department.
2. Emergency Calls For The Police.
3. Emergency Calls For Physicians.

Such calls may be made without charge, from his own
telephone by a subscriber, or from a pay Station telephone
by a non-subscriber, if he states that he desires to make an emergency call.

TWO IMPORTANT WARNINGS
If there is an established fire alarm system in the place, a
call for the Fire Department also should be made from the nearest fire alarm box. The Company can assume no responsibility for an emergency notification, but will use its best endeavors
to connect you promptly.

If the emergency is of a particularly serious nature—a railroad wreck, a large fire, a serious accident, involving injury or death to many—do not leave the telephone without also calling
for the Chief Operator, so that an executive official of our Traffic Department may take such further steps as the nature of the emergency shall suggest.

This advertisement is printed for two
purposes:
1.—To remind the public in general, as well
as our subscribers, of a privilege they may employ, absolutely without charge, and to
indicate the simplest and most effective method.
2.—To remind prospective subscribers of the
great value of such service as a protective and
precautionary measure, and to suggest that
the quickest way to have a telephone installed
is to make a call (also without charge) to the Local Manager.

MALE ARMENIANS WIPED OUT

Missionary Trowbridge Says Number
Killed Will Reach Twenty-Three Thousand—Almost That Number of Women and Children Are Now Suffering For Food, Clothing and Shelter in Province of Adana

Adana, May 7.—Rev. Stephen R.
Trowbridge, a missionary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, estimates the number of Armenians killed in the province of Adana since the outbreak of the anti-Christian rioting at 23,000.
Continuing, the missionary says:—
"A conservative estimate of the Christians killed in the city of Adana is 3000. This calculation is made up from the lists prepared by the priests
and other officials who give permits for burials.

"Not less than 20,000 perished in the towns and villages of the province. This figure is based upon the full information sent forward by the British consul.

"The surviving Armenians in the entire province are largely women and children. They amount to about 25,- 000 and are today without homes, shops, food, clothing or bread. A most pitiable and wretched multitude is passing up and down the streets of Adana like a lost people. They throng
the big factory yards, where a dose of flour is given out by the relief committee.

"Crowds of broken-hearted women and children are coming in from the country to even greater misery in the city."

Mr. Trowbridge has written a further account of the events at Adana, especially with reference to the attitude of the Turkish authorities. In this recital he says:

"Subsequent events have shown clearly the Adana government acquiesced, if it did not actually participate, in the cruel and indiscriminate assaults which were made by fire,
rifle and sword upon the entire Armenian community, including our Protestant congregation, which, as a body, has been loyal to the government."

"A NATIONAL SYNDICATE"

French Government Must Fight It In the Postal Row

Paris, May 7.—The Posts, Telegraphs and Telephone employees' association threw down the gauge of battle to the government by transforming itself into a syndicate, or union, under the law of 1884, thus placing the association on the same footing with workmen's unions with the right to strike against the state employer, as the workmen have the privilege of doing against private employers.

This defiance came as a sudden and sensational sequel of Premier Clemenceau's failure to receive a deputation of postal employees, who called to present demands for the redemption
of promises which they claim the government had made when the recent strike was declared off.

The premier was sick and confined to his room, but the delegation's failure to be received served as a pretext for springing the surprise they had secretly prepared, and within an hour
the transformation of the association into a national syndicate was announced and the statutes of the organization officially were filed in the city hall.

Baby Hurlled Through Air by Engine
When Mother Is Killed

Old Orchard, Me., May 7.—While pushing her baby in its carriage along the tracks of the Boston and Maine railroad Mrs. William Snow, aged 40, was struck and killed by a train,
while the infant, although hurled
through the air for several feet, sustained but a few minor bumps and bruises.

The engine badly mangled the woman, but the light carriage was tossed to one side and the baby, after turning several somersaults in the air, alighted on the gravel beside the tracks.

Humor and Philosophy
By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The man who can spend more than he makes has a leaning toward high finance and an undoubted genius for
the same.

The man who inherits much money
very rarely inherits the ability to make more.

The pleasure with which some people listen to themselves talk is often surpassed by the weariness with which others succumb to the same.

Being wise is a condition a fellow arrives at after getting it in the neck
a few times.

If we could remember what we chose to remember and forget what we don't like the world would be more pleasant, wouldn't it?

It is so easy to jump on to the other chap when he is down that the only wonder is that some of us refrain.

Of course all men are vain, and some of them are even in vain.

The easiest way to get along without money is to quit living.

Being wise to your own weaknesses
may not put money into your pocket,
but it may occasionally keep money
there.

Over and Over,
The ten thousand poets,
The writers of prose,
Of essays and dramas,
What not goodness knows,
Pray where are their subjects
For stories and rhymes
That haven't been handled
Some thousands of times?

A million have warbled
With spring for the theme,
Ten thousand on sunsets
That told of a dream;
On waiting and longing
And falling love
Have fully as many
As mentioned above.

The plot for the story,
The drama or play
Have all been exhausted
They many a day,
And even the essay
On tariff or cash,
On war or religion
Are all a rehearsal.

Arabian marvels,

"And you had no dentist along?"
"What for?"
"To pull the teeth?"

Good Reason.
"So you are going to marry her?"
"Yes."
"Why are you going to do that?"
"She said I might."

Satisfied the Claim.
"Put any money in airships?"
"Yes, a few hundred."
"What results?"

BRIEFS

A number of Quincy Odd Fellows go to Lawrence tonight to visit the encampment in that city.

Ralph W. Austin is home from Annapolis Naval Academy.

Rev. J. A. Matheson, new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was born in Australia, although he has passed most of his life in this country.

Miss Helen Hoyt of Holyoke is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Young and family of Prospect street.

Another chapter tomorrow of the new serial "Polly of the Circus" which runs Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick addresses St. Margaret's Guild this evening, her subject being "Pippa Passes."

A musicale is to be given this evening at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Wrigley, Coddington street, for the Reapers and their friends.

The Y. P. R. U. of the Wollaston Unitarian church holds its annual meeting and election of officers Sunday evening.

Mr. Clifford W. Bean of Altante street has accepted a position as civil engineer for the city of Newton. Mr. Bean has been with both the Metropolitan Park and Massachusetts Highway Commission and is quite an accomplished surveyor.

Miss Eldean Young of Prospect street is one of the contestants in the Boston American contest and Henry H. Faxon Memorial lodge of Good Templars has appointed a committee of three to collect votes for her from the different lodges of Boston and vicinity.

While hurrying from a train at the Quincy station to take a trolley for her home in Hough's Neck on Wednesday, Mrs. Henry Mobes dropped her pocket book, containing a large sum of money and did not discover her loss until she was comfortably seated in the car. Fortunately an honest man in the person of James Dunn, a carriage driver at the depot, found the purse and it was returned at once to Mrs. Mobes. "Honesty is the best policy after all," said Mr. Dunn.

Carl Gram of Wollaston, Quincy High school 1905, will be the presentation orator and speaker of the day at the class day exercises of M. I. T. senior class in June. Mr. Gram has quite an athletic record at Tech being at present captain of the varsity track team and New England inter-collegiate 220 yard champion. Last year he was president of his class and served on the junior "prom" committee.

The Neighborly Whist club met Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. John F. Donovan on Watson road. Miss Margaret Pickering and William T. Donovan won the first prizes, while Miss Catherine Cullinan and Harry T. Gallagher captured the consolation souveniers. After the whist there was a social hour during which refreshments were served. The club voted to have a theatre party a week from Thursday night instead of the regular whist party.

Fred S. Boyden, the builder, has sold his house on Phillips street to Mr. Harold McKay.

The freshman class of Woodward Institute gave a tea and reception to the teachers this afternoon at the school building.

Miss Ruth Putnam and Mr. Putnam, readers; Miss Gladys Ganzell, vocalist; Miss Irene Faugherne, pianist; pupils of Mr. Wrigley, take part in the musicale at this home this evening.

The two apartment house being erected by Fred L. Boyden on Beach street is a structure of more than ordinary beauty. The upper story is covered with fancy shingles while the lower is of stucco work. Along the front extends a veranda of granite with pillars of like material giving to the house a very pleasing aspect.

A poverty party was enjoyed by the members of the Christian Endeavor society of the Wollaston Congregational church in the vestry on Thursday evening.

Francis Flahive of Freeman street left last week for Porto Rico, where he has accepted a position with the Stone-Welster Co.

GRAND CHANCELLOR.

Former Quincy Man Heads Massachusetts Knights of Pythias.

Grand Chancellor George W. Penniman of Brockton formerly of Quincy, was reelected head of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Knights of Pythias, at the annual convention in the Ford Building, Boston, on Thursday. The office was contested by James Hargraves of Fall River, who received 127 votes against 211 for Grand Chancellor Penniman. The other officers are: Grand vice-chancellor, George E. Cleaves of Malden; grand prelate, Rev. Allen A. Stockdale of Boston; grand keeper of records and seal, George H. Howe of Worcester; grand master of exchequer, W. F. Beaman of North Cambridge; grand master at arms, M. L. Welcker of Holyoke; grand inner guard, Will C. Eddy of Medford; grand outer guard, R. R. Ellingwood of Boston; grand trustee, Samuel Daniels of Roxbury; supreme representatives of four years, John Ballantyne of Roxbury and J. S. B. Clarke of Fall River.

Housekeepers will be interested in W. G. Shaw's ad today for he announces the sale of, or rental of the Peerless suction cleaner which is a labor saving device.

There are many business men—and the number is growing—who think that how the tariff is revised is of less consequence than that it shall be revised and done with, so that business may have a chance to revive. For a scientific revision of the tariff there is no way but through the establishment of a tariff commission, which is bound to come.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

It is said that Michigan land-lords want to amend our liquor laws so that the sale of all intoxicants will be limited to hotels. Close all saloons, they say, and sell liquors only in public hotels. What good would that do? Six months after the passage of such a law every saloon in Adrian would become a hotel, and we would have more taverns than there are drug stores in Kansas.—From the Adrian Times.

BASE BALL NOTES.

A hot game of ball is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon when the Fore River Apprentices clash with the nine from U. S. Scout cruiser Salem at the Fore River athletic field. The Salem players have been practicing every day rain or shine since they have been here and they say they are going to put it onto the "prentice boys."

The latter also have been getting in some good work and claim that the navy boys won't have a look-in. Considerable interest is being displayed about the game and there is much speculation as to the outcome. There is sure to be some great rooting for the Salem lads will be there strong to cheer their team. Several of the officers too have signified their intention to be present at the game and the jacks will surely get their support.

Manager Neary of the Apprentices is making arrangements for a big crowd, as he says there is a large delegation coming from the shipyard. This afternoon Quincy High plays the Tufts freshmen team at Merrymount park. Some hard work has been given the local lads since the Everett game and they expect to make a good showing against the Medford collegians.

Makaria, with three straight wins to her credit, will try to keep up the unbroken string in her game tomorrow when she meets the fast Boston Y. M. C. A. team at Merrymount park. Jimmy Michael will be on the rubber for the Quincy team and as the crack southpaw is going some this year, Makaria ought to take the Hub team into camp without much trouble.

Manager William McCarthy, the ex-Brocktonian, who is managing the Taunton Old Colony league team, has re-engaged the Taunton fair grounds for this season and will not have to move his team to another city as it was first thought would be necessary. The Taunton team is the first to appear against Quincy the new member of the league, and as they are the league champs they ought to draw a big crowd.

Fred Smith, last year star catcher for Makaria and now with the Providence Eastern leaguers, is in town for a few days and will play with Makaria tomorrow.

There are three games scheduled to be played Saturday at ten-thirty A. M. in the Boys' League of the Y. M. C. A. Wollaston Park vs. Bigelow Jrs., at Lower Merrymount park; Hancock A. C. vs. Highland Red Sox at Ward Two playground; and Christ church vs. South Quincy at Ward Three. All the teams are to meet at the Y. M. C. A. at ten o'clock where pictures are to be taken of each team and the group. Tomorrow's games are to be the most interesting so far and great interest is being shown by the boys.

Wednesday afternoon at Merrymount park the Quincy Grammar school and the Coddington Grammar school teams met in a hotly contested game, the game being finally won by Quincy school team, by a score of 16 to 4. The winning team is certainly doing some fine playing this year. Nat McClure is their pitcher and did good work. Harold Fratus is the man behind the bat and he does not need a basket to stop them. He also did some good throwing to the second base. C. Melanson, short stop, Harry Pitts, third base, showed them how to put the balls over to the first base, where Ted Dolquist was on the spot for all coming his way. Leonard Ward covered the centre field, catching two high ones in the field and one in the pitcher's box, where he worked the last inning. Jay Chasen the right fielder, took the cake by catching the last fly and the boys carried him home on their shoulders.

The next game for the Quincy school boys will take place on Ward Six playgrounds, with the Cranch Grammar school team next Monday.

W. W. Ellis the shoe dealer is announcing today a sale of summer shoes. His specialty for the week will be women's comfort shoes, which he has marked way down in price.

The Bread and Pipe Baker.

The lecturer at the cooking school sometimes enlivened her remarks with an anecdote.

"The eighteenth century baker," she said, "was a pipe cleaner as well, just as the barber a little earlier was a surgeon. Everybody in those days smoked clay pipes, provided, the same as cups or spoons, by the coffee houses. Well, each morning a waiter carried his master's stock of pipes—some hundred perhaps—to the nearest bakery. The baker would boil them out, then dip them in liquid lime, then bake them dry. They came out of the oven as sweet and white as new."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

A Popular Dye.

A small boy was one day sent for a pennyworth of indigo dye. He stopped to play marbles on the way and quite forgot what he was sent for. As he was determined to get it, he went into the chemist's shop and said to the assistant:

"What have people been dyeing with lately, please?"

"Indigo," was the answer.

"Ah! That must be it," said the boy. "Please give me a penn'orth"—London Illustrated Bits.

Saves Trouble.

"Why don't you come in occasionally between drinks," demanded the wife, "and see the play?"

"I don't need to," replied the bibulous husband. "The bartender is familiar with the plot, imitates the actors and also knows a lot of gossip about their personal and family affairs."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

PRETTY DECORATIONS.

AUTO KILLS AGED WOMAN

Accident Witnessed by Large Family Occupying the Machine

Cambridge, Mass., May 8.—A heavily laden automobile ran over and killed Mrs. Leslie Taylor, aged 60, here last evening. The chauffeur, Michael Marano, was arrested and committed to jail, but later released upon the deposit of $3000 by the owner of the car, Edward W. Skahan, a market gardener.

In the car at the time of the accident were Skahan, his wife and their six children, all of whom witnessed the death. It is claimed that Marano loudly tooted his horn, this apparently confusing Mrs. Taylor, who, after standing still in the middle of the street, walked directly in front of the machine.

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Colonial Theatre.

It seems to be a unanimous verdict that "A Stubborn Cinderella" which began an engagement at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, Monday May 3, is the best musical play that has been seen in this part of the country for some time. Those who have seen it speak of it in the highest possible terms and as a pleased audience is the best possible advertisement, the business is only limited by the capacity of the theatre. There is something to appeal to every taste in "A Stubborn Cinderella." It is described as a musical play, but that conveys no idea of the manifold beauties of the piece. The first act, opening on a college campus is all life and springtime. The second act which occurs after a landslide in Nevada is one of the funniest acts ever written. The last act with the Orange Fete at Coronado, California, is irresistibly beautiful. John Barrymore and Sallie Fisher have scored the biggest kind of a big hit. Mr. Barrymore has proven to be a comedian exactly to Boston's liking. Dainty little Sallie Fisher has won Boston's heart. Her voice is unusually sweet and musical, far above the average of musical comedy and her personality is the acme of magnetic.

Park Theatre.

"The Traveling Salesman" the comedy by James Forbes, which Henry B. Harris is presenting at the Park theatre, Boston, has exercised a theatrical hoodoo. For many years managers have been strongly averse to the production of a play in which a poker game is given prominence, for until "The Traveling Salesman" was produced every play with such an episode has been an out and out failure. Fortunately for Mr. Forbes Mr. Harris does not share the average theatrical superstition for Friday, the 13th, which, by the way, was the date "The Traveling Salesman" was first produced, is a lucky date to him. The numeral thirteen has figured in some of his great successes. For instance, there are thirteen letters in the title of "The Chorus Lady." So that the fact that "The Traveling Salesman" contained a poker game had no terrors for Mr. Harris, but other theatrical wisecracks favorably disposed to him, shook their heads ominously when they heard of a play with a jack-pot. Even the players engaged in its presentation quoted the old-time theatrical superstition. Few auditors who laugh and applaud the poker game realize the tremendous difficulties that confronted Mr. Forbes, not only in the writing but the staging of it. It is a singular fact that neither Mr. Forbes nor Mr. Mark Smith, the genial exponent of the title part, are poker players.

Castle Square Theatre.

Three weeks of "The Runaway Girl" are over, and a fourth begins at the Castle Square on Monday. This musical comedy has caught the public as immediately as "The Circus Girl" did last winter, and it gives still further evidence of the skill of the John Craig Stock Company. Nothing could be better than Mary Young's bright and sparkling Winifred Grey, nothing more comical than Donald Meek's Flipper, nothing more melodious than Louise Le Baron's Carmina and every other player in the cast contributes his share to the triumphant success of the production. But "The Runaway Girl" cannot go on forever, and although the final performances are not far off, the audience is not far from the future. It is therefore essential that all intending patrons should procure their seats at once, before it is too late, and they are disappointed in their desire to see "The Runaway Girl." At the close of the run of "The Runaway Girl" that delightful musical comedy, "The Geisha" will be produced by the John Craig Stock Company at the Castle Square.

Keith's Theatre.

The week of May 10th at Keith's theatre will be notable for another one of those star bills, made up largely of attractions that are usually seen in the legitimate houses at high prices. One of the best features will be Bert Williams of the Williams and Walker Company, who has been engaged for a special season to do an act that will introduce some of his latest successes. This foremost delineator of the Southern negro, with all his joyous, melodious revelry will be seen under circumstances more interesting than ever before in vaudeville or anywhere else. The important dramatic feature will be Valerie Bergere and Company, presenting an entirely new company in "His Japanese Wife." Still another big feature will be Clara Belle Jerome and Company in a splendid musical production entitled "Joyland," which has been a big New York success. Others on the bill are the Sutillo Trio, the singing comedy duo, the singing comedienne, Ben Beyer and Brother and others.

Boston Theatre.

Chauncey Olcott has always occupied a prominent place in the affections of the playgoers of New England and Manager Augustus Plowry's policy of presenting his star in a new play every season has only served to more deeply interest the popular Irish singing comedian in the minds and hearts of people who look to the playhouse for the greater part of their entertainment. The Boston theatre is the scene of Mr. Olcott's visit to New England this year and he will be seen nowhere else in this section of the country this season. Mr. Olcott's latest play, entitled "Ragged Robin" and it enters upon its second week in Boston on Monday, not only with the warm endorsement of all of the Boston newspapers but with a week's record of capacity audiences and a great advance sale for the coming six days. The beautiful incidental music was composed by Frederick Knight Logan, formerly musical director for Maude Adams. Regular matinees are on Wednesday and Saturday.

Orpheum Theatre.

It was no easy task that the management of the Orpheum theatre set out to accomplish in arranging a bill for the coming week that would be equal to the star bill of last week, but a glance over the list of headline features that have been secured is all that is necessary to convince the most skeptical. The headline feature Fred Karno's big comedy and pantomime troupe in the success of two continents, "The Humming Birds" or as it is better known, "A Night In An English Music Hall." This act is not unknown to Bostonians who will readily admit that it is the funniest that has ever been imported from England. In reality it means two hours of rapid action compressed into the space of 30 minutes of roaring fun. A feature which has already attracted much attention from music lovers will be the song-writers contest, which will be open to all song writers who have never scored a song success. A $100 cash prize will be awarded the most popular song entered, and the decision will rest entirely with the audience. This is going to be an excellent opportunity for undiscovered genius.

For the Ledger.

STATE HOUSE LETTER.

Boston, May 5, 1909.

Storm clouds are not as thick over the dome as they were at the beginning of the week. It seemed as if Senate and House would clash over the Norman White matter. But the sober members have seen all the time what utter folly the entire sensation was and now the incident is in fair way to be smothered. The hot and unconsidered utterance of an excitable member of the House, taken up with more zeal for senatorial dignity than comported with the judicial settlement of the question brought about the demonstration by the House in favor of Representative White. But the Senate laid the order suggesting discipline by the House over to Monday, and then referred it by roll call of 22 to 11 to the committee on rules. The 11 wanted to kill it on the spot. Most of the others doubtless desired to smother it. The House postponed for a week an order looking to assertion of the right of free speech, which was put in as a defiance of the Senate. When it comes up, the equilibrium of the bodies will probably be restored and then the entire matter can be killed as it ought to be.

Business has been dispatched rapidly by the House this week. Evidently the administration has seen that it was being fooled with by elements which would like to discredit it, and it seems to have got together so that, in a very smooth and imperceptible way, after a fashion, the machine has been turning off more business than ever. Speeches have been cut down to the unprecedented shortness of five minutes each, except in case of the opening on each side, which are given 10 minutes. The new rule just halves the time previously permitted. Then, too, new and obscure members have taken to moving the previous question in a way indicating that they have been prompted thereto. So the wheels are buzzing merrily and the calendar is reduced.

Gov. Draper keeps in pretty close touch with the legislature and the executive and legislative departments are working harmoniously. All together, they have not given much encouragement yet to the critics.

The most perplexing matter remaining before the legislature is the Boston charter, for that promises to make more trouble than the merger. City and state politics are involved and there are three distinct factions in the city to reckon with. These are the Democrats and the two wings of the Republicans. Of course the Democrats want to retain, as far as possible, the present form of the legislative department. There is one faction of the Republicans who wish to enact the scheme of the finance commission, abolishing the present city council of two branches and substituting a single chamber of nine persons. There is another faction which would retain the two chamber system, and have for a lower branch a council composed of one representative of each of the 25 wards. There is division over the referendum, and the dilemma has been met, not by giving the people a choice between a plan offered by the committee and the present system, but by giving them a choice between these alternatives of the committee. Thus the demand for a referendum is partially met, but the substance is very shadowy. There is a recall, or opportunity to vote upon the continuance of the mayor after two years out of a term of four years. These are some of the points in the bill drawn by a subcommittee for the full committee. But it is certain, as the bill stands, that there will be a bitter contest.

"Everybody is asleep," says one of the best informed members regarding the merger situation. Gov. Draper sent in his message recommending a holding corporation to take care of the Billard stock. Norman White, as the leading anti-merger member in the legislature had been taken into confidence and into camp, apparently. Now comes some diplomacy, playing for position, or whatever it may be called. Gov. Draper wants the railroad committee to go ahead and draw a bill on the line of his message.

"No, sir-ee," replies the committee, "not till we know something more about the case. We have not sufficient facts in our possession. Tell us more of what you know." "Not much," replies his excellency. "We won't budge," says the committee. Then the governor yields sufficiently to say that Attorney General Malone will prepare an administration bill which the committee can have as a basis for work. But the attorney general does not know when he can have the bill ready. In the meantime, "everybody is asleep," and the progress of events halts. Mergerites and anti-mergerites have professed that they were satisfied with the governor's proposition, but, at the hearing on the message the anti-mergerites showed that they are as persistent as ever and so the whole situation is up in the air yet.

By a unanimous vote the House ordered to a third reading the amendment to permit the use of voting machines. On the next stage nobody spoke against it, but the roll call showed 153 yeas to 29 nays and four pairs on the second stage. It has yet to go to the Senate, but there is no reason to expect its defeat. The bill to distribute the franchise taxes of corporations to the cities and towns where the property is located, instead of according to the residence of the stockholders, has been referred to the House ways and means committee, for it was found that it involved a loss of $575,000 a year to the state.

The House enacted this forenoon the bill to take out the word "labor" from the name of the bureau of statistics, in spite of the protest of labor men, including Mellen and Carmody of Worcester.

By 23 to 11 this afternoon the Senate has passed to be engrossed the House bill to make eight hours a legal day's work for all public employees. Efforts were made to amend it to cover particular points, but answer was made that all necessary points were covered by the bill as it stood, regarding emergencies, employees of state institutions where an eight hour shift seems to be impossible, and other points. This action seems to make it certain that the bill will get to the governor. What he will do with it is the question.

The Senate has killed the House bill to require photographs or descriptions of drunkards to be filed with saloon keepers by persons who forbid the keepers to sell liquor to the drunkards. It was thought to be too much of an advertisement of weak men and of family troubles and disgrace for such pictures and descriptions to be displayed publicly.

By the unanimous vote of the Senate, without debate, against Thomas L. Hisgen's bill to prohibit discriminations between places in the sale of articles and commodities in common use, the end has come for this year to the promising effort of the former candidate for the presidency to establish justice for his fellow men.

The House has referred to the next legislature the bill to raise the number of people necessary for one liquor license from 100 to 1,200, with certain limitations. It was said that the committee on liquor law never passed upon the bill as it was reported and the committee did not seem to care much for it. So it was sent where all doubtful projects are sent, when they do not care to defeat them outright.

NAVAL REFORMS BY NEWBERRY

Made a Target For Savage Attack by Admiral Melville

MEYER TO PUT ON THE SCREWS

Secretary of Navy Will Call Officer to Account For Criticisms Which Reflected Personally on Predecessor, Whose Action Was Declared to Be Un-American and Thoroughly Counter to Teachings of History

Washington, May 8.—Secretary of the Navy Meyer says that he will take cognizance of the remark made Thursday night by Rear Admiral Melville at the meeting of the American Society of Engineers, in which the retired officer made a savage attack on the recently adopted reforms in the navy.

Admiral Melville's assault upon the Newberry reorganization plan is the boldest stroke yet that has been leveled against it, and quite eclipses the "secret and confidential" circular sent out recently by the line officers at the League Island navy yard.

Little doubt is felt among officers here that Melville will be called to account for his caustic criticisms, which reflected personally on former Secretary Newberry. Under the old administration of the department such an attack would have brought immediate censure. Just what action is taken in this case will indicate the degree of tolerance of criticism to be shown by the present administration. Melville is quoted as saying:

"It is so marvelous as to be beyond belief, that in this age of specialization a movement so absolutely counter to the spirit of the age as the abolishment of the separate departments in the navy yards and their consolidation under one officer should take place in the name of economy and reform."

"What can be thought of the official who plans to discredit the men who have such a good record, and destroy the autonomy of the bureau of steam engineering by subordinating it to the bureau charged with the design of hulls."

"Attempts have been made to explain why a secretary who, as a graduate of the Sheffield Scientific school, might be supposed to have some appreciation of engineering administration should go so thoroughly counter to the teachings of history and to the spirit of the age, but none of them has been at all satisfactory, and I am content to let that side of the question drop by again expressing my complete inability to understand his actions."

"If the officers in an organization whose efficiency is dependent upon the skill of engineers do not live up to their duty the men relied upon for such work would be relegated to a position of inferiority so low that they are hardly contented."

"This is utterly un-American, and can only be matched by absolute monarchies. The speedy destruction of the Spanish navy in 1898 was due even more to her utter incompetence in engineering than in gunnery. The only justification for the personnel law, adopted ten years ago, was the statement made by former President Roosevelt, that 'on the modern war vessel every officer has to be an engineer.'"

JORDAN JUROR A MANIAC

New Trial For Convicted Murderer Is Now Considered Probable

Boston, May 8.—The Post says: William A. White of Maynard, one of the jurors in the Jordan trial, became violently insane yesterday. Dr. Frederick U. Rich, who until a year ago had been his family physician, and who examined him yesterday, declares that the man is not only now insane but has been insane for years.

Today White will probably be taken to Worcester asylum, and at once Mr. Bartlett, who knows of White's condition, will move for a new trial for Jordan on the ground that one of the jurors who convicted him was a lunatic.

Lawyers agree that it is very probable that a new trial will be granted. Last night White, raving mad, was guarded by the police in his home in Maynard, his malady having taken a violent turn, due to the strain of the past few weeks.

Polly of the Circus

A temporary curtain was hung between the main and the dressing tent to shut out the curious mob that tried to peep in at the back lot for a glimpse of things not to be seen in the ring.

Colored streamers fastened to the roofs of the tents waved and floated in the night air and beckoned to the townspeople on the other side to make haste to get their places, forget their cares and be children again.

Over the tops of the tents the lurid light of the distant red fire shot into the sky, accompanied by the cries of the peanut "butchers," the popcorn boys, the lemonade venders and the exhortations of the sideshow spieler, whose flying banners bore the painted reproductions of his freaks. Here and there stood unlit chariots, half filled with trunks, trapeze tackle, paper hoops, stake pullers or other properties necessary to the show.

Torches flamed at the tent entrances, while oil lamps and lanterns gave light for the loading of the wagons. There was a constant stream of life shooting in and out from the dressing tent to the big top as gayly decked men, women and animals came or went.

Drowsy dogs were stretched under the wagons, waiting their turn to be dressed as lions or bears. The wise old goose, with his modest gray mate, pecked at the green grass or turned his head from side to side, watching the singing clown, who rolled up the painted carcass and long neck of the imitation giraffe from which two property men had just slipped, their legs still incased in stripes.

Ambitious canvases and grooms were exercising, feet in air, in the hope of some day getting into the performers' ring. Property men stole a minute's sleep in the soft warm grass while they waited for more tackle to load in the wagons. Children of the performers were swinging on the tent ropes. Chattering monkeys sat astride the Shetland ponies, awaiting their entrance to the ring. The shrieks of the hyenas in the distant animal tent, the roaring of the lions and the trumpeting of the elephants mingled with the incessant clamor of the band. And back of all this, pointing upward in mute protest, rose a solemn church spire, white and majestic against a vast panorama of blue, moonlit hills that encircled the whole lurid picture. Jim's eyes turned absently toward the church as he sat fumbling with the lock of the little brown satchel.

He had gone from store to store in the various towns where they had played looking for something to inspire wonder in the heart of a miss newly arrived at her sixteenth year. Only the desperation of a last moment had forced him to decide upon the imitation alligator bag, which he now held in his hand.

It looked small and mean to him as the moment of presentation approached, and he was glad that the saleswoman in the little country store had suggested the addition of ribbons and laces, which he now drew from the pocket of his corduroys. He placed his red and blue treasures very carefully in the bottom of the satchel and remembered with regret the strand of coral beads which he had so nearly bought to go with them.

He opened the large property trunk by his side and took from it a laundry box which held a little tan coat that was to be Toby's contribution to the birthday surprise. He was big hearted enough to be glad that Toby's gift seemed fine and more useful than his.

It was only when the "leap of death" act preceding Polly's turn was announced that the big fellow gave up feasting his eyes on the satchel and coat and hid them away in the big property trunk. She would be out in a minute, and these wonders were not to be revealed to her until the close of the night's performance.

Jim put down the lid of the trunk and sat upon it, feeling like a criminal because he was hiding something from Polly.

His consciousness of guilt was increased as he recalled how often she had forbidden Toby and himself to rush into reckless extravagances for her sake and how she had been more nearly angry than he had ever seen her when they had put their month's salaries together to buy her the spangled dress for her first appearance. It had taken a great many apologies and promises as to their future behavior to calm her, and now they had again disobeyed her. It would be a great relief when tonight's ordeal was over.

Jim watched Polly uneasily as she came from the dressing tent and stopped to gaze at the nearby church steeple. The incongruity of the slang that soon came from her delicately formed lips was lost upon him as she turned her eyes toward him.

"Say, Jim," she said, with a western drawl, "them's a funny lot of guys what goes to them church places, ain't they?"

"Most everybody has got some kind of a bug," Jim assented. "I guess they don't do much harm."

"Member the time you took me into one of them places to get me outa the rain, the Sunday our wagon broke down? Well, that bunch we butted into wouldn't a' give Sells Bros. no cause for worry with that show a' theirs, would they, Jim?" She looked at him with withering disgust. "Say, wasn't that the punkiest stunt that fellow in black was doin' on the platform? You said Joe was only ten minutes 'gettin' the fire on our wheel; but, say, you take it from me, Jim, if I had to wait another ten minutes as long as that one I'd be too old to go on a ride!"

Jim "loved" some church shows might be better than "that un," but Polly said he could have her end of the belt and summed up by declaring it no wonder that "the yaps in these towns is daffy about circuses if they don't have nothin' better 'n church shows to go to."

"One of the grooms was entering the lot with Polly's horse. She stooped to tighten one of her sandals, and as she rose Jim saw her sway slightly and put one hand to her head. He looked at her sharply, remembering her faintness in the parade that morning. "You ain't feelin' right," he said uneasily.

"You just bet I am," Polly answered, with an independent toss of her head. "This is the night we're goin' to make them Rubes in there sit up, ain't it, Bingo?" she added, placing one arm affectionately about the neck of the big white horse that stood waiting near the entrance.

"You bin ridin' too reckless lately," said Jim sternly as he followed her. "I don't like it. There ain't no need of your puttin' in all them extra stunts. Your act is good enough without 'em. Nobody else ever done 'em, an' nobody 'd miss 'em if you left 'em out."

Polly turned with a triumphant ring in her voice. The music was swelling for her entrance.

"You ain't my mother, Jim; you're my grandmother," she taunted, and

"Most everybody has got some kind of a bug," Jim assented.

with a crack of her whip she was away on Bingo's back.

"It's the spirit of the dead one that's got into her," Jim mumbled as he turned away, still seeing the flash in the departing girl's eyes.

CHAPTER III.

POLLY and Bingo always made the audience "sit up" when they swept into the ring. She was so young, so gayly clad, so light and joyous in all her poses. She seemed scarcely to touch the back of the white horse as they dashed round the ring in the glare of the tent lights. The other performers went through their work mechanically while Polly rode.

As for Polly, her work had never lost its first interest. Jim may have been right when he said that the spirit of the dead mother had got into her, but it must have been an unsatisfied spirit, unable to fulfill its ambition in the body that once held it, for it sometimes played strange pranks with Polly. Tonight her eyes shone and her lips were parted in anticipation as she leaped lightly over the many colored streamers of the wheel of silver ribbons held by Barker in the center of the ring and by Toby and the tumbler on the edge of the bank.

With each change of her act the audience cheered and frantically applauded. The band played faster; Bingo's pace increased; the end of her turn was coming. The tumbler arranged themselves around the ring with paper hoops. Bingo was fairly racing. She went through the first hoop with a crash of tearing paper.

"Heigh, Bingo!" she shouted as she bent her knees to make ready for the final leap.

Bingo's neck was stretched. He had never gone so fast before. Barker looked uneasy. Toby forgot to go on with his accustomed tricks. Jim watched anxiously from the entrance.

The paper of one hoop was still left unbroken. The attendant turned his eyes to glance at the oncoming girl. The hoop shifted slightly in his clumsy hand as Polly leaped straight up from Bingo's back, trusting to her first calculation. Her forehead struck the edge of the hoop. She clutched wildly at the air. Bingo galloped on, and she fell to the ground, striking her head against the ironbound stake at the edge of the ring.

Everything stopped. There was a gasp of horror. The musicians dropped their instruments. Bingo halted and looked back uneasily. She lay unconscious and seemingly lifeless.

A great cry went up in the tent. Panic stricken men, women and children began to clamber down from their seats, while others nearest the ground attempted to jump into the ring. Barker, still grasping his long whip, rushed to the girl's side and shouted wildly to Toby:

"Say something, you. Get 'em back!" Old Toby turned his white face to the crowd. His features worked convulsively, but he could not speak. His grief was so grotesque that the few who saw him laughed hysterically. He could not even go to Polly. His feet seemed pinned to the earth.

Jim rushed into the tent at the first cry of the audience. He lifted the limp form tenderly and, kneeling in the ring, held her bruised head in his hands.

"Can't you get a doctor?" he shouted desperately to Barker.

"Here's the doctor!" some one called, and a stranger came toward them. He bent over the seemingly lifeless form, his fingers on the tiny wrist, his ear to the heart.

"Well, sir?" Jim faltered, for he had caught the puzzled look in the doctor's eyes as his deft hand pressed the cruelly wounded head.

"I can't tell just yet," said the doctor. "She must be taken away."

"Where can we take her?" asked Jim, a look of terror in his great, troubled eyes.

"The parsonage is the nearest house," said the doctor. "I am sure the pastor will be glad to have her there until we can find out how badly she is hurt."

In an instant Barker was back in the center of the ring. He announced that Polly's injuries were slight, called the attention of the audience to the wonderful concert to take place and bade them make ready for the thrilling chariot race.

Jim, blind with despair, lifted the light burden and staggered out of the tent, while the band played furiously and the people fell back into their seats. The Roman chariots thundered and clattered around the outside of the ring, the audience cheered the winner of the race, and for the moment Polly was forgotten.

CHAPTER IV.

THE glare of the circus band had been a sore temptation to Mandy Jones all afternoon and evening. Again and again it had dragged her from her work to the study window, from which she could see the wonders so tantalizingly near.

Mandy was housekeeper for the Rev. John Douglas, but the unwashed supper dishes did not trouble her as she watched the lumbering elephants, the restless lions, the long necked giraffes and the striped zebras that came and went in the nearby circus lot. And yet, in spite of her own curiosity, she could not forgive her vagrant "worse half," Hasty, who had been lured from duty early in the day. She had once dubbed him Hasty in a spirit of derision, and the name had clung to him. The sarcasm seemed doubly appropriate tonight, for he had been away since 10 that morning, and it was now past 9.

The young pastor for a time had enjoyed Mandy's tirades against her husband, but when she began calling shrilly out of the window to chance acquaintances for news of him he slipped quietly into the next room to finish tomorrow's sermon. Mandy renewed her operations at the window with increased vigor when the pastor had gone. She was barely saved from pitching headfirst into the lot by the timely arrival of Deacon Strong's daughter, who managed with difficulty to connect the excited woman's feet with the floor.

"Foh de Lor' sake!" Mandy gasped as she stood panting for breath and blinking at the pretty, young, apple faced Julia. "I was suah most gone dat time." Then followed another outburst against the delinquent Hasty.

But the deacon's daughter did not hear. Her eyes were already wandering anxiously to the lights and the tinsel of the little world beyond the window.

This was not the first time today that Mandy had found herself talking to space. There had been a steady stream of callers at the parsonage since 11 that morning, but she had long ago confided to the pastor that she suspected their reasons.

FOR MOTHERS AND LABOR

Our Country Has Become Interested in Second Sunday in May

Philadelphia, May 8.—To a Philadelphia woman, Miss Anna Jarvis, belongs the honor of originating the observance throughout the country of the second Sunday in May as "Mothers' day," a day set apart for the mothers of the nation. Reports coming here from all sections indicate that the day will be more generally observed than it was last year or the year before, when the observance of the day began.

The outward sign of the observance is the wearing of a white carnation. In an address to the people of West Virginia asking the people of the state to remember the day Governor Glasscock requested them to wear the white carnation "because its whiteness stands for purity, its form for beauty, its fragrance for love and its lasting qualities for faithfulness—all a true mother's virtues." General Henry M. Nevius, commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and Edgar Allen, Jr., commander in chief of the Sons of Veterans, have asked the members of the two organizations to wear the emblem of the day. In South Dakota "Mothers' day" has been set aside as a state holiday by Governor Vessey. Throughout the country services will be held in the churches in honor of the mothers.

In most of the Presbyterian churches of the country and in some of the churches of other denominations tomorrow will also be observed as "Labor Sunday." The second Sunday in May has been designated by the American Federation of Labor and by the department of church and labor of the Presbyterian church as "Labor Sunday," to be observed by the attendance in church of labor union members and by the discussion from the pulpit of some phase of the labor question.

UNANIMOUS FOR THE CAVANAGH LOT

Houghs Neck Associates So Vote In Mass Meeting.

A largely attended mass meeting was held at The Palms, Houghs Neck, last night, in the interest of the Houghs Neck school lot. Capt. Oliver G. Fosdick presided and among the speakers were Daniel Maloney, Henry French, P. M. Brown, Ernest Norteman, Thomas Dwyer, Neil J. Regan, James E. Wall, Archie F. Baird, John T. Cavanagh and Councilmen Joseph L. Whiton, Jr., and James E. Nowland.

Capt. Fosdick spoke a few words of welcome and tried to impress on those present the importance of the meeting. He gave as his reason for the necessity of a school at Houghs Neck, the safety of the children, who were, he said, open to many dangers, morally and physically, going to and from school on the crowded cars.

Daniel Maloney was the first speaker and he said that he favored the Cavanagh lot because it was central from every point. He said that a school erected there would be a monument to intelligence.

Henry W. French argued in favor of the Norteman lot saying that there were more winter residents in the Post Island and Germantown district than at Houghs Neck. He said his convictions had been strengthened by the opinions of many thinking men.

P. M. Brown favored the Cavanagh lot. He said that he thought the City Council would give the school.

The chairman then read a letter from Walter H. Bentley, principal of the Coddington school. Mr. Bentley wrote that he was heartily in favor of a school at Houghs Neck and promised his warm support in whatever measures were taken. He stated also that 125 children came regularly from Houghs Neck to the Coddington school.

A letter of regret was also read from Councilman Gilson.

The next speaker Ernest Norteman said that the Houghs Neck Associates would gain nothing by wrangling. He stated that the committee from the Council favored his lot because it was the most suitable.

Thomas Dwyer, a real estate man, said the Cavanagh lot was the most ideal spot on the beach for a school. He also stated that the price was more than reasonable, for in purchasing land himself in that vicinity, he found that the prices asked were invariably higher than Cavanagh's.

Neil J. Regan, Archie F. Baird and James E. Wall all spoke in favor of the Cavanagh lot.

John T. Cavanagh said that the reason he didn't enter the fight was that he thought if the people wanted his land they would come after it.

He also said he would stand by any price agreed upon by any three men if his price was not agreeable.

The question was then put to a vote and nearly everyone rose in favor of the Cavanagh lot.

The last two speakers were Councilmen Whiton and Nowland, the former in favor of the Cavanagh lot, the latter not stating his position.

PROGRESS IN SAVINGS INSURANCE.

Applications for savings life insurance policies are now being received at the office of the State Actuary in Boston at an average rate of one hundred a week. That would mean, even if the rate should be maintained without increase and allowance should be made for some failures to pass the medical examinations and for some lapses, that at the end of a year nearly five thousand Massachusetts citizens would be holders of policies that have been issued by savings banks on a basis of actual cost. With the multiplication of agencies of the savings and insurance banks the weekly volume of applications will be likely greatly to increase.

In the week ending May 1 excellent results were reached in several places, as for instance in Haverhill at the establishments of Charles K. Fox Co., H. C. Goodrich and Co., and J. H. Winchell Company; in Lowell at the factory of the American Hide and Leather Company; in Beverly at the United Shoe Machinery Company and in South Framingham at the factory of the Dennison Manufacturing Company. The returns from the last named establishment are somewhat exceptional because out of about $11,000 of insurance applications taken more than two thirds were from women. It has proved in some places rather more difficult to interest the women than the men in insurance and old age pensions but not in Framingham. Everywhere the employees consider the project with keen interest and a considerable number can be depended upon to take action as they come to understand the advantages which the Commonwealth has provided.

The Quincy Cooperative Bank has just declared a semi-annual dividend of two and three quarters per cent. Twenty years have now elapsed since beginning a business, which has been an unflinching success. The first yearly statement showed assets of $11,000, the last $429,000. Shares in forty first series are now for sale as per ad.

Comfortable Furniture Makes Home Attractive

When homes are made more attractive, husbands will forsake the lodge and club and the children will find more pleasure in the house than on the streets. The first thing to consider is the furniture. Spend a few dollars in making the dining room a more cheerful place to linger after the evening meal.

Fix up a cozy den where husband may read smoke or study as he wishes. Provide the library with comfortable chairs and a couch. Brighten up the parlor with a new three piece suite to match the room decorations.

Take the old beds out of the bed rooms and sell them to the second hand man or we will take them and make you a reasonable allowance. Then put in their places inexpensive but pretty, clean looking iron or brass beds.

These are just a few suggestions. Well you not stop in our store soon and see what a little money is required to accomplish these things? We'll welcome you and gladly show you our line whether you purchase or not.

The many friends of Miss Sibylla A. Pfaffmann have tenderest memories to cherish, for her life was so pure, so unselfish, so helpful that its passing means a heavy loss, not only to her immediate family but to all with whom she was in any wise associated. Her life was more than a common one. She was ever ready with the charitable word, the kind expression and courteous deed. She possessed a nature of great simplicity and modesty and was rich with intellectual powers of a high order. During her long illness she was unflinching and appreciative of every attention and kept her cheerfulness and sweetness of disposition to the last. Her death was as serene as her life.

The Phi Delta Alpha club held its annual May first party in Old Fellows' hall, Wollaston. The evening's entertainment was opened by a sketch entitled "A Precious Pickle," which was very well given by the following cast. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kay and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson.

MOTHER'S DAY.

About three years ago an appreciative daughter desired to commemorate the anniversary of her mother's death. It was not only the thought of laying some flowers on mother's grave, but it occurred to her that it would be a beautiful tribute to all mothers, the living as well as the dead, if their children, on a given day, would unite in the simple wearing of a white flower and thus make Mothers' Day universal. The purposes of Mothers' Day, as conceived by Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, U. S. A., with whom it originated, is a day in which all lands as one nation may unite in honor of mother.

The second Sunday in May of each year is proposed as the day when mother is to be specially remembered and universal motherhood exalted in the esteem of every man, woman and child. The plan is to make it not only a sentimental observance, but as far as possible to clothe it with the sanctity and dynamic power that comes from concerted action. The wearing of a white carnation, or other white flower, the beautiful emblem of truth and purity, will be filial evidence that the bearer loves to honor his mother living, or her memory if dead.

If away, from home on this day, write mother a love letter, send her a telegram, use the long-distance phone, or the special delivery of the post office.

The white carnation stands for purity; its form, beauty; its fragrance, love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting qualities, faithfulness—all virtues of a true motherhood.

The International Maternal Association at its annual meeting in Brookline last Tuesday voted unanimously to endorse the movement. Throughout the west great interest centers in the observance of the day and in many large cities the press, the mayor, the fraternal organizations are uniting with the churches in celebrating it. In New England the day has not yet been observed to any extent though a few of the more progressive churches will do so tomorrow. Here in Quincy, Bethany and the Washington Street churches both observe the day. At Bethany church in addition to special sermon and music every worshiper will receive a white carnation for the service. Arrangements have been made to care for the children in the chapel during the service so mothers with small children may attend. This is a worthy cause and it is hoped ere long all the churches will observe the day.

MILTON.

At the East Milton Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at quarter of four, a meeting will be held for men only, to be addressed by Prof. H. W. Magoun of Cambridge. Mr. Wetmore will sing. The lecture is under the auspices of the Men's Bible class and they extend a cordial invitation to all men of the town to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gibbs of East Milton are recovering from a few weeks' serious illness.

H. H. Clayton, for so many years identified with the work at the Blue Hill Observatory, has resigned and will devote himself to aeronautics, lecturing and writing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Estey Hinckley, widow of Thomas H. Hinckley, the artist, died at the old Hinckley home, Brook road on Sunday after a brief illness. Funeral services were held Thursday and burial was in the Milton cemetery.

The Pop concert next Thursday evening at the Town hall is for the benefit of Dr. Grenfell's work in Labrador. A long list of subscribers assures a large attendance.

The last meeting of the Milton Woman's club season was held Monday, when Mrs. Margaret Deland spoke interestingly on "The value of the novel." The president announced the chairman of committees as follows:

A few weeks ago a dapper young man canvassed Mansfield in the interests of a portrait house. He was "just advertising" the work and would enlarge any photograph free of cost. He was so innocently earnest that he left town with several orders. Monday another chap came to town to deliver these advertisements but he charged $5.50 for the frame and picture, and would neither give the photograph nor the portrait unless a "frame was bought. He met with protests, but in many cases he got by, for he threatened prosecution, etc. etc. According to the late lamented and oft-quoted Barnum, the average human being feels that he has been ill-treated unless he one fools him, humbugs and skins him once or twice during each succeeding year.—Mansfield News.

Sometimes at sea then a vessel is disabled other vessels pass her giving no heed to her signals of distress. But some vessel ultimately goes to her assistance and perhaps tow her into port. In life selfish men pass the unfortunate by and bestow no thought upon their condition. Yet, after all, the world is full of unselfish and helping souls that delight to do good to others and that fact should make us optimistic as to life and humanity.—Whitman Times.

EAST BRAINTREE.

Friday morning the pupils of the Jonas Perkins school had the pleasure of listening to a very interesting talk on the "Cultivation and manufacture of rubber." This talk was given by James H. Steadman, of Braintree who kept the children keenly interested in all he had to say, and in the specimens of rubber in its various stages which he brought with him.

The last monthly supper of the Social club for the season, took place in the banquet room of the Union church Wednesday evening. After the supper the business meeting and election of officers for the ensuing year occurred. William F. Curtis of East Braintree was elected president, C. Fred Tarbox of Weymouth, first vice-president, Mrs. Baraud of Weymouth, second vice-president, and Miss Amelia Raasch of East Braintree, secretary. The Social club voted to give $25 to the parish and $25 to the choir toward current expenses. After the business meeting Rev. L. W. Attwood of South Weymouth gave a most enjoyable account of his experiences in the beautiful kingdom of Japan. Everybody was charmed with the novelty with which the speaker illustrated the manners and customs of that interesting land.

The regular meeting of the J. P. S. A. will be held on Thursday evening, May 13. This is the annual meeting for the election of officers, hearing reports of the several committees and officers. It is hoped that every member of the association and any interested in its welfare will be present at this meeting.

The pupils of the Jonas Perkins school are becoming much interested in starting both flower and vegetable gardens at home. Besides the satisfaction of having a garden "all their own" there have been three prizes offered to the three children having the three best gardens. First prize is $3, second $2, and third $1.

At the Union church, Sunday morning, the Rev. F. H. Knight, Ph. D., superintendent, will speak and unfold the work of the New England Home for Little Wanderers. A choir of children from the home will be present and sing. A collection will be taken.

Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock there will be a vesper service at the Union church, concluding the series on "Great hymns and noble hymnwriters." The choir will have the assistance of Miss Anna H. Ellis, contralto soloist of Braintree.

On Thursday evening, May 13, at the hour of the mid-week prayer meeting, at the Union church, superintendent Gray of home missionary work in Wyoming will be present and speak of his work, among cowboys, ranchmen and outlaws in the "Hole-in-the-Wall" country. He spoke before the Pilgrim club in Boston on Monday and so replete with thrilling interest were his experiences that he received a dozen invitations to speak in the churches at once. Everybody welcomed to these services.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Rhoades have been in New York this week.

Miss Elva Bates of Sampson avenue was surprised Tuesday evening by about 25 members of the Krow Eldeen Society of the South M. E. church, who gave her a shower. Music was enjoyed and light refreshments were served.

Mrs. John N. Rodgers and Miss Marion Arnold of Washington street sailed Wednesday for a trip to the Bermudas.

A. A. Thorndike and family will return to their Braintree home May 10. Mrs. Henry C. Richards and daughters of Newbury street, Boston, were the recent guests of Miss L. N. Thayer.

Mrs. James Annis of Sherbrooke avenue has been quite ill since Monday.

George E. Sampson rented this week the house of Mr. Cavanagh on School street to George H. Thurber of Quincy.

The last of the health lectures by William A. Spinney, which have interested several people, was given at the Cochato clubhouse on Tuesday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church will hold its last sewing meeting of the year at 2 P. M. Wednesday. A business meeting will follow at 3 P. M. The alarm from Box 41 last Saturday evening was for the burning of the barn of Mr. McCrea on Middle street. It made a brilliant illumination. The cause was probably incendiary.

A Tonawanda (N. Y.) firm has completed a sample order of three thousand packages of compressed haversack rations for the use of the United States Army. The rations are packed in a watertight box 2 3/4 inches long, 2 1/4 inches wide and 1 1/8 inches thick. The articles contained are: Salt, 16 ounces; pepper, 2 ounces, sugar, 24 ounces, and coffee, 112 ounces, sufficient for one soldier for a day. The coffee is compressed under twelve tons pressure and is reduced one-third in bulk. The salt is prepared under five tons pressure and the pepper is placed in a capsule inserted in a wooden holder. Each article is wrapped in waterproof paper and the whole is placed in a watertight box.

A Very Restful Rest.
Adolf Menzel, the German artist, was at one time engaged on a mural decoration. He had rigged up a scaffolding in his studio, on which his model was requested to stand. For two long hours the poor poseur stood up aloft in a most fatiguing posture. Menzel in the meantime worked at his sketch, heedless of the fact that his model was growing tired.

At length the model found it necessary to speak. "Herr professor," said he, "how about a recess?" Menzel apologized profusely for his forgetfulness. "Certainly, certainly, my dear sir," said he. "Come down and rest yourself a bit."

The model had clambered from the scaffolding to the ladder, which led down from it to the studio floor. "Stop!" cried the artist suddenly. "That pose is fine! Don't move a muscle!"

And once more the model was forced into strained rigidity, while the enthusiastic draftsman set about sketching him.

At the end of half an hour Menzel looked up from his work. "There," said he; "that will do nicely! Get back on the scaffold. We have had our rest. Let us get back to work again."

What the model said is left to the reader's imagination.

Scotland and Horse Racing.
Scotland has been famous for its horses from the most ancient days. When Agricola defeated the Caledonians at the battle of the Grampians, A. D. 84, the Celtic enemy, as Tacitus relates, were exceptionally strong in cavalry and charioteers. Successive kings of Scotland did much to improve its native breed of horses, and in this connection it is not to be forgotten that the first Scottish king of England, James I., did more to improve the race horses on his island than was ever done before him or has ever been done by any individual since. James I. was the real author of horse racing as it has since been known in England. He it was who first established regular courses, and during his reign there came into being the code of regulations that led up to the modern laws of the turf. Nobody denies that horse racing has done much for the breed of British horses. It was a gift from Scotland.—London Answers.

Sizing Up Bernard Shaw.
Bernard Shaw is thus immortalized by Charles Hawtrey, the well known English comedian: "Once on a time I had a mad desire to produce Shaw's play of 'You Never Can Tell.' I wrote to Shaw and asked his permission. He answered that he would come and read it to me. He did and began by saying that sometimes he thought it was the best play that ever was written and at others he considered it the greatest trash. Anyhow, he was of opinion that it was a pretty poor play and that if I produced it—well, I must take the consequences. Some time afterward I asked Shaw if I could compress the last act. He declined to allow one line to be altered or cut out. In view of certain contingencies I had at last to tell him that I couldn't produce the play. His answer was: 'Thank you so much! You have taken a great load off my mind.' Now, what are you to do with a man like that?"—Minneapolis Journal.

Domestic Bliss.
They had been trotting in double harness for seven long, weary months, and the honeymoon had bumped the bumps for fair.
"John," she said, as she dished out the breakfast food, "I need a little pin money this morning."
"What did you do with the $5 I gave you last week?" asked the man who had promised to love, honor and pay the freight.
"Oh, I don't remember," she replied. "It's so easy to spend $5 and have nothing to show for it."
"Right you are," sighed John. "That was the amount I paid the minister for marrying us."—Chicago News.

Tongue Twisters.
Among brief tongue twisters the following are hard to beat: "The sun shines on the top signs;" "She says she shall sew a sheet;" "The sixth sick sheik's sixth sheep's sick." Some of Shakespeare's lines offer pitfalls to the rapid speaker. In "Midsummer Night's Dream" we find, "When lion rough in wildest rage doth roar," and in the same play
Oh, Pates, come, come!
Cut thread and thrum;
Quail, crush, conclude and quell.
—London Chronicle.

A Corsican Vendetta.
Lecturing on "The Land of the Vendetta" at the Royal Geographical society's headquarters, the Rev. T. T. Norgate said he had discovered instances of a vendetta being started in Corsica through a pig getting into another man's field, and this had caused the loss of perhaps hundreds of lives and had made two families deadly enemies for upward of 300 years. The men who carried on such a vendetta would scorn to rob any one of a six-penny piece.—London Globe.

FOR SERVICES IN HIS CAMPAIGN

Mayor of Lowell Is Declared to Have Offered Payment

TESTIMONY OF A SUPPORTER

Was Offered a Liquor License For "Treating the Boys Well"—Received Help From "Municipal Register Fund," Concerning Which Mayor Refuses to Give Detailed Statement—Sensational Revelations

Lowell, Mass., May 8.—Allegations by George C. Dion that Mayor Brown had offered payment to him for services rendered during the last mayoralty campaign were the sensation of a hearing on charges preferred by Brown against Chairman Stearns and C. H. Hanson and T. F. Boulger, the other two members of the Lowell police board.

Dion, who was proprietor of a lunch cart and an ardent supporter of Brown in his campaign, testified that for "treating the boys well," according to Brown's request, the mayor had offered him a liquor license, for which, however, he had no use, owing to lack of capital.

Dion further alleged that on two occasions, once before and once after election, he heard Brown say that he would have to get something against the police board in order to get rid of them.

Dion also testified that he received help from the mayor's so-called "municipal register fund," which was supported for a time by the proceeds from Sunday picture shows licensed by the mayor. Dion thought at the time he received this money that it was from the mayor's own pocket. The municipal register fund has caused much controversy, it being claimed that the mayor's action in establishing it was illegal. He has since refused to place on file at the city hall a detailed statement of the receipts and disbursements in connection with the fund, claiming that he did not wish to expose the names of the poor people who were helped by him.

In order to substantiate Dion's story of proffered rewards for services rendered, two of Dion's letters to the mayor and the latter's reply were produced. One of the mayor's letters, explaining why he had not sent money to Dion's wife instead of a grocery order, was as follows:

"The last time your boy called at the office for aid I did not have any money of my own, and the fund on which I had previously given you a check for $20 had run out."

Dion claims that he was justly entitled to $100 for money and food furnished during the campaign and that he has only received $41.

Mayor Brown was a patrolman on the local police force and resigned in order to run for office. He conducted a picturesque campaign, and since taking office there has been more or less friction between him and various city departments, including the police board.

A HUNDRED YEARS OLD

St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, to Fittingly Observe the Event

New York, May 8.—For a week, beginning tomorrow, old St. Patrick's cathedral, in Mott street, this city, in which many of the most notable events in the history of the Roman Catholic church in this country have taken place, will celebrate its centennial. Church dignitaries from many parts of the United States will assist in the ceremonies marking the anniversary.

The cornerstone of the old cathedral was laid June 9, 1809, by Rev. Anthony Kohlmann. Its successor is the beautiful gothic edifice on Fifth avenue.

Perhaps the most conspicuous event in the history of the old building was the investiture of Cardinal McCloskey. He was here ordained a priest, consecrated a bishop, installed archbishop and finally invested a cardinal.

Twice in the history of the cathedral three bishops have been ordained in one day.

RAILROAD MACHINISTS OUT

Trouble in Baltimore and Ohio Shop May Lead to Great Strike

Baltimore, May 8.—The machinists of the Mount Clare shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, numbering about 350, voted to strike last night, and this action may lead to the men in all the shops of the Baltimore and Ohio system being called out.

The primary cause of the action is a notice from the company putting the erecting shops at Mount Clare on a piecework basis, though it is said by the men that there are a number of minor causes of dissatisfaction.

New Thought Alliance Convention Boston, May 8.—Rev. Henry Frank of New York was the opening speaker at the beginning of a three days' convention of the New Thought Alliance here last night, his topic being "The Spiritual Outlook for the Twentieth Century."

Welsh Defeats Frayne New York, May 8.—Fred Walsh, the English lightweight, defeated John Frayne of California in a fast ten round bout here last night.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Artful Boston is now without an Art Centre—Honesty may be Capitalized in Massachusetts if Credit Unions are Authorized—The Hub's Social Lid is Heavy on the High Ball Glass—Lo, the Poor Author is Pitted even by the Poor Indian—Is It Painting Spain to Leave out the Duchess Embracing the Bull Fighter?—Laugh and Your Food Laughs with You, Grouch and it Refuses to Digest.

The closing of the old Museum of Fine Arts leaves Boston temporarily in the position of being the centre of art in New England without an art centre. The doors have been finally closed to the public and the exhibition rooms are now in process of rapid dismantling. About October 1 the beautiful new structure in the Fenway will be ready for art lovers and sightseers. Doubtless the large number of visitors which thronged the old museum each week will be greatly increased by the added inducement of the new surroundings. When one realizes that the average attendance on Sundays at the old museum was between 2500 and 3000 the value of this educational institution becomes strongly apparent.

Whether the Spanish artist Sorolla whose works will continue through May 11 to excite intense interest in Boston really paints like a Spaniard or like a Frenchman, is a question that has aroused the artistically inclined in the Hub's Back Bay. Some call him the most cosmopolitan of painters, a Parisian of gay Paree; others seem to detect a truly national feeling in his brilliant vivid studies of undressed kids running on smooth stretches of beach or plunging into the deep blue waters of the Mediterranean. The artist himself, who was in Boston at a reception given in his honor on May 5, says a little sarcastically: "This is no new controversy. Abroad they have for years accused me of not painting like a Spaniard because I have never depicted a duchess throwing her arms around a bull fighter. But what I try to do is to paint the things that interest me wherever I am."

Men who frequent the hotel and club of the Back Bay are quite positive that the habit of "treating" is on the decline. A few years ago, and even today in certain circles, the idea seemed to be uppermost that the only road to popularity was through the proffered glass, the omission of which marked one as narrow and not a sport. A growing tendency on the part of business men to discountenance drinking by their employees and the gradually deepening sentiment among members of the best clubs that it is "bad form" to drink enough to show the effects of the liquor, is probably doing more to eliminate the evil of indiscriminate treating. The friendship which is kept only by frequent bending of the elbow is dearly bought, and although the process will be slow every indication points to the time not so far distant when treating in the general sense will be a mark of ignorance or under-breeding.

Every other Bostonian you meet is preaching the new cure for dyspepsia. You just take several spoonfuls of happiness—which is especially easy if you happen to be newly engaged. You eat, laugh while you eat, and grow happy and free from the grouchy disposition which goes hand in hand with poor digestion. This plan has been wrenched more or less emphatically for many years, but the average person is beginning to realize the truth that lies therein. Nothing in the world spoils a carefully prepared, deliciously served luncheon or dinner as does the family argument or the discontented complaining of one or two persons present. Why, argues the up-to-date advocate of the happy habit, drag up all the financial worries, physical ailments, petty annoyances of the daily routine, to impede the process of digestion and leave us feeling disgruntled and peevish after an uncomfortable meal, which lies heavily on our stomachs because of mental disturbances? The chances are very good that if one suppresses one's grouch until after the meal is over, trying to make it a period of relaxation and enjoyment, the grouch will have evaporated by the time coffee is served, and a general sensation of comfort and well being will materially aid in driving away the woes of indigestion and dyspepsia.

Why shouldn't honesty be capitalized? There's lots of it around, and it's more valuable than rubies or diamonds. A bill before the Legislature on Beacon hill which has met with popular approval and which will very probably be passed by a large majority is one providing for the organization of credit unions among the citizens of the Commonwealth. This plan is entirely new in this country, but has been in operation with much success for a number of years in Canada, in India and in several countries of Europe. Should the bill become a law industrious and self respecting citizens may organize cooperative associations for the purpose of receiving the savings of members and making loans at reasonable rates to those who are temporarily embarrassed or who are unable to develop a profitable business for the lack of working capital. On the other hand, the union will take personal interest in the circumstances surrounding the financial needs of its members, and improprietor borrowing will not be countenanced. A strict set of by laws governs the operation of the credit union and the bill provides in detail for the conduct of the association. This bill, if passed as seems unquestionable, together with the law providing insurance departments in the savings banks, will add valuable factors to the already almost ideal conditions for thrift and economy in the good old Bay State.

Even the best of authors have the collection of returned manuscripts, well known writer, one of whose novels has recently been published in a leading Boston house, wrote a letter to her publishers from which the following extract will doubtless appeal to every literary worker: "At one of our halting places in the desert in the Southwestern part of the United States we were fortunate in making the acquaintance of McKinley, an Indian who ran errands for us with refreshing cheerfulness and interest. One morning the squaw mother passed through the slats of our front gate as I sat writing on the tiny fire porch. Her eyes were plainly bewildered."

"You heap write um," she served.

"I nodded.
"My boy, McKinley, he say time write um—Monday write um, Tuesday write um, Wednesday write um, all time write um. Letters plenty big. He mail um. All time mail um."

"Yes," said I, encouragingly.
"By and by, maybe so ten days he say me bug um back; Monday bring um, Tuesday bring um, Wednesday bring um; all time bring um back. Letters plenty big. Indian say, 'What for?'"

"And it was as hard to convince of the sense of the process as it has been various editors."

Charles A. Hayes, aged 35 years, of Ashmont street, Newton, was severely injured this morning by being thrown from his team on Hancock street, Atlantic.

Hayes was driving one of Newcomb's Newton express teams loaded with furniture.

His horses shied at an electric car and Hayes was thrown off.

Up to the passage of this act school committees were required to provide flags for each school in their charge and proper means for displaying it. QUINCY HIGH 9
TUFT'S MEDICS 8
Local team Wins First Home Game of Season

In a loosely played game Quincy High defeated Tufts Medical school freshmen yesterday afternoon, the score being 9 to 8. Towards the end, the game was a little bit exciting, but with the exception of the last inning the contest was certainly a dead one. The visitors didn't seem to care whether they played ball or not, appearing to be out for a good time.

Tufts scored one run in the first without a hit, three errors and a free pass doing the trick. In the second the local team jumped into the lead scoring five runs. Mr. Chapman started the trouble with a triple over the left fielder's head. Howe followed with a clean single scoring Chapman. H. Chapman got a base on balls and with Howe made a double steal. Both scored on Billy Manning's two bagger to left.

After Brooks had fanned "Stan" Bates came to time with a single sending Manning over the rubber. Bates scored a minute later on an error and a wild pitch.

From now on the lead see-sawed from one side to another. At the beginning of the ninth Quincy led 6 to 5. It looked good now, but Hurley, who had fanned four times before, came along with a drive to centre. He was caught napping however and put out of the way.

Curran followed with a hit. Duncan got a pass and Sheridan got a life on an error by Manning filling the bases with one gone. Bourque then hit a hot shot straight at Manning who fumbled allowing Curran and Sheridan to score. Duncan was caught at second. The pitcher then went out Manning to R. Bates, his team leading 7 to 6.

Quincy still had a chance. She needed one to tie and two to win. After S. Bates went out by the way of pitches to first, Capt. Galvin cracked out a pretty single and immediately stole second and third. R. Bates fled to Duncan making two out. It was now up to McCarthy to send in the tying run. The "Midget" hadn't been hitting much up to this point, but as it happened he had a single in his clothes and he got rid of it just now, Galvin scoring the run that tied.

McCarthy then stole second and M. Chapman was hit by the pitcher. Howe hit to the short stop who attempted to get McCarthy going to third. He was too late however the sacks were full, and H. Chapman at the bat with two hands gone. Chapman hit to the short stop who again tossed to third to force M. Chapman. The ball arrived late however and McCarthy had crossed the plate with the run that ended the game.

For Quincy Galvin, McCarthy and Chapman played a good game. "Stan" Bates pitched a good game fanning 11 men. He was wild, however, hitting one man, passing eight and making two wild pitches. With better support however he would have done better. For Tufts Drumm, Duncan and Lane played the best game. The summary:

IN MEMORIAM.

In the death of Miss Sibylla Pfaffmann Quincy has lost one of its most brilliant and original minds. Long years of ill health and forced retirement from public life have denied a knowledge of this gifted woman to the younger generation, but Quincy High school pupils of the late eighties will well remember Miss Pfaffmann's strong, firm poise, her mastery of intricate subjects and her potent, compelling personality. Few who have ever seen her in the force and beauty of early womanhood can fail to recall the vivid picture.

Through loss, sorrow and constant suffering that wonderful personality remained. The aspiring mind, compelled to lay aside work in the busy world, brought comfort, hope and cheer to all within its influence in the home. "For others, not for myself," was the constant thought, and death, at last, found the glory of self-forgetfulness still abiding. Upon the red-branched maple trees The robin carols of the spring, The violets' breath is in the breeze, The orchards snowy petals fling, The golden sun from sapphire sky Decks mother earth anew with green, And where the woodlands scattered lie Are tender leaves of changing life.

Fair Queen of song and budding flower On earth is crowned the maiden May; More beautiful than mortal spring Is that bright country far away. We know not what the visions are That Death has granted those dear eyes, We only know that naught may mar The joy, the peace of Paradise! —Elizabeth Minot.

CITY OFFICIALS AT ANNUAL OPENING

First Shore Dinner of Season
Pronounced Excellent

The season of shore dinners was formerly opened Saturday evening at Houghs Neck when a large party of city officials and friends of William Northman partook of the annual opening dinner at his pavilion. The dinner was of the typical shore kind, well cooked, well served and pronounced fine by all those who had the pleasure of being seated around the long tables.

From 5:30 to 6:30 there was an informal reception during which Mr. Northman received and welcomed his friends. Invitations to attend had been extended to all of the officials of the city and many of them were present. Mayor Shea was unable to attend on account of illness but the executive department was ably represented by Commissioner Bainbridge, Tax Collector Carey, City Engineer Sargent, Supt. of Sewer Dept. McKenzie, Supt. of Streets Shea, Asessor Adams, Inspector of Buildings Parker, Overseer of the Poor F. and City Messenger Tirrell.

The City Council was represented by President Hobbs, Councilman Beal, Gilson, Moir, Walsh, Bishop, Gardner, and Clerk of Council Marr.

Others present were Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones, A. F. Baird, President of the Houghs Neck Association, Commodore H. W. Robbins and Vice Commodore Ira Whittemore of the Quincy Yacht Club, Ex-representative of Edward J. Sandberg and Ex-Councilman Fred G. Green.

The Houghs Neck Association was also represented by Capt. Fostick, N. J. Regan, Henry W. French, Mr. O'Brien and others.

During the reception Prof. Wrigley presided at the piano and there were some very fine violin solos by Master Robert Gundersen of New Bedford.

Dinner was announced shortly before 7 o'clock and two hours were pleasantly passed discussing the following menu:

Clam Chowder
Norwegian Fish Balls with Peas
Fried Cod
Potato Croquettes
Olives
Chicken Salad
Plain Boiled Lobster
Harlequin Ice Cream
Assorted Cake
Roquefort Cheese
Crackers
Coffee

While the dinner was in progress Prof. Morgan presided at the piano and entertained the occasion with all the popular airs during the playing of which many of the party joined in singing the chorus.

There was no formal speechmaking although several took the occasion to thank Mr. Northman for his hospitality and for the excellent dinner served. Mr. Northman assured them however that the pleasure was all his.

Although a lot owned by Mr. Northman has been mentioned as a possible site for a school lot, this subject was not touched upon by any one during the entire evening. These annual opening dinners have been a feature with Mr. Northman for a number of years and that of this year was simply carrying out the policy of other years and had no political significance.

COMPOSER FOOTE.

Appreciative Audience Hear Him at Afternoon Concert.

An appreciative audience was present at Music hall Saturday afternoon at a concert arranged by Miss Carrie Follett Spear. It was an afternoon with Arthur Foote the well known composer who rendered several original compositions and several of his songs were interpreted by well known singers from Quincy and vicinity.

Mr. Foote's piano selections were a rare treat and were greatly enjoyed. His first number was a suite in D minor; Prelude; Fugue; Andante espressivo and Capriccio, which opened the program. Later Mr. Foote with Mrs. John F. Merrill his pupil rendered a duet Gavotte in E minor.

The selection perhaps most enjoyed however was a prelude for the left hand followed by two poems, after Omar Khayyam. Mr. Foote also officiated as accompanist and closed the program with three selections.

In addition to this Mr. Foote's "A Song of four seasons" was sung by Miss Spear, Miss Ida S. Moore and Edward E. Bullock.

His setting of Arlo Bates "Flower songs" was sung by a chorus of women's voices with solos by Miss Spear and Mrs. F. A. Page.

Longfellow's translation of "Into the Silent Land" from the German of Salis, was also sung by a chorus of women's voices while Tennyson's Bugle song was sung by a chorus of men's voices.

In addition to this there were solos by Master Verner M. Birnie, Miss Bertha J. Carlson, Mrs. Edith Carey Page and a duet by Mrs. Page and Mr. Bullock.

In the chorus of singers were: Mrs. W. G. Brooks, Mrs. E. C. Dexter, Mrs. Ada Griswold, Mrs. E. C. Page, Mrs. F. A. Page, Mrs. G. H. Ryder, Mrs. Richard Tappenden, Mrs. J. B. Worster, Misses Helen F. Loud, Abbie Penley, Edith Olsen, Sadie E. Thomas, Bertha J. Carlson, Grace Crane, Carrie Follett Spear, Mrs. A. Kuester, Mrs. J. Frank Merrill, Messrs. Carter, Cole, Whittemore, Dr. Garey, Pollard, and Murphy.

SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Edna Marr by her friends at her home at 152 Beach street, Wollaston. Guests were present from Weymouth, Quincy and Brockton besides many from Wollaston. Games were enjoyed and a dainty luncheon was served. Miss Marr was presented with a handsome ladies toilet set. Among those present were Everett Prout, Samuel Prout, Ruth Pease, William McConnell, Irving Sass, Saphronia Rose, Arthur Agnew, Mrs. A. B. Robbins, Mrs. L. J. Marr, Inez Jefferson, Flora Sass, Eric Card, Florence Land, Henry Wixtrom, Emily Frances, Ruth Barstow, Mrs. A. Litchfield, C. A. Wardwell, Annie Barstow and Franklin Marr.

Officers Were Secluded In a Room For Twelve Hours.

One of the most sensational gambling raids ever made in Quincy was successfully carried out by the police Sunday but not until after the officers had remained secluded in a 5 by 5 room for nearly twelve hours without anything to eat or drink.

It was a trying position for the squad which was composed of Inspector McKay and Goodhue, Officers Farrell, Dhooge and Duffy but their plans worked to perfection.

The raid was planned by acting Inspector Goodhue who shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning gained entrance through an L window into Poland's block near the Norfolk Downs depot.

The other officers followed and after getting the layout of the building they waited for developments. It was a long tiresome wait. The officers thought that someone would come around during the morning but it was not until after 2 o'clock that the first two appeared.

They walked about the main hall and tried the doors and then disappeared up the stairs to the small room under the roof.

Then others came and the officers counted six or seven. They could hear money rattling up stairs and knew that the game was on.

Some of the party, however, evidently became suspicious that something was wrong, for they could not understand a door of one of the small rooms being locked. It was the room where the officers were. Shortly after two men came down and tried the door again. Then they went to the stage and pushing the piano away, got into the room that way.

Some of the officers made a spring for them and the others rushed up stairs. One man was met on the stairs and the others were found in the room.

The man had a hand full of silver and there was some silver money on one of the tables.

Another threw some dice into the bath room, but Officer Farrell recovered these.

Then the patrol wagon was called and the paraphernalia found carried to the police station.

This consisted of a crap table covered with green cloth and a quantity of chairs.

There was also an elaborate system of electric bells and push buttons connecting the doors of the building with the room. These the police also tore down and carried away.

The seven gang men found on the premises were arrested and when booked at the police station gave their names as John P. Lyons, 19 years; Edward Poland, 17 years; Andrew Johnson, 22 years; Joseph Martin, 24 years; Charles B. Grant, 33 years; Thomas Turner, 20 years and Peter E. Cuniff, 31 years.

The men were bailed out later and were arraigned in court this morning. The complaint against Cuniff and Martin was being present at a game of crap and that against the others was for playing crap on the Lord's Day.

COUNTY TAX INCREASED.

State, county and city taxes continue to increase so that many are wondering if there will ever be a halt. The commissioners have determined the tax for this year as $205,000 against $180,000 last year, apportioned as follows: Avon, $516.73; Beetham, $704.03; Braintree, $1,365.30; Brookline $7,335.74; Canton, $2,492.24; Cohasset, $5,491.83; Dedham, $9,519.16; Dover, $985.71; Foxboro, $1,746.12; Franklin, $2,928.97; Hyde Park, $10,589.37; Medfield, $1,498.16; Medway, $1,154.69; Millis, $6,919.59; Needham, $3,802.03; Norfolk, $5,491.43; Norwood, $4,872.24; Plainville, $591.43; Quincy, $22,051.79; Randolph, $1,971.43; Sharon, $1,886.94; Stoughton, $3,041.63; Walpole, $3,126.12; Wellesley, $10,166.92; Westwood, $1,717.96; Weymouth, $5,970.60; and Wrentham, $844.90.

While the dinner was in progress Prof. Morgan presided at the piano and entertained the occasion with all the popular airs during the playing of which many of the party joined in singing the chorus.

There was no formal speechmaking although several took the occasion to thank Mr. Northman for his hospitality and for the excellent dinner served. Mr. Northman assured them however that the pleasure was all his.

Although a lot owned by Mr. Northman has been mentioned as a possible site for a school lot, this subject was not touched upon by any one during the entire evening. These annual opening dinners have been a feature with Mr. Northman for a number of years and that of this year was simply carrying out the policy of other years and had no political significance.

WILSON—TOWNSEND.

Mrs. Cora Townsend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Furbish of 19-1-2 Bates avenue, West Quincy, and William Wilson of Centre street, were united in marriage at noon Sunday in a quiet church wedding. The ceremony was performed in the Christian Church of Boston by the pastor Rev. David Martin.

Fred Lawley was the best man while the maid of honor was Mrs. Fred Lawley. On account of the serious illness of the bride's grandmother the affair was very quiet, being attended only by a few relatives of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will make their future home at the "Sea Gem," Houghs Neck.

—Fifty years ago it was customary for "female" benevolent societies to elect a man to the office of treasurer, in order that the funds might be taken care of properly. A few days ago women were elected to the office of city or town treasurer in at least six towns and cities of Colorado. Two women were elected town clerks.

CITY OF QUINCY

No. 128
IN COUNCIL, April 29, 1909.

That Ordinance No. 25, an Ordinance Establishing a Police Department for the City of Quincy, be amended as follows:

Strike out Sections 1 to 9 inclusive and insert in place thereof the following:

Section 1. A Police Department is hereby established which shall consist of a Chief of Police, one Inspector with rank of Lieutenant, two Sergeants, as many patrolmen as, from time to time, may be deemed necessary by the City Council and a Reserve force of as many men as the laws of the Commonwealth permit.

Section 2. The Chief of Police shall be responsible for the discipline, good order and proper conduct of the men constituting the department, and for the good condition of all the property connected with the department. He shall be subject to all the provisions of the City Charter and shall enforce the rules and regulations established by the City Council for the government of the department. He shall keep a roll of the members of the department specifying the name, age, residence, date of appointment and discharge of each member of the same. He shall make to the Mayor, annually and oftener if required, a detailed report of all the business of the department, and shall keep a record of the prosecutions instituted, before the courts, by it. He shall, on the last day of each week, prepare a pay-roll of all permanent men in the department, and present it to the Auditing department.

Section 3. Patrolmen shall, during such hours as the rules prescribe, walk the streets, lanes and other parts of the city as the Chief shall direct, to prevent danger from fire, and to see that the streets and sidewalks are free from obstructions, nuisances and defects in the street, and if authorized, forthwith remove the same, when practicable. They shall notice every street lamp not lighted or burning at the proper time, and shall report forthwith the same to the Chief.

Section 4. All fees in any criminal case, or for service of any criminal process, or for any service in behalf of the city, received by the Chief or by any member of the Police Department, shall be paid into the City Treasury.

Section 5. Any member of the Police Department injured or disabled while on duty, shall receive pay for the time he is absent from duty, during such weeks. Each permanent member of the department shall be given a vacation of two weeks in each year.

Section 6. Whenever there is occasion to employ an officer to do the work of a regular patrolman, preference shall be given to an officer on the Reserve list, provided if in the opinion of the Mayor, there is an officer, on such list, competent and willing to do said work.

Section 7. Regular patrolmen shall not engage in police work for private parties, for hire, excepting however, whenever a patrolman is temporarily relieved from doing regular active duty, on account of some disability, he may, with the approval of the Mayor and Chief of Police, do police work for hire for private parties. Said approval to be in writing and state the nature of such disability.

Section 8. Whenever by reason of sickness or absence from the city or for other cause, the Chief shall be unable to perform the duties of his office, the ranking officer on duty shall be in charge of the department, during such absence or disability. Such ranking officer when in charge, shall be respected and obeyed as such.

Section 9. Salaries paid the Police Department shall be as follows: Lieutenant $1,100 per year; Sergeants, $1,050 per year; Patrolmen $2.50 per day for the first two years and thereafter $2.75 per day; Reserve and Special Police $2.50 per day when detailed for service, payable weekly.

Section 10. Until such time as the Ordinance Concerning Salaries shall have been revised and adopted, the Chief of Police shall be paid a salary of $1,200 per year, payable in monthly installments.

May continues to be cool. It is hoped however that the weather will warm up before the end of the month.

The Wright brothers have now sold their patent rights in Germany for $150,000. Honored by scientific societies, cheered by the multitude, and on the road to great wealth, they are still the unostentatious person who
up to two years ago conducted experiments in Dayton, O., with small encouragement. Having tested adversity, they know the value of success. They can meet serenely even the announcement of the London Times that an Englishman has an aeroplane that entirely surpasses their own in flying ability.—Boston Record.

The Granite Manufacturers are experiencing some difficulty again with shipping facilities at South Quincy. It was thought when the travelling crane was installed that the difficulty would be overcome. While the crane is doing good work however there is still trouble.

Just at this season of the year shipping is unusually brisk and the travelling crane is unable to handle the business as expeditiously as the manufacturers would like to have it and some difficulty is being experienced in getting stock shipped promptly.

At the time the travelling crane was installed the two boom derricks off Penn street were discontinued. The Manufacturers' association however believe that if these two derricks
could be used it would help out materially during the rush season.

The association therefore has petitioned the railroad to again put these two boom derricks in use.

The weather of April was warmer than the average during the first three weeks of the month and unusually cold during the last week. The mean temperature of 45.9 degrees was 0.5 degrees higher than the normal and slightly lower than that of April, 1907.
The highest temperature reached was 79 degrees on the 19th and the lowest was 19 degrees on the 11th. The total rainfall of 4.79 inches was 1.23
inches more than the usual amount and occurred on 15 days. There were light snows on the 2d and 30th.

There was about the average amount of relative humidity and rather more cloudiness than usual.
The month was notable for its high winds, the mean velocity being the highest on record for April and the highest for any month since March, 1895. Gales occurred on seven days and the maximum velocity was 32 miles an hour from the west on the 8th. The prevailing wind direction was northwest. A thunderstorm occurred on the 19th and an aurora was observed on the evening of the 24th.
It is estimated that vegetation in this vicinity is from three to five days later than usual.—L. A. Wells of Blue Hill Observatory.

PERSIAN POLITICS

Premier Whose Arrest Was Ordered
by Shah to Be Reinstated Teheran, May 10.—At the shah's request Said Ed Dowleh, who recently was dismissed from the office of foreign minister, has formed a liberal cabinet. He will resume his former post, while Nasim el Mulk, now a refugee in Europe, will become premier.

Nasir el Mulk was premier in 1907,
but was ousted through popular demonstrations against the delay in the execution of soldiers who murdered two shopkeepers. The cabinet resigned at the height of the disorders and the shah ordered the arrest of the premier, who fled from the city.

The shah has signed two proclamations, one announcing the resumption of the constitution and the other granting political amnesty. Both of these concessions had for a long time been demanded by the diplomatic representatives of Great Britain and Russia.

WANT MORSE BAILED

Friends of Convicted Banker Will Furnish Ample Sureties

New York, May 10.—Bearing the signatures of more than a score of men prominent in the banking and commercial world, a petition was presented to the United States circuit court of appeals today asking that Charles W. Morse, the convicted banker now in the Tombs, be admitted to bail pending a decision on his appeal.

The petition states that the signers are willing to become responsible upon Morse's bail bond for the sum of $50,000 each, without indemnity, because they "do not believe that he will leave the jurisdiction of the court,
and that when his case is finally heard
and understood he will be acquitted."

A number of the signers, it is said,
have agreed to furnish double, triple or even ten times the amount stated in the petition, thus assuring a million dollars or more, if necessary.

POSTAL STRIKE IS HANGING FIRE

Leaders Are Not Prepared For a Hard Struggle

Paris, May 10.—Conditions are rather favorable for the government
in its controversy with the postal employees and it is not likely that a strike will be declared for the present. The government's firmness has made a deep impression on the rank and file,
and the leaders of the strike movement may conclude to postpone the battle until they are better organized and prepared for what would prove to be a hard struggle.

Various unions have called a meeting for Wednesday to decide what steps shall be taken to help the postal employees in case of strike, to counterbalance the aid offered to the government by merchants and employers in general.

HAINS VERDICT TOMORROW

Plea of Insanity Offered to Jury In Summing Up For Defense

Flushing, N. Y., May 10.—The summing up for the defense in the case of Peter C. Hains, Jr., whose trial here for the killing of William E.
Annis is drawing to a close, was begun this morning by John F. McIntyre, chief counsel for the defense,
who presented to the jury the plea of insanity on which the friends and relatives of the captain base their hope of acquittal.

Provided there is no hitch in the proceedings, a verdict deciding the fate of Hains is expected by Tuesday night.

STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

Haverhill Carpenters and Plumbers
to Get Increased Wages

Haverhill, Mass., May 10.—The 200
union carpenters and 70 union plumbers who have been out on strike here
since May 1, returned to work today.
The demands of the men have been agreed to by practically all of the contractors and master plumbers.

The carpenters asked for an increase in wages from 37½ cents an hour to 41½ cents an hour, and the plumbers a 25 cents a day increase,
making the pay $2.50 a day instead of $3.25.

Two Jailbirds Escape

Alfred, Me., May 10.—Two "trusty" prisoners at the York county jail,
Freeman Greau and Albert Tredeau, escaped Saturday. While at work in the kitchen they made their way to the cellar beneath it, and got free by forcing an outer door. Both men were serving terms for larceny.

Hebrew Bakers' Strike Settled
Boston, May 10.—The strike of the 200 Hebrew bakers who went out on May 1 ended last night and the union met this morning to ratify the terms of settlement. The old wage scale will be continued, as requested by the union.

BOYLE WANTS TO TELL STORY

Third Party Said to Be Implicated in Whitla Kidnapping

AUTHORITIES WOULD GAG HIM

Abductor's Wife, Who Is Convicted of Aiding and Abetting Crime, Says Means Have Been Provided For Double Suicide Should They Be Sentenced to Penitentiary—Probable Appeal in Woman's Case

Merced, Pa., May 10.—Unless present plans are changed James H.
Boyle and his wife, Helen Anna
Boyle, will be sentenced by Judge Williams today for the abduction of "Billy" Whitla.

MRS. J. H. BOYLE.

Previous to the sentencing Attorneys Miller and Stranahan will ask for new trials, but it is expected the court will overrule the motions.

The probability is that Boyle will make a scene in the courtroom when sentence is pronounced. Every effort will be made by the authorities to prevent such a happening, but it is certain that if permitted Boyle will again
attempt to tell a sensational story, implicating a third party in the kidnapping. Mrs. Boyle asserts she will have nothing to say when sentenced.
She says:

Jimmy has something to say and ought not to be gagged. I will not say anything, but Jimmy will, and I will aid him to have his say if I can.
"Seriously, I want to tell you there is going to be a double suicide. I will not spend much time in the penitentiary. I have made all arrangements and have the means now to depart quietly and quickly. Jimmy will do
the same.

Do you think I am going to the penitentiary for many years? No, sir.
When my sentence would expire I would be an old woman. I would have no friends and no money. Who wants anything to do with an old woman? I would rather die young.

"This is my twenty-third birthday
and am I not in a very poor position to celebrate the event? I am innocent of crime, however, and maybe God in His goodness will yet allow me
to spend many happy anniversaries.
But yet there is the shadow of the penitentiary and the remedy—suicide.

"I am very sincere in this matter.
Do you see that writing pad over there on the table? Well in that I will soon write my will and last message."

After the sentencing of the abductors they will probably be taken as soon as possible to the penitentiary.
It is believed an appeal to the supreme court of Pennsylvania will be taken in the woman's case. However, she maintains that when she realizes her case is hopeless she will take her life.

Mrs. Boyle, formerly Helen Anna
McDermott of Chicago, was convicted on a charge of aiding, assisting and abetting in the abduction of Willie Whitla of Sharon, Pa.

While it is not believed that either of them will be given the maximum sentence, both, it is said, will probably be sent to the penitentiary for a long term of years. Boyle is liable to life imprisonment and the maximum sentence in the case of the woman is twenty-five years.

Two ballots were taken by the jury
in the case of the woman.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Daniel Doherty, aged 35, and Cor-nellius Crowley, aged 35, were drowned by the capsizing of their row-boat in the wash of a steamer in Boston harbor.

Five thousand New York policemen participated in the annual police parade and passed in review before Mayor McClellan and other city officials.

A man who registered as O. D.

dead in his room. A medical examiner pronounced it a case of suicide by asphyxiation.

A sentence of three years in state prison was given John A. Doherty of Auburn, Me., for assault with intent with intent to kill upon Peter Fahey.

In a short time ground will be broken on the Newport, R. I., harbor front for a large naval hospital, for which more than $250,000 will be expended.

PLAYGROUND ADVOCATES

Many Cities Represented in Congress
in Smoky City

Pittsburg, May 10.—Instruction of the children and adults of the United States in the art of playing properly, without infringing on the rights of those not participating in the pastime,
is one of the purposes of the Playground Association of America, which opened its third annual congress here
today.

Large cities in every part of the Union are represented at the congress.
Mayor Magee of this city, in his invitation to city officials to attend the congress themselves and send representatives of the cities, said:

"The purpose of the congress and the association is to encourage the provision of adequate playground facilities for children and adults.
Many matters for which the members of the congress will seek a solution are those which are rapidly becoming important issues in many of our great cities."

Among the speakers will be Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Joseph Lee, president of the Massachusetts Civic League; Representative James Francis
Burke, Mayor Magee and Dr. Luther H. Gulick of New York. Among the recommendations which will be made will be the substitution of dancing festivals for the present noisy celebration of the Fourth of July and for the almost equally noisy observance of New Year's eve.

BRANCHES ARE INCLUDED

Injunction Issued Against a Maine
Banking Institution

Augusta, Me., May 10.—An injunction has been issued by Associate Justice Spear of the supreme judicial court, restraining the Waterville Trust company from receiving or paying deposits pending an investigation.
The complaint was made by State Bank Examiner Skelton and papers were served on the bank officials at Waterville this morning. The company maintains branches at Dexter, Newport, Hartland and Corinna, and these are included in the court order.

In his complaint Skelton says that he is of the opinion that the company's condition "is such as to render its further proceedings hazardous to the public and to those having deposits in its custody."

The company started doing business in 1893.

SACRED IN EYES OF MOHAMMEDANS

Turkish Sultan Is Girded With His Sword of Office

Constantinople, May 10.—A procession marched through the principal streets of Stamboul today after the girding of the sword upon Mehmed V.
This ceremony, which corresponds to that of coronation, took place in the Mosque Ayoub, the single mosque in Constantinople which Christians are not allowed to enter or even congregate about the entrance or courtyard.
It lasted but a few minutes and no foreign eyes witnessed the ancient rite of the spiritual power consigning the temporal power to the sultan.

The sultan proceeded from the Dolma Bagtsche palace to the mosque, which stands at the water's edge, in a launch, and from there, attended by many functionaries, went to the Top Kapou palace to kiss the robe of the prophet.

The sultan's train made a rich display of fabrics, jeweled arms and fine horses. It was witnessed from a reviewing stand by the diplomatic corps
and distinguished foreigners.

PERHAPS MURDERED

New York Police Working on Manufacturer's Mysterious Death

New York, May 10.—The discovery of the corpse of a well-dressed, middle-aged man in North river has given the police a mystery to work upon. The body was identified as that of John A. Edwards, a wire manufacturer of Orange, N. J.

Bruises over the head indicate that he may have murdered. A scarf pin, containing four diamonds, and a silver match box were among the man's effects, although there was only 30 cents in his pockets.

APPRENTICE BOYS
DEFEAT JACKIESResults of Other Base Ball Games Played Saturday

At the Fore River athletic field Saturday the Fore River Apprentices defeated the team from the U. S. S. Salem, the score being 7 to 6. The game itself was not a good one to watch for it was a loosely played contest, the errors being numerous on both sides. But the rooting of the jacks made everybody happy.

Willie Green, the ship's cook kept the crowd in good spirits all the time with his funny remarks trying to rattle the Fore River players. There were about 200 sailors at the game, besides several officers. Many of the sailors, who are restricted were forced to watch the game from the ship and they rooted hard when their comrades scored in the first inning.

The Salem team hit the ball hard, but ran the bases foolishly. They got eleven hits, bouncing them in several cases, but they got out on the bases and the bingles went for naught. Yates, the Jackie box artist, struck out six and allowed only six hits, but errors by himself and his teammates caused the big score.

DesMauris, the Salem second sacker, was the star batter of the day getting two doubles and a single. Britton and Badasky also played well for Salem. For Fore River Oliver, Kerr and Howley played the best game, the latter getting two pretty singles. The summary:

Thayer Academy won a fast 1 to 0 game Saturday from the Tufts' 2d team at French's Common, South Baintree. Only one error was made during the afternoon, McPhie of Tufts being the guilty man. This lone error allowed Crocker to score the only run of the game. Willard of Thayer struck out nine and allowed five hits, while Carter, the visiting twirler caused 10 to fan the air and allowed only three hits. The score by innings:

There was nothing to it but Makaria on Saturday at Merrymount park. The Boston Y. M. C. A. team being beaten 18 to 1. It was the fourth straight win for Makaria and certainly was easy money. The local team 20 hits and made but one error, while the visitors got 8 hits and made five errors.

Michael was on the slab for Makaria with Troupe behind the bat. Jimmy pitched a good game, but it was an awful game to watch. As one of the Makaria team said, "It was bad enough to play it, but it must have been worse watching it." Fred Smith of last year's team and now of Providence played with Makaria and put up a fine game. The summary:

When You Feel This Way It Is Your Stomach

No one, as a rule, needs to be told when he is sick. Nature is sufficiently emphatic to give that information without help. But to know what really ails you, and, better still, to know what will relieve you, is then the important question.

Do you have a feeling of fullness or weight in the stomach; bloating after eating; belching of wind; dullness;
loss of appetite and relish for food; a swelling of stomach and bowels; hard work in breathing; hard lumpish feeling in the throat; sometimes nausea
and vomiting; pains around the heart;
melancholy, etc?

These are all signs of stomach trouble, and can all be cured by Kickapoo Sagwa—nature's remedy of roots, barks, gums and berries.

People think they have heart disease, nervous prostration, collapse of vital organs, cancer, consumption and what not, when nine times out of ten they have Stomach Trouble. We know that Kickapoo Sagwa will cure diseases of the stomach and liver if taken according to directions, in from four to six weeks. We believe that very few people can be sick if their stomach and liver are in a healthy condition. Sagwa is prepared especially for diseases of the stomach and liver.

Mrs. M. E. Kneeland of 7 Farrington Pl., Portland, Maine, makes the following statement about Sagwa: "I was very sick with nervous prostration, and for one year suffered all the tortures of the disease; although under the doctor's care I continued to suffer and made no improvement until I commenced taking Sagwa. After taking four bottles I was completely cured and able to do all my housework and have not been afflicted with disease since."

The Kickapoo Remedies are for sale
at all drug stores. If you wish to test Sagwa before purchasing, drop us a postal card and we will gladly send you a free trial bottle. The Kickapoo

BRONZE APPLIED TO QUINCY GRANITE

New Combination Manufacturers Should Profit By

Granite, Marble and Bronze in its May issue has an interesting article on the advisability of combining Quincy granite with bronze castings in order to bring forth new ideas in monumental work.

The article is from the pen of one well posted in the monumental industry and up-to-date manufacturers of Quincy granite should profit thereby.

"If the dealers of Quincy realize the possibilities of bronze combined with Quincy granite, they would make it a leader. By placing in the hands of five thousand dealers in the United States designs made in good taste, good proportions, well polished, medium or dark stock, combined with statues or carvings, etc., from standard bronze.
It is claimed by the writer that although the price of this work would be necessarily higher than traced or carved work, yet the appearance of the monument would be such that the price asked could be secured. Looking at a few examples, such as the Whitney monument in Woodlawn, New York, the Arthur Monument, and the Greeley monument, will illustrate the value of Quincy granite combined with bronze. Years have had no effect on either. What an argument in the hands of an able salesman, and it would also prove an able ally as well.
The Quincy Association would do well to produce from time to time new designs of classic ideas. Have the models made so as to be in a position to deliver the finished monument; in fact, play the game in an up-to-date manner, by combining bronze and granite, and pushing their product.
They could well afford to employ a first class sculptor, the cost to be paid by the Association. Advertise the matter extensively, charge a good price, and deliver the goods."

WEDDING IN STONE CHURCH.

Under auspicious skies, in the presence of a few intimate friends, Mr.
Nixon W. Elmer, son of the late Rear-admiral Elmer, was united yesterday in marriage to Miss Alice L. Claffin, daughter of Mr. Rupert F. Claffin.
Selections of music were exquisitely rendered by Mr. J. D. Buckingham, preceding the wedding march, affording added pleasure to this happy event.

The bride was gowned in white Lyons poplin de soie with point lace, and the matron of honor wore a gown of white embroidered net with gold Me-line lace. Mrs. Alvah H. Pierce was matron of honor, and Mr. Alexander Bigelow Ewing was best man. The ushers were Alvah H. Pierce and William P. Thompson. To all it seemed one of the most charming and delightful weddings that has graced the grand old church for many a day.

LIFE AMONG THE CANNIBALS

Illustrated Lecture by Rev.
J. H. Hopkins

On Monday evening, Rev. J. Hopkins Denison of Central church Boston gave a stereopticon lecture on the Cannibal Islands, in the Memorial church, Atlantic. Numerous pictures were presented to a large audience of the interesting sights that Dr. Denison saw himself, while there on a visit of one month; and pieces of money, a skull, a sample of the women's dress and nuts which are eaten with powdered lime on them were shown as curios. Among the acquaintances which he made was a chief named Tomara who boasted of at one time having killed and eaten seven white men. Also an eight year old white girl who was preparing for her wedding day having been sold to a boy for a very small price as all girls are. Another was a chief called To Bo Bo who was one of the fiercest on the island but since being converted was appointed local magistrate of the island, became a favorite as did To-kia or (evil one) who attacked a village and captured 200 men, women and children, slaughtered three and ate them and then gave up his spear
and all weapons; and at the same time gave himself up to the care of a missionary there. A most interesting sight was a secret society called Duk Duk who hold the island in terror by dressing up as queer birds and making all kinds of moans, shrills and screams to frighten the white people.
Beautiful coral islands are in abundant and bananas of ninety-six varieties.

Dr. Denison had many thrilling experiences and his lecture was most exciting.

MRS. BABCOCK'S LECTURE.

"Books We Used to Read And Those We Read Now."

An appreciative audience listened to Mrs. F. C. Babcock's reading of "Books
we used to read and those we read
now," in St. Chrysostom's parish room Monday evening. Mrs. Babcock handled her subject in a scholarly way showing clearly and conclusively
her knowledge, familiarity, and love
of good wholesome books and infused considerable of her enthusiasm in her listeners—showing them to the fullest degree the importance of reading the standard and instructive works of Scott, Thackeray, Dickens and others.
And in her clear and pleasant style
she compared "Evelena" the first work of fiction with "The Fighting Chance" and "House of Mirth" of today. She laid especial emphasis on reading aloud in the home and as an incident she told how a mother reading to her family, "The Lady of the Lake" showed its inestimable value in after years to at least one of the children. Accompanied by Madame Beale Morey, Mrs. Bertha Fowler Coupal charmingly sang "Irish Lullaby" by Needham "An Enchanted Garden" by Smith and "The Little Dutch Garden"
by Marks, which added much to the evening's entertainment.

BRIGHT CHILDREN.

Some of the bright children of this city are included in the list of clever little ones whose odd sayings published in The Boston Journal are attracting so much attention.

"Little Hollis is 5 today. He is very fond of playing with the garden hose.
One day last summer he was at one of the neighbor's having a very good time and getting very wet, so I turned the water off, and I heard, 'O, Miss Mattie, the water is fading.' His name is Hollis Adams Morton, 961 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass."
"George Merritt, 4 years old, while watching his mother write a letter one day, asked her, 'if that on the paper was reading?' Upon being told no, it was writing, he quickly asked, 'well
when that is all written, won't it be reading?' " Mrs. F. Merritt, 359 Hancock street, Atlantic, Mass.

They say down in Atlantic that while hot air is a good thing to run a political campaign on, it is not of much use in running an automobile.

We have had the cinder eye, the third rail eye and now we have the dust preventive eye. Monday great clouds of brown dust, that had been saturated with dust preventive was blown about filling the eyes, ears, nose and mouth. The taste was bad and the smell was bad and when it got into the eyes it made them sore.

It is claimed that several applications of the dust preventive are necessary before the streets get down to a surface then there will be no dust. Until that time we will have to stand the unpleasant features of it.

The ubiquitous house fly is beginning to make its presence known
with most unpleasant persistence.
Some ladies of Quincy are organizing a society for the express purpose of teaching the public the grave dangers resulting from the presence in homes
and restaurants of the little insects.
One of the women is so enthusiastic on the subject that she is trying to get her husband to have a bill introduced in the Legislature to have all the flies in Massachusetts exterminated at the expense of the State. Boston Post.

This is the season of awnings etc.,
and while they are being erected it is well to bear in mind that the ordinance in regard to such awnings
has not been lived up to very closely in the past.

The ordinance provides among other things that before an awning, sign or other obstruction is placed over a sidewalk permission must be had from the Commissioner of Public Works. It also provides that no awning or sign shall be less than seven feet from the ground at its lowest point and that the width which an awning shall extend over a sidewalk shall be determined by the Commissioner of Public Works.

Some of the awnings erected in City Square are a nuisance, especially on a stormy day for the water falls gracefully from the flap down the back of the neck.

The executive department has taken up the matter and it is understood the ordinance will be enforced this year.

EXTREME LIMIT OF THE LAW

Kidnappers of Willie Whittle
Are Severely Punished

BOYLE GETS A LIFE SENTENCE

Wife Must Serve Fifteen Years After Making Allowance For Good Conduct—Both Occupying Cells in Same Penitentiary, but Will Not Be Permitted to See Each Other Again—
Double Suicide Probably Planned

Pittsburg, May 11.—James Boyle and his wife, Helen Boyle, were lodged in the western penitentiary here
last night, the former under a sentence of life imprisonment, the latter under sentence to serve a term of twenty-five years, for the kidnapping
of Willie Whittle.

The prisoners were taken first to a room and told that they would have to say good-bye, as the rules of the prison would not permit them to see each other again. Mrs. Boyle threw her arms around her husband's neck and kissed him. She said: "We must take it the best we can."

The prisoners then shook hands and the matron escorted Mrs. Boyle from the room. When she reached the corridor she burst into tears and asked to be permitted once again to see her husband. This request was granted and she again kissed and embraced Boyle. The man maintained his silence and had nothing to say.

During the trip here from Mercer,
where they left late Monday afternoon, the kidnappers spent most of the time in quiet conversation together. They discussed the sentence, which they alleged was unjust, and asked what steps they would have to take to get a review of the case and how to see an attorney.

Boyle and his wife sat together and held each other's hands during the entire journey here from the scene of their trial.

Sheriff Chess said he was glad to get the prisoners out of his custody because he was afraid they would be successful in their announced intention to commit suicide. The sheriff said that he believed Boyle intended to kill his wife and then commit suicide with the razor the sheriff found in the kidnapper's tie. Neither prisoner would deny this.

It has been decided, so far as Mrs.
Boyle is concerned at least, that no appeal will be asked for. At first she contemplated appealing to the superior court in the hope of obtaining her freedom on another trial. But it was discovered that even should she be liberated she would be returned to Ohio for trial, and that while her maximum sentence there on one charge would be but twenty years,
there was another on which she might receive five years additional and she would be allowed no time off for good behavior. When this was compared with the fifteen years she would have to serve here after making allowance for good conduct, it was decided not to appeal.

Sensations followed each other thick and fast Monday. The severity of the sentence appalled Mercer, where it was pronounced, and surprised many elsewhere, who had not anticipated
the extreme limit of the law. Then came a sensational scene in the court room, when both prisoners collapsed
and had to be carried from the room.

Hardly had they reached their cells
when it became public that the woman took poison Sunday night and narrowly escaped death at her own hand, and that a razor had been found concealed in Boyle's clothing.

Before this thrill had lost its force,
Boyle gave out a statement implicating Harry Forker, brother of Mrs.
Whittle, in the kidnapping case. In Mercer and Sharon the story does not seem to be generally credited and as the district attorney puts little faith
in it, there is little likelihood of any formal action in the matter.

With the trial over, the prisoners safe in their prison cells and the story
of another participant in the kidnapping apparently officially discredited,
the famous "Billy" Whittle kidnapping case seems to be at an end.

PROMOTION OF ART

Important Topics to Be Discussed at Washington Convention

Washington, May 11.—With the purpose of forming a national federation of art societies, art institutions,
municipal and village improvement societies and other organizations having for their aim the fostering and advancement of the taste of the American people for the beautiful, a convention of delegates from such societies was begun today in this city under the auspices of the regents of the National Academy of Arts.

Finding place upon the program of topics to be discussed by the convention are the following: Artistic control of city and village municipal development, art exhibitions and some practical method of moving good exhibitions from place to place, the education of the public by lecture courses
on the fine arts, more effective control of government fine arts (the possibility of a bureau, with consulting board, to control the fine arts of the government), art education, free
entry of foreign works of art.

Among the regents of the academy who are taking much interest in the convention are J. Pierpont Morgan, Elihu Root, Senator Newlands, Robert Bacon, Senator Lodge, James F.

AWARDED $58,000 DAMAGES

Verdict For Woman Whose Legs Were Cut Off by a Train

New York, May 11.—Fifty-eight thousand dollars for the loss of both legs was the verdict awarded in the supreme court to Miss Addie Hunt, a trained nurse, against the Long Island
Railroad company.

Some time ago she obtained a verdict of $25,000, but the court set it aside as inadequate and ordered a new trial. The railroad company regards the second award as excessive and will appeal.

Miss Hunt was injured while boarding a train at Great Neck, L. I. The train started suddenly and she was thrown under the wheels.

pierced his brain.

The naturalists of the party are kept busy preparing the trophies which Roosevelt and his son are bringing in daily. Forty-five have already been prepared for the Smith-

WOMAN'S SUMMER COMFORT.

To every woman, especially the woman who keeps house, the topic of summer comfort in the home is one of never-failing interest.

This is particularly true where comfort in the kitchen is concerned, as it is in this one room that the most trying part of the work is done, such as cooking, baking, ironing and heating water for wash-day purposes.
Even in cool weather such work is not altogether welcome, but it becomes drudgery on days when the mercury
is trying to jump through the top of the thermometer, aided by a hot stove that diffuses its almost unbearable heat through the kitchen.

But such days are past. With the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil
Cook Stove, kitchen drudgery becomes kitchen comfort, for this wonderful stove is so constructed that it does not only produce quick results, but does it all without perceptibly raising the kitchen temperature.

All this means real comfort to the woman who works in the kitchen, especially when considered with the added advantages in the saving of time; in the doing away with all carrying of coal, wood and ashes; in having a stove that can be turned on or off, high or low, as required;
and in not having to keep it lighted
when not in use.

Another household article of unusual convenience is the Rayo Lamp,
a scientifically constructed lamp that will adorn any room—whether library, parlor, dining-room or bedroom. The Rayo Lamp gives a mellow steady light that does not tire the eyes. Its center draft burner of the latest design and its fine porcelain shade make it a lamp of combined usefulness and beauty.

The New Perfection Wick Blue
Flame Oil Cook Stove and the Rayo
Lamp constitute two household articles that will meet any woman's idea of home comfort. In the thousands of homes in which they are already used they are making things cheerful because of their absolute safety, great simplicity, and wonderful convenience.

You Will Need an Oil Stove

When warm days and the kitchen fire make cooking a burden—then is the time to try a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove.
Marvelous how this stove does away with kitchen discomforts—how cool it keeps the room in comparison with conditions when the coal fire was burning. The

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

is the only oil stove built with a CABINET TOP for holding plates and keeping food hot after cooking. Also has useful drop shelves on which to stand the coffee pot or teapot after removing from burner.
Fitted with two nicked racks for towels. A marvel of comfort, simplicity and convenience. Made in three sizes—with or without Cabinet Top. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp Just such a lamp as every one wants—handsome enough for the parlor; strong enough for the kitchen, camp or cottage; bright enough for every occasion. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

VERDICT A SURPRISE

Defendants in "Turpentine Trust"
Case Are Found Guilty

Savannah, Ga., May 11.—"Guilty"
was the verdict brought in by the jury in the case of the so-called "turpentine trust," though the names of the two indicted corporations are omitted,
and the verdict applies only to the five individual defendants, officers of the American Naval Stores company and the manager of the National Transportation and Terminal company.

The verdict finds the five individual defendants guilty on the first and second counts of the indictments. The third count was ordered stricken out in the early stages of the trial. The first and second counts charge the defendants with conspiring to monopolize interstate trade.

The surprise the verdict caused is complete. It was generally believed that a verdict would favor the defendants and that if it did not a recommendation to the mercy of the court
would be made.

Elaborate Theatrical Performance
Planned For "Gloucester Day"

Gloucester, Mass., May 11.—President Taft and his family will be the chief guests at the most elaborate outdoor theatrical performance ever attempted in this country, which has been arranged to take place on the evening of Aug. 4, "Gloucester Day," under the auspices of the Gloucester Day committee. The performance will take place at Stage Fort Park,
and will be held entirely in the open air.

It is planned to have the "Canterbury Pilgrims" the basis of this extensive pageant, the elaborations in scenery to be arranged under the direction of Eric Pape and the musical parts to be furnished by Walter Damrosch.
It is expected that nearly 1100 persons will participate.

MEHMED V. ACTS
AS PLOUGHMAN

Ancient Test Completes the Ceremony of "Coronation"

Constantinople, May 11.—Mehmed
V ended his "coronation day" by ploughing a furrow in the lawn at Dol-ma Hagtsche palace, symbolically at least, by holding the plow handles for a fraction of a minute while two horses dragged it a few yards. In carrying out the ancient test, Mehmed
V showed himself to be sound of body
and fit to bear the physical burdens
of the empire.

It had been a day both of fulfilment of ancient customs and of the breaking of them. Christians were for the first time admitted to the small mosque attached to Ayoub mosque and allowed to see the ceremony of girdling the sword of Osman upon the sultan. They were impressed with the beauty and the solemnity of the ceremony, which, with the chants of the priests, only lasted twenty minutes.

postal employees into a war. It asks parliament to do its duty.

A mass meeting has been called for tonight, at which the question of cussed. Eleven more suspensions are

WOULD CURB PORTO RICANS

President Finds Island Politicians Too Anxious For Power

HOUSE HOLDS UP MESSAGE

Remains on Speaker's Table as Result of Democrats' Objection to Its Reference to Ways and Means Committee—Introduction and Consideration of Bill Will Not Affect Program of Leaders—Tariff Comes First

Washington, May 11.—Strenuous opposition by the Democrats in the house prevented the reference by Speaker Cannon of the president's message recommending certain legislation for Porto Rico to the committee on ways and means. A motion by Mr. Garrett (Tenn.), directing the speaker to forthwith appoint a committee on insular affairs, which under ordinary procedure would have charge of the subject, disclosed that a quorum was not present. Consequently the message will lie on the speaker's table until the house meets on Thursday.

Speaker Cannon said that in suggesting the reference he did not have in mind the present conditions of the house, only four committees having been appointed, of which the committee on insular affairs was not one. A long argument ensued over the right of the speaker to override the rules, and ended with a motion by Garrett that the speaker be "directed forthwith to appoint a committee on insular affairs to consider the message."

The vote disclosed but 105 members present, far short of a quorum, whereupon Mr. Payne moved an adjournment, remarking as he did so, that he hoped a quorum would be present when the house next met. In opposing the appointment of the insular affairs committee the Republican leaders indicated their intention of adhering to the policy of permitting no legislation at the present session but that which they deem urgent or which the president recommends.

The introduction and consideration of a Porto Rican bill will not necessarily affect the program of the leaders, as it does not open up any new channels to members who desire to have other legislation considered at this time. It is believed that the house will pass the Porto Rican bill while waiting on the senate's action on the tariff bill and senators say that they see no objection to its consideration by the senate after it disposes of the tariff. There is no disposition in either body to enter upon a program of general explanation during the present extra session.

President Taft's special message recommended legislation at the present extra session amending the Foraker act under which Porto Rico is governed. The president directs the attention of congress to affairs on the island, laying particular stress on what he terms a "situation of unusual gravity" developed through the failure of the legislative assembly of Porto Rico to pass the usual appropriation bills, leaving the island without support after June 30 next.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States, the president says, in the desire of certain of the island's political leaders for power, and he adds that the present situation indicates that the United States has gone too far in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans.

He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

The president suggests to congress the wisdom of submitting to the appropriation committee the question of qualifying some of the provisions of the fundamental act as to the respective jurisdictions of the executive council and the legislative assembly.

Section 5. Any member of the Police Department injured or disabled while on duty, shall receive pay for the time lost in consequence, not exceeding six weeks. Each permanent member of the department shall be given a vacation of two weeks in each year.

Section 6. Whenever there is occasion to employ an officer to do the work of a regular patrolman, preference shall be given to an officer on the Reserve list, provided if in the opinion of the Mayor, there is an officer, on such list, competent and willing to do said work.

TAFT FAVORS PLAYGROUNDS

Says They Should Be Furnished to Children by Every City

HE POINTS OUT ADVANTAGES

Boys and Girls May Be Brought From Surroundings Certain to Create Bad Habits and Bring About Vice to Play Which Will Promote Their Moral and Physical Well Being in Every Respect

Pittsburg, May 11.—The annual congress of the Playground Association of America began here last night with representatives present from about forty cities.

Mayor Magee, on behalf of Pittsburg, welcomed the delegates to the city, and Beulah Kennard, president of the Pittsburg Playground association, spoke for the local organization. President Gulick of the National association responded to the addresses of welcome and gave his annual address. President Taft sent a letter to the congress, which was read at the meeting last night. The president said:

"I greatly regret that I cannot be with you at your third annual congress at Pittsburg, but I write to express my most sincere sympathy in the work which your association is doing. I do not know of anything that will contribute more to the strength and morality of that generation of boys and girls compelled to remain part of urban populations in this country than the institution in their cities of playgrounds where their hours of leisure can be occupied by rational and healthful exercise. The advantage is two-fold.

"In the first place, idleness and confinement in a narrow space in the city, in houses and cellars and unventilated dark rooms, is certain to suggest and bring about pernicious occupation and create bad habits. Gambling, drinking and other forms of vice are promoted in such a restricted mode of life.

"In the second place, an opportunity for hard, earnest and joyous play improves the health, develops the muscles, expands the lungs and teaches the moral lessons of attention, self-restraint, courage and patient effort.

"I think every city is under the strongest obligation to its people to furnish to the children, from the time they begin to walk until they reach manhood, places within the city walls large enough and laid out in proper form for the playing of all sorts of games which are known to our boys and girls and are liked by them.

"I sincerely hope that your present convention may be a success and that the work which you have begun may go on until no city in this country is without suitable playgrounds for the children of those who, but for such city assistance in this regard, would be without them."

EXPLODES ON FIRST TRIP

Army Balloon From Fort Omaha Comes to Grief in Nebraska

Omaha, Neb., May 11.—Army balloon No. 12, which ascended from Fort Omaha Monday, landed at Jackson, Neb. In making a landing the gas bag exploded a few feet above the ground and was destroyed, but neither Captain Chandler nor Lieutenant Ware, who made the flight, was injured.

Captain Chandler believes that while at a high altitude the gas bag became charged with static electricity and that on reaching the ground contact with the earth caused an arc to form, thus producing an electrical spark which set fire to the bag. The bag was a new one and never before been inflated.

VALI A FABRICATOR

Statement Concerning Adana Casualties Known to Be False

Constantinople, May 11.—A telegram from the Vali of Adana with regard to the recent disturbances there says that 1924 Moslems were killed and 533 wounded, while only 1455 Armenians were slain and 382 wounded. These figures, it is claimed, comprise the casualties throughout the entire vilayet.

The statement by the vali is considered here as an obvious and monstrous misrepresentation, with the object of throwing the responsibility on the Armenians to justify the numerous arrests of Christians, which, it is reported, still continue.

Weston's Big Day's Work

Manhattan, Kas., May 11.—Edward Weston arrived here late Monday on his transcontinental walk, having come from Topeka, fifty-two miles, since Sunday midnight with but one rest. He went on to Junction City, twenty-one more miles, before ending his day's walk.

Higher Pay For Solons

Boston, May 11.—The bill increasing the compensation of members of the legislature after the present year from $750 to $1000 was passed to be engrossed in the house by a vote of 120 to 44.

TWENTY MEN DROWN AS LAUNCH SINKS

Small Craft Had Greater Load
Than It Could Carry

Pittsburg, May 12.—Twenty persons were drowned when a gasoline
launch sank in the middle of the Ohio river four miles below Pittsburg. Of the thirty occupants of the boat, only ten escaped.

All of the men were employees of the Pressed Steel Car company at the McKee's Rock plant. They worked until 8 o'clock last night and left the works to cross the river in the launch about fifteen minutes later.
The boat is said to have been intended for not over twenty persons, but all the men wanted to get across the river
on the first trip and thirty of them crowded in.

When the craft reached the midle
of the stream, where the water is twenty feet deep, it suddenly sank.
There was no explosion and no leak was sprung. The boat simply sank beneath the weight it had been bearing and went to the bottom. As it sank the vortex took many of the men down with it. Others attempted to swim ashore, but were chilled by the cold water and became exhausted before reaching the shore.

POSTMASTER ARRESTED

Alleged Wrongdoing Said to Have Covered a Long Period

Portland, Me., May 12.—Charged with making false returns by falsifying his figures on the cancellation of postage, Ambrose M. Littlefield, postmaster at West Kennebunk, was arrested and brought to this city. He furnished bail for his appearance at the June term of the United States district court at Bangor.

It is alleged that Postoffice Inspector Robinson found that within three or four months after Littlefield assumed office, about five years ago, he began to make false returns and that the total amount out of which the government was defrauded was $959.51.

Prisoners Kill Two Wardens

Vilkomir, Russia, May 12.—Eleven prisoners made an attempt to break jail here while the building was being inspected. After killing two wardens they were pursued by the guard and two of them were killed. Several others were wounded and the rest captured.

Murder in Nashua

Nashua, N. H., May 12.—George Marcotte, aged 25 years, was stabbed to death in an alley last night and the police immediately after rescued from a mob Theodesan Balatsox, a Greek,
whom they placed under arrest,
charged with murder.

An important factor in the punishment of criminals in China, it is stated, is the power of the government to seize members of the criminal's family and hold them responsible should he escape. Few Chinamen will flee when they know their father or mother or near relation may be punished and imprisoned.

It was a woman's edition yesterday
and to accommodate all the club members of the annual meeting of the Quincy Women's club, considerable local news and late advertising was crowded out. Some of this will be found today on the inside pages.

There is every indication that the Department of Justice under the administration of President Taft and Attorney General Wickham will prove an even more effective agency in the enforcement of the law than it did in the Roosevelt administration. Mr.
Wickham's administration will lack the limelight and no doubt, he will refrain from pertinent witticisms at the expense of the trusts, but there is a quiet determination about the new Attorney General and an evidence of earnestness and capability about the department since he assumed charge that presages no good to violators of the federal law. There seems to be an obvious disposition in certain quarters to mistake the methods of the new regime in this particular branch of the government service for inaction or ineffectiveness, and it has been frequently hinted that the Taft administration would be more lenient to violators of the statutes than the preceding administration. This is a superficial view, however, and it will be well for corporations and others who may be tempted to disregard the law, to remember the earning of the Attorney General that the "price of peace is obedience to law."

The thing most needed in tariff legislation in more light. Unless the cost conditions which lie at the basis of the effort to compensate home industry are fully explored and understood it is perfectly clear that we cannot have a rational, scientific tariff applying economic principles indorsed by the voters of the country. Under the present method of tariff making the statement as to cost of one legislator is matched against that of another and there is no authority to invoke, no clear rule to apply, each accepting the view advanced by the interests of his own State or district.
Personal and political considerations
invariably take precedence of public and economic ones. A new order of things is demanded and Congress can institute this new order by establishing a permanent tariff commission vested with power to examine witnesses, to send for papers, etc. Industries which are helped by protection have a duty to perform and should make a definite accounting of the benefits of protection, inasmuch as it is accorded them in the interests of the nation and not for their personal aggrandizement.
That some of the great commercial leaders have begun to see this is evidenced by the resolutions adopted recently by the New York Chamber of Commerce, one paragraph of which says: "It appears clear to your committee that the time has now arrived
when we should in our country approximate the system adopted by other enlightened commercial nations,
and should substitute for a haphazard
policy of tariff construction based upon imperfect information and influences exerted by special interests, a scientific system based upon accurate and careful investigation of existing conditions underlying production." Undoubtedly we need light and more light.

mer will be totally invisible to the

DEFECTION OF MAIL CLERKSMail Services in France Are In Other Respects Normal

STRIKERS GAINING NO GROUND

Cabinet Discharges Over Hundred
Agitators—Trades Unions Make No Effort to Join the Movement—Postal Employees in Some Cities Openly Express Disapproval of Strike—
Americans Anxious About Their Mail

Paris, May 13.—The first day of the postal strike passed peacefully.
No disturbances were reported and the movement appears not to have gained ground. The services in Paris and throughout the provinces, with the exception of the railroad mail clerks,
are normal, and, as a result there has been no need to take advantage of the preparations made by the various business organizations and commercial bodies to carry on a private letter service.

The cabinet last night summarily dismissed 225 men under the decree issued on March 18 which authorized the discharge of strikers from the state service and made other provisions for dealing with recalcitrants.
The ministers are very confident that the removal of the principal fomenters
of the agitation will have the effect
of crushing the movement.

The leaders of the strike experienced another discouragement in the failure of the miners' congress at Lens
to vote a sympathetic strike, and up to the present none of the trades unions has made a sign of joining the movement. At the same time, the government is hurrying the preparation of its promised bill regulating the status of state employees, which will be ready on Monday.

Official figures place the number of strikers in Paris as 465, out of 11,000.
Owing to the defection of a majority of the mail clerks the outgoing mails are more or less stranded. The hot-bed of the previous revolt, the Central Telegraph Bureau, is very quiet, the night shift reporting for duty as usual.

Reports from the provinces show that the movement has not made much headway, except at Havre, where a special service arranged by the chamber of commerce will be inaugurated. In some cities the postal employees have openly expressed their disapproval of the strike. There is some anxiety at the Paris hotels,
where numerous Americans are expecting letters containing bank drafts, lest these miscarry because of the strike.

The postal employees held a mass meeting last night and adopted a resolution to continue the strike with unabated vigor. It was announced that the number of strikers was growing rapidly, both in Paris and the provinces.

SPARKS START BIG FIRE

Famous Hotel, Two Farmhouses and Part of Forest Burned

Plymouth, N. H., May 13.—After destroying the Pemigewasset house,
one of the most famous hosteleries in the White Mountains, as well as the adjoining railroad station and express office, fire swept over into the pine forest and licked up two farm houses
before it was put under control.

The loss on the hotel is estimated at $100,000, while the destruction of the other property will bring the loss up to $150,000.

The Pemigewasset house was owned by the Boston and Maine railroad. The fire apparently caught on the roof from a spark from a locomotive. There were seventy-five guests in the hotel, but as the fire caught in the upper part of the structure, all were able to leave without difficulty.

NEW INSPECTOR GETS BUSY

Seizes Property of American Fishermen Alleged to Be Poachers

Ogdensburg, N. Y., May 13.—A new inspector, sent by the Canadian fisheries department to this part of the St. Lawrence river in response to recent complaints that Americans have been illegally fishing and shooting in Canadian waters, made several hauls Wednesday, confiscating the property of some Americans alleged to be poachers.

Among other things seized were several boats, a large number of decoys, guns, fieldglasses and nets,
three miles of night lines, thousands of hooks and 800 pounds of fish.

Gas Kills Aged Woman

Orr's Island, Me., May 13.—One hundred hours of unconsciousness,
caused by the effects of escaping coal
gas, resulted in the death of Mrs.
Emma Morrill, 78 years old. Her husband, who was also affected by the coal gas, is believed to be recovered entirely.

Castellane to Hunt Big Game

Montreal, May 13.—The Canadian Pacific Railroad received a communication from Count Boni de Castellane, former husband of Anna Gould, asking that arrangements be made for guides, etc., for a hunting trip after big game in the Rocky mountains in July.

nine of America's best running mont, worth $30,000, with an additional $1000 in plate offered to the ropolitan is worth $5000. The distance in the latter race is one mile.

AIMED AT GENERAL YOUNG

Vermont Veterans' Resolution Touching Upon Rules of War

Burlington, Vt., May 13.—"We condemn any man who, outside of the rules of war, committed an act of violence contrary to all civilized warfare," declared the forty-second annual encampment, Department of Vermont, G. A. R., in a resolution aimed, the delegates stated after the meeting, at General Bennett H.
Young of Louisville, who led the raid on St. Albans in 1864 and who has hinted that he will decline an invitation from the governor of Vermont and the citizens of St. Albans to speak at the 300th anniversary of the discovery of Lake Champlain.

"We yield to none," the resolution
read. "But we do respect the soldiers who fought openly against us and within our rules of war. Such men were Lee and Jackson and their brave followers."

CUBANS VOTE FOR NATIONAL LOTTERYExpect to Rake In $1,000,000
to $2,000,000 Annually

Havana, May 13.—The house of representatives, by a vote of 52 to 20, passed the bill authorizing the establishment of a national lottery. The outline of the bill contains thirty-nine articles, which will be subject to further discussion in the house.

The general terms of the project,
from which the government expects to draw an annual revenue of from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000, call for three drawings monthly, of which the number of tickets and the amount of the prizes are to be left to the discretion of the secretary of the treasury.

CAUSED MITCHELL'S DEATH

Attendants in Insane Hospital Found Guilty of Manslaughter

Boston, May 13.—The jury in the Pierce farm case found Roderick C.
MacKenzie and Murdoch C. Mac-Gregor guilty of manslaughter. It was charged that they caused the death of Richard Mitchell, an insane patient
at the farm, by beating him.

Mitchell, who was formerly a compositor on a Boston newspaper, was 39 years old. The government claimed that on March 18, six days after he went to the institution, he called the defendants vile names and that shortly afterwards they took him to the bathroom, where it is claimed that they attacked him.

The post-mortem examination
showed that eight ribs on one side
and one on the other side of the body and the breast bone had been fractured. Death came on March 25.

ENGINE ROOM DAMAGED

Explosion on Submarine Just After She Had Been Repaired

Norfolk, May 13.—An explosion,
the cause of which is unknown officially, damaged the engine room of the submarine torpedo boat Cuttlefish.

The accident occurred shortly after the boat had been taken from dry-dock at the Norfolk navy yard, where she had been undergoing repairs. Unofficially, it was stated that the explosion probably was caused by a leaky gasoline tank.

The officials refuse to make a statement further than to say that a board of inquiry had been appointed.

Death Releases Old Prisoner

Augusta, Me., May 13.—Joel C.
Preble, who was the oldest prisoner
in the state's care as regards length of service, died Wednesday of senile dementia. He was 77 years old and was committed to prison in 1861 for the murder of his wife at Cooper's Mills. Preble was serving a life sentence. He was brought to this state's criminal insane building in this city last September.

Acquitted of "Kidnapping"

San Francisco, May 13.—Luther J.
Brown, head of a private detective bureau, charged with the "kidnap-ing" of Fremont Older, managing editor of The Bulletin, against whom a warrant for criminal libel of Brown
had been sworn out, was acquitted

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp.
My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable.
Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fully covered and keeps coming in thicker.
I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

HONORS TO ELIOT

Ambassadors at Banquet by Order of Two Emperors

Cambridge, Mass., May 13.—The tables of the Cosmopolitan Club of Harvard were graced last night with the presence of Count Kogoro Takahira of Japan, Count Bernstorff of Germany, Canon Henson, rector of St. Margaret's church, Westminster, London; President Eliot, the retiring president of Harvard; President-elect Lowell and Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts.

The presence of the two foreign ambassadors was brought about through the desire of the emperors of the respective governments to honor Eliot upon his retirement by conferring illustrious orders.

Between the courses of the dinner,
at which 130 persons sat, Takahira
made some remarks on peace.

Count Bernstorff's remarks were devoted largely to an eulogization in common of Harvard, university and President Eliot.

SPRINKLED OVER THE CITY

Twenty-Four Mutineers Are Publicly Executed in Constantinople

Constantinople, May 13.—Constantinople witnessed another batch of executions Wednesday when twenty-four mutineers of the army and navy were hanged in public within the city limits.

Four of the men were hanged near the sultan's palace, eight at the marine barracks, eight in the Djinn Median quarter of Stamboul and four at the war office.

Priests prayed with the condemned men shortly before they were taken to the places of execution, and commented upon the evil deeds which had resulted in their deaths. One of the condemned men spoke up and said that all the priests he had talked with on the day of the so-called mutiny and the days following had approved of his action.

WRIGHT BROTHERS
EXTREMELY SHYCombined Speeches Occupy
Less Than Two Minutes

New York, May 13.—Wilbur and Orville Wright left New York last evening for their home in Dayton, O., after a day spent in receiving the tributes and compliments of friends and admirers and aeronautical enthusiasts.

However much at home the brothers
may be amid the perils of the upper air, they showed that they were extremely shy as guests of honor. At the luncheon tendered by the Aero Club of America their speeches were models of brevity and they appeared immensely relieved when the ordeal was over. Wilbur spoke first, three sentences that lasted less than sixty seconds. Orville followed and his speech was just half as long as his brother's.

Assailed by the interviewers, Orville referred all questioners to Wilbur and Wilbur turned them over to Orville. Together they said that in their opinion the use of the aeroplane for dropping bombs or explosives into a hostile army was impracticable.

"I have been a fighter all my life
and I will not be discouraged now.
The campaign isn't ended and I will fight to the last ditch to free my son

"I intend to make my permanent

I am confident will result in his acquittal."

Pittsburg, May 13.—Ten bodies had night's ferryboat accident. A revised list shows that the total death list will be twenty-three, instead of twenty as first reported.

The coroner has not taken any steps toward holding an inquest and may not, for the deaths are considered to have been purely accidental.

QUINCY HIGH 3 BROCKTON HIGH 2

Home Team Puts Up Good Game and Wins.

In one of the best played games seen at the park this season, the High school team on Tuesday defeated the Brockton High nine by the score of 3 to 2. Although well played, it was rather a slow game, the cause of this being Wardwell's wildness and his seeming inability to pitch a ball until he had waited about five minutes counting the stitches on the sphere.

But for a passed ball in the opening session on which the visitors scored their two runs, "Stan" Bates would have had a shut-out. He pitched a brilliant game striking out nine and allowing but two scattered hits. In fact but for this passed ball and Wardwell's generosity with free passes, the game might have been going on yet, for each of Quincy's runs was the result of a base on balls.

Casey, the crack Shoe City all round athlete, opened for Brockton with a pop to the catcher. Riley got a life on an error by McCarthy, and went to second on Tevlin's out at first. Roland got a free ticket and with Riley pulled off a double steal. With two out, Egan fanned, but Tabb led the third strike go to the grandstand and Riley and Roland scored. Gill then fled to Galvin.

This ended Brockton's scoring for the day although in the third a base hit, a sacrifice and a pass nearly did some damage. With two men on, however, Roland skied to Howe and Egan went out by the air route. A long fly by Gill in fourth nearly went for something but Capt. Galvin was there and after juggling and falling, came up with the ball. He was warmly applauded this fine piece of work. Quincy broke into the run column in the third. R. Bates was safe on Casey's error. Chapman and Brooks were passed filling the bases with no out. With three men on, no one out, the infield playing away in for a bunt, the game was walloped the ball and take a chance. Manning however, was ordered to bunt and Russ Bates was put out at the plate without any trouble at all. With the bases still full, Chapman was caught napping off third, making two out. Wardwell was getting away nicely. But he didn't reckon on that midge McCarthy, who hit the first ball to left centre for two bases. Brooks scored and Manning came tearing in after him. But you are supposed to tag third in a case like that and "Billy" failed to do so, the penalty for this is that the runner is out. Hence one run was scored where two or three should have been tallied.

In the following inning Stan Bates opened with a single, Tabb and Bates were passed and again the bases were full with no out. Galvin fled to left. Russ Bates then walked and his brother Stan was forced over with the tying run. The next two went out on strikes.

The winning run came in on the sixth. Howe was walked for a start, but was caught napping, the pitcher to first to second. Galvin followed with another free ticket, went to second on an error and to third on Bates out at first. Chapman was the man of the hour, sending a slashing single to left on which Galvin scored the last and winning running of the game.

For Quincy, McCarthy shone at the bat, while the fielding of Galvin, Tabb and Stan Bates were worthy of note. Casey, Egan and Riley excelled for Brockton. The summary:

BIG GUNS SILENT.

No More Naval Target Practice in Massachusetts Bay.

Having no rolling sea, Massachusetts Bay has been abandoned by the navy department as a rendezvous for record target practice for the Atlantic fleet. The new conditions of the practice require that it be held in a rolling sea, and this kind of marine boiling up and down is better met off the capes of Virginia and Cuba than in Massachusetts Bay. In view of the disturbances of this kind of shooting in Massachusetts Bay, the people of Boston will not very much regret the exceeding good booming fortune of the Virginia capes or of Cuba. The new regulations provide that the firing shall be done at night as well as in the day time.

DEPOT ROBBED.

Burglars Secure Cash From Atlantic Depot Early This Morning.

The Atlantic depot was entered by burglars early this morning and $10 in money taken from the ticket office. The break was discovered by Officer Duffy at 3:30 o'clock.

Officer Duffy was at the depot an hour earlier and everything at that time was all right. From there he went to the bridge near the depot and disbursed a crowd that had gathered there. Two of the men he arrested for drunkenness and sent them to the police station.

It was quite a long wait for the patrol wagon and it is thought the break was made while the officer was at the patrol box.

The parties gained entrance to the depot by a window and to the ticket office by boring a hole through the door and turning the catch.

The money was not placed in the safe as usual but was put where it was thought it would be safe.

—In 1907 sugar paid $60,000,000 in duties to the Government. In the same time it cost the consumers $105,000,000 extra. Puzzle: Who got the $45,000,000?

—One of the reasons for the income tax idea being popular is that there are so few people who have incomes that are taxable.

LOOKED IN BOSTON BUT BOUGHT HERE

A man drifted into our store the other night, said he wanted to buy some furniture—had spent the whole day in Boston looking around but couldn't seem to see things that looked good to him at the prices he could afford to pay. Inside of 30 minutes we had booked his order for a four room outfit for $169.50, that looked better to him than anything any Boston store had showed up for even $200. He went home perfectly satisfied that our claim to beat Boston Prices was true. That man is a talking advertisement for us—and it's just one of the many instances that makes our business grow.

OPENING SMOKER.

Vaudeville Show and Clam Chowder at Quincy Yacht Club.

The annual opening smoker of the Quincy Yacht Club was held at the club house Wednesday evening and was attended by a large number of yachtsmen and their friends. The entertainment was furnished by Ed Kelley of Boston and opened with piano selections by Miss Andrews. Other artists to appear were Will Pool who gave many mystifying card manipulating tricks. Joe Daniels in imitations of well known comedians, Louise Charland, serio comic singer, Billy Chase singing comedian and Sotto the Egyptian dancer.

After the entertainment Commodore Robbins outlined the program for the season and then presented Ira M. Whittemore, skipper of the Almirra, with the silver cup trophy of the race between the Almirra and Emsline sailed April 19.

GALAHAD DRAMATICS.

The first production of the Galahad club dramatics came off Wednesday night in the Parish house of Christ church. The two plays given were, "Tricks of Trades" and "Two Buzards."

"Tricks of Trades," a farce comedy in one act was played by the following cast: Delmar, a glove manufacturer, very well taken by Robert King; Beaumont, a commercial traveler, played in a good business-like way by Everett Prout, William Warrington making a true Frenchman and a sleepy one at three o'clock in the morning, his stage name being Victor, and Harold Prout a very acceptable decorator, Gustav by name.

"Two Buzards," the second play is a bright lively, side-splitting farce and all the boys took their parts capably. John Spargo, as Mr. Benjamin Buzard was undoubtedly the star, acting his part truly in every detail. His sister Lucretia, played by Phillip Halvorsen, Jr., was a very good married old maid trying to keep her marriage secret from her brother. Thomas Beale, taking the part of John Small was great; facial expression, acting and talking. Mr. Glimmer, a young lodger and secretly married to Lucretia was perfectly played by Henry Boutillier; Sally, a servant, Ellis Young, was also capably done.

Prof. Wrigley contributed his share to the entertainment by playing before, between and after the plays.
The plays are to be repeated tonight.

H. G. Smith felt there was a chance for an improvement in the delivery of packages. He did not believe that the carrying of freight would conflict with the passenger service. He read from a New York paper to show the increase of the trolley freight traffic in the country.

John L. Miller said that we were close to Boston. That we had a great many express companies. He learned from the City Council that there were 21 express companies now doing a regular express business in the city. There is no reason why we should not get satisfactory service. Bridgewater and Brockton are away from Boston and need the trolley freight. Quincy is near by and does not need it. Better go slow. Wait until Boston grants the right then we can follow.

Mr. Blackmur felt that what the railroad company was after was the valuable franchise. They do not give rates. We do not know what we are going to get. There would be no impropriety in telling what the charges are to be. Franchise should not be granted for longer than 5 or 7 years if given at all.

Andrew Milne said that it would be better for Quincy to go slow. The South Shore and Brockton would gain at Quincy's expense.

Mr. Merrill asked if there had been any demand from the citizens of Quincy for the trolley freight. He had met no one who was anxious for it and had seen many that were opposed to it. General opinion was that we would get the same rates that we pay now and that the business would be divided up. We should have some assurance as to rates. If the railroad is given a valuable franchise by the city it can afford to do business cheaply.

H. G. Smith said we were where we were three years ago. Thought it safe to grant the franchise for seven years. At the end of that time have an appraisal made and let the city demand something in return for it. If it is a good thing the railroad will not give it up and the city will get some return. It will be no detriment to the city to try it for awhile.

Mr. Merrill feared that if the railroad obtained the right to run from Boston to Fall River that a large amount of freight for the New York boats would be run through our city. Why should we give up the use of our streets to benefit other cities. Feared that this was the nose of the camel poking into the tent and that soon the body would crowd us all.

H. L. Kincaide said give them a trolley freight franchise with restrictions or not at all. We ought to use our best efforts to see the rights of the city safeguarded.

It was voted: That a Committee of three of which the President shall be one, be appointed by the chair to wait upon the Mayor and City Council and represent to them that it is the sense of the Citizens' Association that no trolley express franchise be granted except that it be safeguarded by restrictions as to time, character of merchandise, collection and delivery of packages and that it be subject to revocation for violations of terms and conditions of franchise, that it shall contain a prohibition relating to the sale of the franchise or the making of combinations whereby competition is curtailed or destroyed; and further that the granting of said franchise shall in no way enhance the value of properties in the appraisal thereof in the event that the city shall ever acquire by purchase or otherwise any or all of said company's rights or equities whatsoever; and that some satisfactory assurances be given by the railroad company officials as to the rates charged and accommodations given.

Voted:—That a copy of the report of the Committee on Electric Express be sent to the Mayor and members of the City Council. The committee appointed were Paul R. Blackmur, Henry L. Kincaide, J. A. Sedgwick.

THE QUANTUM WATER PROBLEM

Mayor Shea at Work on Plan
to Supply Section with Water

The question of supplying the houses
at Squantum with water is a serious one as the City of Boston whose pipes are now connected with a number of houses in this section have refused to furnish them with water this year.

Mayor Shea has had frequent conferences with the authorities of Boston but no definite conclusion has been reached.

Older citizens of Quincy will remember the exciting time when the city of Boston first laid its water pipes at Squantum. How the late John A. Duggan who was then Chief Engineer of the Fire Department had the steamer stationed near the water trenches and kept them filled with water so that the Italians were unable to work. How the rocks flew and that the two contending forces nearly came to blows before the matter was settled.

Then a special act was passed by the legislature permitting the pipes
to be laid under certain restrictions.

It was also understood that Boston should maintain hydrants at certain distances apart. It was common talk that Boston should supply the houses that desired water and it was so generally understood but there is no evidence to that effect.

This year the City of Boston has refused to furnish water, and the Mayor has had quite a problem on his hands trying to fix it so that the residents may have water.

He offered to purchase the mains
from the city of Boston and pay them
for water at a price to be determined by the Metropolitan Water commission.

To this proposition Boston said
that it would sell the mains for $1.10 per foot. As the city could put in new mains at 90 cents per foot the Mayor could not see why he should pay $1.10 for pipe over twenty years old, and he made a proposition to pay 45 cents per foot which was promptly turned down.

Thursday Mayor Shea submitted a new proposition which was to leave the matter out to three disinterested
persons to set a value on the mains
in question and the city would abide by their finding.

If this was not agreeable he would rent the mains for a month during which time he would lay a new main from Atlantic.

Up to this noon no answer had been received from these propositions. The Mayor however is determined that the residents of Squantum shall not go dry for want of water.

WILLIAM J. McDONNELL.

Many Friends Attend Funeral Services At Church.

The funeral of William J. McDonnell, aged 29, son of Mr. and Mrs.
John A. McDonnell, was held this morning from his late home on Elm street. Many friends thronged St.
John's church where a requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by Rev. John J. Casey. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass, John Mahon presiding at the organ. Miss Mary McNulty sang the "Pie Jesu."
The bearers were George B. Gavin,
Dr. J. H. Maloney, Michael Maher,
Michael T. Walsh, Thomas Carey and Walter Elcock.

The floral tributes were beautiful and completely covered the casket at the house and the grave at St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy, where the body was buried. Among the offerings were pieces from the Quincy Council, Knights of Columbus, Quincy, lodge of Elks, Division 5, A. O. H., and the Irish club. Delegates were present from all these organizations and from the class of 1909 Boston College High school where the deceased brother was a student. Rev. Andrew J. Fitzgerald, acting pastor of St.
Francis church, South Braintree, in place of the deceased's uncle Fr. Mc-Donnell, sat inside the sanctuary and read the service at the grave.

JAMES P. DUNN.

THE DISTRICT MEETING EAST NOR-FOLK SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSO.

A district meeting, under the auspices of the East Norfolk District
Sunday school association, was held Tuesday evening at the Congregational church, Hingham. The president, Rev. Alfred R. Atwood of Quincy presided during the first part of the session, and vice president Mr. Clifton Bestick of Braintree, presided during the latter part of the session. Reports showed the Sunday school interests of the district were well cared for. The meeting elected the district secretary Miss Sarah Holbrook of Holbrook, as its official delegate to the summer school for Sunday school workers,
which meets at Northfield, July 22-29.
The annual meeting will be held in Bethany church, Quincy, Oct. 20, morning, afternoon and evening, and the following speakers have been secured, Rev. Albert M. Hyde, D. D., of Brookton; Rev. O. P. Gifford of Brighton; Rev. C. A. Vincent, D. D., of Boston; and Bishop Malleau.

two children Mary E. wife of James Ford and Joshua P. Holbrook.

Mr. Holbrook was born in Weymouth May 23, 1837 and was for many years identified with the shoe business. He gave up this business in 1893 since which time he has been employed as a travelling salesman.

For 15 years he was a member of the Democratic town committee and represented the Quincy-Weymouth
district in the legislature in 1888.

burg of St. Chrysostom's church, Rev.

Memorial church and by Rev. Mr.

which included piano solos by Mrs.
Fred Schomburg; vocal solos by Miss Marguerite Holbrook and readings by Miss Hattie Levine.

NEEDLESS KILLINGS.

In the whole country from all causes
in 1908 the accidents totaled 500, 000 persons, which is 500 regiments strong, and these victims of the perils of peace would be hours in passing a given point.

Devices which will diminish this woeful line at least one-half are available. Models of photographs will be kept on view at the Museum of Safety and Sanitation in order that the employer may be able to inform himself how to reduce that line, save 250,000 men for earning efficiency and cut litigation and damage expenses
millions of dollars every year.

Wood and metal working machinery; stamping, grinding and polishing machines; presses, cranes and hoisting machinery; transportation security by sea and land; safety lamps
and explosives; quarrying, agricultural and chemical industries; safety from fire—all these will be represented. Also, there will be a section of sanitation, to include improved dwellings; first aid to the injured; prevention of industrial diseases; respirators and methods for supplying pure air and insuring health.

There are ten Transatlantic museums of safety where industrialists
may go to learn how to avoid killing or maiming those who work in their shops, factories, mines, fields, railways, buildings and ships. To these museums a man about to begin any kind of business may go to learn what appliances he needs to safeguard himself against enormous annual expenditures for "damages" and to protect his workmen from loss of life, limb or health while in his employ.

In America the insurance interests estimate the annual loss to companies from preventable accidents to be $125,000,000. This does not include costs of defending suits at law, in which the person injured receives in judgments scarcely $500 on the average, of which his lawyer usually gets one-half.

One half of $500 is a small sum for a wage-earner to receive for partial or total incapacitation for life. Many of these cases become a charge upon the general community. The owner of the mill or shop in which the hurt or utterly disadvantaged wage-earner has met disaster has to share this burden in his taxes, along with the cost he has shouldered in the litigation to determine the damage sustained, while the final award to the injured man or to the former employer is often unfair and unbusinesslike. The worker gets less, the employer pays more than he ought to.

NEPONSSET BRIDGE BILL.

It was expected that the bill for a new bridge over the Neponset river between Quincy and Boston to replace the present structure would be reported in the legislature this morning. The Senate did not act on the matter today however but will probably do so Monday.

LADIES' NIGHT.

Makaria Fraternity Entertains at the Bethany Church.

The annual ladies' night of the Makaria Fraternity was held Thursday evening at the Bethany church and not only was largely attended but
was a very enjoyable occasion.

Harry Brooks had charge of the entertainment and he saw to it that a good time was assured.

During the first part of the evening there was an entertainment which included piano solos by Herman Ulrich; vocal solos by Frederick P.
Wardwell; cello solos by Miss Ora
Lathard and violin solos by Lee Brooks.

Then there was a series of games
under the direction of Deleceave
King. These included Poor Pussy, Throwing the smile, Jogging along,
etc.

An adjournment was then made to the dining room where strawberries
and ice cream was served.

INQUEST.

An inquest was held before Judge
Avery this morning on the death of Jose Flume Lindgren the Finn girl killed at the Wollaston depot on the evening of April 23.

On the evening in question the girl stepped from the rear of one train directly in front of a fast approaching express train and was killed immediately.

The Assessors began their field work in Houghs Neck this year. They report having found a large number of new buildings.

Who will be the first in Quincy to adopt King Edward's fad and wear trousers creased on the side?

An exchange says that it is really quite an amusing pastime for a mere man to sit in the street car and try to identify the different kinds of fruits displayed as decorations on the ladies' hats.

It is said that if the crowd had not become suspicious that everything was not all right last Sunday that the police would have scooped in half a hundred alleged crap shooters at Norfolk Downs.

MAY PARTY.

A very pretty May party was given at the home of Miss Mildred Maxwell 86 Hamden circle. Miss Myrtle Maxwell sister of the hostess, was selected as the Queen of May, and Miss Irene Patterson crowned her in a very pretty and graceful manner after which games were played and piano solos enjoyed. When the children had tired of the games, a march was played by Miss Elvira Ewell, and all marched headed by the Queen of May to the dining room, where a delicate repast was served. Among those present were: Louise Tuttle, Sarah Tuttle, Ruth Codwell, Ruth Carlson, Irene
Patterson, Edna Tuttle and Thelma Ingraham. The little ones parted after declaring that the afternoon had been to be long remembered, and praising Mrs. Charles Maxwell, mother of the hostess for her kind hospitality.

OPENING GAME OF OLD COLONY LEAGUEWill Line Up Against Strong Team at Rockport

Several good ball games are scheduled for tomorrow in Quincy at Merry-mount park the fast Makaria team
meets the Baraca team of Dorchester.
This bunch put it onto Makaria twice
last year and will be out to repeat the performance. The local lads will work hard to stop them.

At the Ward Two playground the Bigelows are scheduled to cross bats with the U. S. S. Salem team which lost to the Fore River Apprentices last Saturday. The Bigelows have yet to lose a game and ought to make things interesting for the jacks. "Lefty"
Ford will probably pitch for the Bige-
lows and the little south paw will have the Salem boys guessing.

The Fore River Apprentices will try conclusions again with the Blacksmiths at the Fore River athletic field.
In the opening game of the season the Blacksmiths were badly beaten by the prentice boys, but they still think they can trim them. A lot of interest is being taken in the coming game
and a big crowd will probably be on hand.

Tomorrow also marks the advent of the Quincy Old Colony baseball team into local sportdom. The team plays its first game of the season against the strong Rockport team at Rockport. Rockport always has a fast team and is considered one of the best in the state. If Quincy makes a good showing against Rockport she will fit against any team in the Old Colony League.

Tomorrow's game will be a practice exhibition game for the local team. The purpose of the game is to get a line on the candidates for the team. Already Manager "Syd" Patterson has strings on several strong players all of whom can be secured
for the season.

Among the players secured is Fred Smith a local boy who this spring received a try out at Providence. Fred made a fine impression with the Rhode Island fans and with Hughey Duffy,
but as the Grays have two of the best catchers in the whole league there was hardly any need of a third. He will probably be called back in the fall to work in double headers.

Smith will work behind the bat for Quincy in the opening games. This assures the local fans of some swell backstop work. In the box the opening game will find Patterson another local man. "Syd" says he feels fine
this year and hopes to play better ball than ever. Its in "Syd" alright and with the managerial honors as an incentive it ought, to come out.

For the initial sack Dick Hayes of Cambridge has been signed. Dick was with Elizabeth. (N.J.) last year, but wanted to get nearer home. He is said to be one of the fastest fielding minor league first basemen in the country. A good man on the first corner is a whole lot and Dick ought to fit in fine with the Quincoys.

On the third George Donaher will essay to show the local fans some Jimmy Collins stunts. Donaher was formerly with Hayes on the Elizabeth team and the pair ought to work well together. Last year he started out with Haverhill in the N. E. league but later went to Portland in the Maine state where he stayed until the league broke up.

a few years ago, has been secured

has developed into a fast fielder and strong batter and ought to make good.

Second base will be looked after by Louis Courtney of Randolph. Courtney played with the Randolph team
last season and this spring tried out with the Brockton New England league team. He will make a star man for the pivot position.
In the outfield we find first "Billy"
Duggan, the clever bask player of West Quincy. Last year Duggan played the season with the Deweys of Weymouth in the Old Colony. He is a fast left-handed outfielder and runs the bases and bats in fine style. He will surely make a hit here with his classy playing.

George Fallon of Quincy Point, last year with the Quincy Independents,
will also get a try out in the outfield.
George has played since he was a kid
and his friends hope he'll make good.
He is a sure fielder and a valuable batter with men on bases. Strobel of Dorchester is the other outfielder who will appear in the line up.

This will probably be the team that starts the game tomorrow at Rockport. Men will probably be tried in all the positions, thus enabling the manager to get some kind of an idea how his men shape up. Let's hope they make a good start now and that they keep it up when the league season opens, May 30, with Quincy against Taunton at the Water street park.

HOW ONE WOMAN WAS CONVINCED

A woman called at our store yesterday with an ad from a Boston Store—advertising an English Baby Carriage worth $35.00 for $21.50—
"Match it if you can" she said and our clerk immediately walked over to our display of over a hundred carriages and go carts—found an exact duplicate of the carriage advertised and booked the order of the amazed lady for the same carriage at $17.75. She had never visited our store before and was amazed at our enormous stock. She is now convinced that our claim to beat Boston prices is no bluff.

EXPECTS TO SEE
LAW ENFORCED

Steel Corporation's Dissolution

Predicted by Senator Bailey

IMPRISONMENT FOR OFFICERS

Failing in That, the Texan Expects Them to Become Fugitives From Justice—Says When a Court Fines a Trust the Trust Fines the People—Millionaire Values Liberty More Than He Does His Fortune

Washington, May 14.—Referring directly to the United States Steel Corporation and charging that organization with violating the antitrust laws of the country, Senator Bailey, in addressing the senate on the tariff bill, declared that if the officers of the law do their duty, the steel trust would be dissolved. He said that he expected eventually to see this done.

"Just put one of the malefactors of great wealth in the penitentiary and you will see the anti-trust law enforced without any further violations," said Bailey. "Send one of these men who may be found violating either the interstate commerce law or the anti-trust law to the penitentiary and you will stop these violations by others."

"You cannot do it with fines, because when the court fines a trust the trust fines the people, and as long as the punishment is measured in dollars and cents they will continue to violate the law. Men will take the chance of pecuniary loss in the hope of realizing a greater pecuniary gain. Send one of them to the penitentiary and it will work like magic."

"The millionaire," continued Bailey,
who was receiving the rapt attention
of senators on both sides of the chamber, "values one thing more than his fortune and that is his liberty. He does not love justice. He does not love that peace of mind for which others struggle. But he loves his liberty."

Mr. Bailey said that he expected
the United States Steel Corporation
would be dissolved. Continuing he said:
"I expect to see its officers imprisoned or become fugitives from justice, and if men now charged with the administration of law fail to perform their duty, I have an abiding faith that the American people will call into their service another set of men, if not from another party, at least another set of men from your party."

"The stalwarts of today will become the insurgents of that day, and the insurgents of this generation will be the stalwarts of the next generation.
That is as certain as any event in the future can be."

OUTSIDERS NOT WANTED

Episcopalians to Be Admitted Only
by Men of That Faith

Boston, May 14.—An attempt by so-called radicals in the church to have members of the other denominations invited to deliver addresses and take part in the discussions was defeated by the general committee in charge of the Episcopal Church congress, in session in this city.

The committee decided that a decision to admit outside speakers might be construed as an endorsement of those who believe in allowing the ministers of other denominations to occupy Episcopal pulpits.

At last night's session the subject of psychotherapy, as embodied in the Emanuel Movement, a system of mental and spiritual healing, was discussed.

Providence Police Actively Work-

SEARCH IS NARROWING DOWN

Would Like to Locate Man Who Was Often Seen With Slain Woman and Disappeared at Time of Tragedy—Entertain Theory That Slayer Was Well Acquainted With Victim and That Jealousy Was the Motive

Providence, May 14.—The search for the murderer of Miss Laura E.
Register of Cranston, whose body, covered with wounds and bruises, was found in the Jewish cemetery on Reservoir avenue, in Cranston, last Tuesday morning, had narrowed down to one man only, according to the police.

It is said that this man had been seen in company with Miss Register quite frequently and that he has been missing from his home since last Monday. The police are devoting all their efforts to an endeavor to locate him and get his story of his movements since last Monday. Several other young men with whom the young woman had kept company at different times have been interviewed by the police, but all have told a satisfactory story.

Miss Register was recently engaged to be married and she was returning from the dressmaker's, where she had tried on her wedding gown,
when she met her death. She left a Reservoir avenue trolley car at about 9:40 on Tuesday evening and started to walk to her home, which was some distance beyond the end of the car line.

Her way led past the Jewish cemetery and it was in this cemetery that her body was found the next morning.
The face was bruised and battered,
the nose was fractured, and there was a wound on the top of the head, as it made with a club. The opinion of the medical examiner that the girl
died from strangulation was confirmed by the appearance of finger prints on the throat.

The police have been working on the theory that someone acquainted with Miss Register committed the crime, the motive possibly being jealousy, but they have also had their dragnet out for tramps and other suspicious characters who could be located near the vicinity on the night of the murder.

One suspect, Louis Horn, on whom
the police found a slingshot, was examined Thursday. The physicians who were called in to assist declared that the man was mentally unbalanced. He said he came from Taunton, Mass., Wednesday. The police held him for further investigation.

Miss Register had been married to Ernest G. Allen, but had secured a divorce in 1905 on the ground of failure to provide and had since resumed her maiden name. She was 31 years old.

STORY NOT VERIFIED

Nothing to Indicate That Whaler's Crew Are Venezuela's Prisoners
Caracas, May 14.—It has been impossible to verify here the story coming from the island of St. Vincent that the captain and crew of the American whaling vessel Carrie D.
Knowles of Provincetown, Mass., have been languishing in a Venezuelan prison for five years.

There is nothing in the records of the American legation or the foreign office to substantiate the story brought to St. Vincent by the sailor, Elisha Payne.

W. W. Russell, the American minister, has no knowledge of the alleged captivity of the men, nor have the American consul at Laguaira or officials of the government.

Roosevelt Declares That Russian's Influence Has Not Been Great

New York, May 14.—Ex-President

The Outlook, in discussing Tolstoi, expresses the opinion that the Russian writer has "swayed or dominated only
the feeble folk and the fantastic folk"
and that his influence over "men of action" has not been great.

"Strong men may gain something from Tolstoi's moral teachings," declares
the ex-president, "but only on condition that they are strong enough and sane enough to be repelled by those parts of his teachings which are foolish or immoral."

Fails Prosperity Is Returning

Gary, Ind., May 14.—In a speech delivered at a luncheon tendered him
by the Gary Commercial club, Chairman Gary of the board of directors of
the United States Steel Corporation
voiced his belief that the country is now recovering fully from the effects of panic and that the return of prosperity is now in sight.

rection have been reduced to $1 a

Great Demonstration Upon Aviators' Return From Europe

Dayton, O., May 14.—Booming cannon and the blare of brass bands greeted Wilbur and Orville Wright on their arrival in their home city from Europe. The greatest crowd ever seen around the Union station was waiting for the train and every member of it seemingly tried to outdo all others in paying an enthusiastic welcome to the unassuming Dayton aviators.

At their home the Wrights were greeted by several thousand of their neighbors and last night a formal reception by residents of the West Side was attended by 10,000 persons.

Duty on Iron Ore
Washington, May 14.—After a day devoted to discussing the duty on iron ore, the senate adopted, by a vote of 61 to 24, a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore. The house had placed that article on the free list, while the present law levies a duty on it of 40 cents a ton. In taking this vote party lines were annihilated.

Unless Vast Strides are Made Today—Comparatively Small Number of Men Out in Paris

Paris, May 14.—The turbulent session of the chamber of deputies Thursday ended in another signal victory for Premier Clemenceau, when the government's policy with regard to the postal strike was emphatically endorsed by a vote of 454 to 59, including also the government's insistence that the postal employees and other functionaries have no right to strike. Immediately afterwards the chamber passed a vote of general confidence in the government, 365 to 159.

The strikers declare that the chamber's rebuke only serves to bind closer their forces, which will soon startle
the country by a big increase and a rapid extension of the general movement. On the other hand, it is intimated that the government has other plans in view to offset any serious growth of the strike.

There is no change in the situation.
If anything it is in the direction of a weakening of the strike sentiment.
The general conviction is that if the movement does not make vast strides
it is almost certain of complete failure.

M. Barthou, the minister of public works, posts and telegraphs, during the course of the debate, asserted that only 2367 out of the 24,205 postal employees in Paris and the department of the Seine are out, and that conditions in the provinces were even better.

Premier Clemenceau, in a typical epigrammatic speech, coolly concluded
the exciting session with the declaration that it was merely a case where France must choose between revolution on the one hand and progressive evolution on the other, or between work under Republican law and order and a spirit of adventure calculated to disorganize and rend the republic.

WINS BY SIX LENGTHS

King James, Favorite in Betting, Captures Metropolitan Handicap

New York, May 14.—The opening of the Metropolitan racing season,
which was coupled this year with the running of the classic Metropolitan handicap, passed into turf history
with the winning of the blue ribbon event of the occasion by St. C. Hil-deth's 4-year-old colt, King James, carrying 123 pounds and favorite in the betting, from a field of eleven starters.

Yacette, the Madden entry, finished six lengths behind, with Bugler, a 6-year-old gelding entered by C. C.
Smithson, a close third.

There was considerable rough riding in this race in which a number were thrown out of the running. Nimbus went to the front at the start, followed by Don Creole and King James.
At the far turn King James went to the front and from there to the finish
it was no contest, the favorite winning easily by six lengths.

WRIGHT BROTHERS AT HOME

Great Demonstration Upon Aviators' Return From Europe

Dayton, O., May 14.—Booming
cannon and the blare of brass bands greeted Wilbur and Orville Wright on their arrival in their home city from Europe. The greatest crowd ever seen around the Union station was waiting for the train and every member of it seemingly tried to outdo all others in paying an enthusiastic welcome to the unassuming Dayton aviators.

At their home the Wrights were greeted by several thousand of their neighbors and last night a formal reception by residents of the West Side
was attended by 10,000 persons.

Duty on Iron Ore
Washington, May 14.—After a day
devoted to discussing the duty on iron ore, the senate adopted, by a vote of 61 to 24, a duty of 25 cents a ton on iron ore. The house had placed that article on the free list, while the present law levies a duty on it of 40 cents a ton. In taking this vote party lines were annihilated.

Woman Burned to Death
Northbridge, Mass., May 14.—Mrs.
Mary M. Whiting, 86 years old, died of burns received while destroying caterpillars. She had used a torch composed of inflammable material wound around a pole, which had been saturated with kerosene. The blazing oil dripped onto the woman's clothing.

A Government Ice Plant
Washington, May 14.—Government ownership of an ice plant in the city of Washington is contemplated in a plan which President Taft has under consideration for centralizing the purchase of supplies for all of the executive departments.

OPEN HOUSE.

South Quincy Boys' Club Entertain
Parents and Friends.

The South Quincy Boys' club, a branch of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., held open house Wednesday night and a large number of the boys' parents and friends were on hand to hear and see the accomplishments of the boys during the past few months. The branch of the Y. M.
C. A. was started October 12, 1908, with a membership of twenty-two boys and has progressed until now
fifty are on its roll.

After a selection by the orchestra,
an address of welcome was given by Charles Bishop, president of the club. The reports of the various committees were then read as follows:
Social, Walter Morrison; educational,
James Jenkins; physical, Alex. Robertson; secretary, William Michael;
treasurer, Everett Clark; religious,
Charles Bishop. These reports brought out many interesting facts
and showed the great amount of work done by the boys.

A short talk was then given by Mr.
R. D. Chase and the presentation of prizes for Bible study was conducted by Mr. E. G. Gay.

After a selection by the orchestra
a gymnasium exhibition was given by the boys, under the leadership of Mr.
John Wilson of the Y. M. C. A. Leaders Corps. Much praise is due Mr.
Wilson for the admirable way in which he handled the class. The exhibition consisted of marching, calisthenic drill, feats on the horse, tumbling and the closing number was a pyramid.
Refreshments were then served by the social committee. This ended the program for the evening.

"One of the biggest novelties of the year will take place in Quincy Music hall Saturday night, dancing
during the time the moving pictures are thrown on the screen. The hall will be lighted with beautiful green lights, making a moonlight effect which does not detract from the pictures. During the illustrated songs, no dancing will be permitted, but outside of this, the young people can dance to their heart's content. The doors will open at 7:30 and dancing will start at 8 o'clock and last until 10:30. Wilson's orchestra has been engaged for the evening and a very pleasant time is promised.

The audience Thursday night was jolly and appreciative which is always a sure way to bring out the best in the performers.

WASTED PATRIOTISM.

As a result of the almost bloodless conflict with Spain, the actual hostilities of which lasted less than six weeks, the United States paid in 1908 $3,471,157 in pensions, with assurance of an annual increase for many years to come, and the rolls of the Pension Office today bear the names of 24,000 pensioners, over 19,000 of whom are invalids and survivors of this war. More than 18,000 additional claims are now pending, although the total of only 20,000 men. In 1907 the United States paid in pensions a total of $146,000,000. For 1908 the appropriation was increased to $151,000,000.

In all the wars in which the United States has engaged disease has been responsible for more than 70 per cent of the mortality, more than one-half of which could have easily been prevented through organization and preparedness.

Preventable disease, more than wounds, swells the pension lists. Through the Museum of Safety and Sanitation, it will be shown how to lessen this loss. Statistics of the Pension Office prove that if this unnecessary loss had been avoided the saving in pensions alone would have paid the cost of the resulting war very twenty-five years. Aside from the sorrow of the homes made desolate, consider the economic value of the 70 per cent of lives now uselessly sacrificed that might be saved as bread-winners in industrial pursuits.

Proved His Theory, but Died.

The acme of realism was reached, though by accident, in a criminal trial a number of years ago at Lebanon, O. Two men had a personal encounter. One of them after vainly trying to draw his pistol from his hip pocket turned to flee. A moment later he fell, shot in the small of the back. One chamber of his pistol was found to have been fired. His assailant was tried for murder. The defense contended that the man had shot himself while trying to draw his pistol, which had become entangled in the lining of the pocket, and that the prisoner's shot had not taken effect. The prosecution contended that such a wound could not have been self-inflicted. The defendant's counsel, Clement L. Vallandigham, undertook to demonstrate to the jury just how the dead man's pistol had hung in the pocket and just how possible it was to inflict such a wound. Suddenly there was a loud report, and the lawyer sank to the floor. The ball had entered the back almost in the identical spot where the dead man had been shot. The defendant was acquitted. Mr. Vallandigham died.—Exchange.

Westminster Abbey's Poets' Corner.
Turning from King Henry's chapel, with its wealth of fancy's "fairly frost work," to the poets' corner in Westminster abbey, we are attracted by a spell mightier than that of carved stones in the presence of those "serene creators of immortal things" who have enriched our literature with gifts beyond all price. This "glorious company of paupers," as they have been termed, says a writer in Great Thoughts, have won a fame in the glow of which that of statesmen and warriors wanes and perishes, "touched to death by divine eyes." Drawn together, as it were, by the spell of chance, "our first warbler," what Spenser calls "black oblation's rust" has failed to tarnish their golden record. We move entranced amid the memorials of Dryden, Ben Jonson, Spenser, Shakespeare, Beaumont, Milton, Gray, Addison and many more, including the impassioned peasant singer, Robert Burns, and the great Victorians, Robert Browning and Alfred Tennyson.—London Standard.

Encouragement.
"I have a splitting headache," sighs the beautiful young thing.
"Have you ever tried magnetic healing?" asks the obliging young man.
"No. What is it?"
"You rest your head, thus, on my shoulder, and I pass my arm about your waist in this manner. Now be perfectly calm and see if this does not relieve you."
The position is maintained for five or ten minutes, and then the obliging young man asks:
"Does your head ache any more?"
"Ye-es."
"Well, I'm sorry I don't seem able to relieve you."
He is about to remove his arm when she looks up at him chidingly and says:
"It seems to me that if you have any confidence in your method you would be willing to keep on trying."—Chicago News.

TOSAVE THE BABIES

Chicago Inaugurates Anti-Disease Campaign of Wide Scope
Chicago, May 14.—A systematic, scientific, city-wide campaign against the diseases which kill babies during the summer months, was inaugurated here. Charitable and sociological organizations, the city health department, the churches and many individuals will co-operate in the work.

The city will be divided into districts, each to be under the direct supervision of some association or church. Volunteer instructors will be selected to visit the homes of children suffering from intestinal diseases and instruct the mothers in the feeding and care of the infants. The milk commission will see that the certified milk is properly cared for in these homes.

Five out-door tent stations, each accommodating ten babies, will be provided.
"Neighborhood Mothers" who speak foreign languages will go into the homes of the foreign colonies and give instructions in clean housekeeping. The health department will act as a clearing house for information and furnish medical service.

ADMITTED SWINDLING

Men Who Duped Patent Owners Are Convicted and Sentenced
New York, May 14.—John T. Sherlock and Frank J. Walsh pleaded guilty to a fraudulent use of the mails in the United States circuit court here and in so doing confessed to having operated a swindle by which many patent owners were defrauded.

The men conducted their game by offers sent by letter to secure and negotiate patent sales. A $4 registry fee was exacted and for this the victim received nothing but a 20-cent print of their models. Between $500 and $1000, it is stated, was collected monthly by this scheme.
Sherlock was sentenced to two years in prison at Atlanta and to pay a $500 fine. Walsh was given eight months in the local penitentiary and fined $100.

MRS. SHAW MAY MARRY MARBLE
Eloping Chauffeur Disposes of His Picture Theatre
Santa Barbara, Cal., May 14.—H. K. Marble, chauffeur for James F. Shaw of Boston, who eloped from that city with Mrs. Shaw and her son two years ago and was found in her company here, returned to complete details of the sale of his picture theatre.

Mrs. Shaw, accompanied by her father, H. F. Eldredge, the brewer of Portsmouth, N. H., and her young son, is on her way to Chicago, where she is due Saturday. It is believed here that Mrs. Shaw ultimately will become Mrs. Marble.
Marble says there is no chance of a reconciliation in the Shaw family and that he will marry Mrs. Shaw.

MOVE AGAINST COAL ROADS

Bill Aiming to Remedy Weak Place Shown by Court Decision
Washington, May 14.—Representative Wanger of Pennsylvania introduced a joint resolution to make effective, as against the local holding railroads, the "commodities clause" of the Hepburn act. It provides that no railroad company shall be allowed to hold stock in a coal owning corporation.

If passed, it would amend the commodities provision at the point where the supreme court found it weak. The court decision held that a railroad company might transport coal produced by a mining company, even though the railroad company owned the stock of the mining company.
The significant feature about this resolution is that Wanger secured the approval of the attorney general for it.

MARS IS INHABITED
Astronomers See Proof of It In Snow-capped on the Planet

Boston, May 14.—The two rifts in the south polar cap of Mars, which have just been observed by Professor Percival Lowell at Flagstaff, are regarded by astronomers generally as additional proofs of the habitability of Mars.
Melting snow means 32 degrees Fahrenheit the universe over and shows that the mean temperature of Mars, despite its greater distance from the sun, is practically the same as that of the earth.

Back From Wedding Tour
Boston, May 14.—Prominent among the arrivals on the steamship Saxonia, which came into port last night, were George Westinghouse, Jr., of Pittsburgh and his bride, who was Miss Violet Brocklebank. Since their wedding on March 4 the couple have been touring the continent. George Westinghouse was at the pier to greet his son and daughter-in-law.

Prairie Fires Raging
Winnipeg, Man., May 14.—Only the heavy rains which now prevail through the Canadian west will check the awful prairie fires which have been raging through southern Saskatchewan for the past week. The loss of life when the returns are all in may be startling.

WEYMOUTH

Charles Henry Spear, one of the town's most prominent citizens, died at his home on Phillips street, Wednesday, after a long illness. Mr. Spear was born in Wayne, Maine, July 1, 1833, and had resided in Weymouth for more than half a century. He was a veteran of the Civil war having served in Co. F, 11th Massachusetts infantry, and later was a member of the band connected with the regiment. Mr. Spear was a prominent member of Reynolds Post, 53, G. A. R., and also of the Norfolk County G. A. R. association. His wife, who was Hattie J. Farrington, survives him, together with a son Charles F. Spear of Somerville and a daughter Mrs. Mabel L. Walker of Cambridge. The funeral will take place Saturday afternoon. There will be a prayer at his late residence at 1.30 o'clock and services at the First Baptist church at two o'clock.

The Hunt grammar school base ball team defeated the Bates grammar school team in the rubber game at Garfield Park Thursday afternoon by a score of 13 to 3. This makes nine victories for the Hunt team out of ten games played, and they are sure of the championship in the grammar school league. The Bates school team was the only team to defeat them this season.

DRAPER'S SUGGESTIONS

Closely Followed in Draft of Railroad Holding Company Bill
Boston, May 14.—The committee on railroads received the draft of the holding company bill passed by Governor Draper's special message to the legislature on that subject. The bill was drafted by Attorney General Malone in response to a request from the committee.

The measure follows substantially the lines of the governor's message. It provides for the establishment of a holding company to hold the Boston and Maine stock which the New Haven road acquired (the Billard stock). This stock is not to be disposed of, except with the approval of the Massachusetts railroad commissioners and the legislature.

A majority of the directors of the holding company shall be citizens of Massachusetts. The principal office and place of business of the company shall be in Boston, and its meetings shall be held there.
There is no outright provision as to who shall finance the matter, but it is surmised that it will be the New Haven road or interests friendly to it.

SUBJECT OF RUST

Will Be Discussed by American Scientist Before British Ironmakers
London, May 14.—The Iron and Steel Institute of Great Britain, the membership of which comprises the leading metal experts of this country, with affiliations in other countries in which iron and steel manufacturing is carried on, met here today for its annual meeting.

One of the principal addresses to be delivered before the meeting is that of Dr. Allerton S. Cushman of Washington, who is assistant director of roads of the United States department of agriculture. Dr. Cushman has come here at the invitation of the members of the institute to tell them the results of his researches into the causes and nature of rust, a subject of immense importance to makers of iron and steel.

He has made important discoveries through the study of electrolysis and its deleterious effects upon iron and has also experimented with various paints, some of which have shown amazing rust resisting power.

DECLARED TO BE CLEAR OBLIGATION
Peace Societies Want Menacing Armaments Reduced

Boston, May 14.—Opposition to further increase of armaments is steadily spreading among the people, according to the expressed belief of the American Peace society, voiced at its eighty-first annual meeting.
Secretary Trueblood, in his annual report, stated the society and its members "expresses its profound satisfaction in surveying the signal advance of the cause of international justice and organization during the decade."

Passing to the plans for the future it was declared "the most commanding duty of the hour is the limitation and gradual reduction of the monstrous and menacing armaments of the nations. Concerted action to this end is the clear obligation of all governments party to The Hague conventions."

RACE WITH GRIM REAPER

Man With Broken Back Journeying From America to Russia

New York, May 14.—Racing with death, which he has been assured is inevitable, Alexis Laudent, a miner, is attempting, with a broken back, to make the trip from Birmingham, Ala., to Moscow. Parents of the young man reside in the Russian city, and it is due to an overweening desire to see them that he has undertaken the remarkable journey.
Laudent was injured in an accident in an Alabama mine several weeks ago and reached Jersey City yesterday on his way to Russia. He will rest in a hospital there for a few days and will then sail for home. Doctors here are deeply interested in the case.

COULD NOT RECALL PAST

Man Who Was Long a Hospital Patient Has Disappeared

New Haven, May 14.—The man who said his name was Charles Van Osten, who could not recall his past and who had been a patient at Grace hospital since Dec. 10 last, has disappeared. He has not been seen at that institution since last Saturday.
It is stated at the hospital that it is not known whether he will return. He has been the subject of hypnotic experiments with the object of restoring, if possible, a knowledge of his past.

PUBLIC HEARINGS FOR MONDAY NIGHT

Will Make the Meeting of the City Council a Busy One.

Monday night's session of the City Council promises to be a busy one.
Hearings on the acceptance of a number of streets as public ways of the city have been advertised for this meeting as well as a public hearing on the establishment of a public landing place at the head of Bents creek.

While there is a general sentiment
in favor of the city maintaining public landing places there is also a general sentiment that the head of Bents
creek is not the right place for it.
One reason is that it is too far out of the way to be of any use to yachtsmen. If public landings could be maintained at Quincy Point, Houghs Neck and on Wollaston beaches they would accommodate many people.

There will doubtless be considerable opposition at the hearing to the maintaining of a public landing place at the head of Bents creek.

Another matter that will doubtless bring out some discussion will be the granting of permits to transport liquor.

At the last meeting of the City Council eleven applications for permits, upon which the License Committee had reported leave to withdraw,
were taken from the table and recommended. Later in the evening at this same meeting the committee were instructed to report on these at Monday night's meeting.

Twenty-one permits to transport liquor have already been granted
which is eight more than last year.

Whether or not the council will grant any more remains to be seen.
It is possible that some Italian expressman at West Quincy may get a permit but as for the others it is an open question.

The applications pending are Louis
Luciano, Daniel Sheehan, Catello
Coletti, Mary Monti, Luigi Romeri, Guardo Capo Bianchi, William Haigh,
C. Monti, John J. Connors, Jerry J.
Bizzozero and Boston and Houghs
Neck Transportation Co.

NORFOLK DOWNS CRAP SHOOTERS

Men Captured In Sunday Raid
Given a Hearing.

The continued cases of John P. Lyons, Edward Poland, Andrew Johnson, Joseph Martin, Charles B. Grant,
Thomas Turner and Peter E. Cunniff,
the men captured in the crap raid at Poland's hall, Norfolk Downs, last Sunday morning, came up in the district court before Judge Avery this morning.

Martin and Cunniff were charged with being present at a game of crap
and the other men were charged with gaming.

The green cloth covered crap table
and the dice used in the game were exhibited in court as were also a quantity of wire and bells by which the room was connected up, so that warning could be given the players
upon the approach of anyone of whom they were suspicious.

It was one of the most complete layouts that the police have captured
for a long time.

The police have been aware that gaming was in progress at this building for some time and have been watching for an opportunity to raid
the point.

Last Sunday was selected as the opportune time and early that morning a squad of blue coats secreted themselves in a small room on the second floor. It was expected that the crap shooters would appear Sunday forenoon, but it was not until afternoon that the men showed up.

Meanwhile the officers were getting tired, hungry and thirsty. They were game, however, and if the crowd had not become suspicious from a warning whistle on the outside of the building, their hiding place would probably have not been discovered and they would have bagged half a hundred men instead of seven.

The evidence for the defense this morning was somewhat of a surprise to the officers. John E. Poland who it is alleged had charge of the building testified that he did not know the name or address of the man who hired the rooms. All he knew was that he was known as Harry.

Martin testified that he did not make the statement that Inspector McKay testified that he did.

All of the defendants denied playing the game although admitting being present in the building.

The court then continued the case again until next Saturday that Inspector McKay might be present to give his side of the Martin story
again.

sidering a plan to build an electric

POLLY of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Polly, a child of the circus, is brought up by Toby, a clown, and by a boss canvasman called "Muvver Jim." She learns to ride Bingo, a circus horse, and grows to womanhood knowing no life except that of the circus. II—A church near the circus lot interests Polly. Jim reproves her for her reckless riding. III—Polly urges Bingo to unprecedented speed and falls. Toby and Jim carry the injured girl to the parsonage nearby.

Jim followed the direction of her glance and cleared the steps at a bound. Mandy pursued him, muttering angrily. Deacon Elverson, too, was about to follow when a grim reminder from Miss Perkins brought him around, and he made for the door instead. He started back on opening it, for standing on the threshold was a clown in his grotesque makeup. His white clothes were partially concealed by a large traveling ulster held together by one button. In one hand he carried a small leather satchel, in the other a girl's sailor hat. A little tan coat was thrown across his arm. The giggles of the boy hiding behind his mother's skirt were the only greetings received by the trembling old man in the doorway.

He glanced uncertainly from one unfriendly face to the other, waiting for a word of invitation to enter, but none came.

"Excuse me," he said. "I just brought some of her little things. She'd better put on her coat when she goes out. It's gettin' kinder chilly."

He looked again into the blank faces. Still no one spoke. He stepped forward, trembling with anxiety. A sudden fear clutched at his heart, the muscles of his face worked pitifully, the red painted lips began to quiver.

"It ain't it—that, is it?" he faltered, unable to utter the word that filled him with horror.

Even Miss Perkins was momentarily touched by the anguish in the old man's voice. "I guess you will find the person you are looking for upstairs," she answered tartly and flounced out of the house, calling to Julia and the others to follow her and declaring that she would soon let folks know how the parson had brought a "circus ridin' girl" into the parsonage.

The painted clown stood alone.

The painted clown stood alone, looking from one wall to the other, then crossed the room and placed the alligator satchel and the little coat and hat on the study table. He was careful not to wrinkle the coat, for this was Polly's birthday gift. Jim and he had planned to have sandwiches and soda pop on the top of the big wagon when they offered their treasures to-night. But now the wagons would soon be leaving, and where was Polly? He turned to ask this question as Mandy came down the stairs.

"Well, if dar ain't anudder one!" she cried.

"Never mind, Mandy," said Douglas, who was just behind her, carrying a small water pitcher and searching for a bottle of brandy which had been placed in the medicine chest for emergencies.

"You can take these upstairs," he told her when he had filled the pitcher with water and found the liquor. Mandy looked threateningly at Toby, then reluctantly went on her way.

Douglas turned to the old man pleasantly. His was the first greeting that Toby had received, and he at last found voice to ask whether Polly was badly hurt.

"The doctor hasn't told us yet," said Douglas kindly.

"I'm her Uncle Toby—not her real uncle," the old man explained, "but that's what she calls me. I couldn't come out right away because I'm on in the concert. Could I see her now, please?"

"Here's the doctor," said Douglas as Hartley came down the stairs, followed by Jim. "Well, doctor, not bad, I hope?"

"Yes, rather bad," said the doctor, adding quickly as he saw the suffering in Toby's face, "but don't be alarmed. She's going to get well."

"How long will it be before we can have her back—before she can ride again?" asked Jim gruffly as he stood apart, twisting his brown, worn hat in his hands.

"Probably several months," said the doctor. "No bones are broken, but the ligaments of one ankle are torn, and she received a bad blow on the head. It will be some time before she recovers consciousness."

"What are we going to do, Jim?" asked Toby helplessly.

"You needn't worry. We'll take good care of her here," said Douglas, seeing desperation written on their faces.

"Here?" They looked at him incredulously. And this was a parson!

"Where are her parents?" the doctor asked, looking at Jim and Toby.

"She ain't got no parents 'cept Toby an' me," replied Jim. "We've took care of her ever since she was a baby."

"Oh, I see," said the doctor. "Well, one of you'd better stay here until she can be moved."

"That's the trouble. We can't," said Toby, hanging his head. "You see, sir, circus folks is like soldiers. No matter what happens, the show has to go on, an' we got to be in our places."

"Well, well, she'll be safe enough here," said the doctor. "It is a fortunate thing that Mr. Douglas can manage this. Our town hospital burned down a few months ago, and we've been rather puzzled as to what to do with such cases." He took his leave, with a cheerful "Good night!" and a promise to look in upon the little patient later. Jim shuffled awkwardly toward the parson.

"It's mighty good of you to do this," he mumbled, "but she ain't goin' to be no charity patient. Me an' Toby is goin' to look after her keep."

"Her wants will be very few," Douglas answered kindly. "You needn't trouble much about that."

"I mean it," said Jim savagely. He met Douglas' glance of surprise with a determined look, for he feared that his chance of being useful to Polly might be slipping out of his life.

"You mustn't mind Jim," the clown pleaded at the parson's elbow. "You see, pain gets some folks different from others, an' it always kinder makes him savage."

"Oh, that's all right," Douglas answered quickly. His own life had been so lonely that he could understand the selfish yearning in the big man's heart. "You must do what you think best about these things. Mandy and I will look after the rest."

Jim hung his head, feeling somehow that the parson had seen straight into his heart and discovered his petty weakness. He was about to turn toward the door when it was thrown open by Barker.

"Where is she?" shouted the manager, looking from one to the other.

"She can't come," said Jim in a low, steady voice, for he knew the storm of opposition with which Barker would meet the announcement.

"Can't come?" shrieked Barker. "Of course she'll come. I can't get along without her. She's got to come." He looked at Jim, who remained silent and firm. "Why ain't she comin'?" he asked, feeling himself already defeated.

"She's hurt bad," was Jim's laconic reply.

"The devil she is!" said Barker, looking at Douglas for confirmation. "Is that right?"

"She won't be able to travel for some time," said Douglas.

"Mr. Barker is our manager," Toby explained as he edged his way to the parson's side.

"Some time!" Barker looked at Douglas as though he were to blame for their misfortune. "Well, you just bet she will," he declared menacingly.

"See here, Barker, don't you talk to him like that," said Jim, facing the manager. "He's darned square, even if he is a parson." Barker turned away. He was not a bad hearted man, but he was irritated and upset at losing the star feature of his bill.

"Ain't this my dogdasted luck?" he muttered to himself as his eye again traveled to the boss canvasman. "You get out of here, Jim," he shouted, "an' start them wagons. The show's got to go on, Pol! or no Pol!"

He turned with his hand on the doorknob and jerked out a grudging thanks to the parson. "It's all fired good of you to take her in," he said, "but it's tough to lose her. Good night!" He banged the door and clattered down the steps.

Jim waited. "He was trying to find words in which to tell his gratitude. None came, and he turned to go, with a short 'Goodby.'"

"Good night, Jim," said the parson. He crossed the room and took the big fellow's hand.

"Much obliged," Jim answered gruffly. It was his only polite phrase, and he had taught Polly to say it. Douglas waited until Jim had passed down the steps, then turned to Toby, who still lingered near the table.

"You'll tell her how it was me an' Jim had to leave her without sayin' goodby, won't you, sir?" Toby pleaded.

"Yes, indeed," Douglas promised. "I'll jes' put this little bit of money into her satchel." He picked up the little brown bag that was to have been Polly's birthday gift. "Me an' Jim will be sendin' her more soon."

"You're going to miss her, I'm afraid," Douglas said, feeling an irresistible desire to gain the old man's confidence.

"Lord bless you, yes, sir," Toby answered, turning upon him eagerly. "Me an' Jim has been father an' mother an' jes' about everything to that little one. She wasn't much bigger'n a handful of peanuts when we begun a-worryin' about her."

"Well, Mandy will do the worrying now," Douglas laughed. "She's been dyin' for a chance to mother somebody all along. Why, she even tried it on me."

"I noticed as how some of those church people seemed to look kinder queer at me," said Toby, "an' I been a-wonderin' if mebbe they might feel the same about her."

"Oh, they're all right!" Douglas assured him. "They'll be her friends in no time."

"She's fit for 'em, sir," Toby pleaded. "She's good, clean into the middle of her heart."

"I'm sure of it," Douglas answered.

"I've heard how some church folks feels towards us circus people, sir, an' I jes' wanted you to know that there ain't finer families or better mothers or fathers or grandfathers or grandmothers anywhere than among us. Why, that girl's mother rode the horses afore her, an' her mother afore that, an' her grandmother an' grandfather afore that, an' there ain't nobody what's cared more for their good name an' their children's good name 'an her people has. You see, sir, circus folks is all like that. They tends to their business an' takes good care of themselves. They has to or they couldn't do their work. It's 'cause I'm leavin' her with you that I'm sayin' all this," the old man apologized.

"I'm glad you told me, Toby," Douglas answered kindly. "I've never known much about circus folks."

"I guess I'd better be goin'," Toby faltered as his eyes roved hungrily toward the stairway.

"I'll send you our route, an' mebbe you'll be lettin' us know how she is."

"Indeed, I will," Douglas assured him heartily.

"You might tell her we'll write ever day or so," he added.

"I'll tell her," Douglas promised earnestly.

"Good night!" the old man hesitated, unwilling to go, but unable to find further pretext for staying.

"Good night, Toby," Douglas extended his hand toward the bent figure that was about to shuffle past him. The withered hand of the white faced clown rested in the strong grasp of the parson, and his pale little eyes sought the face of the stalwart man before him. A numb desolation was growing in his heart. The object for which he had gone day by day was being left behind, and he must stumble forth into the night alone.

"It's hard to leave her," he mumbled, "but the show has got to go on."

The door shut out the bent, old figure. Douglas stood for some time where Toby had left him, still thinking of his prophetic words. His reverie was broken by the sounds of the departing wagons, the low muttered curses of the drivers, the shrieking and roaring of the animals, as the circus train moved up the distant hill.

"The show has got to go on," he repeated as he crossed to his study table and seated himself for work in the dim light of the old fashioned lamp. He put out one hand to draw the sheets of his interrupted sermon toward him, but instead it fell upon a small sailor hat. He twisted the hat absent in his fingers, not yet realizing the new order of things that was coming into his life. Mandy tiptoed softly down the stairs. She placed one pudgy forefinger on her lips and rolled her large eyes skyward. "Dat sure am an angel chile straight from heb-ben," she whispered. "She done got a face jes' like a little flower."

"Straight from heaven," Douglas repeated as she crossed softly to the table and picked up the satchel and coat.

"You can leave the lamp, Mandy. I must finish tomorrow's sermon."

She turned at the threshold and shook her head rather sadly as she saw the imprint of the day's cares on the young parson's face.

"Yo' mus' be pow'ful tired," she said.

"No, no; not at all. Good night, Mandy."

She closed the door behind her, and Douglas was alone. He gazed absently at the pages of his unfinished sermon as he tapped his idle pen on the desk. "The show has got to go on," he repeated, and far up the hillside with the slow moving wagons Jim and Toby looked with unseeing eyes into the dim, starlit distance and echoed the thought, "The show has got to go on."

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, May 8, 1909.

There is no doubt that a prompt effort will be made to strengthen the commodities clause of the railroad rate law. On Thursday of this week a bill was introduced by Representative Irving P. Wanger, of Pennsylvania, to correct those defects in the law made clear by the recent decision of the Supreme Court. Mr. Wanger is the ranking member of the Interstate Commerce Committee of the House, and is prominently mentioned as the successor of Representative Hepburn as chairman of the committee. He aided materially in framing the rate law. His bill provides specifically that railroads shall be prohibited from owning stock or securities or interest in any other business enterprise and from transporting any commodities, the property of such company, which are not intended for their own use. Mr. Wanger has little hope of action on his resolution at the present session, but it is believed that President Taft's next message to Congress will be so direct on this point that his bill, or a similar one, will be taken up immediately.

Representative Murphy of Missouri will draw up, and present to Congress before the close of the present session, formal charges of impeachment against Judges McPherson and Phillips, of the Western Circuit of Missouri. He announced this intention on Thursday after making a speech on the floor of the House in answer to a dispatch sent to the Attorney General by Frank Hagerman, attorney for a number of railroads, accused the judges of illegal conduct in the judges and the roads. This dispatch was the outcome of a resolution introduced in the House several days ago by Mr. Murphy in which he accused the judges of illegal conduct in relation to the 2-cent passenger law and the maximum freight law recently passed by the Missouri legislature. The Murphy resolution has been referred to the Judiciary Committee and any charges of impeachment will go to that committee, which will not be appointed however, until the next session of Congress.

The sixteen battleships of the Atlantic fleet will leave the navy yards on June 15 radically changed in outward appearance and will be in a condition for action which has not heretofore prevailed in time of peace and when there was no prospect of war. These important changes are mainly the result of experience gained during the circumnavigating cruise of the fleet, which Secretary Meyer says cost the government $1,500,000 above what would have been the cost of maintenance and operation had the ships remained in home waters. Naval strategists look upon this extra expense as a premium paid for the benefit of increased naval efficiency and as representing an investment most useful in improving the hitting power of the naval arm.

The most conspicuous change which the civilian observer will recognize is in the color of the vessels. The hull, small boats, and indeed, all of the exposed portions will be of a shade described as a dull gray, without the lustre to reflect the sun or otherwise add to the conspicuousness of the ship. It is the color decided upon by the experts as least likely to attract attention and as possessing the greatest degree of invisibility. In carrying out this idea all of the brass fittings even to the door knobs, have been removed and the bow ornaments and gilt letters of the ships' names have been abandoned.

Another feature which has been tried out successfully on the warships is the method of carrying ammunition. Some of this will be stored in the turret, where it will be conveniently at hand and where it is considered quite as safe to those who handle it as if it were stored in the shell rooms below the turret. The problem of taking care of powder has engaged expert attention and there is now being adopted a system of cooling the magazines so that there can be maintained a uniformity of temperature as a protection against accidental ignition. Many changes will be made in the superstructure of the ships, and wherever possible the temporary bridges and cabins will be removed. Internally, also, many minor changes will be made such as the removal from the turrets of electrical appliances which endanger life or restrict the operation of the gunners, and it is proposed to install metal instead of wooden furniture, and some attention has been given lately to furniture made of asbestos with the idea that there may be the least possible chance of conflagration on board ship. These are a few of the changes being made on the ships of the Atlantic fleet and which will be made next year on the ships of the Pacific fleet. It means the placing of the battleships of the American navy in a condition for immediate battle, as it is held that the navy should be in fighting trim and should really be prepared for war in the manoeuvres conducted in time of peace.

GOVERNMENT IMPLICATED

Massacre in Asiatic Turkey Was Deliberately Planned

A LETTER FROM TROWBRIDGE

Missionary in Adana Criticizes American Embassy For Tardiness—Indications That End of Trouble Has Not Been Reached—Soldiers Not Ordered to Stop the Killing Until After Massacre Had Been Accomplished

Boston, May 15.—"It is evident," writes Rev. S. Van R. Trowbridge from Adana, Asiatic Turkey, to the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, "that this dreadful struggle was not the crushing of an insurrection, but a deliberately planned massacre, with the connivance of the government."

REV. S. VAN R. TROWBRIDGE.

The letter from Trowbridge, dated April 23 and sent by way of Constantinople, has just reached the American Board, and it gives some particulars of the recent massacres not hitherto made known in this country. Briefly describing the funeral of American Missionaries Maurer and Rogers, who were killed during the disorders, Trowbridge writes:

"The burial took place on April 16. With the city in terrible disorder and scores of conflagrations raging, it was impossible to take the bodies out to any cemetery. The graves were dug side by side at the edge of the girls' schoolyard and services were conducted by Mr. Macallum and Mr. Trowbridge."

Mr. Trowbridge criticizes the American government in the following paragraph of his letter:

"All regret the tardiness of the American government in meeting the crisis. A week and three days have passed and yet not a word from the embassy. Were it not for the untiring efforts of the British consul, Major Doughty-Wylie, whose right arm is broken from a bullet, we could neither send letters nor telegrams."

With reference to the causes of the outbreak and the probable results, Trowbridge writes:

"Yesterday the local paper, in a long, bitter article against the Armenians, said: 'This business is not over yet. We have only made a truce. Let us see what the end of it will be.'"

"It is no doubt true that agents of the Armenian revolutionary societies have aggravated the already strained relations between Turks and Armenians. But the mass of Armenians, and especially the Protestant congregations, have been in all essential matters loyal to the Ottoman government."

"The real cause of anxiety now is not Mohammedan fanaticism, but the complete lack of confidence in the governor and his underlings. Thoughtful and patriotic Turks acknowledge this frankly. The government of this province, unless radically reformed by the severe punishment of the vail and his accomplices, will continue to be a menace to law and order. For three days and nights the soldiers were kept waiting on orders. On the fourth and fifth days, after the massacre, orders were given to stop killing. Why were they not given on the first day?"

"I shall never ask you again, Annette. Tell me—your absolute refusal to give it up even for—even for me?" Forsythe's voice trembled and a repressed light burned in his black eyes as he laid his hands, slender, but brown and strong with the strength that three years of cowboy riding had given, on the shoulders of a girl standing on this April afternoon just outside the women's dressing tent of the new Wild West show.

The girl, who wore a dark green corduroy divided skirt, a short white coat with fringed sleeves, a dark handkerchief knotted about her soft throat and a cowboy's hat on her red-gold hair, thrust off his hands with her gauntleted ones and gave him a merry look, underneath which were defiance and determination.

"Bobby Forsythe," she cried, "it's me for the show forever!"

The young man's dark face turned crimson.

"My ring, please, Annette!"

The girl's glowing cheeks paled slightly, but she slipped off her glove and laid the solitaire in his outstretched palm. Then, with a gurgling laugh that might have passed for a sob, she bowed mockingly before him and, lifting the tent flap, disappeared within.

It was Buffalo Bill's show to which these two belonged, but it was a pretty good Wild West show, and Annette Lucille Blossom was the best "cowgirl" rider of the twenty that dashed twice a day fearlessly around the arena.

How she could ride—even better than the daring young wife of one of the show's owners who rode with him now and then for the benefit of the public.

Robert Forsythe, the most daring rider of the cowboys, the pride of the troop, always had hated to see the Blossom riding. When he glanced over the ropes and saw some woman spectator looking on calm and dignified and then glanced toward Annette astride Western Wind, the left pony with the black spot on his left shoulder, her cheeks brilliant, crying in mad merriment with the other girl riders, his heart boiled within him.

Forsythe, of a fine old South Carolina family, had become known for his horsemanship on every western ranch. Reckless of nature and ready for a frolic, he had not said "No" when besought by the managers of the new Wild West show to join it.

On the day that he joined the troupe—a spring day in Oklahoma—he first saw Annette dismounting her skirt from a Cherokee roseth. With the courtesy to a woman that is the southerner's birthright Forsythe offered to assist her.

When the thorns were conquered Annette was no longer heart free, and Forsythe went back to his quarters feeling like one who has looked into paradise and received a blow in the face.

"That life might be all right for a man, but at his home it was like a crime for a girl of his station to ride thus for exhibition."

Was this girl with the glorious beauty, with the eyes of heaven, as public a thing as the armless woman in the sideshow?

Forsythe clinched his hands. In after weeks he clinched his hands many times. He scorned himself for the flame of admiration that the guileless young girl had kindled in his heart and for the fact that he could not hold aloof from her.

It was in Winnipeg, when midsummer and the show entered Canada together, that he threw aside pride and tradition and told Annette that he loved her. Then for the girl, for whom since the April day in Oklahoma all commonplace things had been bathed in glory, began a life of torment.

Forsythe began the moment his ring shone on her finger to beseech her to leave the show as no fit place for a refined woman.

Her kinsmen, the show's owners, would have released her, but the spell of the circus held her, and, secure, as she thought, in Forsythe's love, she laughed at his entreaties.

Forsythe grew sick with loathing of the tent life. Every part of the performance disgusted him.

Forsythe overtook her just outside the dressing tent wild with humiliation and besought her to marry him that evening and let him take her home to South Carolina.

She refused laughingly, but when he demanded that she stop riding immediately, even though she did not marry him, his arbitrary tones angered her, and it ended in a broken engagement.

For two months Forsythe gave no sign of wishing to renew his friendship with Annette, but treated her with a formal politeness that rendered her miserable.

"I wish he would leave the show," she thought daily, but he remained, held as by a magnet.

In the quadrille on horseback she never was his chosen partner again, and when he had to touch her fingers in an interchange of movements his face was stern and inscrutable and his hands were like ice.

Annette's friends were not told of her broken engagement, but they noticed that her blue eyes were often dark circled and that in the riding she rode fastest and most wildly of all.

At last they arrived in south Texas. Hurrying toward Mexico, the show stopped at the small towns only. There came a night of terrific rain that soaked ed the ground until it was dangerous for riding, but an exhibition was held whatever the weather, so 2 o'clock in the afternoon saw the performance at its height.

The parade around the ring was over—broncho "busters," Indians, Mexicans, cowgirls and cowboys, Cossacks, all had passed in review. The stage holdup and the Indian dance were over. Then came the cowboy feats of difficult riding.

Robert Forsythe rode most recklessly of all—vaulting over his galloping horse, supporting his weight solely by one hand clutching the pommel—around the arena.

The Cossacks, most daring riders of the world, hated him for his skill, and Forsythe in the latter weeks of his misery had become more reckless in riding than even a Cossack.

"Somebody's going to be hurt to-day," remarked one of the spectators. "Look at that fellow riding the game little sorrel with the white feet, won't you?"

"Somebody's going to see his finish," remarked the performers behind the weather beaten retiring curtain. Annette shivered and whitened as she listened.

"The sorrel's down!" rang a cry. The spectators leaped from their seats by hundreds. The horse struggled up and shook himself—unhurt. The man lay still. Then came a woman's scream from behind the curtain.

"Oh, Bobby, Bobby Bobby!"

The young man was raised and hastily carried out. The program continued as if nothing had happened, and the show moved on that night toward Mexico.

When Robert Forsythe, bruised and with a broken leg, opened his eyes in the City hospital late that evening the tear stained face of the best cowgirl rider of the new Wild West show bent over him.

He stared at her a moment wonderingly.

"Oh, Bobby," she whispered humbly and uncertainly, "if you still want me I'll leave it—I will—I will!"

A transfiguring light came in Forsythe's eyes. "When?" he asked eagerly.

"Now," she answered, "this minute, Bobby!"

Robert fumbled weakly in the purse which the nurse handed him and presently the ring that had been taken off in Kentucky was put on in Texas, and the electric lights that twinkled within the hospital walls were as the lights of heaven.

Presently Robert Forsythe broke the silence.

"Annette," said he, "will you mind very much—if I—"

"If what, dear?" said Annette. "I won't mind anything except you. If what?"

"If," said Robert, smiling quizzically, "we stay with the show. You know, I kind of like it now. And I can't let that sorrel beat me!"

Do Crows Recognize Sunday?

A large number of crows were foraging for food not long ago close to the house of a farmer in West Virginia. They were unusually bold, as though hunger had driven them to forget their usual shyness and distrust of their natural enemies—men.

Two of them alighted close to the back door and picked up the crumbs with an apparent assurance of their safety not easily accounted for. The farmer was telling a neighbor about the tameness of the birds, and the latter remarked:

"You won't see them foolhardy to-morrow."

"Why not tomorrow as well as to-day?"

"Because today is Sunday, and these crows know it. They know that one day in seven they are not popped at by boys and men. They can count, crows can, and they know that on the seventh day they are exempt from persecution."

"I once lived near a swamp where thousands of crows made their roosting place, and early in the morning they used to start for the mountains for their food. I was often out with my gun trying to get a shot at them. Week days they were shy of me, and I seldom got a shot at them, but on Sunday morning it was different. Then they would fly low and close to my house, their wings almost flapping the ridgeboards of house and barns. Do crows know when it is Sunday? Of course they do."—Exchange.

Where the Cow's Kept.

It was examination day at a council school in the outskirts of Leeds. Six rows of neat little "tykes," with polished faces and clean collars, had been carefully coached by the teacher in the difficult art of evading the pit-falls set by the wily inspector. To a boy they were ready.

The class room door opened and admitted the dreadful personage.

"Now, boys," he commenced in his most insinuating manner, "can any of you tell me a few things that are made in Leeds?"

"Clothes!" said Tommy Jones. "Tight!" said the inspector. "Engines!" yelled Sammy Jenkins. "Tight!" said the inspector. Then the replies came to a sudden stop.

"Now, then, you bright boys, hurry up!" said his majesty. But the dreadful silence was unbroken. "Well, now, boys, what is the skin of a cow used for?" asked the examiner in order to jog their memories.

Little Johnny Binks fell off his seat in his eagerness to be seen.

"Please, sir—please, sir," he yelled, "the skin is used to keep the meat in!"

BOSTON AMUSEMENTS.

Colonial Theatre.

It is a long time since Boston has capitulated so quickly and completely to a musical play as it has to M. H. Singer's production of "A Stubborn Cinderella" now playing to crowded houses at the Colonial theatre. From the opening night when the piece sprang into instantaneous popularity with an audience that tested the capacity of the theatre, it has enjoyed unceasing prosperity. The secret of "A Stubborn Cinderella's" success is its life and liveliness. No one could ever accuse it of dragging for so much as the fraction of a second. There is a constant whirl of youthful gaiety and seemingly spontaneous fun which simply wins the audience from the start and carries it along with constantly increasing good nature until the final curtain. Then again there is plenty of variety in the production of the piece. The atmosphere of the three acts differentiates almost as much as if they were three distinct plays. The piece is presented by a thoroughly first-class company of 19 people, which includes a chorus of pretty girls full of Western life and liveliness.

Castle Square Theatre.

After five weeks, the last performances of "The Runaway Girl" are in sight. Its final week begins at the Castle Square theatre on Monday, and it will certainly finish its triumphantly successful run before fall houses. As the second of Mr. Craig's musical comedy productions, "The Runaway Girl" has rivalled if not excelled "The Circus Girl" in excellence and popularity, and it is now in rehearsal for the second of the season. Filled with mirth and music, it offers three solid hours of fun and frolic and it is safe to say that of the tens of thousands of people who have seen it, not one has been disappointed. For the final week beginning next Monday the cast will be unchanged. Miss Mary Young will repeat her inimitable interpretation of Winifred Gray, and others will include Theodore Eriksen, Donald Meek, William Everts, George Hassell, Bert Young, Wilfred Young, Mabel Colcord, Gertrude Binley and Esther Evans. "The Girl" is now in rehearsal for the John Craig Stock Company, and it will follow "The Runaway Girl" at the Castle Square.

Keith's Theatre.

When the Planophians was first produced at Keith's theatre, this splendid act in which six pianos are on the stage at the same time, and all played by expert hands, was regarded as one of the biggest novelties in vaudeville, but the Planophians of that time are dimmed by the lustre of the company that is booked for Keith's the week of May 17th, as the entire act has been revised, especially made costumes provided, and new selections and dances arranged for a large company. It will be even more spectacular, more novel and more beautiful than the first. This week will also be notable for that clever actress, Valerie Bergere will put on for the first time in Boston, a new play called "The Morning After." The Jack Wilson Trio of comedians promises to be one of the hits of this bill for there are certainly no funnier on the stage. A spectacular act will be that of the Pishers, who on a beautiful horse perform some amusing acrobatic stunts. The Hawaiian Trio of singers will be another feature. Then there will be Work and Ower, the acrobats, and the Wood, Frosini, and Selbini and Grovini.

Boston Theatre.

So phenomenal has been the success of Chauncey Olcott's present engagement at the Boston theatre with his newest Irish comedy drama, "Ragged Robin" that it has been decided to keep the popular star in this most enjoyable, clean, sweet play at the Boston theatre until Saturday night, May 22. "Ragged Robin" is a great deal more than the style of plays with which Mr. Olcott has been associated in recent years. There are no redcoats nor red petticoats in this play, no grasping landlords with forclosures, no mortgages and evictions, nor any of the other people and things thought essential a few years ago to properly present a comedy in Ireland. "Ragged Robin" deals largely with the fascinating, sentimental side of the Irish people, with their optimism, the tear and the smile, the song and the dance, the delicious levelling of the man of the pen and the daintiness of the women, the fairies, the banshees and other mythological folk whose doings are entwined in the hearts of goosiness and sentimentality. Manager Augustus Pitou has given this story a beautiful setting and has supplied a fine company. Olcott was never in better voice and his songs find a most enthusiastic response each night in the hearts of thousands every week.

Orpheum Theatre.

James J. Corbett, the man who once held the heavy-weight championship of the world will make his vaudeville debut in Boston at the Orpheum theatre. Corbett has gained his reputation in other lines of work. Mr. Corbett met with all sorts of obstacles in his efforts to convince the public that he possessed dramatic talent. His first attempts were very well received, but it was impossible at that time to say whether the applause given him was due to his personality as a champion or to his ability as an actor. Since then, however, he has handled the many different parts assigned him in such a manner as to leave no doubt as to his dramatic ability and dramatic critics predict for him in the theatrical world a brilliant future. Mr. Corbett will have for a vehicle, the one act play, "A Thief in the Night," which furnishes material for a play for a display of his talents. The balance of the bill will include such star acts as Hill & Sylvain, in their refined uncyclé act, Kenney & Hollis, the original college boys, and other brothers experts on the xylophone and others.

SEASONABLE.

Spring?
Where have we heard
That name?
Is it a game
Or a season?
Hist!
This is treason.
Spring is the dearest,
The nearest Perfect creature
That ever came down
The pike.
Doesn't it strike
You that way?
Of course
There is spring,
And then Again
There is spring.
You cannot pay
Your money and say
Which is your choice.
You have no voice
In that.
With the gentle brand
At hand
You smile,
While
With the other kind
You find Fault and say
It is a crime.
The way that winter
Is oversteering its time
But really could Anything beat spring
When it is good?
Useless 'tis
For another to enter
When it holds
The center
Of the stage
And is all the rage
As the only season
In the almanac.

Health Day the Latest Wrinkle, Toxins Emanate from Many Pretty Posies—A Slot Machine May Displace the Active Newsy.

Young Bostonians, pursuing culture, have never supposed that they were in school for their health. They may get a different idea. This week witnessed an innovation in the educational regime at the Hub. Wednesday was set apart as "health day." Teachers and principals devoted themselves to lectures and talks on the subject of how to keep well and strong. In the lower grades the teachers discussed the question and in the higher classes the principals gave helpful suggestions and earnest advice. Cleanliness, proper eating, the right kind of exercise and, when possible, sleeping out of doors, were advocated by all. Health day is now an established fact in the city schools and it is anticipated that it will be a material factor in the education of the children. The scheme is one which may be followed in school systems throughout New England.

Somewhat over twenty-five hundred Smiths in Boston are interested in the statistical evidence that in the course of some millions of years their family will own the earth, literally. It is a fact that the percentage of gain in the name of Smith as found in the directory is greater than the percentage of gain in population. An ingenious statistician in St. Louis has figured that the Smiths are gaining on the population in that city at the rate of 21 per cent in eight years. The birth rate of the Smith family considerably exceeds the death rate, so it is plain to be seen that in time we shall all be Smiths. To be sure John Smith may be Jonoff Skmittowski or Tom Quasmita, according as he lives in Russia or Tuscarora, but he will still be John Smith, monarch of all he surveys.

Here's joy to the pocketbook of the struggling young sultor and woe to the heart of the posy-loving dandy. Physicians and scientists are said to have agreed that the beautiful roses and violets and lilies and the many other flowers we love, are to a large proportion of people so much rank poison. The odors emanating from these cherished tokens of esteem have been known to produce severe illness and even death. Violets are said on good authority to affect the voice, and more than one opera singer has been rendered hoarse and weak by the floral tribute of a rival singer. This is a sad blow, indeed. With candy spoiling the teeth and flowers poisoning the system, what is a poor girl going to do? There's nothing for it but that the young man must take her to the theatre just twice as often to make up for the lack of these tokens.

A heartless man out in Iowa has done something the report of which is already causing consternation among the newboys of the Hub. This gentleman has invented a machine containing compartments for newspapers into which anyone may drop one, two or more pennies and procure the paper he desires by means of a slot device. This machine also sells gum, fruit and candy. The poor youngsters who manage now to scrape out a few pennies each morning and night through the sale of papers are picturing the day in the not distant future when this slim means of livelihood will be no more, and the call of "Huxtry" will be a thing of the past. When one sees the eager haste with which many a ragged newboy scrambles to get the penny out of which he may keep a small percentage one almost wishes that the ingenious inventor of the mechanical vender might have turned his wit and hand to something which would cause less hardship.

The Hub is wearing a very festive appearance these days. The numerous conventions in conjunction with the commencement exercises of several of the colleges and schools lend an unwonted air of gaiety to the streets. A group of young ladies airily gowned causes one to ejaculate on the early season until a second glance discovers that they are bound for a dramatic recital at the school of expression or a musical entertainment at the conservatory in connection with their commencement exercises. For several days the boys of the high schools have marched and drilled, attended closely by enthusiastic crowds of girls joyously bedecked and waving colored pennants and shoo-flies in honor of their particular young man.

Everywhere on the streets one meets groups of strangers wearing the badges of the Order of Railway Conductors of America, the Daughters of the Revolution, the Knights of Columbus, the Protestant Episcopal church, and fully half a dozen other visiting associations. The Public Garden and other green spots have burst forth in all their glory for the occasion, and everybody is wearing the smile that won't come off.

A neatly dressed colored woman entered a car, accompanied by a little girl of seven or eight one of whose coat sleeves hung empty while one leg stuck out stiff and straight in a plaster cast. Seeing that she must either stand on her crutches all the time or risk the danger of unobservant passengers running against the protruding foot, a young man stationed himself in the aisle to one side of the encased leg and braced his umbrella on the other side while he talked pleasantly with the mother and child, apparently oblivious to the scowls and jostling which came his way as newcomers resented his monopoly of the space. But the scowls invariably turned to sympathetic glances and the jostling to apologies, while the young man held his ground to the end of the route, when he lifted the child in his arms and stood her safely on the sidewalk before he bowed a courteous departure. Chivalry is not dead after all, and the sufferings of childhood, regardless of race or class, arouse instincts which are sometimes forgotten in the rush and hurry of the city.

Score one in the cause of femininity, and thanks to a man, at that! The statistician, Frederick Hoffman, has many things to say in the North American Review, among them something to the effect that "The old domestic ideal of self-sacrificing womanhood has been eclipsed by the rise of a new non-domestic idea of self-assertive, self-centred womanhood." This is a hard blow, but later on Mr. Hoffman tempers the wind to the shorn lamb by saying: "The average 'hard-working' American man is simply a good provider; he is a prosaic lover, a dull home companion, an indifferent father. It is not to be wondered at that college educated American girls are disinclined to marry a mere money-making machine, or that American wives thus mated go outside the home for the cultural companionship and interest which they cannot find within its walls. A cultural awakening among American men will remove the worst difficulties connected with the so-called woman's question." Mr. Hoffman is a gentleman of discrimination and deserves a vote of thanks for voicing the sentiments of womanhood in one long breath, even if he does say hard things in another.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily. When unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. Deborah Prouty, living at 85 North St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I am in a position to speak in the highest terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached nearly all the time and caused me considerable trouble. Any sudden movement, or if I attempted to stoop, I was very much alarmed about my condition when Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me. I had known so many people who had used them with beneficial results that I procured a supply at the Cox Drug Store. Three boxes convinced me that Doan's Kidney Pills were the best kidney remedy to be had and I am now in perfect health."

Strawberries from Florida, asparagus from New Jersey and canteloupes from Texas are contributing to the pleasures of existence in New England just now to say nothing of beautiful surrounding of fragrant spring blossoms.

The D. R. in Boston this week have had serene weather as well as serene meetings, a contrast to the sister society of the D. A. R. which meets each year in Washington and has exciting times and wordy battles.

Gov. Stuart of Pennsylvania has signed a bill for night freight service in Philadelphia on the trolley and subway lines. Speed of 15 miles an hour will be maintained whereas the average freight train speed of steam roads, including stops, is ten miles, or even less. It is said that the freight traffic of the electric system has grown 350 per cent in five years and that it increased last year 65 per cent over the previous year, the passenger business showing an increase of fully 17 per cent.

Concord, N. H., a city of about the size of Quincy and the capital of the state, is soon to have a new form of municipal government. The powers of the mayor have been somewhat enlarged. The composition of the Board of Aldermen is rather peculiar. It is a single chamber with a division of duties as well as of compensation. There seems to be a major and a minor branch. The latter is composed of the six members elected at large, for longer terms, with higher pay and larger authority and responsibility than the nine members who represent the wards. With the mayor to head them these six aldermen will constitute a board of public works. The administrative service of the city is largely in their hands, and to this extent the commission idea seems to have been introduced. It is not apparent upon the face of the draft why the six aldermen should be elected for four-year terms and the mayor for only a two-year term when their duties are to be so closely intertwined. The methods of nominating candidates and holding municipal elections show a careful study of new and experimental ideas on the part of the framers. Nominations are to be by direct primaries and elections are to be in November in off years, to escape conflict with the State and national elections.

Educators are more and more coming to look upon the repeater who drags on two or three years in one grade as a trustworthy barometer of school efficiency.

In the current number of the Psychological Clinic, Leonard P. Ayres, who is in charge of the investigation conducted by the Russell Sage Foundation of New York City into school conditions in American cities, computes the direct financial loss endured annually by 55 American cities as the result of the "repeater." In the schools of these cities there are nearly two million children of whom over 300,000 are spending their second, third or fourth year in the same grade. Mr. Ayres estimates that these wasteful rehearsals devour annually nearly $14,000,000.

Among all of the cities studied Somerville, Mass., makes the best record with only a little more than 6 per cent of her pupils in the repeating class. The first 10 cities are all in Massachusetts. In Boston and Springfield 10 per cent of the children are repeaters, and 10 per cent of the school funds are annually expended on the wasteful process of re-instructing them in work they have already covered once, twice or more times.

The city of Quincy occupies the 38th place among the 55 cities studied. Here Mr. Ayres claims that 18.1 per cent of 1127 children are repeaters. This means that our "repeaters" annually consume $24643 of our school funds.

This huge sum represents almost pure waste analogous to that caused in a factory by a mechanic toiling two hours over a task that one hour ought to see finished. In no factory on earth would such loss be tolerated. Our schools can ill afford to ignore the waste taught, thrice taught child.

The results of the Russell Sage educational inquiry will furnish to educators all over the country facts concerning their schools which they have now made and which will soon be put in their entirety at the disposal of school authorities tell for a large number of American cities such facts as the number and cost of repeaters, the number of backward or retarded children, the rate at which the pupils progress through the grades, the proportion of beginners who continue until they graduate from the elementary course, and many other similar significant measures of school efficiency. These figures will give American school men for the first time standards by which they can judge their schools, compare them with those of other cities, and discover how nearly they have attained the highest possible degree of efficiency.

NOT PROPER LOCATION.

Correspondent Objects to Bents Creek for Public Landing.

Editors Daily Ledger:
Permit me through your esteemed newspaper to address the Councilmen of our city, and incidentally my fellow taxpayers, upon the strange proposition that is being made that a public landing be established and maintained at Bents creek. I own property in the immediate vicinity of the place suggested for a landing and my private interests would be advantageously served by the passage of the order; but my sense of common justice revolts against it, and I am opposed to the proposed landing for the following reasons:

1st. The present condition of our municipal finances is such that we cannot afford to have money expended on a public landing at any place.

2d. The place selected by the few people who are seeking to foist this scheme upon the taxpayers is of all places the least suitable on our entire seaboard.

Regarding the first reason advanced by me I need only state the proposition to have it accepted by all conservative and intelligent citizens who have the common weal at heart. A public landing is not one of the things the people of Quincy need most at present. Numerous public improvements are forcing their legitimate claims upon our attention, but they are kept waiting because we have not the money wherewith to undertake them; and our tax rate is already so high that we cannot with propriety or a due sense of justice to posterity borrow any more money for the present. Luxuries like public landing places must wait until the needful and necessary things are provided.

My second proposition also needs but little argument in support of it. Any councilman who takes the trouble to visit Bents creek will not in my opinion be likely to conscientiously vote away the City's money to establish a public landing there. But for the edification of those councilmen who are not acquainted with the location and the conditions existing there I will state a few indisputable facts which I respectfully request them to weigh and consider before voting on the question.

To establish a landing place at Bents creek will open up that section and cast a heavy and undesired burden upon a corporation that deserves well at our hands. I refer to the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. This concern would have to employ a small army of watchmen to protect its property from the undesirable element that is always to be found in the neighborhood of landing places. At the place in question there is no water at low tide. Sailboats could not go through except on the opening of the drawbridge without unstepping their masts. This would mean delay and annoyance to the boatmen and traveling public alike. When these facts are considered in the light of the fact that on the lower side of the bridge there are many suitable places for a public landing with ample depth of water, without any dredging, the chances of this peculiar order being passed ought to be meagre indeed. If you have money to blow in on a landing place, gentlemen of the Council, why not establish the landing at an accessible and suitable spot? Locate it on Bents creek and I assure you that before long you will hear an agitation in favor of dredging the channel. And the fiddler must be paid.

With the foregoing facts in your possession I am confident that you will act upon the cardinal principle of the greatest good to the greatest number.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Roberts.

Location Boosts Furniture Prices

If our store was located on Washington or Summer or Canal or Boylston Streets, Boston, we'd get bigger prices for our furniture—we'd have to—But no matter where we might be we couldn't give you better furniture, finer rugs, draperies or ranges than we do right here. Before you buy home furnishings we ask you to get our prices and get in touch with our system. Then compare our prices with those of the high priced stores and see if they don't ask you to pay for something you really don't get.

THAYER WINS AGAIN.

Thayer Academy kept up its winning streak yesterday defeating Roxbury Latin 6 to 3. The game while apparently close according to the score, was slow and uninteresting except for the batting of the Braintree boys. Willard was the star with the willow, getting a double and a triple, both long, clean drives. Every member of the team got at least one hit with the exception of Emerson, who only had one chance.

Alden played a fine game at short for Thayer and Crocker caught well, throwing to bases in fine style.

For Roxbury Latin, Smith played a star game in the field, getting three nice put-outs on hard flies. He also ran the bases with the speed of a major leaguer. Aitken pitched a good game for the local team, fanning 10 men and passing only two, while only six were garnered off his delivery. The score:

THE

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION OF QUINCY, MASS.

(Legal Title-Incorporated 1892.)

The Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association of Quincy, with a firm faith in the great value of the work which is being done for the young men and boys of our city, make their appeal for donations and bequests toward paying the mortgage indebtedness on the new Association Building. When the building is free from debt it will serve as an endowment, as there is a goodly income from the dormitories.

Should the donor prefer, such sum as might be given could be used as an endowment for an educational class or classes, the Boys' Department, or as a special fund in other ways, and could be designated with the name of the donor.

The Treasurer, WILLIAM F. CUMMINGS, 7 Olive Street, Quincy, or the General Secretary, ERNEST G. GAY, will be happy to answer inquiries.

OUR HOSPITAL

(Legal Title: City Hospital of Quincy)

Incorporated 1889

The Trustees of the City Hospital of Quincy earnestly appeal for donations and bequests for the Endowment fund. This now amounts to over $60,000 but a fund of at least $100,000 is urgently needed.

Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) will endow a Free Bed to which such man may be given as the donor may desire, but any sum for this noble institution which stands ready to serve us all in the hour of need, will be most gratefully received.

The Treasurer will be very glad to confer with any one or to answer any inquiries.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Probation Officer Francis A. Spear Passes Another Mile Post.

Today is the anniversary of the birth of Probation Officer Francis A. Spear and his office at the court room building was fragrant with the odor of the many beautiful flowers which adorned his office that had been sent by admiring friends.

Frank had a box of fragrant smokers on hand for all callers this morning and he received the usual compliments extended to him on his youthful appearance with rare diplomacy. Unfortunately that were turned over to his care by the court this morning were greeted with a smile that augured well for their being let off easily.

He had a pleasant word for all and the good advice which he gave, if followed out would deprive the courts of much business.

The real celebration of the day however did not come until this afternoon when Frank entertained some of the court officers and the members of the Knockers club at dinner.

The Constipation Evil

IS RESPONSIBLE FOR MOST CASES OF PILES.

Constipation paralyzes the blood vessels of the lower bowel, and often causes piles. Women, and all other indoor workers, are the most frequent sufferers. But curing constipation alone won't cure piles. A special medicine is needed—internal treatment, to strengthen the dabbly veins and start pure blood circulating.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is the only internal pile cure. Sold under guarantee. $1 at Clyde T. Cox's Quincy, Mass., or Dr. Leonhardt Co., Station B. Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet. Nov. 9

—Concreted effort for the extermination of the mosquito is being made with some degree of success in many places both in this country and abroad, and now the common house fly is receiving attention from the health authorities as a prolific disseminator of disease, especially typhoid fever. The New York merchants' association has just issued a pamphlet in support of the movement to suppress the fly. When organizations of this kind take so much interest in what would once have been considered a trivial matter, it cannot be charged that the small things are being neglected, so far as they affect the public welfare.

CHASING CLUES TO MURDERER

No Definite Light on the Killing of Miss Register

REWARDS ARE FORTHCOMING

Police Would Like to Find Man Who Disappeared Last Monday and Who Is Now Known to Have Frequently Been Companion of Slain Woman—Ring, Bracelet and Purse Missing, Giving Rise to Robbery Theory

Providence, May 15.—The mystery of the murder of Miss Laura E. Register on Reservoir avenue, near the Jewish cemetery in Cranston, last Monday night, remains unsolved in spite of active work by the police in running down everything that has seemed to offer a clue to the identity of the murderer.

A reward of $500 for the detection of the slayer of the woman is offered by Mayor Fletcher, and it is expected that Governor Pothier and the employers of Miss Register will increase the amount by $500 each. Charles W. Register, father of the dead woman, will give a reward of $250 for the discovery of her murderer.

Late last evening three police detectives went to the home of Charles Douglass, the jeweler to whom Miss Register was to have been married. They went in response to a telephone message from Douglass, who asked that an officer come to see him.

Upon their return from the home of Douglass the police inspectors said that the dead woman's family had admitted for the first time that she was acquainted with an Auburn man who has disappeared, and who has been the object of search by the police for several days. Heretofore the family had asserted that Miss Register did not know this missing man, but last night they said they had ascertained that she had sung with him at musical entertainments on various occasions during the past winter.

As a result of the interview with Douglass, the police will prosecute the search for the Auburn man with renewed vigor. The man disappeared from his boarding house last Monday morning. According to the police he is thought to be either in Haverhill or Chicopee, Mass., where he has friends.

Friday's search centred about the discovery that a ring, bracelet and purse, which the woman is said to have had with her when she left her home Monday evening to go to try on her wedding dress at her dressmaker's, are missing. Heretofore the police have clung to the opinion that the woman was killed by someone with whom she was acquainted and that robbery was not the motive, but when it was positively learned Friday that these trinkets, all of which were gifts from the man she was to marry, could not be found at her home, the case took on a new aspect.

Some of the detectives seem to put much stress on the robbery theory, while others still cling to the idea that there was another motive than robbery for the attack on the girl.

Indictment Charging Heinze With Misappropriating Millions

New York, May 15.—F. Augustus Heinze, one-time copper king, bank president and associate of Charles W. Morse in schemes of high finance, was arraigned in the United States district court on a new indictment that charges him with misappropriating $2,000,000 of the funds of the Mercantile National bank.

Through his counsel Heinze pleaded not guilty to the indictment, with a privilege to withdraw his plea next week. This was interpreted by some as an indication that he will decide to throw himself on the mercy of the court.

SECOND DEGREE MURDER

Indictment of Brooklyn Policeman Who Shot and Killed a Boy

New York, May 15.—An indictment charging murder in the second degree was returned against James Dillon, a policeman, who shot Louis Prober, aged 19, in his father's grocery store in Brooklyn on Sunday, May 2.

Dillon says that the store was illegally open on Sunday and that he shot the boy in self-defense while trying to compel the proprietor to close.

The boy, however, made an ante-mortem statement charging that Dillon was intoxicated and had used his revolver without justification.

DID NOT WANT MONEY

Young Man Gives Novel Reason For Victimizing a Bank

London, May 15.—"It was the devilment, the excitement, the ingenuity and the humor, and the almost impossible success to crown it—all these things urged me to attempt the fraud. It was not for the money, but to feel myself able to do something that many others feel themselves incapable of accomplishing."

This was part of the dramatic confession made in court by Robert Isaac, a young Dutchman, who carried out in London one of the most daring bank frauds of modern times by which he victimized the London and Southwestern bank out of $11,500.

Isaac was arrested in Madrid. F. R. King, a clerk in the bank at the time of the swindle, stood beside him in the dock, charged with complicity. Both men were remanded.

18,000 CHILDREN TAKE PART

Great Play Festival and May Celebration in Smoky City

Pittsburg, May 15.—The third annual congress of the Playground Association of America came to a close here last night. Officers were elected and committees were appointed, but no place has yet been decided upon for the next meeting of the congress. Luther H. Gulick of New York was elected president.

A monster play festival and May celebration, participated in by about 18,000 schoolchildren, was held Friday afternoon at Schenley park. One of the features of the celebration was a parade, in which 1000 children dressed to represent prominent characters in American history marched. Athletic sports and games of various kinds formed another part of the program.

AS IN THE DAYS OF LONG AGO

Replica of Fulton's Clermont Will Sail on the Hudson

New York, May 15.—The keel of the Clermont, a replica of Robert Fulton's steamboat of that name, which will figure conspicuously in the Hudson-Fulton celebration this fall, was laid in Staten Island Friday. The boat will be completed about Aug. 1 with the installation of a duplicate of the old engine fashioned by the great inventor.

The Clermont, traveling under her own steam, with wood for fuel, will be seen in the naval parade up the Hudson river from New York to Newburgh on Oct. 1.

The wedge-shaped bow and stern, the two stubby masts, the paddle wheels of strange design and the engine flywheels set on the outside, will give the Clermont a queer appearance among the modern war vessels of many nations which will act as an escort on the trip.

DUMB FOR FIVE YEARS

Young Man Makes Perilous Trip and Speech Is Restored

Moncton, N. B., May 15.—Surviving a perilous trip across the Northumberland Straits in a small and frail boat, the start of which was made while he was supposedly somewhat weak of mind and afflicted with a dumbness of five years' standing, Alfred Gallant, 22 years old, of Egmont Bay, P. E. I., is able to break his long silence by speaking of his hazardous journey.

In constant fear that the small boat would capsize at any moment and that he would lose his life Gallant, by superhuman effort, managed to keep the craft afloat. To this fright is attributed the return of his speech.

FOR PURPOSE OF ROBBERY

Lawrence Youth Said to Have Confessed to Killing Mrs. Grey

Newburyport, Mass., May 15.—An indictment charging murder was returned against Ambrose Van Buskirk of Lawrence by the grand jury in the superior court on account of the killing of Mrs. Katherine Grey, an aged woman.

Mrs. Grey kept a store in Lawrence. She was attacked there early one morning and died without regaining consciousness from the wounds she received. Van Buskirk, who is 16 years old, is said to have confessed that he and another youth planned the attack for purposes of robbery.

The Scrap Book

Casey's Brilliant Idea.

The women of the church in a suburb of Chicago were soliciting money to pay for decorating their house of worship. They decided to call on Casey, who kept the leading saloon in the village, and ask for a donation. They talked. Casey met them genially, listened to what they had to say and promptly subscribed $500.

This was so much more than the solicitors had hoped for that they were much flustered and could do nothing but stammer their thanks. Finally one of them rounded to and said: "Why, Mr. Casey, this is most generous of you. It will allow us to get what we want very much, a fine stained glass window."

"And, Mr. Casey," said the spokeswoman, "in view of this magnificent donation, isn't there some sentiment you would like to put on the window?"

"Well," said Casey, "I think it would look fine to have on the glass, beehive and two parts of it, in late letters, something like this: 'After Mass Visit Casey's.'"

Today.

We shall do so much in the years to come.
But what have we done today?
We shall give out gold in a princely sum.
But what did we give today?
We shall lift the heart and dry the tear.
We shall plant a hope in the place of fear.
We shall speak with words of love and cheer.
But what have we done today?
We shall be so kind in the after while.
But what have we been today?
We shall bring each lonely life a smile.
But what have we brought today?
We shall give to truth a grander birth
And to steadfast faith a deeper worth.
We shall feed the hungering souls of earth.
But whom have we fed today?

Didn't Like It Diluted.

An old Mississippi pilot, speaking of temperance, said:

"Once I remember a passenger of ours fell overboard. We fished him out with a boat hook after he had been soaking on the bottom half an hour or so. We laid him limp and soppy on the deck, and a steward ran for the whisky bottle. As I pried the man's mouth open to pour some whisky down his throat his lips moved. A kind of murmur came from them. I put my ear down close to listen, and I heard the half drowned wretch say: "Roll me on a bar'l fust to git some o' this water out. It'll weaken the ficker."

A Characteristic Whistler Reply.
Whistler's mother cherished a wish that he should become a soldier, as so many MacNells and Whistlers had been before him. Consequently Whistler entered the Military academy at West Point as a cadet. But he showed little aptitude for studies beyond drawing. A good story is told in the Pennells' life of the eccentric artist of an examination in history:

"What?" said his examiner. "You do not know the date of the battle of Buena Vista? Suppose you were to go out to dinner and the company began to talk of the Mexican war and you, a West Point man, were asked the date of the battle. What would you do?" "Do?" said Whistler. "Why, I should refuse to associate with people who could talk of such things at dinner."

Beecher and Barnum.

Henry Ward Beecher was a great admirer of P. T. Barnum and always took a front seat when he attended Barnum's circus. Then it happened one day that Mr. Beecher saw Mr. Barnum enter his church and take a back seat. Immediately Mr. Beecher sought him out. "You must come right up here in front, Mr. Barnum. I always take a front seat when I come to your circus, and I want you to do the same when you come to mine."

No Peace There.

To have to eat a Christmas dinner at a hotel is bad enough, no matter how numerous the courses and how choice the viands. To have to eat it alone is worse. One man who sat at a table solitary glanced over the menu with little interest. It was a big card, replete with pictures of polonaises, and at the top was the motto: "Peace on earth, good will to men."

In an effort to forget his depression he said to the waiter, pointing at the Biblical quotation:

"Please bring me some of that first. I've never eaten peas that way. Maybe I won't like them."

The waiter was an Irish American. With a smile that began and ended in his eyes he said soberly: "I'm sorry, sir, but that's a mistake. There isn't any peace in the kitchen. We've got an Irish and a Dutch cook down there."

Inspiration of Action.

I love the souls that rush along to their goal with a full stream of sentiment, that have too much of the positive to be harassed by the perpetual negatives, which, after all, are but the disease of the soul, to be expelled by fortifying the principle of vitality.—George Elliot.

Had His Revenge.

Pat had had trouble with his eyes and went to see a distinguished specialist for relief. On his arrival at the doctor's office he found the usual large number of patients in the ante-room awaiting attention, and, though he was in a great hurry, he was forced to wait several dreary hours before his turn came. He lost and regained his temper several times in the interim, but when all was over and he found himself out upon the street with the day half spent indignation over the loss of valuable time was the predominant note in his feelings.

"But O! had me revenge," he ejaculated, with a broad smile, as he told his friend Mike about it afterward. "O! don't t'ink he'll keep me waiting again like that."

"Sure an' O! wint back th' next day," said Pat. "O! got there at nine by the clock, an' I very toime they said 'twas me turn to go in O! said O! wait an' let some other fella have me place until the clock struck twelve, an' thin O! wint in. 'Well,' says he, 'phwat can O! do for yes this mornin', Pat? 'Nawthin,' says O!, lookin' him square in the eye as O! turned on me heels and lift the room. Bedad, O! don't believe he knows yit what struck 'um'."—Harper's Weekly.

He Accepted the Donkey.

When Barry Sullivan, the Irish tragedian, was playing Richard III, one night and the actor came to the lines "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" some merry wag in the pit called out:

"And wouldn't a jackass do as well for you?"

"Sure," answered Sullivan, turning like a flash at the sound of the voice. "Come around to the stage door at once!"

A Dutiful Husband.

A man who had overestimated his capacity for the amber fluid was arrested on the street for improper conduct. In the police court the next morning the usual charge of intoxication was filed against him, and he was fined $5, which he promptly paid. This done, he went out with a very worried expression on his countenance, only to return a few minutes later and cautiously approach the clerk.

"Please, sir," he said, "would you just give me a receipt for that $5 I paid you? I want to show my wife that I didn't spend all my money for drink."—Success Magazine.

Cause For Lively Dodging.

Two farm hands were set upon by a huge bull while crossing a rocky field. One managed to gain a tree. The other took refuge in a hole that proved to have an exit in the rear.

The man who had chosen the hole was no sooner in at one end than he was out at the other. With a bellow the bull made for him. He turned and again shot like lightning through the hole. The bull once more bore down upon him as he came out the other end, and once more he was in and then out of the other end of his hole.

This strange pursuit kept up some ten minutes or more. At first it mystified the farm hand up in the tree. Then it angered him.

"Hey!" he shouted. "Ye danged nincompoop, why don't ye stay in the hole?"

The bull was dashing around outside from one end of the hole to the other at great speed, and the man was bobbing in and out desperately. He heard, however, his comrade's shout and found time before his next brief disappearance to shout back:

"Danged nincompoop yourself! There's a bear in the hole!"

Union of Souls.

"What greater thing is there for two human souls than to feel that they are joined for life, to strengthen each other in all labor, to rest on each other in all sorrow, to minister to each other in silent, unspoken memories at the moment of the last parting?"

A Matter of Training.

When Josephine was six years old she was taken for the first time to see a trained animal show and came home much pleased with the performance. As she was at times slow to obey, mamma thought this a good time to teach a lesson, so she said, "Don't you think, Josephine, if dogs and ponies and monkeys can learn to obey so well, that a little girl like you, who knows much more than the animals, should obey even more quickly?"

"Of course I would, mamma," came the instant reply, "if I had only been as well trained as they have."

A Thrifty Wife.

A Canadian minister had just married a couple. The registers were signed, and nothing remained but the giving and taking of the fee. The bridegroom, a strapping young fellow, asked, "How much is it?"

The parson glanced at the smiling bride and slyly answered, "Whatever you think it's worth."

Now, it should have been worth a good deal, for the girl was young and pretty. "I reckon it's worth about 50 cents," said the swain, holding out two quarters.

The clergyman looked blankly at the coins, then turned to the fair one. "I'll leave it to you, madam," he said. "What do you think it's worth?"

What did this young and blushing bride do? She reached out, took the coins, handed one quarter to the minister and put the other into her pocket. "A thrifty wife," said the Canadian, with a sigh, "is her husband's crown."

Two of a Kind.

A distinguished specialist in Washington was called upon a week or two ago by an eminent government official for treatment for a nervous ailment.

"The first thing you must do," said the physician after an examination, "is to give up both smoking and drinking."

Whereupon the eminent official became real peevish. "Look here, doctor," he burst out, "now you're talking just like my wife!"

EQUAL PAY BILL VETOED

Disappointment For Thousands of New York Schoolma'ams

New York, May 15.—Thousands of women school teachers in Greater New York suffered disappointment when Mayor McClellan repeated his action of last year in vetoing the so-called equal pay bill, a measure passed by the legislature with a view to putting the salaries of the women teachers on an equal footing with those paid the men.

In declining to approve the bill, the mayor said that it would saddle an additional $17,000,000 burden on the city, besides "disrupting the system of tutoring."

Women teachers fought hard to push the bill through the legislature and appeared at the city hall with pleading and many speeches in an endeavor to persuade McClellan to sign the measure.

DIDN'T WORRY ABOUT LAW

American Constable Crosses the Line and Catches Crooks in Canada

Ogdensburg, N. Y., May 15.—Two brothers, James and Frank Peterson, alleged members of a gang of river pirates who for a long time bothered the police on both sides of the boundary, robbing St. Lawrence summer homes on the American side of the river and escaping to Canada with the plunder, were sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary at Kingston, Ont.

The men repeatedly escaped American officers who pursued them as far as the boundary, but were captured at last by a Morristown, N. Y., constable, who ignored the fine points of international law and followed them into Canada, handcuffing them at the point of a revolver, notwithstanding his authority ended when he crossed the line.

TORNADOES SWEEP

THREE STATES

Dozen Persons Killed and Much Damage to Property

Kansas City, May 15.—A series of tornadoes in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma killed a dozen persons, injured about 100, devastating Hollis, Kan., wrecked a train and did great damage to property. Twenty-five were injured in suburbs of Kansas City.

The storm spread over a wide farming area and laid waste many farm houses and barns.

A blinding rain and hail storm accompanied the wind in all three states. Many washouts interrupted railroad traffic. Electrical disturbances crippled telegraph and telephone wires.

STUDIED TOO HARD

Missing Harvard Man, Whose Mind Is Wrecked, Found in Rochester

Boston, May 15.—After a search of a week in three states, Thomas P. Williams, the Harvard honor man, a member of the freshman class, whose mind has become wrecked by over-study, was found yesterday in Rochester, N. Y. Where he has been cannot be learned, as he is still dazed.

About a week ago he left Cambridge upon the advice of his physician, who declared that he had been taking too little exercise, and that if he was to avoid breaking down he must rest. Williams went to his uncle's farm in Connecticut, where he remained until Wednesday afternoon, when he started for New York, where his sister was to meet him. But he never reached that city.

BLOCKED BY POLICE

New Haven People Did Not Hear Goldman Lecture on Anarchy

New Haven, May 15.—Emma Goldman, who was to have delivered a lecture here last night on "Anarchy; What It Stands For," was prevented from carrying out her plans by the police.

Accompanied by Dr. Reitman she was admitted to the hall where the meeting was to have been held, but the police allowed no one else to enter.

After waiting for some time the two left the hall and returned to their hotel.

EMMA EAMES SUED

Alleged Alienation of Baritone's Affections by Prima Donna

Philadelphia, May 15.—Suit was begun here against Emma Eames, who is charged with alienating the affections of Emile deGorga, a baritone in her company. The complainant is Elsa deGorga of New York, the baritone's wife.

The prima donna was served at the hotel where she is stopping here prior to her departure for Europe. George Graham, Mrs. deGorga's attorney, declined to discuss the case.

Business Outlook Improves

New York, May 15.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says that further significant improvements have been made in iron and steel, and as they form a great basic trade, this goes far toward establishing the long desired readjustment of the whole industrial situation.

UNITE TO FIGHT TO THE DEATH

Labor Unions Are Drawn Into the French Postal Strike

IMMEDIATE SUPPORT PROMISED

Charge That Government Intends to "Drown Strike Movement in Blood"

—Speakers at Big Meeting Declare That Moment Has Arrived For Solid Revolutionary Movement—Strike Itself Seems to Be Losing Ground

Paris, May 15.—The striking postal employees on Friday afternoon adopted resolutions appealing to the workmen's organizations to make common cause with them.

The meeting was attended by 3000 strikers and delegates from various workmen's unions. The strike leaders delivered highly incendiary speeches, in which they charged that the police and military precautions taken by the government proved that it was intended "to drown the strike movement in blood." They favored a direct appeal to the workmen's unions for co-operation with them in their fight, and the strikers voted unanimously for an alliance with the workmen "with all its consequences."

Immediately after the vote was taken, M. Guard, the delegate of the railroad men, pledged to the postal employees the immediate support of his union. He was followed by M. Passenard, the secretary of the Gas Workers' organization, who announced that his union would promptly take action on the vote. M. Patand, of the Electricians' union, also promised that his associates would give consideration to the question of an alliance with the postmen. Allresses were made also by delegates from many other organizations, who declared that the workmen were all ready to join the strike. It was declared by the speakers that the moment had arrived for a solid revolutionary movement under the direction of the General Federation of Labor.

The resolution as adopted pledged that the postal employees and the workmen's organizations would unite for a battle to the death, "in order to obtain liberty of thought and speech and the right for all employees of the state to form syndicates."

The strike of the postmen itself apparently has lost ground. The rank and file of the men seemingly are convinced that the agitators are acting for their personal end and as the tools of the revolutionary proletarian organizations, and they hesitate to risk losing their permanent situations and pensions.

For the Patriot. LETTER FROM STATE HOUSE.

Boston, May 12, 1909.

Nothing is heard about the probable fate of the legislative salary bill in the Senate, and it does not make much difference, as far as the fate of the bill is concerned, unless the Senate is as much in favor of the bill as the House. It is unquestionable that Gov. Draper is ready to veto the bill as soon as it reaches him. If the Senate fears that it would hurt him to let the bill reach him, then, as good Republicans, they are bound to throw themselves in the breach and to save the head of the party, no matter at what risk to themselves politically.

If they think that it will make votes for him and if they want to vote for the bill on their own hook, then it may pass. The House voted for it by 120 to 40. A like proportion in the Senate will make it a matter of indifference whether Gov. Draper vetoes it or not, provided the members vote the same way on passing over the veto as they voted in the first place. On passing over a veto, there would be a rollcall, according to the constitution, but there was no roll-call when the House passed the bill to be engrossed. It raises the salary from $750 to $1,000, with double for the President and Speaker, but it does not take effect till next year. The latter provision will not count for much, in the governor's mind, for as a rule, half of one legislature is sent back to the next. The members feel that they have a stronger case than ever, for, by the general increase in the cost of living, there has been a real reduction of salaries of from 25 to 35 per cent. The argument against an increase is now on the basis that the money is not compensation, but an honorarium and that the honor is pay enough. Some can live on the honor, because they have plenty of money. Others cannot. But there is little chance that the bill will become law.

Party politics came to the front in the defeat of the two bills for direct nominations. One of these was for the fifth Middlesex senatorial district and had been substituted for the House for an adverse committee report. The other was a general bill, applying to the whole state. It had been ordered to a third reading by a good majority by roll-call of the House. But, by the time they had reached their next stage the political leaders had been heard from and the bills were doomed. Both were defeated on roll-call and there were 22 Republicans who changed from support of the bills to opposition, and 12 more who were recorded for the general bill who were absent. There was a majority of 20 against the general bill. At the same time that several of the Republican opponents made their arguments against the bills, they said that they were not opposed to direct nominations. Mr. Pattison of Barnstable was the only one to admit that his personal opinion had not changed, but he shifted his vote in order to please business men of his constituents, who had asked him. It was said in the debate that 114 representatives and 13 senators are already nominated by direct vote in the primaries and to that extent the new system has got a foothold in the state already. It would not be strange if this became a political issue for the Democrats, for the tendency of the times is toward the abolition of delegate conventions, and there is a ring to the proposition of getting close to the people which would be very familiar to Democratic voters.

Mr. Mellen of Worcester and some others tried to make party capital out of the constitutional amendment to permit the striking out of the requirement for proportional taxation, so that the legislature can pass a law for a three mill tax. The debate was pretty hot at times, and Mr. Lomasney of Boston was vehement in his denunciation of the amendment as a move for the rich tax-dodgers. Mr. Mancovitz of Boston led the fight from that point of view. But it was easily shown that the poor people would be benefited as much as the rich and that all would gain greatly by the three mill tax, if the experiment works here as well as in the dozen or more states which have tried the law. When the roll was called in agreeing to the resolve, there were many Democrats to vote for it and it is impossible to make a party issue out of it as it stands before the legislature today. The vote was overwhelming for the change.

There is one tax bill going through which promises to stop some tax-dodging. It changes the day for assessing taxes from May 1 to April 1, and it has the support of the Massachusetts State Association of Assessors. If it becomes law, then Massachusetts will have the same date as Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. By having it May 1, dodgers can be living up north on May 1, and living in Massachusetts April 1, and so they get clear in both places. This will stop quite an evil, as it was brought out last December at the annual meeting of the assessors' association. The tax problem is recognized as one of the greatest in the state, and tax burdens are very unjustly distributed. But the inheritance tax is bringing in much money, and if this amendment passes, there will be many million dollars' worth of personal property come into the assessors' hands willingly judging by other states.

It was to have been expected that the Senate would kill the bill to reduce the hours of labor of women and minors in manufacturing and mechanical establishments to 54 per week. The reduction to 56 per week does not become operative till January 1, 1910, and the manufacturing interests which control the Senate, or are extremely influential there, were determined that the bill should not become law. The Senate gave a large majority against it, and all the good labor men got from it was their agitation in the House.

The Senate has not, at the time of writing, disposed of the bill to incorporate the trustees of Massachusetts colleges. The two dissenters from the report, Senators Evans of Middlesex and Nash of Plymouth, are in the upper branch, and of course they have more effect than their names did in the lower branch. Senator Nash was a school teacher for many years and he feels that he knows something about education. Senator Evans has submitted a substitute proposition for an investigation by the state board of education and report to the next legislature.

The gypsy moth appropriation bill of $150,000 has gone through the House without a word of debate. This carries $150,000 for this year, in addition to the $150,000 provided by previous legislation, so that the total spent this year by the state will be $300,000. It is expected that there will be $200,000 of the nation's $300,000 appropriated spent in Massachusetts and this sum, with the appropriations by cities and towns, by the metropolitan parks commission and that spent by private persons will aggregate about $1,000,000. This will go far toward reducing the pest.

Without debate the Senate has killed two Sunday bills,—one to permit the sale of kosher meat and the other to permit the sale of fruit and also soda water, ice cream and so on by others than common victuallers. The latter was supported by the Greeks in all parts of the state.

SAVINGS INSURANCE.

With the total of savings bank life insurance policies written under the new law increasing at the rate of about 100 policies a week the assured success of this plan of wage earner's insurance, it is generally admitted, has been brought about very largely through the initiative of representatives of the largest Massachusetts industry. The shoe and leather interests have from the first been thoroughly enthusiastic in the support of the principles of savings insurance. Other great industries, of course, have helped and are helping, but it is not too much to say that without the shoe manufacturers the progress of the movement would have been greatly delayed.

When the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League was first formed for the purpose of urging the passage of legislation two leading shoe manufacturers quickly consented not only to the use of their names but to practical work in cooperation with the organizers. These men were Hon. William L. Douglas of Brockton, ex-governor of Massachusetts, and Charles H. Jones, president of the Commonwealth Shoe and Leather Company. Mr. Douglas was early chosen president of the League. Mr. Jones, as vice president, was one of its most effective speakers during the legislative campaign. Many other leading shoe and leather men were prominent in the affairs of the organization when the scheme was under agitation.

The largest practical results of the savings insurance work have come thus far from the shoe towns. In some establishments more than half of all the employees have taken out some form of savings bank policies. The leaders of the shoe and leather industries have put energy into the work of acquainting their employees with the facilities which the Commonwealth has placed at their disposal. In their turn the employees, representing a highly skilled and well paid class, have responded in large numbers to the appeal to their sense of thrift and foresight. They have readily seen the advantages of industrial life insurance that costs much less than the kind which they have been accustomed to get out of voluntary old age pensions of a sort that have not before been issued in this country.

The total of savings bank life insurance now in force in Massachusetts is approaching a million dollars, and only a bare beginning has been made. As the system rounds into complete success the whole state will be inclined to thank the shoe makers for the energy and persistence they have shown in getting it started.

JEREMIAH MEANEY.

Relatives and friends nearly filled St. John's church this morning at the funeral of Jeremiah Meaney, aged 65, who was buried from his late home 121 South Walnut street. At 9 o'clock Rev. John J. Coan celebrated a high mass of requiem, the regular choir singing the Gregorian mass. Miss Mary McConarty sang the "Pie Jesu," John Mahon presiding at the organ.

There were many beautiful floral tributes among which was a beautiful piece from the Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters of which the deceased was a member.

The bearers were David Frazier, Dennis Ford, Michael Sweeney, Michael O'Hara, John Deady and John Geran. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Mr. Meaney was one of the best known residents in Quincy having lived here for many years. He is survived by his wife Mrs. Julia Meaney, by two daughters, Miss Margaret Meaney and Mrs. Stephen Hofferty and one son John Meaney.

Majestic Theatre.

Commencing Monday, May 17, the Majestic theatre, Boston, presents the strongest attraction of its season in the appearance for two weeks of America's leading actor and stage producer, E. H. Southern, in a repertoire of plays. Great interest is added to the engagement through the appearance of Miss Julia Marlowe, as co-star with Mr. Southern for two performances, the great actress impersonating Ophelia to Mr. Southern's Hamlet on Saturday night, May 22, and Saturday matinee, May 29. These two performances will undoubtedly be the most brilliant, artistic and social events of Boston's dramatic season. Mr. Southern's repertoire for the first week of his engagement is as follows: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights and Saturday matinee "Lord Dunsinore," Friday night "Richelieu," Saturday night Southern and Marlowe in "Hamlet." Southern will be warmly welcomed on his return in the laughable role of Lord Dunsinore. When presented here last season the desire was so great to see the great actor in this most humorous creation on the American stage that special performances were arranged to accommodate popular demand. Mr. Southern presents the comedy exactly as was last year together with the same cast. The role of the side-whiskered English lord with his hop, drawl, vapid speech and ridiculous remarks is a wonderful contrast to all of Southern's other impersonations. "Richelieu" is Southern's latest dramatic creation, and the great actor presents the Bulwer Lytton drama in the most elaborate manner the play has ever received in its entire history.

AN ENGLISH HOLIDAY

How East Side London Plays on Boxing Day.

ROUGH SPORT IS THE RULE.

All Cockneyland Flocks to Historic Hampstead Heath, Where Hilarity, Fast and Furious, Rules From Early Morning Till After Midnight.

Boxing day is a great institution in England. The day after Christmas is Boxing day, so called because in the old days it marked the occasion of the actual giving of Christmas boxes. Now it is a national holiday. Besides being the last in the year, it has to suffice Londoners, at all events, until Easter Monday. It's a great day in Cockneyland, and the east end crowds to Hampstead heath, the picturesque open space in the northwest of London.

All roads lead to the heath. Soon after daybreak the procession begins. Fully loaded traps and donkey barrows are the principal items in the vehicular traffic, but the majority are on foot, singing and shouting for the holiday.

"Ere yer are, Sir 'Ereger," shouts a woman, pushing a tin of sardines filled with water into your face. "Ere yer are, Sir 'Ereger! All the fun of the fair. Two a penny. 'Ave a couple, will yer, n'lad?"

The London street merchants have the habit of giving prospective customers a title, presumably on the theory that a Londoner likes to have you believe that he is some well known man.

Should you be persuaded into buying "a couple" the chances are a moment later you will be face to face with 'Arriet. She wears a large hat trimmed with large feathers of brilliant hue, has a hair fringe down over her forehead and a bright colored velvet dress. Probably several will be in a line, each with an arm around the other's neck and a mouth open in the other hand.

There is battle in their eyes, and before you are aware of it a stream of water will be running down your face. The best thing to do is to retreat, for if you should give battle you are sure to retire, defeated, with your collar like a wet rag and a most uncomfortable feeling of dampness down your back.

On the heath the coconut pitches will first claim your notice.

"Ere yer are, kernal; seven shies a tanner. Every one yer knocks dahn yer 'ave. They're all milky. Loidies and kids 'arf way."

Then this scene will meet your eye: Outside a large tent stands a raised platform. On it are half a dozen men stripped to the waist with arms folded across their chests. One of them, evidently the proprietor, twists a large rattle, which gives forth a most deafening noise. At last it stops, and he begins:

"Loidies and gents, I wants ter hinderce to yer notice some of the best boxers in the world. 'Im at the end is Felix Scott of Liverpool. 'E'll fight any man in the crab, and if he don't put 'im aht in three rahnnds 'e'll give 'im a quid. Nah, then, who'll 'ave 'em on with the champion?"

Some one accepts the inviting offer, and a rush is made to pay the admission fee and get into the tent.

A company of traveling artists is assembled on the platform outside the next tent, all made up in their war paint. The piece to be performed is "Othello." The price of admission is a penny. A reserved seat, an empty box, will cost you another penny. And the house soon fills.

Outside you will find every form of outdoor amusement in full swing—"Aunt Sally's," swings, roundabouts, skipping and donkeys. The latter are greatly patronized. Young men and maidens, old men and women, all have "a pannorth of donkey ride." A fat woman clings to one poor beast's neck shouting:

"O'er, 'Im sure 'Im falling. Don't make 'Im go so fast. Ho, look at me 'at. Lemme get off. I'm sure yer 'tittin' 'im."

When the dust has cleared away she is seen lying in the road panting:

"I know'd yer done it on purpose!"

At last the journey home is begun, everybody happy and tired, yet not too tired to link arms, the men wearing the girls' feathered hats and pearl buttoned coats and the girls wearing caps and hats and wondrous masculine jackets. All are singing different songs, but every now and then they break forth in unison with popular songs of the moment. In the saloons they drink beer out of one pewter and swear undying love and friendship till the voice of the proprietor, it now being 12.30 in the morning and closing time, is heard calling, "Time, gents, please," and a final start is made.

This may answer the question why the average Cockney worker always wants a second day off to get over Boxing day.—New York Times.

Wanted to See Them.

When Helen, aged four, for the first time accompanied her mother to church she was given some money for the collection box. It was carefully explained to her that this money was "for the poor."

Helen sat patiently through perhaps a third of the service, when she started her mother by rattling the coins between her cupped hands and inquiring in a loud voice: "Mamma, when are the poor coming around? My 8 cents is getting all hot and sticky!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Good name in man or woman is the immediate jewel of their souls.—Shakespeare.

CHARLES H. SPEAR.

The funeral of Charles H. Spear took place this afternoon. There were prayers at his late residence in Weymouth at 1.30 o'clock, followed by a service at the First Baptist church at two o'clock. The large edifice was filled with the friends of the deceased.

Members of Reynold's Post 58 G. A. R., Reynold's Woman's Relief Corps and Norfolk County G. A. R. Association. The service was conducted by Rev. F. B. Cressey of Cambridge a former pastor of the Baptist church and chaplain of Reynold's Post, assisted by Rev. Robert H. Carey pastor of the church. Miss Bertha Barnes of Boston sang several solos. The floral tributes were many and very handsome.

At the close of the service the remains were escorted to Village Cemetery where the G. A. R. ritual was performed by Reynold's Post and taps sounded by Bugler George White.

TRIAL RUN OF NEW U. S. SUBMARINE

The Narwhal Said to Have Behaved Splendidly

The submarine Narwhal the newest and largest of this class of sea fighters, which was recently launched at the Fore River, was given a trial Saturday afternoon in the bay. That she should be ready for her trials so soon after launching is favorably commented upon by government officials.

When the submarine returned Saturday night her officers said that she behaved splendidly.

Up to the present time the Octopus has been queen of the submarine flotilla, but those in a position to know say the boats of the Narwhal type are as far in advance of the Octopus, as the latter is ahead of the Adder and Plunger type. Many new inventions have been evolved since the construction of the Octopus, and there are many other inventions under way at the works of the Electric Boat company which will figure largely in the engine room construction in future submarines.

One of the most important tests that have been undertaken in connection with submarine boats, aside from the propulsive power, is that of sending and receiving wireless telegrams by the boats when under water. Secret tests have been held for some time past at the works of the Electric Boat company, and the proposed invention has reached a stage where it is thought to be feasible to give the system an actual operative test on the submarines in the near future.

It is probable that these tests will be made as soon as some of the other boats, launched at the same time the Narwhal, will be in commission. These sister ships will be ready for their tests in a few weeks time, and it can be proven that wireless messages can be sent and received by boats under water, it is thought that sea fighting of the submarines will be revolutionized to a great extent.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.

Tendered A. N. LaBrecque at Great Hill House.

A complimentary banquet was tendered A. N. LaBrecque Saturday night at the Great Hill house, Houghs Neck. About fifty enjoyed the excellent menu prepared. James E. Wall was the toastmaster of the post prandial exercises and among the speakers were Emerich Thern, Fred Scott, Daniel J. Maloney, Edward Good, Alfred N. LaBrecque, George E. Urann, N. J. Regan, Archie, F. Baird, Joseph H. Brickley, Ross Y. Woodbury, Oliver G. Fosdick and Thomas J. Dwyer.

After the speaking there was an entertainment, Jack Hewitt of Dorchester presiding at the piano. Among the talent were Charles Webber of Webber & Lambert, Frank Hannon, Frank Smith and Walter G. Higgins, the last three being stars in the R. H. White minstrel show last week.

OLD BUILDING SOLD.

The auction sale of the two old Coddington buildings was held Saturday afternoon and attracted quite a crowd. James F. Burke was the auctioneer and bidding, especially on the large building was quite brisk. The bidding was quickly run up to $355 at which price it was knocked off to Robert T. Johnson. The smaller of the two buildings was sold to W. A. Aspergren for $270.

The engine of the 10-13 inward train broke down at Quincy depot and the train became stalled until another engine could be sent from Boston. It was 10:55 before the engine arrived and the train proceeded. The broken down engine was shunted onto a siding.

CLEVER ACTING BY LOCAL TALENT

Comedy "The Awkward Squad" Given Before Large Audience

The three-act comedy, "The Awkward Squad," was presented in Music hall Saturday evening before a large audience under the auspices of Alan C. Arthur and M. J. Singleton. The affair was a decided success both socially and financially. The programme was of varied character, in which some of the best vaudeville talent of the town appeared. The actors were very clever and the result of their rehearsals was clearly shown especially in the part taken by Henry Luciuson, where he showed extreme capability in the impersonation of Jen, "Levi Toplisky".

The jokes and witticisms of the performers were very clever and brought forth hearty applause. Alan Arthur was presented a bouquet over the foot lights, by his fellow associates of the Edison Electric Light Company. It being composed of vegetables and constituents of a garden was very appropriate for Mr. Arthur whose part was "Cyrus Green" an Atlantic farmer. The Awkward Ones were as follows.

Lieut. Mustard of the M. U. T. S.—William Harding.

Sergeant Drill—M. J. Singleton.

Cyrus Green, an Atlantic Farmer—A. C. Arthur.

Hans Anheuser Pilsner Worzenburgroebau, Jr.—Carl Stocker.

Percy Harold Hooper, Hooper 2d. William Rice.

Michael J. O'Shaughnessy—Frank Even.

Levi Toplisky—Henry Swanson.

Bolter, Hooper's valet—E. Barbaux.

Act 1. time of Spanish war; place Pennsylvania; scene, A recruiting office.

Act 2. First morning in Camp.

Act 3. Evening of the same day.

The musical programme in Act 1 was excellent and every participant deserves much credit. The songs were: "Hugo if you go why I'm going too"—Carl Stocker.

"My Word"—William Rice.

"Never, No More"—Frank Ewen.

"The Sea is my Sweetheart"—William Harding.

"Tough Guy Levi"—Henry Swanson.

"On the dear old Farm"—By the Recruits.

Also in act 3 red lights made the scene very effective and "Thy Sentiment" sung by William Rice was a piece of note and he received a hearty encore, also "Moon Beams" sung by Carl Stocker and the recruits was very commendable. Mr. A. Lovesy favored the audience with cornet solos and calls throughout the evening and F. Lavery was pianist.

An informal dance was held at the conclusion of the performance and all had delightful time.

John Roulard a well known resident of West Quincy died Sunday at his home 55 Copeland street aged 40 years. Mr. Roulard has been under a doctor's care for over two years. He is survived by a wife, two daughters and five sons.

MOTHER GOOSE FESTIVAL.

Enjoyed By Many.

A very large audience greeted the entrance of the Mother Goose children with a round of applause at Bethany chapel Saturday afternoon. The stage was prettily decorated with green boughs and these, together with the little ones in varied costumes made a charming picture. The solos by the children were all heartily enjoyed, and in their chorus singing they were greatly helped by a quartet of young ladies who impersonated the pretty maids, the Misses Dorothy Sweetland, Marjorie Miller, Dorothy Lowe and Margaret Hunt, Miss Mary Murray was a picturesque Mother Goose and her sweet contralto voice was very pleasing in the solos allotted to her.

The Boys' Band could not appear, as advertised, much to the regret of all present, on account of the sudden illness of the young leader, but a half hour of magic which was given instead by Mr. E. F. Morton of Boston, greatly pleased all the little folks, after which the ice cream, candy, sugared corn and tarts were generously patronized.

CHILDREN'S OPERETTA.

Presented At Sale By Wollaston Lend-a-hand Club.

A sale and entertainment was held Saturday afternoon in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry by the Earnest Workers Lend-a-hand Club. An operetta entitled "Market Day" was given by the children who showed great aptitude in the parts assigned them. The scene was supposed to be that of a market place where the children came to sell their wares with many a song and dance. The singing was very pretty, the girls being ably accompanied by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith on the piano. Following is the cast of characters:

Janet, the village favorite, Priscilla Robinson.

Lucetti, the flower girl, Ruth Jones.

Mollie, Charlotte Barstow.

Lottie, the orange girl, Martha Robinson.

Rocco, the organ-grinder, Ida Barry.

Nora, Bertha Polk.

Lorrie, Margaret Taylor.

Chorus—Ednah Sanborn, Marcia Adams, Florence Crowell, Edith Gould, Marion McLoon, Elinor Barry, Katharine Adams, Louise Adams.

Preceding the operetta, the following program was excellently rendered by the young ladies:

Piano Duet, Daffodil.

Orth.

Katharine and Marcia Adams.

Recitation, Seelin' Things.

Ednah Sanborn.

Piano solo, Waltz.

Louise Emery.

Piano solo, Farewell.

Brinkmann.

Priscilla Robinson.

TENNIS COURTS READY.

The new grounds of the Wollaston Tennis club off Beale street, have been finally completed and the past week has seen many games in progress. Four courts have been laid out of clay, which are on a par with any in the city. Adjoining the courts a small club house has been erected. The club is fortunate in having a large active membership among which are included many of the best players in the vicinity. On Saturday evening a dancing party was given in Wollaston hall by the club.

Dr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Brooks, Grace R. Fowler, of Curtis street, West Somerville, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter born May sixteenth.

BUDDHIST TEMPLE BURNED

Art Treasures Consumed in Fire Accidentally Started by Beggar

Tokio, May 17.—Zojoji, the famous Buddhist temple situated in Shiba park, Tokio, was completely destroyed by fire, the damage amounting to about $200,000.

The Zojoji temple, next to the great temples at Nikko, was probably the most famous and popular show temple in Japan. It has been visited by more tourists and foreigners than any temple in this country. A few gigantic pieces of bronze stand out lonely amid the mass of ashes, all that is left of some of the most wonderful art treasures that were to be found in the Far East.

The fire was set by a beggar who was living in a hole underneath the floor of the temple. The man was cold and started a little blaze with a newspaper and a few sticks for warmth.
The flames spread and the temple
was consumed.

STRIKE PETERING OUT

Postal Employees Losing in Contest
With French Government

Paris, May 17.—The postal strike is now practically dead. The government officials announce that only 400 men are out and these are expected to return today.

At a meeting last night 3000 postal employees listened to violent harangues
from the labor leaders, who prophesied that grave events would happen
today in the direction of action by the outside unions. A resolution was adopted that the struggle be continued
to a finish.

Two other meetings under the auspices of organized union syndicates were characterized by revolutionary speeches, in which it was declared that "the workmen's 1793 is at hand."
One of the speakers, however, admitted that many unions were not yet ready to strike.

Addis Abeba, May 17.—Prince Lidj
Jeassu, aged 13 years, grandson of King Menelik and heir apparent to the throne, was married yesterday to daughter of the late Emperor John and niece of Empress Taitou.

The marriage is of great importance politically, as it unites the two dynasties and the families of powerful chiefs.

ON DANGEROUS CROSSING

Two Men and Horse Are Hurlled to Death by a Train

Clinton, Mass., May 17.—John Kelley and John Gibbons were instantly killed and the horse behind which they were driving was nearly cut in two when a locomotive struck their light carriage. The vehicle hung suspended from the cowcatcher,
but the men's bodies were thrown out
and to one side.

Kelley leaves a wife and three children. He was a weaver by trade and 35 years old. He and Gibbons, who was unmarried and 20 years old, had worked and chummed together for some time.

The men had hired the rig from a local livery stable and were on their way home from Sterling. Bingham crossing, where the accident occurred, has long been known as a dangerous section of thoroughfare.

HIP SING TONGS DINE

Dishes Foreign to Palates of Caucas-

New York, May 17.—Two hundred
members of the Hip Sing Tong, one of the strongest Chinese organizations
in this country, famous for its wars against rival Tong, dined in real Oriental fashion last night at Mon
Lay Won, a restaurant known as the Delmonico's of Chinatown.

The occasion was the annual gathering of the society. Everything was carried out in the most orthodox Chinese fashion. Among the delicacies served were sharks' fins, bird's nest
soup and rare sweets from the Orient,
washed down with rice wine.

By the customary pool among the members of the brigade of midshipmen
the wager was covered at once.

CELEBRATES HIS BIRTHDAY

President of Knockers' Club
Entertains at Dinner

The members of that well known dining club, called the Knockers' Club were the guests Saturday afternoon, of its President, Francis A.
Spear, who gave a dinner to them in honor of his birthday anniversary.
The dinner was served at Thompson's
City Square restaurant and was excellent in every way.

Aside from the members of the club
there were several guest among whom were Hon. E. Granville Pratt, associate justice of the district court of East Norfolk, John P. S. Churchill, clerk and Lawrence W. Lyons, assistant clerk, and William M. Marden, court officer of the district court.
Frank S. Patch and Charles C. Hearn
of the Spokane commission, Sergt.
Brovage of the Metropolitan police and Eugene W. O'Connor of the United States Custom house.

Mayor Shea occupied the seat of honor at the head of the table and the knockers were distributed between the honored guests.

Dinner was served a little after 2
o'clock the menu being printed on a unique card and was as follows:—

Broiled Live Chicken Lobster (Who is He?)
Roast Spring Chicken Parisienne Potatoes
(Pierce knows the kind) (Murphy variety)
Asparagus on Toast
(For the Spokane Commissioners)
Lettuce Tomatoes Cucumbers
(Fresh from Lazyhurst)
Strawberry Shortcake
(Finnegans is always short)
Ice Cream Cake
(Delicious) Gum Drops
(For the Chief)
Rougefort Cheese Toasted Crackers
(It speaks for itself)
Coffee

The dinner over, Mayor Shea rapped
for order and in a few words congratulated the President on having been able to withstand the many assaults that had been made upon his pocket book during the past year and that while he knew that he had been touched, the usual number of times,
that his bank account was still intact
and able to stand a few more touches.
In behalf of those present he wished the coming year to be one to hold much of pleasure for the host. He then in turn called upon each guest for a few remarks, and every one responded in his own feeble way.

"Gene" Connor, a life long friend
and one of Frank's boyhood chums told of some of the incidents in the early life of the host and of the things they used to do. He said that time however would not permit of his telling all he knew and perhaps it was best that he should not.

The two members of the Spokane commission had a word to say about how they proposed to act when they got to the convention, which they hoped they would be able to do. They thought that it was up to the Mayor,
who had honored them with the appointment to furnish the dough to pay the car fares with. They said they had some trouble in organizing for there was a contest as to who should be the chairman. Many ballots had been taken without the deadlock being broken, every ballot standing for one of Patch and one for Hearn.

Patch declared that he did not vote
for Hearn in his denial that he did not emphatic in his denial that he did not vote for Patch. The chairmanship is still hanging fire and unless settled
the trip will be declared off.

Judge Pratt told of his business relations with the President as probation officer and said that while they did not always agree they were both working toward the same end and were the best of friends.

Clerk Churchill told of his many years' association in a business way with the host. That they had yet to see a time when their accounts agreed. He always liked Frank for he was a good judge of tobacco and candy and that he usually kept a good supply of these luxuries on hand. He was never stingy about telling him to help himself. In fact he always helped himself whether told to or not.
Sergt. Brovage suggested forming a permanent organization. He would call it the "Spear" club. Members, he said could chew spearmint gum or they could be distinguished from those without the fold by the odor of spearmint a bottle of which they could carry in their pockets.

Assistant Clerk Lyons and Court
Officer Marden also told of their business relation with the host and that they were the best of friends and hoped that they would always be considered so, especially when he was giving a dinner.

Chief Pierce told of some of the fights he had with different ones at the court when he thought they were trying to do him. He promised that he would see to it that Mr. Hearn got pulled in the first time he ran his new automobile over ten miles an hour in Milton.

But why go on. Every speaker had a good word to say for the host and all wished him many happy returns of the day.
In closing Frank expressed the pleasure at having such a distinguished party with good appetites as his guests. He assured them that the pleasure was all his and that he would look carefully after the welfare of his new charge, which the clerk of the court had turned over to him.

A rising vote of thanks was then given the host and his health drank
with a glass of aqua pura.

PUBLIC LANDING.

Editors Daily Ledger:
One contention in the letter of Mr.
James M. Roberts relating to the proposed public landing at Bents
creek which appeared in your paper
May 15th impressed me as deserving serious consideration. If a public landing is to be established, let it be at an accessible point where there is sufficient depth of water without dredging. That means that it should not be established above the bridge.

BY SUBMARINE MINE

Means Used to Accomplish the Destruction of the Maine

Washington, May 17.—For the benefit of the Maine Memorial association, which purposes to erect in the national capital a suitable monument to the American sailors who met their death in the sinking of the battleship
Maine in Havana harbor on Feb. 15, 1898, Rear Admiral Sigsbee, retired,
who was in command of the ill-fated vessel at the time, gave an illustrated lecture here, describing the disaster.

Admiral Sigsbee said that on arriving at Havana the Maine was taken by the pilot to one of the buoys commonly reserved for war vessels. "It was widely supposed in the United States that the Maine was afterward shifted by the Spanish authorities to another buoy, but this was an error."

He also denied that the Maine entered Havana harbor in a militant condition. To bear out the contention of the court of inquiry that the Maine
was sunk by the explosion of a submarine mine, Sigsbee called attention to the parallel offered by the destruction by contact with a mine of the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk
during the Russian-Japanese war.

Poor Man Unexpectedly Gets Fortune
From a Grateful Woman

Pottstown, Pa., May 17.—Peter Penninger, a puddler helper at the Glasgow Iron company mills of this place, threw up his job, drew his pay, sold his personal belongings, and started for New York, where he says
he is to recover $30,000 bequeathed to him by a woman for saving the life of her daughter in the Philippines in 1907.

Penninger first received a letter from the woman's attorney, but paid
no attention to it. When telegram reached him Saturday he told his fellow workmen he would puddle iron no more, as he expected to enjoy his unexpected fortune.

IN VERITABLE
TORTURE CHAMBERS

Alleged Inhuman Treatment of Prisoners in Russia

St. Petersburg, May 17.—The socialists have introduced in the duma
an interpellation drawing a terrible indictment against the administration in the Russian prisons, which are described as veritable torture chambers,
seething with typhoid and scurvy.

It is declared, as an instance of the awful conditions, that the prison
at Yekaterinoslavl, which has been provided with accommodations for 250
prisoners, contains 1200 prisoners, 192 of whom are suffering from typhoid fever.

Prisoners in the fortress at Tiflis,
it is asserted, who venture to the windows for air, are shot without warning.

GREAT STRAWBERRY CROP

Delaware's Season Opens Today With Unusually Bright Prospects

Dover, Del., May 17.—The great strawberry season of 1909, which is expected to make some rich men out of poor farmers in Delaware, opened today. Never in the history of peninsula fruit growing have such luxurious berries hung from the vines.

From $750,000 to $1,000,000 is the estimate placed on the crop of Delaware's three counties alone. It is admitted, however, that the million dollar figure will only be realized in case good prices prevail throughout the season.

The $750,000 estimate allows an average of 3 1/2 cents a quart for the ripened fruit.

BRANDENBURG'S INTENTIONS

Set Forth In Statement Issued From Police Headquarters

BROUGHT ACROSS CONTINENT

Appears Anxious to Explain His Connection With Cleveland Letter, Marriage With Second Mrs. Brandenburg and Kidnapping of Young Cabanne—Declares That Immediate Future Is Going to Be Interesting

New York, May 17.—Broughton Brandenburg, the magazine writer, whose troubles quickly followed the publication of a letter in the New York Times last fall, purporting to have been written by the late Grover Cleveland, is a prisoner in New York. He was locked up at police headquarters last evening after being brought from San Francisco by detectives who were sent from the district attorney's office here to the coast after Brandenburg's arrest some weeks ago, following his disappearance from this city when he was wanted for trial.

Immediately after he reached police headquarters after his long trip, he gave out a statement, embodying not only an explanation of why he left New York, but a declaration of his intention of fixing the legality of his marriage with his second wife, an incident which indirectly added further interest to his career through his admitted abduction of his second wife's son, James L. Cabanne, 3d, of St. Louis, whom he carried away in true kidnapper style in a wicker basket.

The statement, which starts off with a reiteration of his lack of funds and his subsequent disappearance for the avowed purpose of obtaining money to conduct his defense, declares that "all the same, the immediate future is going to be interesting for all hands."

He says he is still without money and that he does not expect bail, and perhaps may be forced to do without counsel. Continuing, he sets forth his intentions as follows:

"First, to meet the charges in reference to the Cleveland letter.

"Second, to secure out of the bad tangle of this country's divorce laws in which we are involved an unquestioned legality of the marriage status between the second Mrs. Brandenburg and myself."

"Third, the ultimate recovery of our boy."

In conclusion he said that he had been quoted as "charging various persons with a share in certain conspiracies, notably District Attorney Jerome." These statements he denied.

The Cabanne boy was taken back to St. Louis from San Francisco.

Rutland, Mass., May 17.—Half a dozen armed deputies, reinforced by townspeople, took part in a search after five prisoners who escaped from the hospital department of the Massachusetts prison camp here Saturday night, but no trace of the men, all of whom were garbed in the prison uniforms of gray, was found.

The men who escaped were all serving sentences for larceny and were temporarily inmates of the hospital. They made their escape by sawing window bars.

NERVY BANDITS IN FAR WEST

Six Take Possession of Great Northern Passenger Train

DARING JOB WELL EXECUTED

Engine and Mail Car Cut Off, Registered Mail Rifled, and Detached Rolling Stock Sent Back Wild to Crash Into Coaches—Trainmen Perform Some Quick Work and Prevent Serious Disaster

Spokane, Wash., May 17.—After the hold-up of a Great Northern passenger train by six bandits between Colbert and Mead, twelve persons were injured when the locomotive and the mail car, cut off from the rest of the train, ran back wild after the bandits had rifled the mail of an unknown amount, and collided with the rest of the train which had been left standing where the bandits got possession.

When the train reached Colbert late at night, some switching had to be done. While the engine crew was busy at this work two men sprang into the cab and, thrusting revolvers against the bodies of Engineer Miller and Fireman Fall, ordered them to do as commanded. The engineer and fireman complied and the mail car was cut off from the rest of the train by four other robbers.

The locomotive and the mail car were then run up the track a few miles. Next the engineer and his fireman were forced to leave the cab. Two of the robbers went to the door of the mail car and ordered it opened. Their command was obeyed by B. F. Stumpf, mail clerk, who was hurried away from the cars with the engine-men by a dozen revolver shots. Manning the locomotive themselves the outlaws took the mail car down the track and stole the registered mail. Then they started the locomotive back toward the rest of the train and escaped.

Conductor Robertson had a brake-man cut in the telegraph wire to send word to Spokane. While he was busy telegraphing, about a half hour after the locomotive and the mail car had disappeared, he saw the powerful locomotive careening toward the coaches in which many persons were asleep, for the robbers had acted quietly in seizing the mail car. Many of the passengers knew nothing of the hold-up until awakened by the collision, which was only eased by the quick work of the trainmen.

As soon as Robertson realized that a collision was imminent he called on the brakemen and porters to aid him. While the conductor and another man threw a tie across the track, a brakeman stood ready to board the cab as soon as the shock of the collision checked the impetus of the wild locomotive. The mail car was partly derailed by the tie and the wheels plowed into the ballast, while the steam impelled the locomotive wheels to whirl on the rails. The brakeman was instantly in the cab, where he seized the throttle and shut off the steam and applied the brakes. Passengers rushed out to ascertain the cause of the shock. None was fatally hurt.

Two special trainloads of deputies were hurried from Spokane when the word of the hold-up was received and doctors were taken along to care for the injured. No trace of the robbers was found.

While it is reported that the bandits obtained a large sum of money from the registered mail, railroad officers and mail inspectors say the amount stolen is not known. One of the bandits who entered the cab was more than six feet tall and evidently was an experienced engineer.

T. N. Wilson and wife of Spokane were the most seriously injured of the passengers. He suffered a fracture of two ribs and Mrs. Wilson was severely bruised.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

TAKING A CHANCE.

Try your luck at anything
That may come along
Never know until you try
If your guess is wrong,
Dip in lightly here and there
Till you turn a trick.
When you've found the paying vein
Stick, stick, stick.

Nothing gained by staying close
In your little rut
Dragging out a living with Door to progress shut.
Keep the pot a-bubbling, but
Have your weather eye
Like a searchlight running down
Things for you to try.

Moss upon a rolling stone
Maybe doesn't freeze.
While the man who sits around
In a life of ease
May collect a lot of trash.
Though it's mostly trash.
Not the kind the banker man
Would exchange for cash.

In stagnation there is death.
Truly that's the case.
If a dead one you would be,
Never shift your base.
If you want to be alive,
With the leaders found,
Try your luck at anything
That may happen round.

Caught in the Act.

OH! HELLO—
I JUST WANT
TO LOOK AT THE FURNACE

Don't be suspicious. Frank simplicity is so much more becoming and is more apt to take people off guard.

They Were Timid.

"Did you let that man pay our fares, Maude?"

"Yes, I did, Ethel."

"Why did you?"

"Well, he said none but the brave should pay the fare, and I couldn't accuse him of cowardice, could I?"

Had Another Disease.

"I hear Johnson is sick."

"Yes; he is in charge of a trained nurse."

"How is he getting along?"

"Oh, I think he is engaged."

To Fool Them.

"Women should be made to cease getting out of the cars backward."

"Still, I know an easier way."

"What's that?"

"Turn the cars inside out."

See the Owner.

"They have found the missing link."

"Whereabouts?"

"In a cave."

"Any reward out for it?"

No Obstacle.

"I shall go right home to my mother."

"Do you mean it?"

"I do."

"Here is car fare."

Making a Choice.

"Would you prefer to be a live dog or a dead lion?"

"Depends whose dog and how dead I was."

And Cold.

"Are your terms hard?"

"Rather."

"What are they?"

"Cash."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The sorrows of others are light-weights compared to our own. That's why we bear other people's so jauntily.

The man who goes about pitying himself should hire a pugilist to give him cause.

A fair sprinkling of contented people makes a rain of harmony.

Eating soup with a fork is a most exasperating way of doing nothing.

Probably the reason men find it hard to understand women is because they cannot speak the language.

The freer a man is with his money the more open to suspicion he is that he came by it free.

There are people who mind their own business and don't seem to mind it at all.

There are some men so queer that they would rather be married than happy and contented.

MORAL SUPPORT OF AMERICANS

Sought by the Leading Figure in Ottoman Affairs

MUCH DEPENDS ON SCHEFKET

Has Authority Over Military and Civil Affairs, but Disclaims Being Dictator—Has Amazed Foreigners by His Display of Skill During Trying Period—Punishment Promised For Disturbances in Adana Province

Constantinople, May 17.—Mamoud Scheffket Pasha, commander of the Turkish Constitutional forces, both land and sea, is the man most frequently in the thought of those observing or dealing with the confused politics of the day in Turkey. He is the one quiet figure upon whom rests the preservation of order, and the civil branches of the government look to him to impose their liberal rule upon the empire and to deal promptly with persons or factions dangerous to the state.

The skill and ability with which Scheffket brought the Third army corps and part of the second army corps before Constantinople and occupied the capital has amazed the foreign military men here. Besides those attached to the embassies, seven officers came from Germany and five British officers from Egypt to observe the development of the campaign. They have not ceased to discuss the details of the "Constitutionalist" commander's arrangements.

General Scheffket has been something of a man of mystery, which impression he has been taking trouble in recent days to remove. He has called in succession during the past week upon every ambassador and minister in Constantinople and upon those Turkish subjects holding high positions, such as the Greek patriarch and the Armenian bishop, representing the vacant patriarchate.

He has talked modestly upon political affairs and the relation of the army to the government, possibly with the idea of checking the spreading notion that he is virtually dictator and that he and parliament are near to a rupture. Speaking on this subject Scheffket said:

"The army is merely an instrument of civil power. The army, and I as an officer in it, derive our authority to establish order from the national assembly. The army is a finger of parliament only and works under the will of the cabinet."

The disorders in Adana province, Scheffket said, were in process of solution. The court martial there could be trusted to make a thorough investigation and provide adequate punishment for the guilty. The agitation in the Fourth army corps at the headquarters at Erzerum had ceased, most of the mutineers and deserters having been arrested. In conclusion, Scheffket said:

"We desire very much to have the good will, sympathy and moral support of the Americans in the present movement toward better government."

General Scheffket's whole day after 9 o'clock in the morning is allotted to military business. He is a tall, wide-shouldered, thin Arab of Baghdad, with some Georgian blood. He is a man of extreme composure, only his eyes shine like those of an enthusiast.

"Some of the members of the committee," said Rauf Bey, one of the three who represented the Young Turks' committee in the navy, "before the advance on Constantinople doubted whether General Scheffket was the man for the work ahead. He was so still, so tranquil, so silent; but what a man he is; what energy; what intellect; what disinterested motives! To him the cause is everything; he thinks nothing of himself."

Another Harem Exodus
Constantinople, May 17.—Eighty women from Abdul Hamid's harem, richly dressed and veiled, were driven in carriages yesterday, under the escort of four eunuchs and a troop of cavalry, from the Yildiz to the ancient Seraglio palace, which has been unoccupied since about 1824.

Fatal Auto Accident
Woonsocket, R. I., May 17.—Stanley G. Smith, a manufacturer and banker of this city, was killed, and Austin Cook, president of the Woonsocket Institution for Savings, was injured by the overturning of an automobile in which they were riding. Smith was thrown from the machine to a pile of rocks. Cook's injuries consist of a sprained wrist and bruises.

Flywheel Creates Havoc

North Adams, Mass., May 17.—The bursting of a flywheel at the plant of the North Adams Gas and Electric Light company injured Engineer Streeter severely, tore an opening through the floor and through the roof of the building and seriously crippled the electric service. It is believed that Streeter will recover.

Hole in Steamer's Bow
Block Island, R. I., May 17.—Whaleback steamer Bay City, towing large Britannia, went ashore in a thick fog on South West Point. The steamer stove a hole in her bow and is full of water.

ADMIRABLE WORK.

What the Wisconsin Utilities Commission Has Done.

It Has Eliminated Politics, Feuds Between Corporations and Citizens and Discrimination in Rates—It Has Established Business Methods of Operation and Is Protecting Both the Consumer and the Investor.

By DR. B. H. MEYER, president of the railroad commission of Wisconsin.
The Wisconsin legislation has taken the utilities as well as the railroads out of politics. I do not believe that many citizens can be found in the state of Wisconsin who would seriously claim that in either the primary campaign or in the campaign preceding the present November elections the utilities as such had entered into politics. All students of municipal affairs will know that in this elimination of politics from the management of utilities we have removed one of the greatest and most persistent sources of corruption and bad government.

The utilities law tends to eliminate feuds between the citizens and the management of public and private plants. The law assures to all communities good service at reasonable rates. This is placed within the reach of all impartially, whether the commission advances or lowers the rate. The basis of its findings is published in every instance. These published facts should suffice to convince and I believe do convince the average citizen of the reasonableness and justice of the decision, if it is reasonable and just, and whether he likes it or not, he must abide by that decision. In this respect cases affecting utilities are quite different from the most of the cases affecting railroads. In the case of utilities the controversy frequently degenerates into a bitter and partisan feud, affecting the entire population, which blinds both sides to a proper comprehension of the facts and to a sense of justice. Proceedings before the commission tend to clarify and educate public opinion.

The public utilities law raises the standard of morality through the eradication of the evil of discrimination and the protection of a reasonable rate. To those who are quite familiar with the past evils of discrimination in railway rates the extent of the discrimination in the rates in service utilities may be almost beyond comprehension. The whole state of Wisconsin was literally streaked and plastered with discriminations in the rates of utilities, and in all the rest of the country where the extent of such discriminations have not yet been determined, as they have been in Wisconsin. It is quite probable that discriminations similar in character and extent likewise exist. All rates, rules and regulations in effect in the state are on file with the commission, and these are the only rates and regulations which can be lawfully enforced and collected. Free and reduced rate service has been absolutely prohibited. Thousands of individuals had been receiving free and reduced rate service, and eradication of all such rates can not help but serve as a moral tonic and raise the level of public and private morality within the state as a whole. For thirty-two of the reporting telephone companies eight of every hundred subscribers received free or reduced rate service. The process of equalization of rates had been going on for over a year. Consequently the actual extent of the unjust discrimination was doubtless very much greater at the time of the enactment of the law. I have every reason to believe that in every other state of the Union these discriminations still flourish at the expense of subscribers who pay the full rate. Similar discriminations exist in other classes of utilities.

The utilities law is working a revolution in business management. While some managements are doubtless models from a business point of view, they are not the general rule. Many of the utilities companies have not been operated on a business basis. In fact, it is probable that a good many of the managements did not have the remotest idea as to the exact standing from a business point of view of the plant they were operating. Uniform accounting, rules governing the service and the regulation of rates compel the adoption of business and scientific methods which are resulting in nothing short of a revolution in management.

All of the effects of the law, taken collectively, are bound to place investments in public utility enterprises on a more stable foundation. The law works both ways. On the one hand it protects the consumer against unjust and unreasonable rates and poor service, and on the other it protects the investor in his claim to a reasonable rate on the property which is devoted to public use. This legislation will probably remove public utility investments very greatly, if not entirely, from the field of speculation and place them in the class of conservative, certain and stable investments.

Hardly a Square Deal.
The Pittsburg board of trade has taken up the system of municipal water rates with a view of having them altered so that present injustices will be corrected. An instance was given of a mill having a single hydrant for drinking water and obtaining all the water used for mechanical purposes from its own wells, which was charged at $4,000 per year for the city service. One property owner declared that four of his warehouses in the downtown district were vacant, owing to excessive charges for water—Public Service.

THE SATURDAY BASE BALL GAME

New Quincy Team Wins Its Opening Game at Rockport

The Quincy team of the Old Colony league opened its exhibition season Saturday at Rockport defeating the strong North Shore team 7 to 1. "Sid" Patterson was on the slab for the Quincy team and showed some of his old-time form. He held the Rockport sluggers to five hits, struck out six and only passed one, which some class for the first game.

Blatchford the Rockport box artist was hit hard, although he fanned 11 men. Ten hits was the total gathered by the Quincy boys Courtney leading the team with three, a triple and two singles. Lou played a swell game in the short field covering all kinds of ground. Here is a find all right. Spiller, Donahue and Fallon each got two hits, one of Fallon's being a two-bagger with two men on bases.

George Fallon, last year with Quincy Independents got a trial yesterday in the outfield and certainly made good. He is booked for one of the outfield positions in the opening league May 30, at the South Quincy park. "Billy" Duggan last year with the Deweys of Weymouth, had an off day Saturday. He didn't get a single chance in the outfield, but as usual managed to score a run, even though he didn't get a hit. Nowell and Dunbar excelled for Rockport. The score:

For Bigelow Sweeney, Costello, and Coyle excelled, while T. Galvin, Gustafson and Coffin played best for Cranch. The score:

Makaria made it five straight Saturday by defeating the strong Baraca team Dorchester 9 to 0. Only three hits were gathered off Michael's delivery, while Makaria got twelve. LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Officer Murray Was Johnny on the Spot and Prevented Any Damage.

A lively runaway occurred this morning in Quincy Square, causing quite a little excitement, but doing no harm other than scraping the paint of the carriage. The horse which was owned by Marshall L. Abbott, was standing on Saville street and to insure safety a weight had been attached.

For some reason or other the horse became frightened and started to run. He was headed towards the railroad station, but whirled about suddenly and dashed into the square.

Directly at Thompson's cafe two cars were standing, there being a space between them just wide enough for the horse to go through. The animal after taking a turn about the square headed for this space.

Officer "Jim" Murray was standing on the curb at the time and when the horse started to plunge between the cars Jim nailed him. It was all over in a few minutes for Jim is experienced with horses and soon had the frightened steed under control. It was lucky that no one got hurt, because the iron weight attached to the horse was swinging around in a great way.

MIDNIGHT SESSION OF CITY COUNCIL

Unsuccessful Attempt to Grant Additional Liquor Permits.

Monday night's meeting of the City Council will probably go down in history as the longest meeting this body has ever held. The meeting was in session from 7.35 until 12.35 or five solid hours and special cars had to be provided to take the councilmen home.

It might well be called public hearing night for there were several scheduled and held. The first was at 7.45 on petitions of the Electric Light Co. for a location for poles and was followed at 8 o'clock, 9 o'clock and 9.15 o'clock by hearings on accepting new streets under the act authorizing the assessment of betterments, on a public landing place at Bents creek and on a petition for a license to keep and sell gasoline.

Another matter that caused quite a discussion and which took considerable time of the Council was that of granting permits to transport liquor. The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the petitions but Councilman Walsh offered a minority report which sought to grant several permits. In addition to this other members of the council tried to have orders adopted granting still other permits.

Several of those to whom efforts were made to grant permits are not now in the express business according to the committee but would go into the business if they were successful in getting a permit. Not one order however got through.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The City Auditor forwarded a detailed schedule of abatements on water rates as requested. The schedule gave the name and amounts abated as well as the reason for the abatement. Referred to Committee on Water Supply.

NEW ORDER NECESSARY.

A communication was received from the Mayor inclosing a letter from Story & Thorndike in regard to the order appropriating $2,300 for a portable stone crusher. The letter states the reason that the loan can not be made because the order was amended by adding the loan clause and passed at the same meeting which does not, in their opinion comply with the charter, which provides that at least three days shall intervene in the readings of an order appropriating money. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered a new order for $2,300 which was ordered to a second reading.

FIRE ALARM BOXES.

A communication was received from the Mayor stating that orders had been referred to his department for fire alarm boxes and police boxes and that he had no funds available to install the same. He recommends that an appropriation of $750 be made to install the two police boxes and four fire alarm boxes. Laid on table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order appropriating that amount charging the same to the Excess and Deficiency Fund.

A communication was received from the Mayor appointing Edward J. Murphy as inspector of milk in place of Dr. Ross K. Whiton resigned. Placed on file.

A communication was received from the Mayor relative to the sale of the old Quincy school building. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Bryant offered an order authorizing the Mayor to sell the building at public auction. Order adopted.

A communication was received from the School Committee requesting that the Lincoln school be put in thorough repair. Referred to Committee on Public Buildings.

Councilman Gardner presented a petition of Boynton & Russell for permit to transport liquor. The rules were suspended the petition received and referred to the Committee on Licenses.

Councilman Whiton presented a petition of the Houghs Neck Associates for pool table and bowling alley license. Laid on the table until later when the license was granted.

Petitions were received from the Telephone Co., for location for poles and attachments and was referred to the Committee on Streets.

PUBLIC HEARINGS.

A public hearing was held on petition of the Electric Light Co., for location of poles.

NEW STREETS.

A public hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the acceptance of new streets under the betterment act. The streets named in the order were Broadway, Richie road, Curtis avenue, Murdock avenue, East Elm avenue, Quarry street extension, Everett street, Buckley street and Franklin avenue.

Miss Mabel E. Adams as trustee of property abutting Richie road objected to laying out under the betterment act. It would be a hardship to have and how many people can you accommodate? The number of people who would use Bents creek was confined to that one locality. He could see no reason for putting a landing on a mud flat when there were many places where there was water at all times. He was not aware that anyone had been refused a landing at the Fore River docks. There was an excellent opportunity for a landing opposite the berth of the North Dakota also at Hayward's creek.

A. C. Bishop and L. S. Cleaves favored accepting East Elm avenue and would not object to assessment of betterments.

James F. Burke opposed accepting Quarry street extension under the betterment act. It was no more than right that the city should build that street.

Peter T. Fallon, R. J. Teasdale and J. E. Halligan favored accepting the street but objected to assessing betterments.

Mr. Hilderbrand and Mr. Gardino favored accepting Everett street.

E. J. Sandberg, August Williams and Frank Finel favored accepting Buckley street.

Mr. Langellier and Mr. Wetmore favored Franklin avenue but not under the betterment act.

The hearing then closed and the orders were recommended.

PUBLIC LANDING.

The hearing on a public landing at the head of Bents creek was held at 9 o'clock.

Paul R. Blackmur appeared in favor. The Fore River Co., in filling in the creek near the basin had cut off access to navigable water. They had also built a fence across the land. The petition calls for the taking of 1100 feet so that the people can get across to Bents creek. It had been used for many years as a means to get into the bay with boats.

It was a local question Quincy ought to have half a dozen such places. The Fore River Co., had no right to fill in the creek. By all means take what land is needed in different sections and defer the expending of money until some future time.

Mr. Blackmur was asked a number of questions as to who owned land at the head of the creek.

Arthur W. Newcomb favored. There had always been a place there for boats. He had often seen them there. It was a natural location for a public landing. It was so used until the Fore River Co. filled it last year. Now they have built a fence. He would be satisfied if the city would seize the land from a grasping hand.

When the creek was being filled last year he had called the Mayor's attention to it but he had refused to act.

QUINCY ADAMS

Mayor Shea jumped to his feet and asked, Did you not come to my office and ask me to put the City Solicitor onto it?

Mr. Newcomb. Yes.

Mayor Shea. Did I not tell you that was a matter for the Harbor and Land Commissioners?

Mr. Newcomb. Yes.

G. W. Sargent said there was over 22 launches and row boats that had used this place last year.

C. Frank Randall said the tendency of the Fore River Co. was to grab everything away from the people. Webster Newcomb said the company had now filled in so it was not possible to keep a sail boat. All we ask is to take land that has been there for years.

F. F. Crane appeared for the Board of Trade in opposition. After investigation he found that the Fore River had a piece of land on both sides and that they owned seven-eighths of the bottom of the creek. If their company used their rights the stream would be too narrow for use. If the city wants public landings they should be in some accessible place. There was no water here at low tide. He thought Hayward's creek eighty per cent superior to this and much safer for children.

H. G. Smith said there were two or three things to be considered in a public landing. How many can you have and how many people can you accommodate? The number of people who would use Bents creek was confined to that one locality. He could see no reason for putting a landing on a mud flat when there were many places where there was water at all times. He was not aware that anyone had been refused a landing at the Fore River docks. There was an excellent opportunity for a landing opposite the berth of the North Dakota also at Hayward's creek.

J. A. Sedgwick said the Fore River Co. and one other party owned a clear title deed to all the land from the Shoot corner to the stone wall beyond the store. It would therefore be necessary to condemn the land if wanted and pay for it. There was an insufficient depth of water and insufficient place to store boats without entering on private property. It was not suitable for public landing as one should be near the trolley line. To his knowledge no one had been refused landing on the Fore River property. This agitation is because of the filling in of private land.

A Mr. Roberts said he was the owner of the piece of land in dispute opposite the Fore River. It would be very inconvenient to him to have a public landing there. Such a landing should be where boats can get out at any time.

Mr. Blackmur requested permission to speak again and said that the Fore River Co. had no right to close that stream.

The hearing then closed and the order was recommended.

There was also a hearing on petition of S. Scammell & Sons to keep and sell gasoline.

Councilman McDevitt moved when Council adjourned it be until next Monday. Motion lost.

NEW NOZZLES FOR SALEM TURBINE

Scout Cruiser to Remain in Quincy Three Weeks More

It will probably be three weeks more before the Scout Cruiser Salem will be ready to leave the Fore River yards.

The original repairs contemplated to the turbine have been practically completed. The government, however, has ordered the nozzle on the turbines changed to the new improved pattern such as are being used on the North Dakota.

Under the old style, when a nozzle wore out, or needed replacing it was necessary to send the vessel to the navy yard and knock her engines down in order to put on new ones.

Under the new improved pattern, however, the old nozzle can be taken off and a new one put on inside of ten minutes.

This change of style of nozzle, however, will have nothing to do with the speed of the cruiser.

The change was authorized Saturday by the government and the Fore River people say three weeks will be required to make the change the expense of which will be borne by the government.

ELIMINATED FROM MYSTERY

But Providence Police Seek the Detention of Missing Barber

ADMIRER OF MISS REGISTER

Strong Desire of Authorities to Question Him, Although It Is Said He Could Not Have Been Near Scene of Strangling—Theories of Robbery and Jealousy as a Motive Appear to Have Been Abandoned

Providence, May 18.—Although the police sent out notices broadcast over the eastern states yesterday, asking for the detention of the Auburn barber who has been missing since the day before the murder of Miss Laura Register, detectives at work on the case assert that the barber has been entirely eliminated from the mystery.

This announcement followed a visit by an inspector to Rehoboth, Mass., where confirmation was obtained of the report that the missing barber was seen by several people who knew him on a trolley car near Taunton, Mass., on May 10, the night of the murder. This is considered as establishing an alibi for the man, as it would have been impossible for him to have been near the scene of the crime at any time Monday night.

That the police have not yet been able to locate the barber for an interview as to his acquaintance with the slain girl has aroused some surprise. He is said to have been an admirer of Miss Register, and to have been a caller at her home before her engagement to Charles Douglass was announced. Then his visits ceased.

The police have expressed a desire to question him, as they have questioned all the young woman's admirers, with a view to getting some possible new light on the mystery. The notices sent out yesterday are headed: "Detain This Man." They give his name as Clarence G. Chase, age 35 years, height 5 ft., 5 inches and weight 160 pounds. His complexion is light, eyes gray, hair bushy and sandy; usually smooth shaven; dressed in black clothes, with black derby hat.

Thus far no motive for the murder of Miss Register has been definitely found. The theory of robbery has been abandoned and that of jealousy also seems to have been eliminated. The aged father of the strangled woman called on the chief of police yesterday and asserted the belief that a crank killed his daughter. At his request a plain clothes man was sent to protect his home.

INSURANCE IS VOID

Decision in Case of Man Killed in Duel of His Own Seeking

New Orleans, May 18.—A widow or the heirs of a man killed in a duel or a fight that he sought, according to a decision by the United States court of appeals, cannot collect insurance of a policy held by the man killed.

The husband of the plaintiff, Dr. Franklin B. Maner, of Hill county, Tex., was shot and killed in a street duel by E. E. Griffin. The Penn Mutual Life Insurance company contended that the duel was precipitated by Maner and on this ground fought the case. The amount of insurance involved was $100,000.

The decision of the lower court was in favor of the insurance company and this decision was sustained by the court of appeals.

The constant aching gave me so much trouble that my nervous system became all unstrung and I had about despaired of ever getting anything that would cure me when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. UNJUST SYSTEM OF TAXATION.

The threatened removal from the State of certain large industries on account of the Massachusetts system of taxation, has been disclosed in letters received by the Merchants Association recently. The members of the taxation committee of the Association declare that this is one of the chief arguments for the passage of the amendment to the Constitution, now before the Senate, giving the Legislature power to classify property for purposes of taxation. One of these letters, from a large company manufacturing steamfittings, says:

"We believe that the taxation of machinery and merchandise of manufacturers as conducted at the present time by the State of Mass. is detrimental to the best interests of the state, as the amount of taxes which manufacturing concerns are obliged to pay in this way increase the burden of expense and make it much harder to compete with manufacturers in other states and communities where taxes of this sort amount to practically nothing. In addition to this, we are obliged to pay more for our coal and other material and it would seem advisable that something be done to remedy the existing laws so that manufacturers can be relieved of this burden to at least a reasonable extent. We believe that a change of this sort would be for the best interests of the state, as the object should be to keep concerns within the state rather than to oblige them to go to other sections due to just such reasons as this."

Another from the treasurer of a company in the western part of the State which manufactures machinery says:

"For twenty years I have used every opportunity I could to bring about a reform in our tax laws which I think are detrimental to the state and the people, being unjust and foolish. If the law could be changed so that money earned in other states by the use of money belonging to citizens of this state could be brought here without being taxed I believe it would be the greatest thing for this state which could be devised."

Massachusetts manufacturers constantly receive circulars from the South and West, offering as inducements a low tax rate, a low valuation of real estate and virtual exemption of machinery and stock in trade.

A Memorial to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in the matter of proposed increases in the taxation of manufacturing and other corporations, March 26, 1909, says:

"The exemption of manufacturing enterprises has been the making of Pennsylvania. In 1900, this state contained more manufacturing machinery tools and implements than any other state in the Union—$6,361,469 more than New York. In 1904, this lead over New York has been increased to $29,170,925 (see pages 36-37 of Special Report of the U. S. Census office on Wealth Debt and Taxation). In January, 1907, the Mayor's Advisory Committee on Taxation and Finance of the city of New York, acknowledged that Pennsylvania is increasing its capital and products faster than New York" ascribing as a reason the fact that Pennsylvania "has never taxed the goods or other personal property of manufacturers."

Another Memorial to the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, February 27, 1909, says:

"Manufacturing is the means of livelihood of a large portion of the people of this Commonwealth. Our supremacy as a manufacturing state is unquestioned, and it is generally conceded that the attainment of this supremacy has, in no small degree been due to the wise policy of our tax laws. It has hitherto been the policy of Pennsylvania to exempt from taxation so much of capital stock of manufacturing corporations as is exclusively employed in manufacturing. Manufacturing companies have thus been attracted to the state. They have brought in much movable capital and kept it employed here, increasing the value of real estate. They have come and grown and prospered here, because their helpfulness to the Commonwealth has been more appreciated by our laws than by the laws of other states in which they might have settled or to which their business might be attractive."

LEPERS BEG IN PUBLIC

Doctor Reports Alarming State of Affairs in Porto Rico

New York, May 18.—What is said to be alarming laxity on the part of the Porto Rican government in the care and control of persons suffering with leprosy will be brought to the official attention of the United States government by Dr. Edward Ehlers, one of a party of four European experts who have been studying various diseases prevalent in the West Indies. He has just arrived in New York from Ponce.

Dr. Ehlers said that under present conditions in Porto Rico it is possible for many lepers to emigrate and carry the disease into the United States.

"In the city of Ponce," he said, "I found leprosy very prevalent. Two men in an advanced stage of the disease I observed begging in the market place. Something should be done speedily to obtain a better surveillance of suspects and a prompt and more thorough isolation of cases as soon as detected."

CONSPIRACY AND LARCENY

Two Men Charged With Graft in Boston Are Convicted

Boston, May 18.—Leo F. McCullough, former president of the common council, and Attorney James T. Cass were yesterday declared guilty on charges of larceny and conspiracy in connection with the buying of $200 worth of law books, ostensibly for the council chamber.

At a late hour last night McCullough was still in the Charles street jail, being unable to furnish bail of $3500. Cassidy was held under $1500 bonds which he furnished early in the day.

The bail in each case was raised $500. Friends of McCullough tried to raise the necessary sureties, but were unsuccessful.

The conviction of McCullough and Cassidy marks the first of the so-called city graft cases to end other than satisfactory for the defendants, and as a result a score or more of men involved in pending cases, and many more, were thrown into a state of excitement.

GOVERNOR VETOES EIGHT-HOUR BILL

Draper Deems Measure Improper and Unconstitutional

Boston, May 18.—Governor Draper's veto message on the eight-hour public employe bill was read in the lower branch Monday afternoon. At the outset he declares that the very title of the bill is a misnomer, because it is already law that a day's work for "public employes" shall be eight hours.

"The substitution for the words 'shall be requested or required' in the present law, of the phrase 'required or permit,' Draper regards as 'drastic,' 'needless' and 'an unwarrantable interference with the right of the working man to work more than eight hours a day if he so desires.'"

He regards the penalty of a maximum fine of $1000, or a maximum imprisonment of six months, or both such fine and imprisonment for each offense, as "altogether too drastic."

Section 5, the prima facie evidence section, he says, is "absolutely unjust and improper, if not entirely unconstitutional."

The absence of any saving clause concerning contracts made prior to the passage of the act makes the bill unconstitutional.

In conclusion he says the act would drive much business now done in Massachusetts into other states.

AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Author George Meredith Passes Away at a Ripe Old Age

London, May 18.—George Meredith, the novelist, died here this morning. He was out for his daily drive Saturday morning and seemed then to be in his usual health. A keen east wind was blowing, and it gave him a chill. He returned home in a state of collapse, from which he failed to rally.

Meredith was born in Hampshire in 1828. He was educated partly in Germany and was brought up to the law, which he quitted for literature. His first poems appeared in 1851 and were followed in rapid succession by various novels and additional poems and ballads.

MRS. TAFT BREAKS DOWN

She Is Hurried Back to White House From a Pleasure Trip

Washington, May 18.—Mrs. Taft is suffering from a slight nervous breakdown. She was taken ill while on her way from this city to Mount Vernon on the yacht Sylph with a party of friends and was hurried back to the White House.

It is said at the White House that there is no cause for alarm and that Mrs. Taft will probably be well again in a few days. She was unable to be present at an official dinner at the White House last night.

EIGHT YEARS IN SING SING

Minimum Period of Imprisonment Imposed Upon Hains

COUNSEL YIELDS TO TRANSFER

Justice Garretson Has Something to Say About "Unwritten Law," Which He Declares Is Abhorrent to All Right Thinking Men—Maximum Sentence of Sixteen Years May Be Commuted Under Certain Conditions

Flushing, N. Y., May 18.—Unless some unlooked for legal obstacle is interposed, Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., U. S. A., who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for killing William E. Annis at the Bay-side Yacht club last August, will be taken to Sing Sing today and will at once begin serving the sentence imposed Monday by Justice Garretson in the supreme court. The sentence is an indeterminate one, under which the minimum period of imprisonment will be eight years and the maximum sixteen years. His time in prison must be spent at hard labor.

JUDGE GARRETSON. Counsel for Hains practically yielded to his immediate transfer from the Queens county jail to Sing Sing, when they announced that no application would be made for a certificate of reasonable doubt as a stay of execution. An appeal, based on the general court record in the case, will be taken in regular course, however. Upon learning the decision of counsel, the sheriff of Queens county said that he would take his prisoner to Sing Sing within twenty-four hours.

In passing sentence, Justice Garretson said that the defendant had a fair trial and had been defended by experienced lawyers, and a jury found a verdict commensurate with the requirements of the law. Of the "unwritten law," Garretson spoke as follows: "That any person may assume to be judge and executioner for a real or fancied wrong done to him by another, society cannot approve and the law does not sanction. Such a doctrine is abhorrent to all right-thinking men and the practice of it is subversive of modern civilization. In this case the law of the state has been vindicated and the claim to a right to mete out personal vengeance has been again condemned. Further comment is needless."

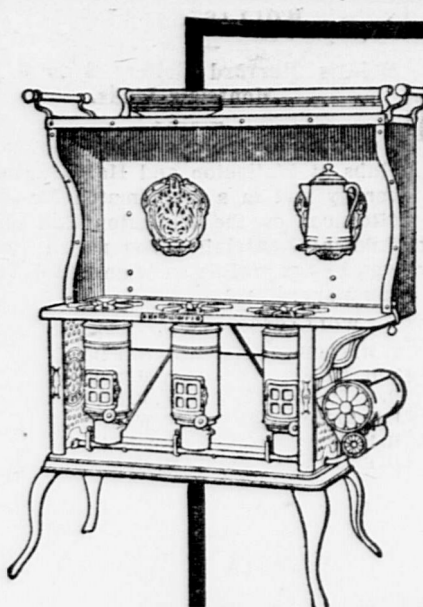

During his imprisonment the conduct of Hains will be observed by the prison officials, and at the expiration of eight years the parole board, composed of prison officials, may recommend to the governor that his sentence be commuted to less than the maximum of sixteen years. The final action rests with the governor.

SEIZED BY GOVERNMENT

Marshal Takes Possession of Lumber Plants in Oklahoma
Oklahoma City, Okla., May 18.—A deputy United States marshal seized 5,000,000 feet of lumber, six sawmills and other property of the Pine Hill and Walker-Hopkins Lumber companies and other small concerns. The deputy acted in accordance with writs issued by the United States district court after an investigation by a special agent of the department of the interior relating to conditions in the timber reservation of the Choctaw nation.

The investigation was caused by charges of unlawful cutting of timber on the reservation. Disappeared From Sanitarium Melrose, Mass., May 18.—The city and metropolitan police are hunting for Percy A. Hutchinson, Ph. D., instructor in English in Harvard university, who disappeared from a sanitarium here, leaving a note saying that he was going to commit suicide. Hutchinson had been at the sanitarium several months, undergoing treatment for a nervous disorder.

FIGHTING THEIR "METHODS"

Manufacturers Not Against Labor Organizations by Themselves

New York, May 18.—An attack on "the methods of organized labor" marked the first day's session of the National Association of Manufacturers, which convened here. This arraignment of certain phases of labor unions, including a fling at Samuel Gompers, was embodied in a report of the committee on industrial education, of which Anthony Iltner is chairman.

The attitude of the delegates was made clear when the motion to refer the report to a special committee was made. Then Iltner offered a suggestion "that the committee to which the report is to be referred have the power to emasculate anything in the report that might appear to the members as improper or as an unfair attack upon labor." He added: "We do not fight the labor organizations by themselves; we consider them beneficial, but we fight the methods of organized labor—and some of them are damnable."

His statements were followed by applause and the motion was adopted.

BAN ON SUNDAY SHOWS

McClellan to Close Sunday Lid Tight at Coney Island

New York, May 18.—Gay, carefree Coney Island, where Sunday frivolity exceeds the combined frivolity of the other six days of the week, is in gloom. An order went forth from Mayor McClellan that hereafter shows may be in operation at the resort six days in the week, but no more.

Strict orders have been issued also calling for an enforcement of the excise laws. Heretofore beer has flowed more freely at Coney Island on Sunday than on week days.

As a preliminary to the regulations to come all shows requiring performers in costume were closed Sunday. This caused consternation, but the mayor's later action brought an outburst of wrath and the appointment of a committee to confer with the mayor.

GRIEVE APOLOGIZES AND PAYS FOR SUIT

Premier of Newfoundland Withdraws Proceedings

St. John's, May 18.—An apology having been made, Premier Morris has withdrawn the proceedings which he instituted against Walter B. Grieve, a merchant and shipowner of this city, who was arrested last month on a charge of criminally libelling him.

Premier Morris alleged that during the election campaign Grieve wrote a letter in which the merchant claimed that Morris was in the pay of the Canadian government and was secretly working to bring about the annexation of Newfoundland to Canada. Grieve agreed to pay the costs of the suit and to make an apology.

MORE TROUBLE FOR CASTRO

Judgment Which Will Materially Reduce Former President's Fortune

Caracas, May 18.—The first of many judgments which will be pronounced by the Venezuelan courts against former President Castro was rendered by Judge Ferreras of the civil court of first instance.

It was in the suit instituted against the deposed president by Mrs. Joaquim Crespo, widow of a former president, for six years' rental and heavy damages for the arbitrary occupation by Castro of the Miraflores palace in this city, which is the property of Mrs. Crespo.

A verdict for the full amount was given, and as the judge condemned the defendant to meet the cost of the trial, the whole affair will cost Castro hundreds of thousands of dollars.

EVIDENCE OF INDIANS

All That Can Be Given Against Alleged Japanese Poachers

Juneau, May 18.—The United States revenue cutter Rush has arrived here from Sitka with the captain and the crew of the Japanese sealing schooner Kelsen, which was seized in Redoubt Bay on May 4 for cruising within the three-mile limit. The alleged poachers were taken to the federal jail. The skins seized on the schooner will be held pending a jury's verdict.

All the evidence against the Japanese is the testimony of a number of Indians, who told the authorities that they discovered the Japanese schooner inside the fishing limits.

Body Pierced by Wagon Shaft
Newburgh, N. Y., May 18.—In a collision between his motor cycle and a farmer's wagon, John K. McLaughlin, an employee in the local postoffice, was instantly killed. McLaughlin was speeding his new machine on a country road. The shaft of the vehicle was driven through his body.

Gloucester Masons Are Out
Gloucester, Mass., May 18.—All the masons in this city, together with their helpers, numbering about 150, are out of work as a result of the strike of masons in an effort to add 50 cents to their present day's pay of $3.50. The masters refuse to consider the demand.

SAID HE WOULD KILL HIMSELF

Cashier of Maine Bank Believed to Have Fulfilled Threat

PROBABLY LEAPED INTO RIVER

Sickness of Children Added to Worry Over Death of His Wife—Connected With Institution in Damariscotta For Many Years—Personal Acquaintances Think That His Accounts Will Be Found to Be Correct

Damariscotta, Me., May 18.—Leaving a note saying that he was going to commit suicide, Lincoln H. Chapman, cashier of the Newcastle National bank in this town, is supposed to have carried out his intentions by jumping into the Damariscotta river. Late Monday afternoon his hat, overcoat and glasses were found on the river bank, but the search for his body was without result, a strong ebb tide having carried it, probably, far down the stream.

Since the death of his wife, over a year ago, Chapman had been greatly depressed, and recently the sickness of his children had added to his anxiety and worries, so that his friends believe this led to his suicide. Those acquainted with his personal affairs declare that he was not in any financial trouble, and that his accounts with the bank will be found to be correct.

Chapman had been cashier of the Newcastle National bank for a number of years, having succeeded his father, David W. Chapman, who is now 90 years of age, and who held the position of cashier for the greater part of his active business career.

Early Monday afternoon, an acquaintance saw Chapman at Lewis' Point, on the river bank, and Chapman, declaring that he was in trouble, announced his purpose of taking his life. His friend remonstrated and after a short conversation the cashier walked away.

Chapman was 42 years of age. He was a native of Newcastle, just across the river from Damariscotta, and had resided there all his life. Three small children, the oldest about 14, survive him. His wife's death occurred about Christmas, 1907. His father, a brother and three sisters, also survive him.

FAIL FOR A MILLION

New York Brokers Lost Money in Backing a Taxicab Concern

New York, May 18.—In the appointment of a receiver for Tracey & Co., members of the New York stock exchange and the Chicago board of trade, Wall street had a million dollar failure with an interesting variation from the ordinary.

While no announcement as to the exact cause has been made, F. A. Benedict, the receiver, says that he understands that money lost in backing a local taxicab concern figures in the outside ventures. The firm has no stock exchange obligations. The total liabilities are estimated at $1,000,000; the assets at half that amount. Both these sums, however, are only approximated and may be increased.

Taft's Aid Invoked

Movement to Begin Day Two Hours Earlier in Summer

Washington, May 18.—A delegation representing the National Daylight association called upon President Taft and requested him to take the initiative in a reform movement directed against the clock. The idea is to begin the day two hours earlier during the summer to afford longer hours for afternoon and evening recreation.

It is proposed that on the first of each May clock hands be turned back two hours, the readjusted time to remain in effect until Oct. 1, when, with the later rising of the sun, the hands be turned forward to the present standard of time.

The president promised to take up the question with his cabinet today.

BLUFF FAILED TO WORK

Postal Employees Fail in Their Contest With French Government

Paris, May 18.—The leaders of the postal employees at a mass meeting last night admitted that they had been bluffing all along. M. Pauron announced that there was nothing to expect from the outside unions, which either were not ready or not willing to strike.

A final decision with regard to the resumption of work, however, was postponed, and theoretically at least, the strike will continue today.

Two Miners Buried Alive
Neguengues, Mich., May 18.—Victory Norse and Edgar Ylenz, miners, were buried alive in the Mary Charlotte mine. A large force of miners tunneled for the men all day and last night recovered their dead bodies.

Forsythe, N. C., May 18.—Miss Maud Kinel, 16 years old, who was bitten two years ago by a rabid dog, is declared to be suffering from hydrophobia. It is said she can live but a few days.

Dickens' Characters.

Dickens bestowed many of his fictitious names on real flesh and blood personages, says an admirer of the famous novelist. Indeed he and David Copperfield were not far apart, so far as salient features were concerned. Tracy Tuppman was the happy counterpart of a man named Winters, who at the present day would be pounded or arrested for what is known in slang as "mashing." Paul Dombey was an invalid nephew of the author, his right name being Harry Burnett. Dora Copperfield was a Miss Beadwell, with whom Dickens was in love at the early age of eighteen. Mrs. Bardell, who gave Pickwick the worst time in his life, was a scheming boarding house widow named Ann Ellis. Tommy Traddles was Colonel Froom Taftford, formerly superintendent of Indian affairs in Canada. Miss Mowcher was a Miss Wilkes, Mrs. Skewton a Mrs. Campbell, the abominable Squeers was William Shaw; the lovely Cheeryble brothers were cotton spinners and merchants of Manchester; the fat boy was a true life character, and so was Captain Cuttle, one of the most attractive of all

Why She Shut Down.

"A charming gentleman about four years old used to pass my house every day on his way to kindergarten," said a lady, "and in course of time I made his acquaintance and gave a penny to him each morning when we parted. 'Eventually his mother requested me not to give any more money to him. The next morning I did not present the usual penny. He did not seem to notice the omission. The succeeding day when the penny was not given to him he said nothing. But on the morning of the third day when the penny was not forthcoming he sidled up to me and whispered: 'What's the matter? Ain't your husband working?'"

Uncertainty of Lion Hunting.

A lion is a fearful animal. Do not run away with the idea that he is not dangerous. You may have luck to kill twenty, but No. 21 will likely get you. However careful and good a shot you may be, there is the greatest danger in tackling a lion. I remember Colonel H. who had lived in Africa for nine years and during that time had never seen a lion, and the first lion he saw he wounded and got badly mauled, saying to me: "Here, man; you have been here only sixteen months and have killed five lions. Chuck it, man, while you are in luck. They are bound to get you if you go on hunting them."—Forest and Stream.

WHAT A BANGOR LADY SAYS ABOUT THE

KICKAPOO REMEDIES

In regard to the Kickapoo Remedies now being sold so extensively in Quincy Mrs. Evelyn Getchel of 46 Charles street, Bangor, makes the following statement about the Kickapoo Oil and Kickapoo Salve. Her letter is dated Bangor, August 27th, 1908:

"Twenty-one years ago last November I accidentally scalded my shoulder, arm, and hand terribly with hot water. The burned flesh refused to heal, although I tried all the remedies I knew, including the doctor's prescription. My husband heard of the Kickapoo Remedies and purchased a box of salve. From the first application I noticed it began to heal, and ultimately all healed over. But still my arm was useless from the effect upon the muscles, rendering it stiff, so that I was unable to raise it to my head or bend it. I then tried Kickapoo Oil, with the result that my arm became sound and natural, and today it is as well and strong as ever. For the benefit of others I authorize and permit the Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co. to publish this testimonial as they may desire."

Kickapoo Oil is a family liniment for aches and pains. Kickapoo Salve is for cuts, bruises, burns, piles, etc. The Kickapoo Remedies are for sale at all drug stores. If you wish to test Sagwa before purchasing, drop

Midnight Session

Of City Council

The amendment simply strikes out sections that have become obsolete by the ordinance relative to auditing.

The Committee on Licenses reported an order for a public hearing on the petition of the Citizens Gas Light Co. to keep gasoline.

The Committee on Licenses reported leave to withdraw on the following applications for permits to transport liquor. Daniel Sheehan, Mary Monti, Luigi Romeri, Jerry J. Bizzozero, William Haigh, John J. Connors, Gerardo Capobianchi, C. Monti, Louis Luciano, Cataldo Coletti.

Councilman Whitton moved to lay report on the table.

Councilman Nowland said nothing new had developed on these applications.

Councilman Walsh said Connors was doing an express business. An express business does not mean he shall go to Boston.

Councilman Hadlock asked if Connors ran to any certain point. Councilman Walsh could not say.

Councilman Moir moved the previous question voted.

Councilman Walsh offered a minority report granting permits to Bizzozero, Connors, Romeri, Luciano and Coletti.

Upon motion of Councilman Moir the name of Capo Bianchi was added to the minority report and upon motion of Councilman McDevitt the name of Mary Monti was added.

Councilman Walsh moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report.

Councilman Freeman moved that the debate end at 11:35 and the original motion be put.

Councilman Bryant amended that both reports be laid on the table. Voted.

Upon motion of Councilman Walsh the application of John J. Connors was taken from the table and an order offered granting him a permit. After some debate the order was rejected on roll call 8 voting yes and 11 no. Yes—Carey, Flaherty, Flynn, McDevitt, Moir, Smith, Walsh, Whitton—8.

No—Abele, Beal, Bishop, Bryant, Freeman, Gardner, Gilson, Hadlock, Nelson Nowland, Richards—11.

A motion to reconsider the vote was lost on a rising vote 8 voting yes and 9 no.

Orders granting permits to Gerardo Capo Bianchi and Cataldo Coletti were refused on a roll call vote 8 voting yes and 11 no as above.

Councilman Freeman moved that all applications be taken from the table and that they be given leave to withdraw and that the vote be taken by roll call.

Upon motion of Councilman Bryant the application of Jerry J. Bizzozero was laid on the table.

All of the other applicants were then given leave to withdraw by a vote of 12 in favor and 7 against.

The vote on this question was the same as the above roll call with the exception of Councilman Carey who voted with the affirmative on this question.

An order was then offered granting Bizzozero a permit but was rejected by a vote of 9 yes and 10 no. Councilman Bryant voting in the affirmative.

MOTIONS AND ORDERS.

Councilman Bryant offered an order instructing the City Treasurer in issuing the bonds for the water extension leave to issue twenty bonds of $1000 each instead of 10 bonds of $2000 each. Adopted.

Councilman McDevitt offered a resolution for the representative in the general court to obtain an opinion from the Attorney General as to the right of the City Council to pass an ordinance fixing the rate of wages paid laborers. Rejected on a rising vote 5 voting yes and 13 no.

CALENDAR.

The order appropriating $1500 for grade crossings took its second reading and was passed under suspension of the rules.

Voted to adjourn at 12:37 A. M.

Councilman Russell was the only absent member.

AUTOMOBILE MEET.

It came very close to saying someone lied during the public hearing Monday night on the establishing of a public landing place at Bent's creek.

Ex-Councilman Newcomb stated he spoke to the Mayor about filling in last summer and that His Honor refused to take any action.

The Mayor in reply said that Mr.
Newcomb wanted him to set the City Solicitor on the case and that he replied it was a matter for the Harbor and Land Commission and not the
city.

Mr. Newcomb admitted that this was the true fact but a few minutes later in reply to Councilman Whiton
he said that his first statement was correct.

As Mr. Newcomb's two statements do not agree there is evidently a nigger in the woodpile somewhere.

From the action of the City Council Monday night it is evident that no more permits to transport liquor will be granted this year. Although the Council debated from 11 o'clock until 12:30 all the votes that could be mustered in favor of granting permits were eight although one application received nine.

At the time the most of the votes
were taken there were three absent
members and even with these present
and voting the twelve votes necessary could not have been secured.

Much of the argument was over the application of John J. Connor. It was admitted that Mr. Connor's character was all that could be desired and as a man there was nothing against him.

Mr. Connor's business was used by Councilman Bryant to show that Mr.
Connor was not a general expressman
as that term is understood. The card read coal and wood and general teaming. There was also nothing that could be said against any of the others that were taken up. Lucius Luciano it was declared was a barber.

He was getting too stout and the doctor had ordered him out doors. He wanted to go into the express business if he got a permit. Another was in consumption and was told to keep out doors. In all cases the parties had a good excuse why they should have a permit yet all seemed to have the idea in order to go into the express business they must have a permit to transport liquor.

Without that permit they would take up some other line. These arguments only went to show that there must be great money in the liquor transportation business and when it is understood that each case of beer
brought into Quincy nets the expressman fifty cents it is not much wonder that an opportunity of finding money
so easily is much desired.

It would seem that the City Council acted wisely in refusing to grant any more permits.

AFTER FORTY YEARS' SERVICE

Elliot Retires From Presidency
of Harvard University

HE IS SUCCEEDED BY LOWELL

Change Made Without Public or Official Ceremony, the New Head to Be Honored by Formal Induction
Into Office Next Fall—Retiring Educator Finds Himself In Great Demand as a Public Speaker

Cambridge, Mass., May 19.—
Charles W. Elliot has laid aside the robe of office which he has worn with so much honor for forty years as president of Harvard university, and with characteristic simplicity stepped back into private life.

CHARLES W. ELIOT.

Today a new hand grasped the helm of America's oldest educational institution, and with Abbott L. Lowell will rest the guidance of the doctor,
the young lawyer and the young business man, in his educational career.

President Elliot presided on Monday at his last meeting with the members of the corporation, and yesterday he held his last conference with the members of the faculty. In both instances he spoke a few words of appreciation for the support given him and received their good wishes.

Although his responsibilities have ceased in closing his professional career at the age of 75, Elliot finds himself in demand as a public speaker. In a week he goes to the middle states as a guest of the Associated Harvard clubs at Cincinnati and to deliver an address before the Phi Beta Kappa society at the University of Missouri.

ABBOTT L. LOWELL.

Pending his annual departure for his summer home at North East Harbor, Me., he will continue to live in the president's house at Cambridge.

Upon his return from Maine, late in the fall, he will occupy an estate on Brattle street in this city. The residence is not large, but it will accommodate the retired president and his wife and be ample for their social requirements.

The passing of President Elliot and the advent of President Lowell, while unmarked by interruption in the regular pulsation of college work. A tall, dignified figure, with well poised head, grave face and kindly eye, simply gave place to one of short, athletic build, alert in countenance and eye. Next fall the university will fittingly honor its new head by a formal induction into office.

Upon the evening of his election
last January Professor Lowell publicly expressed the hope that the mantle of President Elliot might fall upon his shoulders as the mantle of Elijah, the prophet, fell upon Elisha.

Hains In Sing Sing

Hains is now prisoner No. 202 in Sing Sing. On entering the prison Hains' pedigree was taken, the number 202 was assigned to him, he was equipped with a suit of prison clothing and then sent to the prison barber to be shaved. Later he was sent to his cell. Today he will be examined by the prison physician and if found able to work will be assigned to the task which will be his perhaps for the next eight years.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND GOVERNORS

Deliver Addresses at Unveiling of Imposing Monument

Petersburg, Va., May 19.—A monument was unveiled at Fort Mahoney today by descendants of northern and southern generals who took part in the siege and defense of Petersburg. The shaft is one of the most expensive and imposing ever erected in the south by federal veterans.

The ceremonies began this morning. President Taft, Governor Stuart and Governor Swanson delivered addresses. The president and his party were driven into Petersburg, escorted by federal and confederate veterans, militia bands, civilian organizations, troops of regular army soldiers and firemen. Conspicuous in the escort were 100 of Virginia's leading and wealthiest business men.

PIT FULL OF SKELETONS

Bones of Fifty Human Beings Packed Indiscriminately In Small Space

Buffalo, May 19.—A gang of men
at work in the peach orchard of Edward J. Sweeney of Orangeport uncovered the skeletons of about fifty human beings. Dr. C. F. Johnson of Gasport, who was driving by, was called to the edge of the burial pit and thereafter directed the work until darkness put a stop to operations.
Johnson says:

"The pit now excavated is about six feet long by four feet wide and as many deep. So far as we could see the bones are piled in without regard to order."

"Those skulls that I have examined have low foreheads and heavy jaws
and seem not to have belonged to a white man. On the other hand, I have never heard nor read of an Indian burying ground where there was such lack of system and ceremonial."

The excavation will be continued.

ALL KETCHEL'S WAY

He Gives McGann a Severe Pounding
In Their Six-Round Bout

Pittsburg, May 19.—Six times last night Hugh McGann was down for a count of nine in a six-round bout with Stanley Ketchel, champion middeweight of the world. Five times in the sixth round he was saved from a knockout by a second. Twice he was knocked through the ropes, once clear across the press table into the seats of spectators.

Only cheering voices of his champions from the audience inspired Mc-Gann several times to get upon his feet again, after being all but knocked out. No decision was permissible under the Pennsylvania laws.

Six thousand persons witnessed the fight. Both Ketchel and McGann were in prime condition. Ketchel has a contract to meet Jack Johnson,
the heavyweight champion.

allegations concerning the official conduct of Sylvester R. Rush, special assistant to the attorney general,
and United States District Attorney Gregg of the Northern District of Oklahoma, are made in two petitions filed in the federal court here in connection with the Muskogee town-lot fraud cases.

One petition is signed by nine members of the grand jury that was discharged on Saturday last by Judge Marshall upon motion of Gregg, who asserted that the jury had been subjected to improper influences. It refutes this charge and in turn makes allegations against Gregg and Rush.
It alleges misconduct before the jury,
efforts to intimidate and coerce the jury to return indictments against Governor Haskell and the other defendants regardless of, and contrary to proof presented, and petitions the court to investigate the jurors' allegations.

The defendants also filed a response to the motion of Gregg disputing the charges of improper influences. This response alleges that Gregg has used the Tulsa World, of which he is stated to be part owner,
to mould sentiment and to prejudice
the court and grand jury against the defendants; that he stated that he was after Haskell and associates and that no one else would be prosecuted;
that he stated that he was a personal enemy of William T. Hutchings and would send him to the penitentiary
at all hazards; that Gregg's partners in the Tulsa World had stated to a prominent Tulsa man that it was a political prosecution started by William R. Hearst and Theodore Roosevelt against Governor Haskell. The defendants assert that Gregg is an improper person to conduct the present prosecution.

Wickersham Wants More Testimony

Washington, May 19.—After receiving a long telegram sent by Frank E. Asp, counsel for the defendants in the Oklahoma land fraud cases, to Senator Curtis of Kansas, and forwarded by the latter to the department of justice, Attorney General Wickersham decided to suspend further proceedings in those cases pending the receipt of testimony in support of charges alleging improper conduct on the part of the government attorneys. The telegram outlined the charges made to the court
by the grand jurors and the defendants.

The attorney general also decided that it would not be for the best interests of the government to substitute other counsel for those now conducting the cases.

In commenting upon the matter Wickersham stated that it was his firm conviction that the government attorneys were performing their duties faithfully and efficiently and at this long range he certainly would not interfere with their efforts.

SAILORS DISCHARGED.

Three Jackies From U. S. S. Salem Dismissed on Assault Charge.

The three sailors from the U. S. S. Salem, J. G. Saunders, J. V. Maderison and F. T. Foley, who it was alleged started the runaway at Quincy Point last Wednesday, were in court this morning on the charge of assault and battery. Midshipman A. H. Carmichael accompanied the Jackies and on their agreement to pay the costs, the case was dismissed and the sailors discharged.

The complainant was the Lambros and Hemes Company, the Wollaston fruit dealers. The sailors are, according to the commander of the Salem, three of the best and most reliable men on the cruiser and have never had charges brought against them before since their connection with the ship.

One of the three, J. V. Maderison, has several times distinguished himself by his bravery. On one occasion he jumped overboard, while the vessel was going at a good speed, and saved a brother sailor who had fallen into the water. MUSICAL AND PRESENTATION.

Miss Ida E. Dow of Brookline, entertained her pupils at her studio Monday evening. Miss Dow entertains fortnightly and gives a lecture on musical history but as she was about to begin her lecture Monday evening she was interrupted by Mr. Robert E. Evans, Jr., of Winthrop, one of her pupils who in a few well chosen words in behalf of her pupils presented her with a beautiful silver chafing dish. Miss Esther Swendsen of Chelsea another pupil then presented Mrs. Dow who always acts as matron on these occasions with a beautiful bunch of carnations.

The presentation came as a complete surprise to Miss Dow and was given by her pupils as an expression of their appreciation of the earnest work Miss Dow is doing to promote their musical studies.

By request of the pupils the lecture was postponed for two weeks. Among the pupils present was Mrs. Norman Loud, of Hobart street Wollaston. The following programme was rendered: Violin solo, "In Love's Garden" by Holgar A. Ellisen; soprano solo, "Nocturne," Denza by Mrs. Pearl I. Loud; piano solos "The Russian Story," Wilder by Gladys L. Gordon; baritone solo, "Asleep in the Deep," Petrie by Robert E. Evans, Jr.; violin solo "Dainty Dances," Blake, by Holgar A. Ellisen.

Chase and vocal solos by Mrs. Emma S. Moore and piano solos by Prof. Frank Wrigley, organist of the church.

The floor was in charge of Byron C. Miller, who was assisted by the club officers William Walker, Archibald McLeod, N. M. Spencer, Roy Prout and Arthur Newton and by the entertainment committee John S. King, Walter Deacon, William A. G. Andrew and Herbert J. Dickie. AMONG THE CLUBS.

ing same—21 lectures have been so supplied. A marked portion of work of this committee consists in arousing a definite public sentiment and informing the public accurately of existing conditions.

HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS.

The difficulties which confront the present day home-maker seem to be largely due to the fact that she finds herself in a transition period. Previous duties often no longer present themselves, but new ones are constantly arising. While not as much manual work may be so necessary as formerly, more brain work is certainly demanded. The present day home-maker is realizing this change and is reaching out for a larger vocational knowledge. This desire is shown by the fact that while the call at the beginning of the season was for a speaker to arouse interest, the demand now is for practical instructors. One hundred and fifteen clubs report that one afternoon, at least, during the season has been given to some division of home economics. One club engaged an instructor from Simmons College, and looking upon the work as philanthropic opened the class to non-members as well as to members.

Three hundred women availed themselves of this privilege. Two clubs have provided a luncheon plant for their local high schools, where hot food is served at three and four cents. Another club distributed cookery receipts among the children of a vacation school; the two prizes for best results were carried off by two boys. The chairman of this committee after observing the work of the year, and after visiting some dozen clubs, is strongly inclined to recommend that first year class work be limited to the study of "Food and Nutrition" which includes marketing accounts, etc. Household Economics covers so much ground that some definite division must be chosen for study else effort may be wasted and confused ideas the result. The Chairman suggests "Food and its Nutritive Values" because this subject occupies an important place in the public mind at present and because good instructors from several schools and colleges are available.

LITERATURE COMMITTEE.

Massachusetts clubs are demanding quite generally, three things which will be helpful in club work. 1st: A large number of requests have come for a list of lecturers and entertainers, available at moderate prices, for club-speakers. This work has already been admirably done by a member of this committee, Miss Helen A. Whittier, who for nine years past, has issued a Federation Directory of club speakers and entertainers, one copy of which is sent every summer to every club president in the state. If this little book, together with the many circulars and lecturer's announcements were carefully placed on file by every club secretary, each club would soon have its own directory, which would be of great value to the program committee.

2d. A demand "for better literature" is made, and especially for lists of books for special and collateral reading for study clubs. Several such lists have been published in our official organ during the past two years, and others are in preparation. We suggest that all who are liable to be confronted with the problem of the yearly program and the club study outlines should read the Bulletin carefully and mark such references for future use.

3d. The greatest number of answers, indicate the need of good outlines for club study. This seems to be the most immediate and definite need which this committee can meet. For the benefit of those who want suggestions immediately, the G. F. W. C. has several excellent club study outlines which may be obtained from the Bureau of Information, Portsmouth, N. H., or from the Chairman of the Literature Committee of the G. F. W. C., Mrs. May Alden Ward, 112 Newbury Street, Boston.

This committee recommends that the program be prepared, whenever practicable, by competent members of the club, for two reasons: 1st, because such a woman knows the capabilities, needs and past accomplishment of her club, and 2d, because the mental discipline of preparing such a program is a valuable part of the club training. Some requests have come, too, for short plays suitable for presentation by club talent. There have been many such plays published, but as yet no complete list of them has been collected and published. Will not all club women who have "tried out" such plays with club-talent send the titles of plays, with the name of the publisher if possible, to the chairman of the Literature committee, to be printed, later, in the Federation Bulletin? In closing, may we urge once more, the importance of reading carefully the Federation Bulletin, which prints under our Massachusetts heading all circulars, notes and general helps for club work, for the special benefit of club-members and committees? At present the Bulletin is our principal medium of communication to the individual club; "If you see it in the Bulletin, it is official." How can we succeed in our work if our communications through this clearing-house are not read?

—It is now ex-President Elliot of Harvard.

Fountain, Geoffrey DeCoste, Frank Bellevue, Tophile Belanger, Bernard Smith and Edward P. Carron. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy. RUNAWAY.

There was a lively runaway in City Square this morning which came near resulting seriously. A horse attached to an ice wagon became frightened near City Hall and ran into Temple street and thence into Washington street where he was stopped. The driver in attempting to stop the horse had walked along the shaft where he hung with one hand on the bridle. Several persons were in the path of the runaway and had a narrow escape.

FARRINGTON STREET.

Rebuilding of the Northerly End Great Improvement.

Work laying the new street railway tracks on Farrington street between Elmwood avenue and Squantum street is progressing rapidly and should be completed this week. The new tracks are located in the centre of the street so that the track on Farrington street for its entire length is now in the centre of the street.

At the same time the new track is being laid that part of the street is being rebuilt. The street has long been in need of rebuilding and a small appropriation was made by the City Council last year to do this work.

Then it was decided to be advisable to have the tracks changed from the side to the centre of the street and the street railway was requested to petition for a new location.

This was done but it was too late when the location was granted to begin work and it was deferred until this year.

With the changing of the tracks the appropriation of $2,000 was not sufficient to do the work and an additional appropriation of $4,200 was made this year.

Farrington street is one of the most widely used streets in Wollaston. All teams coming from Neponset way use this street and it is so long since anything was done to it that it was in a wretched condition.

FRESH AIR CAMP.

Good for Athol which goes on record this summer as having the largest fresh air camp in the world. It will be for the benefit of children of the crowded tenement districts of Boston.

The project which had its inception last year on less pretentious plans, is being furthered by the Morgan memorial, which, under the leadership of Rev. Edgar J. Helms, also conducts several allied camps at South Athol, each being so far as possible self-supporting.

In connection with the camp there will be conducted a fresh air farm which will be looked to for nearly all the supplies of food to be used at the camp. An isolation camp, with trained nurses in charge, will also be maintained to guard against any outbreak of disease.

It is planned to give the campers an opportunity to assist the work by conducting a rug-making industry.

—There is talk just now among Irish-Americans of a big pilgrimage next year to Ireland. If the idea is carried out it will be of great help to the old country as the visitors would naturally leave considerable money which would help the people and the industries.

The success with which the Savings Bank life insurance plan has been met in many large manufacturing firms where it has been in force has prompted the Fore River Ship Building Co. at the written request of a number of its employees, to establish a branch at its works.

Preliminary work in this direction has already been commenced and it is expected that the plan will be put in force the first of June. For the next two weeks every pay envelope will contain circulars explaining the plan of Savings bank life insurance and old age annuity insurance, and an instructor from the Massachusetts Savings Bank League will be permanently located at the works for several weeks to explain the plan in detail to all who desire.

The company have already taken out agencies with the Whitman Savings bank of Whitman and the Peoples Savings bank of Boston so that employees may have their choice of banks. Under the law it is only possible for a bank to issue but one policy to a person and the amount of the policy can not exceed $500. By having an agency with two banks however it will be possible for the employees to take out a $500 policy in each bank.

Those who take out a policy of any of the several forms pay a certain amount each month. This may be paid direct to the bank or may upon written request of the policy holder be paid by the company, who must also be given authority to withhold a certain amount from that employee's pay each week for that purpose.

The Fore River Co. do this as an accommodation to the workmen and without remuneration of any kind. There are several kinds of policies that may be taken out all of which are similar to the plans followed out by the regular life insurance companies. For instance a man may take out a policy for $500 payable at death to his widow or children or he may take out an old age policy which will give him an annuity after he becomes 65 years of age.

The policy holder is protected at all times as there is a non forfeiture clause which enables the insured to withdraw after a certain time and receive back what he has paid in or receive what is known as a paid up policy.

This plan of insurance has been tried in many large industrial establishments and has met with great success in all cases.

Outside of the public schools however the scheme has not been tried in Quincy. A system of saving of pennies by children was inaugurated in the public schools of Quincy some months ago and its success has been far beyond what was anticipated.

That it will be a success at the Fore River there can be but little doubt and the company is to be commended for the action it has taken in taking out agencies.

DR. EDWIN N. HARDY.

One of the Directors.

The first annual meeting of the Congregational Brotherhood of Massachusetts brought together men from all parts of the state to the chapel of the Central Congregational church, Boston on Tuesday. The brotherhood has been in existence only six months, but has 63 clubs enrolled.

Charles W. Davidson of Newtonville was elected president to succeed Victor J. Loring, resigned.

The other officers chosen were: Vice presidents Frederick Fosdick of Fitchburg, Rev. W. W. Jordan of Clinton, Charles M. Gardner of Westfield, secretary and treasurer, George J. Anderson of Boston; directors—Arthur H. Merritt of Dorchester, Rev. Parry T. Farwell of Weymouth Hills, Rev. Edwin N. Hardy of Quincy, Thomas K. McAllister of Newtonville and Frank H. Noyes of Boston.

A motion was passed with a view to having the membership in the state brotherhood constitute membership in the national body.

BIRTHDAY SOCIAL.

One of the most pleasing socials of the season was given at the Hall Place M. E. church, Tuesday, when every one was given a chance to celebrate their birthday in a most striking and unique way, each person contributing their age in pennies, in a bag provided for the purpose. At the close of the evening the pennies were counted and a large sum was netted.

The entertainment was in charge of Miss Cassie and Miss Georgie Thayer and consisted of: violin solos by Miss Walker; duet by Misses Maud and Catharine Hodgkinson; mandolin solos by Herbert Cassidy; reading by Mrs. H. D. McNeil; exercise, "The Seasons" by Ethel Nichols, Clara Olsen, Ardis Raupach and Jessie Burke; solos by Miss Beattie.

All present received a birthday present. Refreshments were served by the Ladies' Aid.

WOMEN SHOULD CHEW GUM

It Serves to Prevent Them From Talking All The Time

The last debate of the season held by the Men's club of Christ church, took place last evening in the Parish House.

The subject of the debate was Resolved: "That women should not chew gum in public." The principals were Merton A. Turner and Archibald McLeod for the affirmative, and James H. Stedman and James Smith for the negative.

The affirmative side presented the argument of awkward appearance, and injury to health, resulting from gum chewing. The only thing that the affirmative side could see that was beneficial, was that gum chewing prevented women from talking all the time.

The negative side, spoke of the origin of gum, the value as regards aiding digestion, and the financial value, there being 4000 tons used annually. If gum was only chewed in private, the consumption would be reduced more than one-half, thereby depriving many people of work in preparing the article for the market.

In closing, the negative side presented the argument, that if women were prevented from chewing gum, the Woman's suffrage movement would be increased.

Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, Nelson M. Spencer and Myron B. Turner also spoke on the question.

The vote of the club was in favor of the negative side.

The finance committee reported $111.10 as profit from the recent spring show.

A TOUGH GANG.

Dorchester Youths Create Disturbance on Street Car.

A gang of Dorchester youths bound for Quincy made a nuisance of themselves on the street cars Wednesday night with the result that three of them spent the night at the police station. The gang boarded a car at Neponset early in the evening and according to the conductor were more or less under the influence of liquor. They sang and used bad language and the conductor was unable to do anything with them as no heed was paid to his request to keep quiet.

When the car reached Quincy they continued their disturbance and the result was that Officer Bishop was called in and three sent to the station. They gave their names as Freeman Munroe, Edwin Boyle and James Meehan. The two former were but 17 years of age and came under the head of juvenile offenders.

Meehan however said he was 19 years of age and he was given a hearing in the district court this morning. All three were arraigned for drunkenness and for creating a disturbance on a public conveyance.

The case against Meehan for drunkenness was placed on file and he was fined $20 for creating a disturbance. The cases of the other boys were continued until next Tuesday.

Quincy is perfectly justified if it makes a big kick over the bill providing for a new bridge over the Neponset river especially when its end of the present bridge is in good condition and will last for many years. That this is a fact is borne out by the report made to the legislature by the special committee appointed to look into the subject.

When the matter was sprung on the unsuspecting public a year ago it was the general opinion that back of the scheme was some land developing scheme and that opinion remains the same today.

The whole fight for the bridge has been made by those who reside on the Boston side of the bridge who were arrayed against Quincy's representatives in the legislature the Mayor and Citizens' Association.

In spite of this opposition however the few who appeared at the committee hearings from Boston carried the day.

That the Boston end of the bridge is in bad condition no one will deny. Not only is the bridge considerable narrower than that part south of the draw but the approach to the bridge is bad.

It would seem if the City of Boston would widen its end of the bridge and improve the approach the present structure would be good for a number of years' service.

Quincy has been hard hit once or twice by the building of new bridges for someone else.

Take the bridge at Atlantic. This was primarily widened to accommodate the four track system of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad yet Quincy was put to a large expense by changing the grade of Hancock street and the streets leading east near the bridge. But for the necessity of widening for the four tracks this work could have been put off for some years.

Then came the Fore River bridge whose rebuilding was made necessary to accommodate the large vessels built at the Fore River shipyard. Here again Quincy was called upon to stand a large share of the expense.

Still again there is the separation of the grade crossings at Saville and Water streets. These are still hanging fire but Quincy will in the near future be put to a large expense on their account.

And thus the expense continues to roll up and the tax rate to advance.

It is difficult to observe the trend of events in Washington without more than ordinary anxiety. The Republican party stands pledged to revise the tariff, and unless the voters of the country were wholly misled, that revision was to be downward. Any voter, moreover, who may have been in doubt as to the precise meaning of the plank in the Republican national platform could have cherished no doubt as to the purpose of the party if he heard or read the speeches of the presidential candidate, William Howard Taft. The voters, therefore, and they include the great body of consumers, expect downward revision. Judge Taft pointed out, not once but many times, form the platform, that the purpose of protection was to foster industries to nurse them through the period of their infancy and that then, unless protection had failed its purpose they would be able to stand on their own bottom, or at least could be conducted with materially less protection. But now that Congress is actually engaged in revising the tariff we are told by Senator Aldrich, Senator Lodge and others of the "stand pat" school that no one pledged them to downward revision and accordingly they are framing a bill which will make no material reduction in the prices paid by the consumer. President Taft has clearly indicated his purpose to veto any bill which does not make good the party pledges, but it is evident that the most powerful pressure is being brought to bear to induce him, either to abandon that attitude or gradually to recede from his original conception of what was meant by the party pledges. There is no question that when Congress met in special session one of the greatest opportunities of the age confronted the Republican party. It had ridiculed the Democratic contention that the Republicans could not be trusted to revise the tariff; it enjoyed the stout support of an Executive who wanted to see the duties lowered, and it controlled majorities in both houses of Congress large enough to render nugatory the inconsistent and wavering opposition of the Democracy. But has the party risen to its opportunity? Is it making a revision which will command the respect and approval of a majority of the voters? Will the American people, when next they go to the polls, say "well done thou good and faithful servant?" We do not attempt to answer these questions but we cannot but feel apprehensive over the news from the national capital.

FREE TRADE LEAGUE.

If anything were needed to show the people of the United States that the maintenance of a high tariff has become nothing more or less than a scheme for enriching a few great producers at the expense of many consumers, the present debates in the Senate are making this clear to all who will read. And while the men who have grown rich because of high duties are sparing neither time nor money in their efforts to have those duties retained, the people whose sole interest it is to buy what they need as cheaply as possible are doing nothing. If these conditions remain unchanged, who can doubt how the question will be settled? But even if a small fraction of the men and women who bear the burden of high duties would unite in one organization, the power would not be all on one side. To fill the need of such an organization the American Free Trade League has been formed with office at 6 Beacon street, Boston. How much it can accomplish will depend solely upon whether men and women throughout the country are willing to make the effort of demanding their rights. Dues for membership in the league are one dollar a year. Publications are sent free to members.

BRIEFS

Lawns are now looking beautiful and it is a pity that they could not remain so all summer.

The mornings and nights continue cool although it warms up a little in the middle of the day.

Quincy has a fine post office building but it is too bad it could not have been located on Hancock street.

The Commissioner has plenty of work for that new stone crushing
plant when it arrives.

Granite street is sadly in need of repairs and the Council should pass
a special appropriation for this work.

Abner Packard camp Sons of Veterans has a large class for initiation at its meeting Friday evening.

Owing to the expense of using the patent dust preventative it is probable that the streets about City Square will be watered for the balance of the season.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Methodist club, to be held in the Wollaston Methodist Episcopal Church
tonight at 7.45 o'clock, Senator J.
Howell Crosby, of Arlington, chairman of Senate Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, is to give an address on "Municipal Government." No one is in better position to handle this subject intelligently than Senator Crosby and it is hoped that a large audience will greet the speaker. There will be music and refreshments.

—Worcester, the largest city in the world without saloons, has just completed a year of No-License. Never before has any city of over 100,000 inhabitants voted No-License twice in succession. In '85, '89 and '91 Worcester went "NO," but each following year "YES" by large majorities. Worcester is the heart of the commonwealth, Cambridge, which for 22 years has voted "No," and which was the largest city in the world without saloons, borders on license Boston,
but everything around Worcester is no-license. Outside of Massachusetts where saloons have been abolished
in any size, it has been by Prohibition, that is State action, and not by No-License, the action of the majority of the local voters.

IS IT IN YOUR HOME?

The one evening paper of unquestioned authority is the Boston Evening Transcript. While printing the very latest news covering every phase of the world's doings, it never caters
to the sensational, and its many special departments including matters of interest to all members of the household make it the ideal family newspaper.

For nearly four score years the Transcript has stood for all that was best in journalism, steadily increasing its constituency during that time,
and today ranks as one of the leaders
in the newspaper world.

Any of our readers who are unacquainted with the merits of the paper would do well to send for sample copies (free for the asking)
and they will readily see why the Transcript has such a high reputation.

Fourteen years ago few people in the world knew of such a preparation as a powder for the feet. Today
after the genuine merit of Allen's Foot-Ease has been told year after year by one gratified person to another, there are millions who would as-soon go without a dentifice as without Allen's Foot-Ease. It is a cleanly, wholesome, healing, antiseptic powder
to be shaken into the shoes, which has given rest and comfort to tired and aching feet in all parts of the world.
It cures while you walk. Imitations pay the dealer a larger profit, otherwise you would never be offered a substitute when you ask for Allen's Foot-Ease, the original powder for the feet. When you ask for an article

Grew a Full Growth of Hair On a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bot-

ON CHARGE OF MURDER

Man Who Tried to Kill Assassin
Guiteau Is Placed on Trial

Washington, May 20.—William Jones, who attempted to avenge the killing of President Garfield by shooting at Charles Guiteau, the assassin, was placed on trial here, charged with the murder of John A. McPherson, who was employed by Jones as a farm hand. Jones pleaded self-defense.

It was at Guiteau's trial that Jones created a nation wide sensation. One day Guiteau had been placed in the prison van to be taken to the jail.
Jones, mounted upon a spirited animal,
dashed through the crowds toward the wagon and, whipping a revolver from his hip pocket, fired several shots at the assassin, one of the bullets grazing his head.

Jones made his escape into the country. Later he was captured and brought back to the city, but was never prosecuted. For years afterward he practically lived the life of a hermit on the outskirts of the city.

Dickinson's Visit to Cuba Cut Out by Reason of Sickness

Havana, May 20.—The visit of American Secretary of War Dickinson to Havana has been cut short,
owing to his illness, and the yacht
Mayflower, on which he arrived here
Tuesday, sailed last night.

Dickinson will be taken direct to Washington. He has been confined to his stateroom for three days, suffering from vesical stone. His condition is not alarming, but the attending physician decided that it would not be advisable for him to remain longer in a warm climate.

On the arrival of the Mayflower at Havana Dickinson was unable to go ashore. It was his intention to confer with President Gomez, but the meeting, of necessity, has been postponed.

STEWART CAUGHT SMUGGLING CORAL

Customs Officers Were on the Lookout For Liquors

Boston, May 20.—Customs officials unearthed what they believed to be a systematic smuggling scheme when they arrested Vincenzo Marrazzo, a third class steward of the White Star liner Romanic, who had hidden in his blouse when about to leave the ship several pieces of finely finished pink and red coral, valued at $1500.

Customs officials at this port have been suspicious for some time that liquors and other articles have been smuggled ashore here systematically and it was in a quest for liquors that they searched Marrazzo, disclosing the coral.

GAME BAG FATTENED

Roosevelt Brings Down Another Big
Rhino and a Hippo

Nairobi, May 20.—Theodore Roosevelt has begun his hunting expedition
from the Ju Ja ranch of George Mc-Millan, whose guest he is. He went out last Sunday and bagged a female rhinoceros. The first shot wounded her in the shoulder and the animal fled to the bushes. Roosevelt followed on horseback, and six more shots were required to bring her down. The head and skin weighed 532 pounds.

Yesterday Roosevelt added a hippopotamus to his big game bag. The animal was killed a short distance from the Ju Ja ranch.

Three Robbers Get Away With Money
From Canadian Express Office

Turro, N. S., May 20.—Fifteen hundred dollars was stolen from the office of the Canadian Express company here by three men who entered the office during the luncheon hour.
While one man clapped the muzzle
of a revolver at the head of the only clerk in the building, another went through the safe and drawers.

Then, with the third man, who had been standing on guard outside the building, they disappeared, and have completely eluded the local police and several Halifax detectives.

Eliot Remembered With a Clock.
Cambridge, Mass., May 20.—One thousand undergraduates of Harvard marched last night to the residence of Dr. Eliot, where they presented the former president with a tall mantel clock. After a short speech by Eliot there were cheers for him, followed by singing in which he joined. At his suggestion cheers were also given for the new president of the university.

Clay Denounces Sugar Trust
Washington, May 20.—A denunciation of the sugar trust and an appeal for a smaller differential duty on refined sugar, in the interest of consumers, were the features of a long speech before the senate by Senator Clay of Georgia.

FOXWELL IN BOSTON

Broker is Held in $4000 Bonds on a Charge of Larceny

Boston, May 20.—Charles L. Foxwell, who was taken into custody in Washington Saturday upon the instigation of Herbert Moseley, secretary of the Growler Copper company, arrived in Boston Wednesday.

The specific charge upon which Foxwell is held is larceny of $2000 from the Growler Copper company. He obtained the money, it is alleged, by false representation of his association with the Societe Generale de Paris. According to the police, Foxwell has been engaged in similar transactions with Bostonians, through which, they say, he secured sums which reached nearly $30,000.

Foxwell appeared in the municipal court. The case was continued until May 26, and the defendant was held in $4000 bonds.

"CROPPED TO DEATH"

Patten Professes to See Danger Ahead in Wheat Lands

Chicago, May 20.—James A. Patten of the board of trade firm of Bartlett, Patten & Co., whose operations in wheat have received national notice during the last few weeks, in an address before the Flour Men's club of Chicago last night, said:

"I predict that high prices will prevail all over the world for a year to come in wheat, and that the winter wheat (soft wheat) will sell as high in America a year from now as it is selling today.

"I cannot dwell too strongly on the law of supply and demand and the theory that the production of wheat in the United States has not kept pace with the increase in population. The wheat lands are cropped to death. Changes must come, or we will suffer the result."

BATONYI DEPRIVED OF HIS PROPERTY

Newport, R. I., May 20.—Personal and real estate of Mrs. Aurel Batonyi, formerly Mrs. Burke-Roché, her father, Frank Work, and Frank K. Sturgis, all of New York, are attached in an action of trespass brought by her husband, Aurel Batonyi, the papers in which were filed at city hall.

According to the papers, the property attached is valued at $330,000, and is intended to cover the value of certain property, including the horses and carriages, presents, souvenirs and other personal property, of which Batonyi claims that he has been deprived.

IN TRACT SOCIETY BUILDING

New York Detectives Unearth a Full-Fledged Pool Room

New York, May 20.—Two men were arrested here, charged with conducting a full fledged pool room in the American Tract society building on Nassau street.

Detectives allege that they entered an office on the tenth floor where two men, Frank A. Glaty and Michael L. Marks, placed bets for them on horses in the afternoon races.

The contents of the single desk with which the room was furnished included several thousand poker chips, dice and other interesting exhibits, which were confiscated.

NORD ALEXIS IS WITH US

Peru, Ind., May 20.—Nord Alexis, deposed president of Hayti, will soon come to this city for a visit. At present he is the guest of James Turner, a negro of Peru, who has spent several months in the West Indies.

Turner and Alexis landed in New York city last Saturday on their way here, where they will remain for some time before going to Boston, Turner's former home.

The latter is wealthy and has invited Alexis to spend the summer in the United States with him.

NO ALIMONY JUST YET

Mrs. Tucker Has Sufficient Means to Keep Wolf From the Door

Chicago, May 20.—Temporary alimony was denied Mrs. Dolly L. Tucker, who is suing her husband, Colonel William F. Tucker, U. S. A., retired, for separate maintenance. Judge Barnes, in the superior court, said that it was apparent that Mrs. Tucker was not in dire want of anything at this time.

An affidavit of Tucker's was read, showing that Mrs. Tucker has property worth $100,000. Mrs. Tucker in her affidavit said her income was $1750 a year.

Bad-Edged Man Now a Suspect Providence, May 20.—A demented man is the latest suspect in the Register murder mystery. The latest suspect, a burly man with wild, glaring eyes, was seen on the outskirts of Auburn the morning after the murder, apparently hiding a bundle in the bushes. Charles Chase, the Auburn barber found in Boston, has been eliminated from the case by the police.

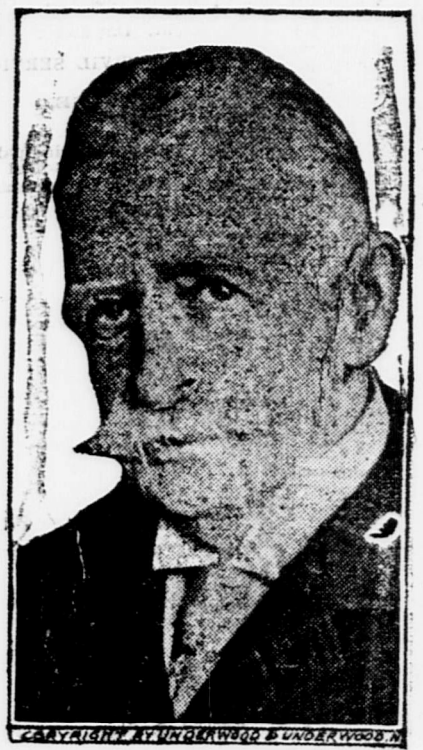

APOPLEXY ENDS LIFE OF ROGERS

Apparently In Normal Health Shortly Before Passing Away

A MASTER MIND OF BUSINESS

From Humble Beginning He Amassed a Fortune Running Well Into the Millions—His Financial Interests Recently Placed in Other Hands in Anticipation of Death—Noted as an Oil Magnate and Philanthropist

New York, May 20.—Henry H. Rogers, vice president of the Standard Oil company, moving spirit in the organization of the Amalgamated Copper company, builder of railroads and philanthropist, lies dead at his New York residence.

HENRY H. ROGERS.

Death came a little more than an hour after Rogers had risen for the day, after mentioning to his wife that he was feeling ill. Before the family physician arrived he was dead, apoplexy, from which he had suffered in 1907, having returned in a more acute form, which, in his advanced age, 69 years, he could not withstand.

Mrs. Rogers, three married daughters, a son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., and Dr. W. J. Pulley, who was hastily summoned, were at the bedside when the end came.

While Rogers' death was sudden and unexpected, he had been in indifferent health since the apoplexy stroke of 1907, and almost constantly under a physician's care. His end at this time, however, was a great shock to his family and business associates.

for Tuesday and Tuesday evening he was cheerful and apparently in normal health.

News of the financier's death did not become generally known till about two hours after it occurred. The stock exchange had not opened when the report reached Wall street, but with the opening there was hardly an appreciable effect on the market.

After a decline at first in the stocks in which he was popularly supposed to be interested, conditions rapidly adjusted themselves, confirming in a way that Rogers in the last few months of his life anticipated death and had withdrawn from the market.

It is known, indeed, that he took steps to safeguard his interests by placing his directing holdings in various corporations in other hands. Upon whose shoulders his burdens will rest hereafter is problematical, although close friends of the family are inclined to think that this duty will fall to his son-in-law, Urban H. Broughton.

The Rogers home is silent, save for the muffled tread of prominent callers who call to express their sympathies to the widow and children.

Henry H. Rogers was a money maker and one of the most successful men of the so-called Standard Oil group. He began life as a poor boy at Fairhaven, Mass., where he was born, and retained his legal residence there until the day of his death. He is variously reported as having started life as a newsboy and as a driver of a grocery cart, but whatever his humble beginning in business he achieved a success attained by only a few men of a generation. He was a man of many friends and an enthusiastic yachtsman. Until recently he held the reins of the Standard Oil company, consequent upon the retirement of John D. Rockefeller, although J. B. Archibald attended to the routine management of the great corporation.

Just how much money Rogers leaves is not known. His fortune is variously estimated at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, which will make his son, H. H. Rogers, Jr., one of the richest young men in the country.

The widow he leaves was his second wife, his first wife dying fourteen years ago. He is also survived by four children, the son mentioned, and three daughters, Mrs. W. E. Benjamin, Mrs. Urban H. Broughton and Mrs. William R. Coe.

WHITE PLAGUE WAR.

One million women, representing cities, towns, villages and isolated rural settlements in every section of the country, are today enlisted in a campaign against tuberculosis, according to a statement issued by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. In legislatures, in Congress at Washington, in society gatherings, in churches and clubs, through speaking and writing—in every possible way, the women of the country are persistently fighting consumption.

With an organization established in every State of the country, under the direction of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and with associated clubs in Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone, the women of the country have entered a systematic crusade to carry the message of the prevention and cure of tuberculosis into every American home.

And the fight is not only being carried on by women organized in clubs and by the wealthy women, but by the working women in the general labor movement against tuberculosis, and by the women who are battling hand in hand with the disease in connection with the religious and philanthropic organizations of the country. The special tuberculosis nurse, too, is a recent addition to the fighting force enlisted against consumption, and almost all of these are women. No city campaign is complete today without such a nurse, and on this account hundreds of them are devoting their lives in unselfish service for the relief of human suffering.

PIANO DEALERS AT DETROIT.

The National Association of Piano Dealers of America, which was organized in New York City eight years ago, will hold its eighth annual convention in Detroit, June 14, 15 and 16. Special trains will be run from Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington, conveying the dealers from those sections. Altogether, it will be a gathering of unusual importance inasmuch as the deliberations of these dealers will have a wide influence upon the methods of conducting the piano business. One of the objects of the association is to improve trade conditions and spread an influence for fair and square dealing, and for the protection of the piano purchasing public from those unscrupulous dealers who have formed a habit of misrepresentation by the selling of inferior instruments at high prices. The Local Committees at Detroit are arranging a liberal program of entertainment for the visitors. The closing event of the convention will be a banquet, at which some of our nation's most prominent speakers will appear.

BRIEFS

Col. Abner B. Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans, meet Friday evening in G. A. R. hall. This will be the last meeting before Decoration day. As the charter is still open, all who are eligible can join that night.

Many Quincy Elks are planning to attend the charity ball of Boston lodge in the Mechanics building, Boston, next week. The affair will be in the nature of a reunion of New England Elks.

The class ode and class poem which have been open to competition to members of the senior class of Boston University have resulted in the parts being assigned to Miss Florence Barbour of Wollaston for the ode and the poem to Miss Mary Scott of Everett.

George Rounds, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Rounds of Bigelow street, left today with his grandmother, Mrs. Tirrell of Portland, Maine, for a two months' trip to the Pacific, visiting Denver, Salt Lake city, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle and the Canadian Rockies.

The "Hub" has just been issued by the 1910 class of Boston University. This paper is published each year before commencement by the junior class and is full of grinds and college news. Miss Miriam N. Marsh of this city was one of the associate editors for the issue.

The Surfside Associates hold their first annual dancing party tomorrow night in Brown's summer ballroom at Houghs Neck. The committee in charge has made all the final arrangements for the affair and has prepared several surprises for the entertainment of their guests.

Mrs. Mary Jane Clough died at her home in Plymouth a few days ago aged 37. She was a native of Weymouth and up to the time of her marriage resided in this place. She was the daughter of Edward and Mary (Cullen) Flannery and sister of Rev. James Flannery of St. Anne church, Neponset, who together with her husband and four children survive her. She had a large circle of friends here and was very popular, being a young lady of cheerful disposition. Her loss will be severely felt.

Friday afternoon there is to be a meeting of regents of the chapters making up the Society of Daughters of the Revolution of Massachusetts, at two in Hotel Vendome, Boston. Regents will give reports regarding their chapters and the various committees on the annual convention of the General Society of D. R., will present reports of that event. Members other than regents are privileged to attend. Following the business of the day there will be afternoon tea and a social hour with music.

The team of the Massachusetts Fields school is playing fine base ball this year, having won seven games straight. They would like to arrange games with other schools of Quincy. The team is being run this year by Stevens, captain, and Rose, manager. They claim the championship of the Quincy grammar schools until they are defeated by other schools. The best playing is being done by the three Wollaston Park boys, Stevens, Wickstrom and Rose.

BROCKTON 10, QUINCY 1.

Local High School Boys Badly Beaten By Shoe City Team.

Brockton High turned the tables on Quincy High at Brockton on Wednesday, when they overwhelmingly defeated the local boys by the score of 19 to 1. When the teams met a week ago, the Shoe City lads lost 3 to 2 in an exciting game. In Wednesday's game, however, the Brockton team had things all its own way, Wardwell being in fine form. He struck out fifteen men and allowed only two hits.

"Stan" Bates on the contrary, was hit hard, eleven hits being piled out by the Brockton boys, who had their batting clothes on and their lamps trimmed. Besides Quincy made five errors while Brockton made but one. For Brockton, Egan, Riley and Casey excelled, while the Bates brothers, Galvin and McCarthy played best for Quincy. The score by innings:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 R H E

Quincy 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 —1 2 5

Batteries—Wardwell and Egan; S. Bates and Tabb.

CLEAN THE YARDS.

The Board of Health gives notice today that the collection of ashes will be discontinued after May 31. Notice is also given that during the week of May 24 to 29 cans, glass and other yard rubbish will be removed with the ashes. This is an excellent opportunity for families to dispose of the rubbish that has collected during the past winter.

HAS REACHED A RIPE OLD AGE

William Garrity Is 95 Years Old Today.

Today is a red letter day in the life of William Garrity of 13 Cottage street for it was 95 years ago today that he first saw the light of day. To live and be happy and healthy for 95 years is something to be proud of, but Mr. Garrity thinks nothing of it and says he is good for a few years more. He arose bright and early this morning and received the congratulations of a host of friends during the day.

Mr. Garrity is one of the oldest men in this city, if not the oldest. He was born in Roscommon, County Roscommon, Ireland, in 1814. For 33 years he remained in his native country. While in Ireland he was married and the one child that was born died there.

On June 4, 1847 the vessel James of Belfast landed in New York city and aboard it was Mr. Garrity and his wife. The trip across took six weeks and three days and now Mr. Garrity is living to see the day when the voyage can be made in four days.

Arriving in New York Mr. Garrity made his way at once to Milton coming to Boston by the way of Fall River. He lived in Milton for six months and then took up his residence on Cottage street where he still makes his home, the house now being remodelled and up-to-date.

The chief business of his native town being farming, Mr. Garrity naturally sought that work when he came here. The first man he worked for was Harvey Field, father of John Q. A. Field. He then took up the trade of a currier in the tannery of Frank Williams and followed this work for many years.

When Mr. Williams' tannery passed into the hands of William Panton, Mr. Garrity still remained with the firm. After the tannery business went out of Quincy, about thirty years ago, Mr. Garrity went into the express business, having a large trade for about fifteen years, when his age and health compelled him to retire his son carrying on the business.

A few years ago the business was sold on altogether. Hale and hearty Mr. Garrity lives with his son and three daughters, all that remain of a family of ten. His son Lawrence carries on a well established milk business. His three daughters are Agnes, Elizabeth and Ellen, one a school teacher, one a dressmaker and the other housekeeper at home.

He also had a son Rev. John J. Garrity, who died a few years ago and a son William who died a little over a year ago.

Mr. Garrity, though rather hard of hearing, has the full use of his eyesight, being able to read without glasses. He reads the morning papers every day and also reads and has read all standard works of the day. He is conversant with the doings of the public and talks interestingly on up-to-date subjects.

Nearly every day Mr. Garrity takes a little walk, using two canes to help himself along. He is an almost daily visitor to Joseph Page's store on Hancock street. Mr. Page is an old friend of Mr. Garrity's and keeps a special chair for his exclusive use.

Mr. Garrity has seen Quincy grow from a little village almost to a flourishing city. When he first came here Rev. Bernard Carragher was pastor of St. Mary's church, he being the first resident pastor of the church, which then included all the towns around Quincy as far as Hingham and Scituate.

The Daily Ledger unites with the other friends of Mr. Garrity in congratulating him on his 95th birthday.

HON. WM. B. RICE PASSES AWAY

To His Generosity the City Hospital Was Possible

Hon. William B. Rice one of Quincy's prominent citizens and through whose generosity the City Hospital became possible, died at his home 215 Adams street early this morning after a long illness.

He was the head of the boot and shoe firm of Rice & Hutchins of Boston, and was widely known to the boot and shoe trade of the entire country. Mr. Rice went to Europe a year ago for his health and shortly after his return was stricken with paralysis. Since that time he has been confined to his home.

William Ball Rice was born in Hudson, April 1, 1840. The Rice family were descendants of Edmund Rice, who emigrated from Barkhamstead, county of Hertford, Eng., and settled in Sudbury, Mass., in 1639. Mr. Rice began at an early age to bind shoes, under his father's direction. At the age of 9 he went to work on a farm some miles distant from the town where he was born and his education was obtained in the public schools between the seasons of work.

By hard work and frugal living Mr. Rice succeeded in saving up a small sum of money with which he bought a fancy goods store on Hanover street, Boston. This he carried on till 1864, when he enlisted as second lieutenant in Co. E. 5th Massachusetts Infantry.

In 1865 Mr. Rice began travelling as a salesman for various shoe factories and in October, 1866, he formed the boot and shoe firm of Rice & Hutchins. They began the manufacture of boots and shoes on a capital of less than $500 and from this small beginning the present immense business has grown.

The great fire of 1872 destroyed their Boston store, but the firm at once resumed operations and has since succeeded in a marked degree.

Mr. Rice has made his home in this city for many years. He will always be remembered for his magnificent gift to the city of Quincy its city hospital, which he gave in 1890 on the 50th anniversary of his birth.

Although he had been often requested by his fellow-citizens to be a candidate for public office, Mr. Rice consented only once when he became the democratic candidate for governor's council in an overwhelmingly republican district. He was defeated by 400 votes by the late David Hall Rice, but as the latter died before his term of office expired Gov. Russell appointed Mr. Rice to fill the vacancy in 1892.

Mr. Rice for years had been vice president of the Continental national bank of Boston, a director of the Boston safe deposit and trust company, and a trustee of the Franklin savings bank. He was a member of the Algonquin, Union and Trade, and Merchant's clubs. Since his organization he had been vice president of the Boot and Shoe club.

Mr. Rice had always been a close student of affairs and had made many valuable contributions to the business literature of the day. In 1894 Mr. Rice was appointed by Gov. Greenhalge a member of the first metropolitan district commission of greater Boston. He was the first president of the Boston associated board of trade. In politics Mr. Rice was a democrat and had written and spoken often in favor of a low tariff, especially on hides and leather.

He was the first president of the Quincy City Hospital corporation and has always held that office up to his death.

He married Emma L. Cunningham, daughter of Simeon Cunningham of Marlboro. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Harry L. and Fred B. who were associated with him in the business, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Sanborn Bigelow, the wife of Homer F. Bigelow of Boston and Brookline.

ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT.

Italian Who Skipped To Italy Returns and Police Get Him.

Luigi Sforza, who was wanted by the police for assaulting a countryman at West Quincy with a knife last August, was arrested by Lieut. McKay Thursday. At the time of the assault there were two men concerned in it. One of the two was arrested as he was about to board a boat for Italy. Sforza was also on the wharf but saw the officers first and got away from the crowd. Later he went to Italy, from which country he returned several weeks ago. He went to work on the railroad as a section hand. The police learned where he was and his arrest followed.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Celebrates 21st Anniversary With a Dinner.

Paul Revere Woman's Relief Corps celebrated its twenty-first anniversary Tuesday evening by a dinner at Thompson's restaurant. Thirty-eight members were present. The tables were decorated with palms and cut flowers.

After grace by the corps chaplain, Jennie Holton, the following excellent menu was enjoyed: lobster and potato salad, cold ham, rhubarb sauce, hot rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

The dinner over Mrs. Cora Carmen, acting president announced that the president Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher had written a poem for the occasion but as she was unable to be present it would be read by Mrs. Sarah Williams. Names of members were interwoven in the poem the reading of which caused much applause.

Extracts from the records of meetings held twenty-one years ago were read by Mrs. Laura E. Holt, secretary at that time. The records showed the good work done by the women of the corps.

Mrs. Kate A. Blaisdell gave several readings and remarks were made by Mrs. Edith B. Wolfe and Mrs. C. Alice Mitchell, after which America was sung and good nights said, all hoping to meet another year for the twenty-second anniversary.

It was voted the poem be published in the Ledger that absent members might enjoy reading it and is as follows:

If I ever catch Holt of the fellow That said we were no Spring chickens, I'd get our only Carman to just give him the dickens.

So be he Southern, north he is still in danger.

For we have the Power and he is no stranger.

But if ever he hears our Marnock He might just as well leave town

For we also have a Baker who does everything up Brown.

Tilley said he had best keep out of sight.

And I think so too or else use the ladies Wright.

There was no need of his speaking so Loud and looking so Cross

For we will never Minchion his name not even to the boss.

Now we have an Adams with Armstrong enough

Before it got Ben using Fletcher's advertised stuff.

It was quite a Case and drew quite a crowd.

The Gardiner came from Lane and Field

And the Miner tried Williams and

But Howes he going to sing French

But without our Father's aid no son

But there's one Morton as Ewell know That Smith said would Grant us a very good show.

Our Penmanship is fine temperature town

So visits our Waterhouse a place of renown.

Where Longhead is trying to weave a Well.

To catch our Fox and our Wolfe with a Savage trend.

But as they are both very gentle creatures

We need not Warner in regard to their features.

Now this order is supposed to be composed of laughter and no son

But still they have joined us and I name them just for fun.

There are two of Hewsons, one of Johnson, one of Richardson, one of Morrison and all good fellows too.

But they cannot Badger us by saying They are going to have Bartlett papers

At the Club hotel for if they do

We will get our only Douglass to sell them no more Oxford shoes.

Jacobs said we would look Looney

But by Godfrey we'll eat hearty and with never a fear.

One of our ladies has a Newcomb in her hair.

Ross said it belonged to Robert's friend over there.

Someone said it was bought at Bailey's rubber store.

But Blaisdell, Beaulieu, Baxter and Burke said they were very sure.

It belonged to our only sister Mantor.

Now in every Jenner ration as well as in every nation

There's someone wants to Spooner way along

So let them go it if they will for if we keep very still.

Orne some occasion they will sing another song.

And by Godfrey they told our friend Dorley.

They had a new Hayden and when I asked what then.

They Merrily laughed and said I did not know half

Of the fun they had before I Osborne.

We have four Macks we must not pass by

And to work in their names I surely must try.

We have McGrath and McNeill of the base ball fame.

And McKie and McNally are the other two names.

Now I have tried my brain to Pierce, and I've tried my pen to wield

That I might get in Grignon, Fernald and Litchfield.

Longer I will not Harris you for I am nearly done.

But there is Peverly, Nason and Pinel I cannot get a Holton.

And if these names you can fill in As to your Holmes so full of joy you

Please let me know and a piece of tin You will surely get for doing so.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT

Senator Crosby Addresses the Wollaston Men's Club

A large number attended the meeting of the Wollaston Methodist club Thursday evening, many political factors of the city being present. Senator J. Howell Crosby of Arlington, chairman of the senate committee of Metropolitan affairs gave an informal talk on "Municipal government" also dealing with the bill for a new city charter for Boston which this committee has prepared.

On the platform beside the speaker were: President George Taylor of the Methodist club, Mayor William T. Shea, Senator Eugene C. Hultman, and Rev. Wesley Wiggins of the Wollaston Methodist church. Among other city officials present were: President Hobbs of the City Council, Randolph Bainbridge, commissioner of Public Works, Councilman Charles M. Bryant and other members of the city council.

During the evening vocal selections were enjoyed by the Rough and Ready quartet, an impromptu organization consisting of Edward E. Bullock, Chester J. Hogue, C. A. Randall and James Faulkner. Rev. Wesley Wiggins was first introduced and spoke briefly and interestingly along general lines after which Mayor Shea was presented and was greeted with hearty applause.

In the course of his remarks Mayor Shea said that at city hall they did the best they could and that there were no particular brands of reform to which they were partial. The present charter is a good one having been in use for twenty years and Quincy has yet to see a dishonest official. The only change he favored was extending the term of the mayor to two years. His reasons for this were that it would benefit the city at present that officials makes plans and just gets acquainted with the workings of the city when he is liable to get kicked the following fall and the process must start all over again.

In his talk Senator Crosby stated that he was not a reformer in the true acceptance of the word having pet schemes for which he was in favor. It is common knowledge he said that of late the government of the city of Boston has been under suspicion. This is however inevitable in a rapidly growing city with an ever increasing population and where interests of all kinds centre about one locality.

The problems of the large cities, said Senator Crosby, are not those of Quincy. Quincy is separate and a community in itself, while Boston does not stop at its boundaries. The interests of New England in Boston are great while the opposite is also true.

He spoke of the work accomplished by the finance commission and said that although as a result they found their suspicions justified he was not hysterical over the present condition of the city of Boston. This was no more than could have been expected, owing to its large growth. The reasons for this condition are many coming through a variety of causes including corruption, inefficiency, apathy and last but not least the inability, under the present charter to pin the responsibility to any one. For the betterment of these conditions the senate committee has evolved two consistent political plans the choice of which will be left to the people next November if the bill passes.

The first of these might be called the non-partisan or business administration such as is recommended by the finance commission. This provides for the election of a mayor for the term of four years with a privilege of recall by the majority of the registered vote of the city at end of second year. It assumes that there is no need for a large council and appoints a council of 9, each holding office for three years, the term of three of these councilmen expiring by rotation each year. It aims to wipe out all political designations and would abolish all political conventions and primaries, candidates being nominated by petition. In the other, or partisan plan there is a mayor holding office for two years, a council of 9 holding office for three years in the same manner as in the previous plan, these officers to be elected by delegates in convention. It favors the retention of party designation and provides for the election of aldermen to the number of 27, one from each ward and two from a few of the larger wards, by direct nomination in the wards.

Senator Crosby also spoke of a third measure, which to some would

TO INVESTIGATE TROLLEY FREIGHT

City Council to See System in Active Operation.

The members of the City Council before whom a petition to approve the operation of a trolley freight by the street railway, is pending, will make a personal investigation of the matter Saturday. The petition is now before the Committee on Streets and Councilman Mori, chairman of that committee has extended an invitation to the whole Council to accompany the committee on its view, that all may familiarize themselves with the subject.

The Council will leave City Hall Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in a special car and will first go to Brockton.

Here the trolley freight system will be seen in operation. The members of the Council will be enabled to see for themselves how freight matter is handled, inspect the freight terminals and overhaul any of the cars it may run across in transit and look them over.

In addition to this the Council will also have an opportunity to see to what extent the freight cars interfere with the passenger traffic.

In this way they will be able to learn at first hand all there is to know about the system.

From Brockton the party will go wherever it pleases them for further investigation. This may mean Taunton, New Bedford and Fall River or Providence R. I.

The inspection trip will consume the entire day.

There has been a great deal said in Quincy first and last about the trolley freight and it is a good thing that the Council should learn all there is to learn about it before taking any action on the petition.

STATE FEDERATION MEETING OF WOMEN'S CLUBS.

At the State Federation meeting of the clubs of Massachusetts at Springfield this week the following officers were elected: President, Miss George A. Bacon; vice presidents, Mrs. Caroline S. Atherton, Miss Florence L. Breed, Mrs. Marian A. Crocker, Mrs. Maria D. Whitcher; clerk, Mrs. Effie S. Nowers; assistant clerk, Mrs. Daisy C. Porter; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Grace V. Hibbard; treasurer, Mrs. Katharine E. Flagg; directors (term expires 1912), Mrs. Caroline Bennett, Mrs. Theresa Goulston, Mrs. Mary E. Howe, Mrs. Harriette J. MacDonald, Mrs. Retta W. Wetherbee. It was also voted to return to the contributing clubs their proportionate share of the $6,000 left paying the expenses of the biennial over after paying the expenses of the biennial held in Boston last June.

—The new Lincoln pennies are to be distributed in August to take the place of the ones now in use with the familiar Indian head. The new pennies will be in circulation twenty-five years, the law forbidding more than one change of design in that period.

Some 600 Jamaica Plain householders have received bags for refuse papers from the Boston Women's Municipal League, which will undertake regular collection. How Quincy housekeepers would appreciate an extension of the work of the League in Quincy. One of the trials of the housewife is the disposal of paper. Neither the garbage or ash man will take them and a tidy back yard does not permit of bonfires. It is up to the city or the Quincy Women's club to help out the householder and make for a cleaner and more beautiful Quincy.

If the oiling of the streets has to be given up because of lack of money and the city goes back to the old way of watering it will be a pity. The oiling has been very satisfactory, the streets being harder and firmer and almost free from dust.
The results have been good not only in pleasant weather but in stormy as the oil causes the rain to run off instead of sinking in and making mud. This effect is particularly noticeable on well graded and newly surfaced roads.

Those who have laughed and treated as a joke the setting back of the clock two hours from May first to October first so as to give more daylight in summer are beginning to see that it is something more than a joke. It has reached President Taft and the cabinet will consider it. What it means is that now considerable daylight is wasted in bed mornings that people would appreciate on the other end of the day. Instead of getting up at seven one would get up at five by the present schedule and go to bed at eight instead of ten. After the first day one would not mind the difference in the morning and would surely appreciate the long summer night with several hours of good daylight after dinner. Who says put the clock back?

We are in receipt of an interesting anonymous letter from one of the sailors on the Salem in which he complains bitterly of the poor lighting of the city at night and its slowness in general. He claims Washington street to be so dark that in getting back to the ship he fell into a cellar Saturday night and had to be fished out by a policeman with a lantern as an illuminant. He says "it is a pretty slow town where the police hunt you with lanterns and hopes the town will take the hint and put lights along the road so a man can see where he is going and coming" and winds up by saying "the town ought to wake up it's too slow."

We do not know whether he has cause for complaint or not. It may be possible that some of the streets at the Point are poorly lighted or he may have been returning to his ship after the lights were out. It does seem, if this is the case, that it is another argument in favor of all night lighting.

A good example of what a wide awake hustling Board of Trade can do comes from Bridgeport, Ct. The Board of Trade in that city got wind of the fact that the Whiting Manufacturing Company, a $1,200,000 concern had decided to move out of New England. Immediately there was a hustle, and patriotic Bridgeporters subscribed $10,000 for the use of the board. With this money a five acre site was purchased on which the company will build a factory, and Bridgeport will have an industry, employing 500 persons. From them will speedily be recovered that $10,000 the Bridgeporters subscribed and vastly more. It was a case of quick thinking by the Board of Trade and quick recognition of the possibilities of the situation by the other Bridgeporters who invested their money.

While the local Board of Trade has succeeded this year in getting one concern to locate in this city, for which they are to be congratulated they should not lay back and do nothing more. That they were successful in getting one new industry goes to show that if they get out they can get more. The country is full of large manufacturing concerns seeking new locations and some of these should be induced to come to Quincy. Once here however they should be given a little support and given an opportunity to develop before they are jumped on and efforts made to keep them from expanding as was the case of the Citizens' Gas Co., when they desired to extend its mains in order that people might be supplied with gas for heating and lighting purposes.

SPECIAL PERMIT.

Chief Whitney of the State District Police has granted Quincy Music hall a special permit to give a full fledged vaudeville show Saturday night. Owing to a state law that no place of amusement not having a theatre license, can give vaudeville only by special permit from the District Chief and that only one night each week, and then not on the same night, such as this Saturday night, next week on a Wednesday and the following week on Monday, etc. This is the reason that Music hall has not been open as a regular amusement place, but hereafter the management will try to arrange to give vaudeville and moving pictures one night each week. Saturday night a big bill is promised: three high-class acts; 4,000 feet of moving pictures; two new illustrated songs by Miss Maloney the celebrated vocalist.

LOCKED FAST
IN ICE EMBRACE

Steamer Mongolian Still Remains
In Most Dangerous Position

THE PROSPERO IS RELEASED

Passengers Will Be Safe Even If Sides of Big Liner Should Be Crushed by Great Ice Pack—Three Men and Two Women Make Perilous Journey Over Ice From Steamer to Open Water and Are Taken on Tug

St. John's, May 21.—Instead of being relieved, as had been hoped, the plight of the Allan line steamer Mongolian, which has been wedged in the ice pack off the mouth of this harbor since Wednesday, is believed to be more precarious than ever, a heavy swell having arisen which caused the steamer to rise and fall under the influence of its undulations. It is believed, however, that the efforts of the stout sealing steamer Diana to open up a lane between the Mongolian and the narrow harbor opening will be successful today, thus freeing the great steamer from her bondage of many hours.

That this will be possible was apparently indicated in the release of the costal steamer Prospero, which managed to extricate herself Thursday from the ice surroundings in which she had kept company with the Mongolian through the night.

Then, too, in case the Mongolian's sides should give any indication of yielding before the tremendous crush of the ice pack, the experience of five passengers who successfully crossed the uneven ice field between the steamer and the harbor mouth assured the passengers that a ready, and fairly safe avenue of escape lay open to them.

The Diana has reached to within a mile of the Mongolian, bringing with each revolution of her engines the clear water that will permit of the Mongolian's extrication.

Under the impulse of the steady southward trend of the Labrador current the Mongolian is a considerable distance farther from the entrance to the harbor than the position which she had first occupied Wednesday.

One of the most interesting of the many features which have marked the enthrallment of the great steamer was the walk across the ice from the steamer of five passengers, among them two women. Their steps deliberate, and without the precautions which the Alpine travelers always carry, these five persons completed the distance of nearly two miles in safety, although their way lay over obstacles which are regarded as perilous by the Alpine guides.

Hand in hand, with the men ever watchful for the safety of their women companions, the little party mounted hummock after hummock, and on a particularly smooth and even cake even slid with the abandon of their childhood days. They were anxiously watched both from the rocky shores and from the steamer, the passengers particularly taking an interest in their hazardous journey. When they had reached the borders of the ice fields at the harbor mouth, a tug was waiting them to continue the rest of the journey in a more secure manner.

Supreme Court Judge Grants Divorce to Wife of Frank Gould

New York, May 21.—Mrs. Helen K. Gould was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce from Frank J. Gould, her husband, by Justice Gerard in the supreme court, a referee having decided that charges against Gould had been proven.

To Mrs. Gould is given the sole custody of the two children of the marriage, both girls, from December to April, both inclusive, while the defendant will have them from May to November, subject to certain modifications. The defendant is held responsible for the education of the two children and also for their medical attendance.

No provision is made for alimony for Mrs. Gould, nor is the name of any co-respondent named by her mentioned.

The Goulds were married in this city on Dec. 2, 1901. Mrs. Gould is a daughter of the late Eugene Kelly, the banker, and is wealthy in her own right, having inherited a large fortune from her father's estate.

The incorporators are Vice Presidents Kochersperger and Campbell and Treasurer May of the New Haven road.

The company is to conduct a common carrier business by express upon any cars, boats or vehicles owned by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, or any company in which the railroad is a shareholder.

The formation of the new company, it is said, is the result of a dispute between the railroad and the Adams Express company.

YOUNG MEN IN PUBLIC OFFICE

New Englanders Are Fast Being Ousted by the West
SHOULD REGAIN LOST GROUND

Great Portion of Men Holding Responsible Positions at Washington
and In Commercial World Formerly Came From This Section of the Country—John Barrett Says We Should Overcome Western Influence

Portland, Me., May 21.—New England is giving way to the west in furnishing young men for public office,
was the statement of John Barrett,
director of the International Bureau of American Republics, at the Y. M. C.
A. convention last night. He made a strong appeal for New England to regain lost ground.

"There never was a time in the history of the United States," he said,
"when there was such a demand as
now for strong, forceful, wholesome and dependable men; men of unquestioned character, honesty and reliability."

"Formerly the great portion of men holding positions of responsibility in public life at Washington and in business in New York city, the commercial centre of the land, came from the New England states."

"Now the prominence of New England in this respect is passing, due to the wonderful growth of the west, with its corresponding capacity of producing and supplying the kind of men needed."

"Lest this western influence should become too predominant, we should do all in our power to awaken interest in so maintaining the quality of our young men, in so training them
in character and worth, and in so meeting the demand that is growing larger each year for dependable
youth, that New England will hold her own, in proportion to the population of the country, in shaping its destinies, both material and moral."

"A feeling of satisfaction, a lack of ambition, and a tendency to be satisfied with less effort than characterized our ancestors is coming over New England and leading to its dethronement from its former exalted place.
I say this as one who has native love
for the former and profound respect for the latter."

9 years old, who was catching in a "scrub" game, was killed when the bat which Earle Paine had swung to hit the ball struck young Burroughs over the heart. The boy died instantly.

Medical Examiner Marshall pronounced death to be accidental, and the police will take no action in the matter. Paine's tears when he first learned that his playmate was dead
gave way to moans and cries, accompanied by minor convulsions. No serious outcome is expected in his case, however.

BRUISE ON HIS CHEEK

Only Injury Sustained by Man Who Jumped 135 Feet From Bridge

New York, May 21.—Albert House, 25 years old, jumped from the Williamsburg bridge, a drop of 135 feet,
into the East river and escaped practically unhurt, his only injury being a bruised cheek.

House recently abandoned his trade, that of a carpenter, and has been making various dives from high places in an effort to acquire a reputation which would assure him a summer engagement as a high diver.

House was arraigned in court because of his jump and was held in $500 bail to keep the peace for six months.

THE MISSING KNOWLES CREW

Nothing to Indicate That They Are Held Prisoners in Venezuela

Caracas, May 21.—The British minister, Sir Vincent Corbett, in accordance with instructions from the British government, has made an official inquiry into the report from St.
Vincent, B. W. I., that the captain and crew of the whaling ship Carrie D. Knowles are in a Venezuelan prison.

Several of the members of the crew were British subjects, but a search has failed to confirm the report that they are being held by the Venezuelan authorities.

NEWS IN BRIEF

The Congregational Church in New York state has grown at a rate more than double that shown in any other state during the past year.

While a crew of rivermen were attempting to shoot the rapids at Northumberland Falls, N. H., their boat was overturned and Gid Marshall, a river-driver, was drowned.

The heaviest rain of the year broke the drought in west Texas and the Pan Handle.

Five Chinamen Tried to Escape
Verdict of Murder

MUST GO TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Recalls Cruel and Bold Tong Fight at Boston In Which Hatchmen From Other Cities Suddenly Appeared and Began Promiscuous Shooting, Resulting in Four Deaths—Wealthy Merchant Was an Accessory

Boston, May 21.—A decision by the full bench of the supreme court, rendered late Thursday, overruled the exceptions taken in the case of the five Chinamen convicted of murder last July, following the tong war in Chinatown in which four members of the On Leong tong were killed by members of the Hop Sing tong.

Ten Chinamen were brought to trial for the crimes. One died during the trial, one case was not pressed and three were granted new trials.

The five who filed exceptions to the verdict of murder were Min Sing, Leong Gong, Hom Woon and Joe Guey, who were charged with murder, and Warry Charles, a wealthy merchant, who was charged with being an accessory.

The crime for which the men were tried marked one of the boldest and most cruel of tong fights which have ever been known in the country. In the early evening, while the merchants and residents of the Chinese quarter were sitting about their homes,
a band of hatchmen from New York,
Chicago and elsewhere, suddenly appeared on the scene and began firing right and left with heavy calibre revolvers.

Four Chinamen were killed outright and a dozen more injured. The police made a quick and clean roundup and the trial developed the story of a plot of Hop Sing tong men against a brother tong of the On Leong.

The decision of the full bench means the electric chair for the five Chinamen.

ACCOUNTS ARE CORRECT

Chapman's Suicide Not Due to Any Difficulty With Bank

Damariscotta, Me., May 21.—The supposed suicide of Cashier Lincoln
H. Chapman of the Newcastle National bank here, last Monday, was not due to any irregularities with the affairs of that institution, a statement by the bank's directors last night declaring that an examination has shown the cash loans and securities to be intact.

This substantiates the statement
Chapman made in his farewell letter, that everything was correct. His suicide is still a matter of much speculation, the body not having been found, although dynamite has been used in exploring the bed of the Damariscotta river.

SPRECKELS "DIGS DEEP"

Toward Prosecution of Grafters

San Francisco, May 21.—During the bribery trial of Patrick Calhoun,
president of the United Railroads, Rudolph Spreckels, who admitted covering a portion of the graft prosecution expense, again testified Thursday.

In a summary offered in evidence,
it was declared that the total subscriptions received from all sources amount to $213,391, all of which had been expended. Spreckels testified that he had personally given $138,- 478 of this amount, and from his declarations it was inferred that he was still self-obligated for an indefinite amount.

SHRUBB WELL IN LEAD

Shows Ability as Twenty-Mile Runner In Race With St. Yves

Montreal, May 21.—Alfred Shrubb,
the English middle distance champion, defeated Henri St. Yves, the Marathon champion from France, in their twenty mile race here last evening. Shrubb won by 690 yards in 1:54:25. St. Yves' time was 1:55:24.

It was a big surprise, St. Yves being practically a 2 to 1 favorite, reports that Shrubb's right leg had gone back on him since the Longboat race leading most of the experts to believe he would falter after the fifteenth mile.

New Record by Mauretania

New York, May 21.—New westbound records were established by the Cunard line steamer Mauretania,
from Liverpool and Queenstown,
which cut thirteen minutes from her best previous record. The Maure-tania covered the course between Dun's Rock and Ambrose channel
lightship in 4 days, 16 hours and 53
minutes.

Four Little Ones Burned to Death

Toronto, May 21.—The four children of Ernest Oldfield were burned to death as the result of the explosion of a lamp in the house. The victims were aged 1, 3, 5 and 7 years. The mother and 9-year-old son escaped by jumping from a window, but were badly burned.

BASE BALL.
Local Games Scheduled for Saturday Afternoon.

All the Quincy teams except the Old Colony league team will be busy tomorrow. Makaria with five straight wins will attempt to make it six by defeating the Roxbury at Merrymount park. The local boys are playing a fast game these days and it will take a good team to trim them.

However unless this Roxbury team makes some kind of a showing it would be wise for the Makaria team
to get games with stronger nines, as the fans do not enjoy a game when the score is 18 to 1, or 9 to 0.

At the Point the Bigelows, who have yet to lose a game, will play the U.
S. S. Salem team, either at the Ward
Two playground or at the Fore River grounds.

The Salems are much older than the Bigelows, but the latter should show
the jacks the way. Two weeks ago
the Salems were defeated in a close game by the Fore River Apprentices,
but as the Bigelows have already twice defeated the "prentices the dope seems to be against the jacks. But you never can tell about baseball, and the Bigelows are liable to go up in the air and get walloped just as the Boston Red Sox did yesterday.

The Fore River Apprentices and the Quincy Points are both scheduled to play home games tomorrow also and at South Quincy the Adams A. A. are billed to play, so the fans won't have to hunt very hard to find a game.

This afternoon finds Quincy High the guest of Milton High. These teams are old rivals, a hot game is expected.

CLOSING NIGHT.

Supper and Entertainment at Festival
at Quincy Point.

The annual May festival of the Ladies Aid Society of the Washington Street Congregational church was brought to a close Thursday evening.
At 6:30 a salad supper was served by the ladies and was pronounced the best ever. The menu included lobster, potato, salmon and egg salads, beans,
rolls, coffee and pies.

At 8 o'clock an excellent vande-ville entertainment was given. Among the numbers were readings by Miss Dorothy Brown of Watertown and Miss Edith Tutty of North Weymouth, singing by the Junior quartette of Bethany church and piano solos by Irvine Hayden. During the supper and all through the evening, French's orchestra played all the latest music,
which was much enjoyed by the large attendance. The festival as usual proved to be a grand success.

BRIEFS

Sons of Veterans hold a meeting tonight in G. A. R. hall.

A regular meeting of the School committee will be held next Tuesday evening.

W. N. Ware and family of Billings street have moved into their new apartment on Walker place.

Opening race of the Quincy Yacht club tomorrow for the cape cat and other classes.

A reunion of the class of 1908, Massachusetts Fields school, will be held in Poland's hall this evening.

Monday evening the Norfolk lodge A. O. U. W., celebrates its fifteenth anniversary by an entertainment and dance.

The first of the popular dancing parties of the Squantum Yacht club will be held at the club house on Wollaston beach Saturday night.

It is a gratification to the people of Ward VI to have the steam roller at work on Atlantic street and Newbury avenue. Both of these sections have been in a horrible condition for a long time.

Norfolk Lodge, A. O. U. W., hold an entertainment and dance Monday evening in Atlantic Music hall in observance of the fifteenth anniversary of the organization.

William Northrop of Stanton street entertained several of his young men friends Thursday evening. Games and other entertainments were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The street railway have had but little use for open cars this week.

There will be one less common victualler at Houghs Neck this year as one of them A. L. Tirrell has gone to jail for six months.

When the old Quincy school building is sold at auction it will be an excellent opportunity for the social club of Atlantic to purchase the building and transfer it into a club house. If the land can be purchased also it would be an ideal site for the club building.

The annual state convention of Universalists was held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the new $80,000 stone church at Malden. Besides Rev. C. L. Paddock and wife, there were eleven people present from this city, representing the Universalist society of Quincy.

A party for children of members of the Quincy Women's club is to be given at the club house. Presidents will tomorrow afternoon at half past two. Children will be admitted by their mother's membership ticket and guests will be paid for as usual. There will be dancing, refreshments and an entertainment of legedmain.

Thursday evening the citizens of Ward VI held a town meeting in Atlantic Music hall to discuss arrangements for the 4th of July celebration. The speakers for the evening were Messrs. Henry Cunningham, Charles R. Safford, Charles Cherrington, Cornelius Duggan, Louis Langellier and Ward Whitchee. A Victor graphophone furnished music throughout the evening through the kindness of Mr. Smith of Clark street.

The first annual dancing party of the Surfside Associates will be held tonight in Brown's summer ballroom at Houghs Neck. The boys say they have something to surprise everybody but refuse to say what the novelties are.

Notwithstanding baffling head winds Commodore Dawes of the Wollaston Yacht club, left Bayonne, N. J., on Tuesday with his new boat, the Thor-dis. By night fall he had worked through Hell's Gate and dropped anchor at Whitestone, L. I. On Wednesday he had beaten up the Sound as far as City Island.

STEAMBOAT LINE.

Houghs Neck Associates are Discussing a New Subject.

A mass meeting was held Thursday night at the Sea Street Dream by the Houghs Neck Associates to discuss the steamboat question which has caused considerable talk at the beach. The theatre was crowded and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown over the matter.

John B. Moses presided at the meeting and spoke briefly on the matter. He said that a steamboat to Boston would be a great benefit to the beach in many ways. He stated that it would increase the value of real estate at the beach and would be the means of causing many more summer people to take homes there. He then gave the proposition of the Steamboat Company.

The company says that it will run the boat provided a guarantee of $3,000 worth of tickets is given. These tickets are to be published in book form containing 50 and 100 tickets and will cost $5.00 and $10.00. The proposition was accepted and $800 pledged on the spot. A committee of fifteen was then appointed to get the rest. The committee is as follows: Charles Decker, Oliver G. Fosdick, Archie F. Baird, Ross Y. Woodbury, Achilles N. LaBrecque, Neil J. Regan, Theodore Hermanson, Burtus E. Dunn, Albert Acorn, Harry S. Brown, John Mahan, David Fenney, James E. Wall, Frank H. Wall and Joseph W. Brickley. Alfred N. LaBrecque was chosen secretary of the committee.

EXCELSUS VS. JEFFERSON A.C.

The Excelsus class will meet the Jefferson Athletic club of Chelsea on the Ward Six diamond at Atlantic Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Excelsus class have won three straight games and the steady practice of the boys, under the efficient coaching of George L. Cole, which has brought the nine to its present condition, promises to add more to the list before the season's close. Mr. Cole was formerly a member of the old Merry-mount team and before that, a professional player on a large Western nine and for that reason is of valuable assistance to the club.

TWO FINES IMPOSED.

Alex Levangie Contributes Two Fines For Over Indulgence.

Alex Levangie of Braintree was arrested in City Square Thursday afternoon for over driving a horse and for drunkenness.

The horse was attached to a team loaded with brewers grain and Levangie's stomach was loaded with brewery product and he was in no condition to drive a horse.

When City Square was reached the animal was about all in. In court this morning he was fined $10 for over driving the horse and $5 for drunkenness.

Witchcraft.
"The sixteenth and seventeenth centuries," said John Fiske, "were the flourishing ages of the witchcraft delusion. Witchcraft in the early ages was considered one of the greatest of crimes, as much so as murder, robbery or any other serious offense against the law, and the belief in it was shared by the whole human race until the latter part of the seventeenth century."

"In England in 1554 two women were tried before Sir Matthew Hale, charged with bewitching several girls and a baby, and they were put to death, for at that time the evidence seemed perfectly rational. In 1615 in Genoa 500 people were burned to death on the charge of witchcraft. It was the proud boast of a noted executioner in northern Italy at this time that in fifteen years he had assisted in burning 900 persons charged with sorcery. In Scotland between 1550 and 1600 8,000 people were put to death, an average of 200 a year. The last execution for witchcraft in England took place in 1712, in Scotland in 1722, in Germany in 1749 and in Spain in 1781."

The Whole Story.

"I hear you are giving up your charge," said one aged and infirm minister to another the other day. "How are your people taking it?"
"Oh, well," was the answer, "I'm resigning and they're resigned."—Liverpool Mercury.

"A lighted cigar some one had carelessly dropped into the chair he sat on."—London Fun.

TAFT IN TARHEEL STATE

Backs Mecklenburg Declaration and Says Something About Politics
Charlotte, N. C., May 21.—President Taft came to Charlotte, the home of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, signed in May of 1775, and placed himself squarely on the side of those who look back upon this declaration as one of the first significant steps which led ultimately to American independence.

In his address to the people of North Carolina the president clearly explained his policy towards the south. His own recent appointment of a Democrat to the federal bench in this state gave him an opportunity to expand upon his previously expressed views. Mr. Taft urged again the advisability of an intelligent, logical opposition party. "I do not believe that we are on the point of a political revolution in the south," said the president. "I never had such a dream. What I do desire, and believe we are on the eve of, is a complete toleration of opinion and that there shall grow into respect and power an intelligent fighting opposition party in every state of the union."

TIES PLACED ON TRACKS

Five Attempts Made to Wreck Trains at Cambridge
Boston, May 21.—Five attempts were made to wreck Boston and Maine trains within 200 yards of the Cambridge station last night, and 1000 lives were imperiled.

Railroad detectives and a score of police officers from Somerville and Cambridge were searching along the four parallel tracks investigating the first attempt when the wreckers made four other attempts at the very heels of the police, two of which came within an ace of being successful. Footprints in the soft earth of the ditch alongside the tracks from whence the railroad ties used in the five attempts were taken are the clues upon which the detectives are working.

FUGITIVE TYLER AGAIN IN CUSTODY

Four Men Who Escaped With Him Are Still at Liberty

Rutland, Mass., May 21.—One of the five fugitives who escaped last Saturday night from the prison camp and hospital here was captured Thursday at Albany, according to a telegram received here. The arrested man is Henry V. Tyler, a negro youth. None of the other prisoners who escaped have been captured.

Tyler was sentenced on Oct. 7, 1908, for four from six years' imprisonment in state prison after he had assaulted an officer who caught him in the act of attempting to commit burglary in Lynn. Several months ago he was found to be suffering from tuberculosis and was sent to Rutland.

EARLY ARREST PROMISED

Police Think They Are on Trail of Slayer of Laura Regester

Providence, May 21.—The mystery concerning the murderer of Laura E. Regester, the Cranston woman whose body was found on Reservoir avenue May 10, has been solved, according to an announcement made by Chief of Detectives Horton.

A man will be arrested shortly, Horton said, and there will be sufficient evidence to bring him before the next session of the grand jury.

The police would not divulge the man's name. He has been shadowed for two days and has told conflicting statements regarding his whereabouts on the night of the murder.

TURKS HOLD GIRL SLAVES

Refuse to Give Them Up, but the Government Does Nothing
Adana, May 21.—The situation generally is improving and the government is completing its preparations to send the Armenians back to their homes.

Influential Mohammedans in the country districts, however, who abducted Armenian women and girls during the raids, steadfastly refuse to give them up, and the government has not as yet taken any steps to compel their return.

Municipal Government

look like an interference on the part of the state but which was not, giving the mayor and council enormous powers. The object of this bill is to bring the mayor and council into such a bright light of publicity that there shall be no maladministration.

For instance the mayor may originate loan orders which may be vetoed by the council. Again the council may originate loan orders which the mayor may veto by the mayor. The mayor shall originate the budget which the council may decrease or from which omit certain articles but shall not increase. In this way and by other rules this bill aims to make the mayor and the council work together and share in the responsibility.

The bill also provides for publishing a weekly city paper which will contain the deliberations of the city council and other municipal matter of like nature. It also empowers the mayor to remove at pleasure any department head and also allows him to appoint department heads. These appointments, however, must be passed on by the civil service commission in regard to training education and experience. This last measure would be a good thing for the clean strong mayor, a shelter for the clean weak mayor and a protection for the public against a crooked administration.

Following Senator Crosby, Hon. Eugene C. Hultman spoke briefly. He said that it would eventually come to the question of appointing a commission to govern the business section of Boston or of enlarging the city to include the adjacent towns.

The meeting then adjourned to the vestry where it partook of the hospitality of the Methodist club. This is without question the most successful meeting of the club this year.

MRS. BRIDGET EGAN.

The funeral of Mrs. Bridget Egan, aged 73, who died on Monday was held this morning from her late home and was largely attended by relatives and friends. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's church by Rev. William J. Duffy. The regular choir sang the Gregorian mass. Mrs. Thomas Feneasy singing the "Pie Jesu" at the offertory. Miss Rena Bizzozero presided at the organ.

There were many floral tributes including beautiful offerings from the Tubular Rivet Works and from relatives and friends. The bearers were M. E. Shea, C. D. Driscoll, J. M. Flaherty, J. P. O'Brien and D. B. McCarthy. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Egan was the widow of the late James Egan and came to Quincy in 1850, where she has since resided. She is survived by three daughters and one son.

CASTRO GETS RID OF CHARGE

Profits by Recent Amnesty Decree of His Successor

PLOT TO ASSASSINATE GOMEZ

Former President and His Closest Friends Who Were Reputed to Have Been Concerned in Conspiracy Now Safe From Punishment on That Score—Plans Were Nipped in the Bud by Gomez Himself

Caracas, May 22.—A decision was rendered by a judge of the criminal court dismissing the charge against former President Castro of complicity in a plot to assassinate Juan V. Gomez last December. Gomez at the time was acting president of the republic, having been left at the head of the government by Castro when he sailed for Europe on Nov. 23.

The decision was rendered on a petition of the attorney general, who took as the ground for his plea the recent amnesty decree of President Gomez which gave freedom to all political prisoners at the time of the overthrow of the Castro administration last December. Everybody under arrest charged with complicity in the attempted assassination was liberated at that time.

The alleged plot to assassinate Gomez was nipped in the bud personally by Gomez on Dec. 19 last. Gomez went alone to the barracks in Caracas where a mutinous regiment under command of Castro's brother was quartered and arrested him and then went to the executive mansion and took into custody Senor Torres Cardenas, a former minister of the interior, who was said to have been one of the chief conspirators.

The men reputed to have been concerned in the conspiracy were Castro's closest friends. Secret cipher cable dispatches had passed between Castro, who was in Berlin, and his adherents in Venezuela, and an accusation was filed in the high federal court at Caracas, charging Castro with complicity in the plot to assassinate Gomez.

Later an indictment was found against the former president and it was announced that he again set foot on Venezuelan soil he would be arrested and tried for the alleged offense. Castro is now in Spain.

PROBABLY LOST AT SEA

Nothing Known in Venezuela Concerning Schooner Knowles

Washington, May 22.—Almost all hope that the Provincetown whaler, Carrie D. Knowles, and her crew were not sunk at sea years ago was extinguished when Senator Lodge received from the state department the following dispatch from Minister Russell at Caracas:

"Many cables received here in regard to imprisonment of wrecked crew by Castro. Have received cable from United Press. Absolutely nothing known in this legation, and no report from any of our consuls. Foreign office knows nothing, and names of alleged prisoners do not figure in lists of department of interior. Press notices do not state place of prison."

This dispatch was in reply to a fresh request of the state department that the diplomatic and consular officers at Venezuela and the West Indies exhaust all possible means of clearing up the mystery.

JAIL FOR BAD EGG MEN

Imposition of Fines Had Failed to Have the Desired Effect

New York, May 22.—Two men here were sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment each—one for selling bad eggs and the other for using them in making pastry. This announcement was made by the board of health.

They are the first cases on record in New York where a prison sentence has been imposed for the two offenses. This drastic action was taken to break up the practice which the repeated imposition of fines failed to check.

CUTS THROATS OF FOUR

Awful Deed of Insane Woman on a Connecticut Farm

East Hampton, Conn., May 22.—Mrs. Louis Carsten cut the throats of her three children and then her own at the Carsten farm, about two miles from the center of this village.

Two of the children, Louis, aged 10 years, and a 10-months-old girl, are dead, and Mrs. Carsten and a 7-year-old boy, John, are dying. It is thought the woman was insane.

Income Tax Amendments
Washington, May 22.—The coalition of Democratic senators and "progressive Republicans" has been broken so far as the income tax question is concerned, and amendments on that subject will be presented by both Senators Bailey and Cummins.

Tornado in Texas Town
Italy, Tex., May 22.—A small tornado struck here, causing $100,000 damage and injuring a dozen persons. Among the buildings destroyed were the farmers' union warehouse and oil mill.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The reason why we sometimes so ardently desire to do a thing is because we know we can't.

A chronic condition of not having the money is a good many reasons why most of us do not do as we would like.

When a zealot launches a new cult and pushes it with the energy of a fanatic, possibly he has caught the flash of a dollar somewhere ahead.

How much we really desire a thing is measured by the way we shed our coats and work for it.

When a man attacks another's methods he has not been able to make use of them or has outgrown them.

We generally have more friends than we know what to do with or else not enough to help us a bit.

Being able to use after thought first is what constitutes a genius.

If there were such an official as general inspector of public probity, what an authority he would be on the philosophy of graft!

We expect everybody to smile when the outlook to us is bright.

The fluffy haired, hazel eyed young lady was speaking of the play at the Belleville Opera House.

"It is the prettiest bit of sentiment. There's the quaintest pair of lovers, and they go through fire, water, persecution and plague, but it works out beautifully in the end."

Thereupon bashful Captain Grant, at the head of the table, sniffed polite disapproval. The cheery young bank clerk who sat next to the hazel eyed girl told of the "best selling" romance he was reading. It was "The Loves of Lady Perilla," and Captain Grant frowned at the title.

Then the young man leaned over and talked in low tones to the fluffy haired girl. The girl colored in delicious bewilderment. The young man's merry eyes sobered, and Mrs. Ogden Carter winked at Mrs. Newman Appleby across the table. Captain Grant saw the play of hearts and growled into his plate of Boston beans. After that, in a faint sweet cloud of helicopter, the lilac lady entered.

She was in the early thirties, rather tall and thin, with a wreath of glossy black hair and big, gray eyes scattering sympathy. Touches of lilac here and there relieved the black.

The boarders "sized up" the newcomer—some with a tinge of envy of the splendid, shining hair, others with listless conjecture as to whether she came from Cape Cod or from Kokomo. But Captain Grant looked covertly at the lady and sighed so manifestly from the heart that a little ripple of amused wonder went around the tables. Blushing vividly, the captain arose and strutted hurriedly out.

The captain held little part in the babble of the table, but next day he spoke to Miss Inola Marshall, the new boarder, regarding the probability of rain. The lilac lady smiled charmingly, admitting the shrewdness of the forecast. From one labored confidence in a day this man, who had sniffed at the prospect of young hearts confiding, attained to a running comment of anecdote and observation.

Miss Inola was gracious; so, after a bit, noticing the captain and the lady deep in discussion, Mrs. Carter smiled at Mrs. Appleby, and the young clerk had his hazel eyed girl to himself, with no one to snort because they talked in the low, earnest tones of lovers.

Things went thus beautifully until the coming of Zenobia. Zenobia was plump and sleek and sandy and white streaked, like a faded tigress. She was endowed with a cavernous yawn and a lulling, musical purr, and she had a way of curling up on the precious skirts of women to dream fitful things of the chase of the hard pressed mouse.

The glances of a cat was as a picture of gold to Miss Inola, but the captain detested all of her kind. When Zenobia crept softly to the dining room and some unseeing barbarian stepped on her ringed tail, so that she squaled in despair, it was a question whether the captain did not chuckle grimly.

Miss Inola, loving Zenobia dearly, could not help but hold it against him in her heart. Finally Zenobia, sighing for sympathy, thrust her plump sides against the trousers leg of the captain, leaving soft, yellow hairs for remembrance. It affected him like the clammy contact of a serpent.

"What do you see in that cat?" he demanded.

"More than I see in you," Miss Inola flared back.

That settled it. The captain retired to his den and tried vainly to interest himself in three volumes of the history of the Sudan, and Miss Inola, petting and pampering the glances Zenobia, almost wished that she might die. For a month Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Appleby had only the young bank clerk and the hazel eyed girl for winking and smiling exchange.

The last night in the month the captain lounged disconsolately in his smoking gown, dividing his time between a dissertation on Moroccan bandits and the perversities of women in lilac.

"The Moorish bandit is gruff, grim and inured to hardship," read the captain and nodded, knowing they were miles and miles away.

"She is the only woman I could ever care a straw for," murmured the captain, alert and sighing, for Madam of the Lilacs was only across the narrow hall.

A full fed, lazy cat purring in the corridor, descended the steps and yowled for companionship in the yard below. The captain shut his mouth tight and went back to learn of the banditti. The Dutch windmill of a clock chimed 9. The cry was repeated nearer.

"Fire! Fire!" The captain bounded to the door, arrayed like a rajah for glory. Miss Inola almost telescoped him.

"Where is it?" she demanded. The window disclosed a fierce blaze quite near. "The Golden Rule warehouse," answered the captain, and they both descended hurriedly.

A crowd had gathered, shouting, gestulating, yet not venturing near the burning warehouse.

"Why don't they put it out?" asked Captain Grant.

"Powder stored there—barrels and barrels of it," volunteered some one.

Mrs. Appleby approached Miss Inola.

"Your cat Zenobia just went in there." Miss Inola moaned: "Poor little Zenobia! She'll be blown into the moon!" Captain Grant started to speak and checked himself. Then, coloring violently, he announced: "Don't go on in that way, Miss Inola. I'm going to rescue Zenobia."

Miss Inola stared, colored on her own account and extended her hand. "William," she called him for the first time, "you are good and brave and true."

The captain proudly raised his head, girded his flowery, high colored gown about him and waded into the zone of glimmering light.

"Hey, there! Danger! Powder! Come back, man!" bawled the spectators. But Captain Grant strode grimly on. The last words of the lilac lady rang in his ears—"You are good and brave and true."

He heard the cat yowl frantically, and he charged like an Assyrian host. "William, William, William!" her voice kept calling to him. The door was fastened with a rusted padlock, but the captain easily broke through the rotten thing. "Brave and true, brave and true," he kept repeating.

The structure was doomed, but here just within the door it was rather dark and thick with smoke. He could make out the barrels and tried to avoid them. "Kitty, kitty, kitty!" he called. He stumbled over something, caught at a barrel and plunged into its yawning top. His arms rammed into a soft, fleecy, choking mess. Scrambling up, he overturned two others and rolled on the floor.

Finally he regained his feet, covered from head to foot with the pulverized, clinging substance. A cat howled somewhere, and he turned toward the door. Zenobia sat upon her haunches spitting and howling like a feline demon. The captain stepped out into the light. He was covered, plastered, buried, frescoed, coated with flour.

ATMOSPHERE OF SUSPICION

Leads Great Nations to Go on Creating Enormous Armaments

BYRCE TALKS ON ARBITRATION

No Reason Why Other Nations Should Not Follow Example of United States and Great Britain—Ordinary Citizens the Ultimate Masters of Both the Government and the Press After the Latter Molds Opinion

Mohawk Lake, N. Y., May 22.—

With an imposing array of speakers, the fifteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohawk conference on International Arbitration concluded its deliberations last night. James Bryce, the British ambassador, was the principal speaker at the closing session. He said in part:

"All the nations, both of this hemisphere and of the other, have every possible reason for endeavoring to keep the peace. Interest, as well as conscience and duty, prescribe that course. Nevertheless, when we remember how often before governments and nations that had every interest to keep the peace allowed themselves to be drawn into war, and how disproportionate its causes were to the real interests involved, we cannot be sure that the same may not occur again and we must ask once more, 'Why is it that good resolutions are so often forgotten? Why is the practice of nations so much worse than their theory?'"

"One of the answers most often given is that ill-feeling between nations leading up to war is due to the newspapers which, when a dispute arises between two peoples, are accused of misrepresenting the purposes and the sentiments of the other people and so leading each people to believe itself wholly in the right and the other wholly in the wrong."

"It is not my business to defend the newspapers. But in the interests of truth and justice, it must be asked whether it is really they that are to blame. In every country the newspapers reflect the wishes of the people and are what the people make them. So if the people wish that the newspapers should show a truly pacific spirit, friendly to other nations, anxious to know in case of an international dispute what the case of the other nation is, then the newspapers will give their readers facts and opinions which will at any rate not hinder peace and not inflame passion. Thus we come back to the people, that is to ourselves, the ordinary citizens, who are the ultimate masters both of the government and of the press."

"At this moment, all the governments in all the great military and naval states are, I venture to believe, honestly desirous of peace. Not one of them has any cause for war. Not one of them but would lose by war far more than it could gain. Yet it is apparently possible for those who desire, from whatever motives, to stir up suspicion and enmity, to succeed in convincing each nation that the other has designs upon it."

"Every nation is conscious of its own rectitude of purpose and believes that its armaments are for its own safety and will not be used unjustly or aggressively. But each one is told that it must not credit with similar good intentions the other nation which is for the moment the object of its jealousy. Is not this one chief cause of the atmosphere of suspicion in the relations of the great powers, and leads them to go on creating the enormous armaments and levying the enormous taxes under which their people stagger?"

"Thirty or forty years ago there was a good deal of this suspicion between Britain and the United States. Better knowledge of the other has extinguished that feeling and substituted for it a genuine friendship which will at once recur to arbitration for the settlement of any question that may arise. Why should this not be done as regards the other powers also?"

"It was well said recently by Mr. Root that there ought to be, and there was gradually coming to be, a public opinion of nations which favored arbitration and would condemn any government which plunged into war when amicable means of settlement were available. May we not go even further and desire and work for the creation of the public opinion of the world, which has regard to the general interest of the world, raising its view above the special interest of each people?"

Patrolman Under Arrest
Providence, May 22.—Patrolman James Caffrey was arrested and held in $2500 for trial on the charge of falsely securing citizenship papers. It is claimed that he came to this country in April, 1897, when in reality it was April, 1905. He was appointed a policeman in August, 1908.

Celebrating Defeat of Napoleon
Vienna, May 22.—Festivities in celebration of the centenary of Napoleon's first defeat, when the Austrians under Archduke Charles gained a victory over him at Aspern, five miles from this city, May 21 and 22, 1809, have begun here.

SHAW ASKS DIVORCE

Wife Disappears With Son Before Papers Can Be Served

Chatham, Mass., May 22.—With the aid of an auto Mrs. Nettie E. Shaw, wife of Senator James F. Shaw, successfully dodged service of papers in her husband's suit for divorce, and also carried away her son, whom she has declared her intention of retaining in her possession.

Mrs. Shaw was accompanied by her father, H. F. Eldredge, the Portsmouth, N. H., brewer, and her whereabouts is now a mystery. They left here in an automobile.

The quick disappearance took place after Shaw had filed a petition for divorce at Salem, in which he asked to be awarded the custody of his son, Eldredge F. Shaw.

Senator Shaw names H. K. Marble, his former chauffeur, with whom Mrs. Shaw is said to have lived at Santa Barbara and Pasadena, as co-respondent, and alleges unfaithfulness in his declaration.

IN HISTORIC DANISH CITY

An Unusual Fourth of July Celebration Will Be Held

Copenhagen, May 22.—The Danish crown prince has accepted an invitation to attend the Danish American reunion at Aarhus on July 4. Premier Neergaard also will be present, and about 2000 Danish-Americans are expected.

This is the first time that an attempt has been made to have a Fourth of July celebration in a foreign country conducted by naturalized Americans descended from that country. The object is to afford Scandinavians an opportunity to learn the truth about the United States, a land that many of their people have made their homes and learned to love as their own country.

The city of Aarhus itself has played an important part in the development of the countries of northern Europe and the exposition will commemorate the 1100th anniversary of its founding.

STABBED OPPONENT

WHEN CORNERED

Man Convicted of Manslaughter

Is Freed by Judge

Worcester, Mass., May 22.—Suspending judgment because he believed the case came near to being one of self-defense, Judge Pierce gave liberty to John Garitias after a jury in the superior criminal court had found him guilty of manslaughter.

Garitias killed Willie A. Goodfield in Hardwick May 5 by stabbing him after a mix-up in a hotel barroom.

Garitias is a small man, while Goodfield was large and powerful. He said that Goodfield threw him out of the barroom door and followed him outside, striking and kicking him, until being cornered and fearing for his life, Garitias stabbed Goodfield.

Judge Pierce ordered the man released on his own recognizance after the jury had reported.

END OF POSTAL STRIKE

Brought About by Surrender of Federation of Labor

Paris, May 22.—The curtain was rung down upon the general strike amid recriminations by the leaders, who tried to throw the responsibility for the failure upon each other and the defeated postal employees.

The end came when a few hundred laborers voted to resume work. The General Federation of Labor then threw up the sponge and issued a manifesto last night in which they explain that the postal employees were over-confident of the success of their second strike, "which everything shows was prepared and instigated by the government, which was desirous of an opportunity for avenging itself against the leaders of the first strike."

OUT OF ICE PRISON

Mongolian Gets Into Clear Water and Proceeds to Halifax

St. John's, May 22.—The steamer Mongolian cleared herself from the ice pack Friday, but worked off shore instead of making any further attempt to enter this harbor.

When the Mongolian reached Cape Race, the agents of the Allan Line here signalled instructions to Captain Williams to proceed to Halifax and land there the few passengers originally destined for St. John's, together with the 200 tons of cargo consigned to this port. She proceeded immediately.

LETTER FROM STATE HOUSE.

For the Ledger.

Boston, May 19, 1909.

Plenty of ginger seems to exist in the merger situation. It broke out the other day on a matter which was wholly aside from it and was guaranteed to be merely perfecting amendments to the law for savings banks and trust companies, drawn by Pierre Jay, our recent bank commissioner, and favored by the present Commissioner Chapin. Yet, because there was a suspicion that the bill would give a savings bank standing to the securities of the New Haven railroads, there was a sharp attack upon it. What is back of this merger fight has been a mystery ever since Charles W. Bartlett was the democratic candidate for governor, after the Springfield convention had nominated Henry M. Whitney. But there is more than the public has yet learned, and there is plenty of money at the disposal of the mysterious party.

But the contest assumes larger proportions with the entrance of Gov. Draper into the matter as conspicuously as he does this morning, with the statement he gave out at the end of business hours yesterday, evidently intended for effect upon the legislature. Of course he would not enter the field in this way unless he feared that the bill would be lost without this unprecedented step. He must save his "holding bill," so called, if he is to save the Billard stock of the Boston and Maine railroad to the commonwealth as a business asset, which will not fall into hostile hands. But he seems to be up against the anti-merger forces in the House, led by Norman White of Brookline, and it is impossible to say what will be the outcome. The governor practically assures the public that all will be well if the bill passes, but that there may be the dickens to pay if it does not. But that will not scare its opponents.

Some opposition was made to the bill to change the date of annual assessment of taxes from May 1 to April 1, in order to outwit the tax-dodgers who chase between Massachusetts and the states to the north which have assessments on April 1. Senator Norcross of Hampden tried to get a reconsideration of the engrossment of the bill by the Senate. Senator Cowee of Worcester said that all of the towns in his neighborhood and the city of Worcester wanted the change. It was brought out that Boston assessors want it, that the state assessors' association and other influential persons want it. So the bill seems to be safely on its way to the governor, and there is no reason to expect a veto. The movement for the change has been pretty general, even though the effort began only last December at the annual meeting of the state assessors' association. This illustrates the good policy of pulling together when reform is wanted.

Although there was a unanimous vote in the House, after debate against the bill to permit cities to levy taxes as high as $15 per $1000, instead of $12, as at present, yet there was ample reason for the passage of the bill, and it is to be expected, that the effort will be renewed next year. The truth of the case is that the law is considerable of a force as it is now worked. Every year some city or town is forced to have an exception made in its urgent case. Repeatedly bills are passed authorizing cities and towns to borrow outside of their debt limit. These cities and towns must have the money for their prosperity, for the payment of their debts and for their legitimate development. The sum of $12 is arbitrary and the law amounts to "very little." It was brought out that New Bedford is a horrible example of borrowing money to pay current expenses.—$170,000 in one year,—and such an example made the House all the more disposed to reject the bill.

The proposed legislation against the elm leaf beetle fails. The committee on agriculture reported a bill to make of the laws applicable to the gypsy and brown tail moths applicable also to the elm leaf beetle, and they were assured that it would cost but little more, when spraying for caterpillars to spray for beetles also. But when the proposition reached the ways and means committee, it was held that the item would add $75,000 to the cost, and it was felt that the state could not stand that. The committee on agriculture did not take into account sufficiently the fact that the elm leaf beetle is ravaging in many places where the caterpillars have not yet come, and that it would require much more money than was at first supposed. So the localities infested with the beetle must rely upon their own efforts, without help or direction from the state.

As far as appears, the new milk bill, to protect producers from unjust punishment for inferior quality of milk, which was reported upon the many petitions for a change in the milk standard, will not have successful opposition in the passage of the Senate and House. Some people criticize it because it will permit the sale of natural milk if it is below the standard of 12.15 solids and 3.35 butter fats. But it does prevent the sale of watered milk and it will accomplish a great deal in the hands of judicious officials, even if it does permit milk to pass which is below the standard. That precise thing, toleration for Holstein milk, was demanded by many who said that infants and invalids must be given milk of less fatty proportion than the milk of Jerseys. It has been a long and hard contest by the committee on agriculture, and they believe that they have worked out a just solution of the problem, which ought to be satisfactory. The board of agriculture wins a victory in the retention of the present standard another year.

The above is written in spite of the vote of today refusing by 11 yeas to 14 nays to pass the bill to be engrossed, for the looks of the may list does not indicate that it has the strength of the yeas, and the friends of the bill are already working for a reconsideration of the vote. If, however, the Senate refuses to reconsider, then all the agitation and numerous hearings, and many miles of travel, and hotel bills, and farmers meetings and other outlay of effort, will all have been spent in vain, and the issue will surely come up again next year.

There is a skirmish brewing in the House over the bills to regulate the sale of tuberculosis beef, although they have not yet got out of the Senate. Members are twitting one another, in their speeches, with their attitude on the beef question, and though they do not bring to the surface just what they are driving at, yet it is evident that there has been collision in committee and that there will be something snappy when they get a chance to air their differences. At any rate, it looks as if there would be no further distraction of beef which contains no germs of disease, even if some parts of the animal were infected. There has been too much pressure on the part of farmers and butchers to permit the present interpretation to stand.

Gov. Draper wins a victory with his veto of the eight hour bill, but it was a Bunker Hill victory for him, for the House vote of 96 yeas to 126 nays on passing the bill over the veto, showed an exceptional number of members against the governor. There was quite a group of Republican "insurgents," as one of the administration leaders put it, and such a demonstration will tend to increase the strength of the labor element in the House. Such a vote means a majority for the labor men on an ordinary occasion.

The Senate has passed to be engrossed the resolve which was substituted by roll call of 25 to 12 for the bill to incorporate the trustees of Massachusetts college. The Senate was especially influenced by the speech of Senator Nash of Plymouth, one of the two dissenters from the bill, and a leading senator made the remark after it ended that it was the finest speech he had heard in the Senate this year. The action of the Senate does not grow out of opposition to the enterprise, but solely out of regard for the dignity of the college degrees

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE.

Unknown Man Jumps From Express Train And Disappears.

The local police are mystified about the disappearance, in fact the miraculous escape of a man who jumped from an express train last night about 7.30 between the Quincy and Quincy Adams stations. It was the 7.13 train from Boston and was running express to Braintree, passing through Quincy
at a 40-mile an hour rate.

Conductor McGurn who was in charge of the train saw the man jump
and when the train arrived at Brain-tree he immediately notified headquarters in the South station. The railroad officials at once put the Quincy police in touch with the matter and men were quickly sent out on the case. For several hours the embankments and fields along both sides of the track were scoured from the Quincy station to the Braintree line.
No trace of anyone could be found
and the search was finally given up.
It was a truly miraculous escape for the train was going at high rate of speed and how anyone could jump
it and live is hard to understand. This man evidently did however, for where the police expected to find a mangled body, no trace whatever was discovered.

It is thought that the man wanted to get off at Quincy and by accident got onto the wrong train.

THE NEPONSET BRIDGE.

The proposed new $350,000. Neponset bridge will be of the steel plate Girder type, on stone and concrete masonry piers and abutments. It will be 60 feet wide, containing two 8-foot walks and a 44-foot roadway with double car track location in the centre, and the roadway to be paved with wooden blocks.

The draw to be of the single leaf,
rolling lift type, operated by electricity and with an opening of 50 feet for vessels. It is proposed to locate the new draw opposite the draw of the railroad bridge, or about 75 feet
east of the present draw in the old bridge, and dredge for it a new channel.

The estimated cost of $350,000 for the new bridge includes the draw in the new location, with incidental dredging, new water pipe siphon and a temporary bridge during construction.

The Quincy side of the present bridge was built in 1889 at a cost of $20,000.

GAMBLERS SENTENCED.

Three Discharged, Three Fined Five Dollars, One Defaulted.

The much talked of "gambling case"
was settled in the district court this morning. After being tried and continued twice it came up today for the third time. One of the defendants Thomas Turner failed to appear and was defaulted. Peter E. Cuniff and Joseph Martin, who were arraigned for being present at a gambling game
on the Lord's day were found not guilty and were discharged.

Edward Poland, John P. Lyons,
Andor Johnson and Charles B. Grant were charged with gaming on the Lord's day. Edward Poland was found not guilty and was discharged. Lyons, Johnson and Grant entered a plea of
"nolo contendere" which was accepted by the court and each was sentenced to pay a fine of $5.

Polly of the Circus

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Polly, a child of the circus, is brought up by Toby, a clown, and by a boss canvasman called "Muvver Jim." She learns to ride Bingo, a circus horse, and grows to womanhood knowing no life except that of the circus. II—A church near the circus lot interests Polly. Jim reproves her for her reckless riding. III—Polly urges Bingo to unprecedented speed and falls. Toby and Jim carry the injured girl to the parsonage nearby. IV—The Rev. John Douglas, much to Deacon Elverson's disgust, takes Polly into the parsonage. Toby and "Muvver Jim" are received kindly by Douglas, who has placed Polly in charge of his colored servant, Mandy. Douglas promises to care for the girl until she is well.

"An' you will show me how?"
"Indeed, I will."
"How long am I in for?" she asked.
"The doctor can tell better about that when he comes."
"The doctor! So—it's as bad as that, eh?"
"Oh, that need not frighten you," Douglas answered consolingly.
"I ain't frightened," she bridled quickly; "I ain't never scared of nothin'. It's only 'cause they need me in the show that I'm a-kickin'."
"Oh, they will get along all right," he said reassuringly.
"Get along?" Polly flashed with sudden resentment. "Get along without my act?" It was apparent from her look of astonishment that Douglas had completely lost whatever ground he had heretofore gained in her respect. "Say, have you seen that show?" She waited for his answer with pity and contempt.

"No," admitted John weakly.
"Well, I should say you ain't or you wouldn't make no crack like that. I'm the whole thing in that push," she said, with an air of self complacency, "an' with me down an' out that show will be on the bum for fair."

"I beg your pardon," was all Douglas could say, confused by the sudden volley of unfamiliar words.

"You're kiddin' me," she said, turning her head to one side, as was her wont when assailed by suspicion. "You must 'a' seen me ride?"

"No, Miss Polly, I have never seen a circus," Douglas told her, half regretfully, a sense of his deep privation stealing upon him.

"What?" cried Polly incredulously.
"Lordy, no, chile. He ain't nebbber seed none ob dem t'ings."

"But he is, only sometimes you can't tell him things you could a real mother," she added, half sadly.

"And your real mother went away when you were very young?"
"No, she didn't go away."
"No?" There was a puzzled note in the pastor's voice.

"She went out," Polly corrected.
"Yes," he echoed blankly.
"Yes; finished—lights out."

"Oh, an accident," Douglas understood at last.

"I don't like to talk about it," Polly raised herself on her elbow and looked at him solemnly, as though about to impart a bit of forbidden family history. It was this look in the round eyes that had made Jim so often declare that the kid knew everything.

"Why, mother'd 'a' been ashamed if she'd 'a' known how she wound up. She was the best rider of her time—everybody says so—but she cashed in by fallin' off a skate what didn't have no more ginger 'an a kitten. If you can beat that!" She gazed at him with her lips pressed tightly together, evidently expecting some startling expression of wonder.

"And your father?" Douglas asked rather lamely, being at a loss for any adequate comment upon a tragedy which the child before him was too desolate even to understand.

"Oh, dad's finish was all right. He got his'n in a lions' cage where he worked. There was nothin' slow about his end." She looked up for his approval.

"For de Lord's sake!" Mandy groaned as the wonder of the child's conversation grew upon her.

"An' now I'm down an' out," Polly concluded, with a sigh.

"But this is nothing serious," said the pastor, trying to cheer her.

"It's serious enough with a whole show a-dependin' on you. Maybe you don't know how it feels to have to knock off work."

"Oh, yes, I do," Douglas answered quickly. "I was ill a while ago myself. I had to be in bed day after day, thinking of dozens of things that I ought to be doing."

"Was you ever floored?" Polly asked with a touch of unbelief as she studied the fine, healthy physique at the side of her bed.

"Deed, he was, chile," Mandy cried, feeling that her opportunity had now arrived, "an' I had the worst time a-keepin' him in bed. He act jes' like you did."

"Did he?" Polly was delighted to find that the pastor had "nothin' on her," as she would have put it.

"You ought to have heard him," continued Mandy, made eloquent by Polly's show of interest. "What will those poor folks do? he kept a-sayin' 'Jes' yo' lay where yo' is, I tote him. Dem poor folks will be better off dan jes' would be a-comin' to yosh funerals."

"Poor folks?" Polly questioned. "Do

She wondered what Jim and Toby would say if they could see her now, sitting like a queen in the midst of her soft coverlets, with no need to raise even a finger to wait upon herself.

"Ain't it the limit?" she sighed, and with that Jim and Toby seemed to drift farther away. She began to see their life apart from hers. She could picture Jim with his head in his hands. She could hear his sharp orders to the men. He was always short with the others when anything went wrong with her.

"Till bet 'Muvver Jim's in the dumps," she murmured as a cloud stole across the flowerlike face; then the tired muscles relaxed, and she ceased to rebel.

"Muvver Jim?" Douglas repeated, feeling that he must recall her to a knowledge of his presence.

"That's what I call him," Polly explained, "but the fellows call him 'Big Jim.' You might not think Jim could be a good mother just to look at him."

you give money to folks? We are always itchin' to get it away from 'em." Before Douglas could think of words with which to defend his disapproved methods Mandy had continued eagerly:

"An' den on Sunday, when he can't go to church an' preach"—She got no further. A sharp exclamation brought both Mandy and Douglas to attention. "Preach!" Polly almost shouted. She looked at him with genuine alarm this time.

"That will do, Mandy," Douglas commanded, feeling an unwelcome drama gathering about his head.

"Great Barnum and Bailey!" Polly exclaimed, looking at him as though he were the very last thing in the world she had ever expected to see.

"Are you a sky pilot?"
"That's what he am, chile," Mandy slipped the words in slyly, for she knew that they were against the pastor's wishes, but she was unable to restrain her mischievous impulse to sow the seeds of curiosity that would soon bear fruit in the inquisitive mind of the little invalid.

"Will you get on to me a-landin' into a mixup like this?" She continued to study the uncomfortable man at her side. "I never thought I'd be a-talkin' to one of you guys. What's your name?"

"Douglas," He spoke shortly.
"Ain't you got no handle to it?"
"If you mean my Christian name, it's John."

"Well, that sounds like a sky pilot all right. But you don't look like I s'posed they did."

"Why not?"
"I always s'posed sky pilots was old an' grouchy-like. You're a most as good lookin' as our strong man."

"I done told him he was too good lookin' to be an unmarried parson," Mandy chuckled, more and more amused at the pastor's discomfort.

"Looks don't play a very important part in my work," Douglas answered curtly. Mandy's confidential snickers made him doubly anxious to get to a less personal topic.

"Well, they count for a whole lot with us," She nodded her head decidedly. "How long you been showin' in this town, anyhow?"

"About a year," Douglas answered, with something of a sigh.
"A year?" she gasped. "In a burg like this! You must have an awful lot of laughs in your act to keep 'em a-comin' that long." She was wise in the ways of professional success.

"Not many, I'm afraid," He wondered for the first time if this might be the reason for his rather indifferent success.

"Do you give them the same stuff, or have you got a rep?"
"A rep?" he repeated in surprise.

"Sure, repertory, different acts—entries, some calls 'em. Uncle Toby's got twenty-seven entries. It makes a heap of difference in the big towns where you have a run."

"Oh, I understand," Douglas answered in a tone of relief. "Well, I try to say something new each Sunday."

"What kind of spels do you give 'em?" she inquired, with growing interest.

"I try to help my people to get on better terms with themselves and to forget their week day troubles." He had never had occasion to define his efforts so minutely.

"Well, that's jes' the same as us," Polly told him, with an air of condescension, "only circuses draws more people 'an churches."

"Yours does seem to be a more popular form of entertainment," Douglas answered dryly. He was beginning to feel that there were many tricks in the entertainment trade which he had not mastered. And after all, what was his preaching but an effort at entertainment? If he failed to hold his congregation by what he was saying, his listeners grew drowsy and his sermon fell short of its desired effect. It was true that his position and hers had points of similarity. She was apparently successful. As for himself he could not be sure. He knew he tried very hard and that sometimes a tired mother or a sad faced child looked up at him with a smile that made the service seem worth while.

Polly mistook the pastor's reverie for envy, and her tender heart was quick to find consolation for him.

"You ain't got all the worst of it," she said. "If we tried to play a dump like this for six months, we'd starve to death. You certainly must give 'em a great show," she added, surveying him with growing interest.

"It doesn't make much difference about the show"—Douglas began, but he was quickly interrupted.

"That's right; it's jes' the same with a circus. One year you give 'em the rottenest kind of a thing, an' they eat it up; the next year you hand 'em a knockout, an' it's a frost. Is that the way it is with a church show?"

"Much the same," Douglas admitted, half amusedly, half regretfully. "Very often when I work the hardest I seem to do the least good."

"I guess our troubles is pretty much alike," Polly nodded, with a motherly air of condescension. "Only there ain't so much danger in your act."

"I'm not so sure about that," he laughed.
"Well, you take my tip." She leaned forward as though about to impart a very valuable bit of information.

"Don't you never go in for ridin'." There ain't no act on earth so hard as a ridin' act. The rest of the bunch has got it easy alongside of us. Take the fellows on the trapeze. They always get their tackle up in jes' the same place. Take the balancin' acts. There ain't no difference in their lay-outs. Take any of 'em as depends on regular props, and they ain't got much chance a-goin' wrong. But, say, when you have to do a ridin' act there ain't never no two times alike. If your horse is feelin' good, the ground is stumbly; if the ground ain't on 'the blink, the horse is wobbly. There's always somethin' wrong somewheres, and you ain't never knowin' how it's goin' to end, especially when you got to do a careful act like mine. There's a girl, Eloise, in our bunch what does a showy act on a horse what Barker calls Barbarian. She goes on in my place sometimes, and say, them Rubes applauds her as much as me, an' her stunts is baby tricks alongside of mine. It's enough to make you sick of art."

She shook her head dolefully, then sat up with renewed interest.
"You see, mine is careful balancin' an' all that, an' you got to know your horse an' your ground for that. Now, you get wise to what I'm a-tellin' you and don't you never go into anything which depends on anything else."

"Thank you, Polly, I won't," Douglas somehow felt that he was very much indebted to her.

"I seen a church show once," Polly said suddenly.
"You did?" Douglas asked, with new interest.

"Yes," she answered, closing her lips and venturing no further comment.
"Did you like it?" he questioned after a pause.

"Couldn't make nothin' out of it. I don't care much for readin'."

"Oh, it isn't all reading," he corrected.
"Well, the guy I saw read all of his'n. He got the whole thing right out of a book."

"Oh, that was only his text," laughed Douglas.
"Text?"

"Yes. And later he tried to interpret to his congrega'."

"Easy! Easy!" she interrupted.
"Come again with that, will you?"

"He told them the meaning of what he read."

"Well, I don't know what he told 'em, but it didn't mean anything to me. But maybe your show is better'n his was," she added, trying to pacify him.

Douglas was undecided whether to feel amused or grateful for Polly's ever increasing sympathy. Before he could trust his twitching lips to answer she had put another question to him.

For the Ledger.

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, May 15, 1909.

In a few weeks President Taft will be called upon to decide the question of detailing a naval surgeon to command a naval hospital ship. It is the intention of the Surgeon General of the navy to have Surgeon George Pickrell detailed to command the new hospital ship Solace. That vessel is at present being fitted out, at the navy yard at Charleston, S. C., according to the plans of the naval constructors, as a modern hospital ship, so far as that is possible. Surgeon Pickrell is one of the ablest officers of his corps and was nominated recently by the Surgeon General to take charge of the special installation necessary on the Solace for its new duties, and the Surgeon General has asked, also, that Surgeon Pickrell be detailed to command the Solace when commissioned. This has precipitated the old question which Surgeon General Rixey induced President Roosevelt to decide in his favor at the time Surgeon Charles F. Stokes was detailed to command the hospital ship Relief. The line officers of the navy are quite convinced that it is undesirable to detail a naval surgeon or any staff officer for that matter, to command a ship in commission, as such duty is the special prerogative of line officers. As Surgeon General Rixey no longer enjoys the personal influence at the White House, that he exercised in the Roosevelt administration, there is every indication that President Taft will sustain the view of the officers of the line and place the senior naval surgeon in charge but not in command of the vessel.

The vote taken in the Senate this week on the iron ore paragraph in the metals schedule of the tariff bill is construed to mean that the Republican leaders will be able to make good their assertion that no amendments to the tariff bill not approved by the Finance Committee will be adopted. After debate lasting all day, the paragraph recommended by the committee was adopted 61 to 24. Eighteen of the sixty-one votes recorded for dutiable iron ore came from the Democratic side.

President Taft and the Attorney General have formulated a plan for buying supplies for all the government departments through a central board. This movement is in the interest of economy in government purchases and is in keeping with the suggestion made by the President at his first cabinet meeting, when he created a "budget" committee composed of three cabinet members, with the Secretary of the Treasury as chairman, to supervise all estimates for federal expenses before they are submitted to Congress. The President is of the opinion that many thousands of dollars can be saved by a collective purchase of supplies for all departments. On investigation it has been shown, for instance, that in the case of rubber bands one department was paying fifty per cent. more for the same article than another department, and it has been found also, that great discrepancy exists in the prices paid by the various departments for waste baskets, stationery, pens, ink, mucilage, glue, inkstands, clips etc. Another feature of the proposed plan is government ownership of an ice plant as it is claimed that the ice combination has fixed such prices as it pleases for supplying the departments.

James J. Hill was in Washington this week and after paying his compliments to the "agitation and oratory" prevalent in the Senate wing of the capitol over the tariff bill, declared that the "West and the South are to be the great sections of this country in the future. The West is now, for that matter, and the South is coming forward with leaps and bounds. The South exhausted her soil before the war by her methods of improvident agriculture, and is now struggling to restore the soil. She is succeeding too, and has a great future." Senator Scott of West Virginia was so impressed with the truth of Mr. Hill's remarks as to the subject of that tariff that he had them read, as published in one of the local papers, in the Senate.

Many prominent people in Washington are greatly interested in the success of the new social settlement house for colored people which was formally dedicated this week with appropriate exercises, Secretary Ballinger of the Department of the Interior being one of the speakers. He endorsed social settlement work among the race, and gave assurance that anything he could do through the Interior Department for the improvement or encouragement of the negro would be done. This is the first settlement house to be built in Washington and is the result largely of the efforts of the colored people themselves. The movement was begun in 1902 and was crowned with success this week in the dedication of this building which cost $5,000, the ground cost $1,000 and the equipment will cost about $800 more. It is believed that this settlement work will help to solve the problem of the negro in Washington and that its influence will be Trouble—Almost.

Denver Elks are having a lot of fun with a member of their lodge, a jeweler. The other day his wife was in the jewelry store when the phone rang. She answered it.

"I want to speak to Mr. H.," said a woman's voice.

"Who is this?" demanded the jeweler's wife.

"Elizabeth."

"Well, Elizabeth, this is my wife. Now, madam, what do you want?"

"I want to speak to Mr. H."

"You'll talk to me."

"Please let me speak to Mr. H."

The jeweler's wife grew angry.

"Look here, young lady," she said, "who are you that calls my husband and insists on talking to him?"

"I'm the telephone operator at Elizabeth," same the reply.

And now the Elks take turns calling the jeweler up and telling him it's Elizabeth.—Denver Post.

Opportunity.

They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Weep not for precious chances passed away
Weep not for golden ages on the wane
Each night I burn the records of the day
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead
But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep
I lend my arm to all who say "I can."
No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man.

Dost thou behold thy lost youth all agone?
Dost reel from righteous retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past
And find the future's pages white as snow.

Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

—Walter Malone.

A Happy Suggestion.

The surgeons were a trifle startled upon finding that they had incidentally sewed up a sponge in the patient. They hurriedly reopened him and extracted it. When all was neatly sewed up once more they came upon the discovery that they had forgotten a knife. They opened him up again and found the knife, sewed him up and missed a largewad of cotton. When they had again reopened him, found the cotton and closed him again, the patient opened his eyes in a weary way.

"Doctors," said he, "hadn't you better put buttons on me?"

A Startling Question.

An eight-year-old youngster recently came to her father after church service one Sunday and astonished him by asking:

"Daddy, have I any children?"

The old man dropped his newspaper and regarded her in amazement.

"What?" he demanded.

"Have I any children?" doggedly repeated the child.

"Well, I should hope not," replied the father. "May I ask the reason of this startling question?"

"Why, in church this morning," explained the youngster, "the minister preached about children's children, and I wondered if I had any."—Lippincott's.

Clerical Candor.

A truly eloquent parson had been preaching for an hour or so on the immortality of the soul.

"I looked at the mountains," he declared, "and could not help thinking, 'Beautiful as you are, you will be destroyed, while my soul will not.' I gazed upon the ocean and cried, 'Mighty as you are, you will eventually dry up, but not I!'"

A Lesson on Natural History.

A director of one of the great English railroads was showing his three-year-old daughter the pictures in a work of natural history. Pointing to a picture of a zebra, he asked the baby to tell him what it represented. Baby answered, "Colty." Pointing to a picture of a tiger in the same way, she answered, "Kitty." Then a lion, and she answered, "Doggy." Elated with her seeming quick perception, he then turned to the picture of a chimpanzee and said, "Baby, what is this?" "Papa," was the prompt reply.

Be Yourself Always.

Whatever you are by nature keep to it; never desert your own line of talent. Be what nature intended you for, and you will succeed. Be anything else, and you will be ten thousand times worse than nothing.—Sydney Smith.

A Lesson in Neatness.

"Captain Charles Barr, the famous yachtsman, was almost as noted for his neatness as for his seamanship," said a man who knew him. "Captain Barr one summer took a cottage in the country. It was a marvel of neatness—velvet lawns, bright flower beds, red fences—and the cottage was snow white, with green shutters. "An old shipmate was invited down in August over Sunday. On Saturday night, after their wholesome supper of hot brown bread and baked beans, the two friends sat on green wicker chairs on the tidy piazza smoking good cigars. The visitor on finishing his cigar tossed the butt down on the grass.

"What did you do that for, George?" said Captain Barr. "Look at it, smoldering down there. Doesn't it look nasty on the nice green grass?"

"George turned red.

"I don't think anybody would notice a little thing like that," said he.

"George," said Captain Barr, "it's just these little things that make neatness and order, and neatness and order are a big part of success."

"George, who had never been a very successful man, smiled sarcastically. He said nothing. But a little later he got up and hurried down the neat white path and out of the gate. He was gone over a quarter of an hour.

"Where the dickens have you been?" said Captain Barr uneasily on his return.

"Only just down to the hollow," said George, "to spit in the river."

The Parrot's Greeting.

A young sailor sent a gray Belgian parrot to his parents. The bird roared terribly. It was only for the sake of the giver that the family kept it. But keep it they did, and day and night the house resounded with its shrill oaths. When the minister called they threw a cloth over the cage.

The minister called every Thursday evening regularly; but once, collecting for an oyster supper, he called on a Saturday evening as well. His call was unexpected, but they got the cloth on the cage in time.

The minister had just begun to talk about the slushy weather when from beneath the cloth came a loud squawk.

"Well, I'll be—!" roared the parrot. "This has been a— short week!"

He Wouldn't Tell.

The wily Wu Ting Fang, the minister from China, whose frank and penetrating questionings made him the joy of newspaper men and the bane of the diplomat, once met his match in a brief encounter with E. H. Harriman, the railroad magnate. Mr. Wu opened on Mr. Harriman with this naive inquiry:

"How did you get control of all these railroads? What did you do?"

Mr. Harriman smiled and replied:

"I can answer you best by a story about a prominent capitalist whom I once met. He was summoned to court as a witness and was being questioned as to his personal affairs."

"What is your salary?" asked the court.

"Nothing," was the unexpected answer.

"Well, what is your income from all sources, then?" continued the court.

"Nothing," maintained the witness.

"What! Do you mean to say you have no income whatever?"

"Yes."

"How much do you spend in a year?"

"About $60,000 or so."

"If you have no income, yet spend $60,000 a year, how do you do it?" was the sharp rejoinder.

"Ah," was the response, "that is my secret!"

Seek the Truth.

If any man is able to convince me and show me that I do not think or act right I will gladly change, for I seek the truth, by which no man was ever injured. But he is injured who abides in his error and ignorance.—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus.

Where G. B. S. Drew the Line.

When George Bernard Shaw commenced his career as a critic he would not wear evening clothes. So at the vaudeville one night he was stopped at the entrance to the stalls by an usher, who didn't know him.

"You can't come in like that," the usher said.

"What do you object to—the velvet coat?" said Mr. Shaw.

The usher nodded sternly.

"Very well; it shall come off."

And in a jiffy the slender critic stood before the official in shirt sleeves of soft, pure, hygienic flannel.

"That won't do," gasped the usher.

"Won't do?" said Mr. Shaw. "Well, you needn't think I'm going to take off any more. I should like to see this play very much, but I don't propose to run the risk of being mistaken for a society dowager."

And, laughing in his most Mephistophelian manner, he put on his coat again and departed.

Where Friendship Ceased.

"Never heard what broke up your friendship? Dear me! I thought every one had heard that. Brown is engaged, you know."

"Oh, yes, I've heard that. Was White in love with the same girl?"

"No, no; not at all. But White saw her portrait in Brown's room and asked whose it was."

"It's a picture of my fiancée," said Brown.

"White examined it critically and then put it down, with the remark that she must be very rich. I don't know what happened after that, but White was taken home in a cab, and neither of them was seen out of doors for a week."

Bungled It.

He had pleaded the "detained at the office" and the "balancing the books" excuses so often that they had become transparent, so when he arrived home late on a recent evening he determined to lean on the truth.

"Theodore, you've been drinking!" said his indignant wife.

"Selina, my dear, I cannot tell a lie. I've—stammered the delinquent.

"Then you're even more intoxicated than I thought. Go to bed."

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Castle Square Theatre.

Musical Comedy will still be the form of entertainment at the Castle Square and if one may judge by the interest in the production of "The Geisha" it will be even more popular than ever before. "The Geisha" is a delightful musical comedy, it scenes are laid in the picturesque surroundings of Japan, and it contains laughter for every moment of its performance, and continuous melody in the shape of tuneful solos and choruses like "The Girl" and "The Runaway Girl." This new piece is the work of several clever Englishmen, and as given at the Castle Square it will have every advantage of beautiful scenic display and elaborate costumes. As many of the characters are Japanese, there will be plenty of opportunity for the quaint and curious and the beautifully colored robes of that singular people. Rehearsals of "The Geisha" have been in progress for some weeks past under the direction of William Parke, with Joseph Marr in charge of the music, and everything will be in readiness for the opening performance Monday evening. The Burlesque Opera Company will take part in the production, and there will be a large and notably attractive chorus. Many young will have the leading English character in the piece. Missy Seaton, star of the piece, will appear, and Louise Le Baron will appear. O. Mimosa San, the chief of the Geisha girls.

Kelth's Theatre.

A big all round vaudeville bill, made up almost entirely of star features has been prepared for the week of May 24th at Kelth's theatre, one of the most interesting features of it being Irene Crickman, the famous "The Girl in the Hat." Another big feature is the leading exponent of eccentric songs and there is now no cleverer artist in her particular line on the stage today. "The Seven Years' War" is the star in Henry W. Savage's company, playing "The Devil," will also be a big feature of this bill appearing in a series of Dickens' character sketches which he has been making wide popularity on the circuit. Still another big feature will be Frank Morrell, the remarkable tenor, who was one of the stars in Cohan and Harris' Minstrels. Mr. Morrell is offering an especially good program of songs and his present act is making one of the biggest successes of his career. Still another is Charles and Fanny Van in their humorous sketch called "The Stage Carpenter and the Soubrette." Others will be Paul LaCroix, the juggler with the hats; Edgar Allen & Company; Ida O'day; Hastings and Wilson and others.

Orpheum Theatre.

Several of the artists who are to appear at the Orpheum theatre next week will say their farewell to the Hub for it will be their last appearance in Boston this season and for some of them it will be their last appearance for many seasons. That Broadway Comic Opera favorite, Emma Carus will come back again to show that she has not forgotten the warm welcome she received on her last visit here and incidentally, Bostonians will show that they have not forgotten the jolly and care-free Emma. She has been called the singer of personality and certainly her wonderful success must be ascribed to this personality. She will have an entire new repertoire of songs every one of which is a new creation. Another big favorite will be Cliff Gordan, the German Senator who will present an entire new offering of observations. Maude Odell, the tenor, will also be here. The program of the Orpheum theatre for the week of May 24th will be up to the high Orpheum standard.

Wonderland.

Wonderland, the great amusement resort down by the sea, at Revere beach, will be opened for its fourth season, Saturday the 29th instant, and continue, as usual, to entertain thousands of patrons during the hot summer afternoons and evenings until at least the first of September. Wonderland will be more beautiful than ever with its structural changes, its magnificent flag and bunting decorations and its bewilderingly brilliant electrical illumination, for which it is famous, and more attractive than ever before to those in search of light, merry entertainment to make one forget the heat, because of the number and character of the new shows, riding devices and so on and the new and popular plan on which they will be presented. The program of features and performances, has not yet been completed but it can be said that such big successes of last year, such as the scenic railway, the chutes, the velvet cover, Love's Journey, hell gate, the ballroom, restaurant and the little railway will be continued. Among the new features will be a big vaudeville show with change of program weekly. Henry's Minstrelsy, the most recent changes; moving pictures and illustrated song theatre; Breck's Golden Graces; an illusion palace; a new merry-go-round with queer animals and a lot of fun mirrors. There will be concerts afternoon and evening by Teel's military band of Boston. The best of order, and as usual, be insisted upon and every courtesy will be shown to visitors. The management will be in the keeping of practically the same experienced staff of the past several seasons with Harold Parker, President; John J. Higgins, vice-president and general manager; Thomas Barrall, treasurer; D. J. Lawler, assistant general manager and excursion agent and Hugh P. McNally publicity manager.

RINGLING BROS. CIRCUS.

Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Show is to visit Boston the week of May 24th with new laurels won at Madison Square Garden in New York because of the unprecedented excellence of their performances. It is in all respects the very best circus that was ever organized. At the head of the parade are no less than seven sensations on the program any one of which is great enough to give a circus distinction. There are the wonderful Schumann horses which walk on their hind legs, drink in wine like horses and roll each other around in huge beer barrels; elephants that use the telephone, conversing with each other over the wire from one end of the main tent to the other; the thrilling double somersaulting automobile act, performed by a young French girl; Robidello, the Mexican wire wizard; the wonderful Lorch family of acrobats and 100 other great acts that are new to America. The parade will be given at 10 o'clock in the morning and it is an entirely new spectacle. Some of its features are Camels, Zebras, Deer, Elephants and Llamas driven in like horses and harnessed to ornate trolleys. The parade will be three miles long. The menagerie, too, is a wonderful affair, greatly enlarged and filled with strange specimens of the animal world. At the head of the parade is Darwin, the missing link, which lives in a miniature house with windows, electric lights, hot water heater, chairs and tables. Darwin eats with a knife and fork, drinks from a bottle and shaves himself.

STEWART SKIPS FROM BOSTON

United States Officials Want Him in Big Smuggling Case PERHAPS ACTED AS AN AGENT

Value of Coral Found on Employee of Steamer Romanic Found to Be $5400, Exclusive of Duty—Efforts to Get at Bottom of What Promises to Be an Interesting Scheme For Smuggling at Wholesale

Boston, May 22.—Vincenzo Marrazzo, third-class steward of the White Star liner Romanic, who was caught smuggling coral into Boston on Monday, has disappeared, and with him it is believed has vanished the only possible clue to a band of smugglers for whom, it is suspected, he was working.

When the customs officials were investigating, Marrazzo deserted the ship, and no trace of him could be found.

An inquiry will, it is understood, be made for the purpose of fixing the blame for the escape of Marrazzo, for whom the federal authorities are now looking.

At the time the smuggling was detected apparently none of the customs officials believed that the coral was worth much. After an examination by Surveyor McCarthy Marrazzo was sent back to the ship in the custody of Customs Inspector Sleep, who had caught him attempting to get away from the ship's pier with the smuggled coral.

No request was made for his arrest and he was turned over to the care of the captain, who is held responsible for members of the crew.

When it was learned yesterday that the coral was worth $5400, exclusive of the duty, which would bring the value close to $6000 in this country, it dawned upon the customs officials that a smuggling conspiracy had been unearthed. Collector of the Port Lyman notified the United States district attorney's office and a search was made for Marrazzo. He could not be found.

United States Deputy Marshal Waters and Special Treasury Agent Chandler learned that Marrazzo left the ship two days before and failed to return. The general belief was that he had fled to New York.

Very little credence is placed in the story of Marrazzo that a man by the name of Nicola Russo was to meet him on Prince street and take the coral from him. The customs officials are firmly convinced now that an extended scheme for smuggling jewelry and other valuables into this country through the port of Boston was behind the operations of Marrazzo, and every effort is being made to discover the identity of the smugglers.

Although it is said the officers of the Romanic were informed that Marrazzo had been caught smuggling immediately on his return to the ship in the custody of Sleep, he had not been kept in confinement pending investigation.

BROKERS TO BE ARRESTED

Charged With Larceny of Money Given to Their Agents

Newburgh, N. Y., May 22.—Following the issuance of bench warrants here for the arrest of Thomas A. Ennis and Charles T. Stoppani of the defunct New York brokerage firm of Ennis & Stoppani, it was announced that the two were indicted by the Orange county grand jury.

The complaint charges the larceny of money given to agents of the firm for the purchase of stocks. The losses incurred by customers of the firm in Newburgh and Middletown, where they had branch offices, are said to total nearly $200,000.

ACTED IN SELF-DEFENSE

"Avenger Bill" Jones Acquitted of the Murder of McPherson

Washington, May 22.—William Jones, known as "Avenger Bill" Jones because of his attempt to shoot Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield, while the former was being removed from the courthouse to the jail here, was acquitted by a jury here of the murder of John O. McPherson who was killed by Jones last October.

Self-defense was the plea of the defense. McPherson was employed on a small farm owned by Jones and was killed during a quarrel.

Asquith Flees From Suffragettes

Sheffield, Eng., May 22.—A political meeting that was being addressed here last night by Premier Asquith was stormed by a crowd of suffragettes, several of whom were injured in encounters with the police. Asquith was obliged to make his exit secretly through a side-door before the proceedings had ended.

Fire Losses in the Bay State

Boston, May 22.—A monetary loss of $21,638,866 resulted from the 6323 fires in Massachusetts during 1908, according to the report of the state police, filed yesterday. The insurance losses paid amounted to $16,341,836.

Athenian Maids Interested in a King Who is Twenty-Three—The Lady Cassowary also Kicks—Always Look Under the Bed!—Non-Employment Insurance May Yet Assure us of our Salaries.

A school teacher of greater Boston is wondering whether she has unearthed another advocate of simplified spelling. She recently received a note from a parent of one of her boys who had been absent which read, "Frank Was Out of but's that y he did not go to scull." The next day Frank appeared with bright new footwear, the lack of which she concluded was the cause of his absence.

An indication of the simplicity and democratic manner in which Harvard University is likely to be governed in the future by President Lowell was given on the 19th when the new head of the institution entered the administration building by way of the basement side door in order to avoid the photographers and reporters who were lying in wait for him. He started upon his new activities absolutely without ostentation, many of the students not even knowing the hour when he took the reins of government into his hands.

Boston girls who looked with live interest at the painting of King Alfonso of Spain as shown, pale and cadaverous, at the exhibition of Sorolla's pictures this spring, can hardly realize that the original was only 23 years old the 19th of this month. The young King is getting to be quite an old man in point of responsibilities if not in age. It is a serious matter to be both sovereign and parent at a time of life when most boys of aristocratic lineage are just entering the law or medical school.

A clever anti-suffragist writing recently in The Ladies Realm compares man's fate when women win their fight to that of some of the lower creatures. Going on the theory that women will take advantage of their privileges to the discomfort of their worse halves the writer cites examples of the cassowaries among others of which the female is the stronger. "The luckless males before long exhibited bald patches on the small of the back, due to the frequent and well-delivered kicks on the part of those who should have loved, honored and obeyed them." There are many more instances given of discomforts to which the male member of the family is subjected at the hands—or feet—of his mate. The writer evidently has strong fears of similar tendencies on the part of the emancipated woman.

In the crusade against flies the Board of Health of Boston made a wise decision when it decided to study into the habits and characteristics of flies before expending much money in exterminating them. It is true that when we go around slamming at every fly we see we are liable to kill some very useful and good flies along with the bad ones. Some flies there are who, like the parasites of the gypsy and brown tail moths, have a definite economic value to the community. We cannot be too severe in our fight against the disease breeding pest, but a little study into the various species would be very valuable in preserving our trees and shrubs from the devastating worms and moths which serve as food to the good flies. Incidentally there are more than 2,000 different kinds of flies in New England alone.

Harvard graduates and their friends are looking forward with keen anticipation to the eventful night next month when Maude Adams is to present "Joan of Arc" with a company of 1300 people at the classic Stadium in Cambridge. Miss Adams has already received her suit of armor which is copied closely from the DuBois statue and in which she will lead eight hundred armored followers in one of the most spectacular sham battles ever witnessed in this part of the world. It is expected that the presentation will be historically accurate in every detail. An idea of the immensity of the undertaking may be gained from the fact that it will require ten stage managers, one chief stage manager and over all a stage director to handle the large corps of actors and supernumeraries who will take part in the production.

Always look under the bed! You may scorn the idea of finding a burglar there—but there are other things to be considered. A lady travelling recently on one of the outside boats between New York and Boston commented on the unusually comfortable berths. On her return trip, however, she suffered great discomfort. Apparently the springs had broken and a narrow slat had been fastened across the frame, as a result of which it was impossible to rest and much less to sleep. In the wee small hours she was about to demand that she be given another stateroom when her daughter suddenly recollected having seen the porter push one of their suitcases under the lower berth and wondered if that had anything to do with the trouble. Investigation revealed that the lady had been reclining but not resting all night upon the handle and narrow top of the suitcase. Therefore the moral.

Non-employment insurance sounds good to the young woman who has her living to make. It might well be worth paying something to be assured of continued wages or salary in case of loss of a position. Over in England one hears that they are talking seriously of state insurance against unemployment. In Belgium they have a system of the kind operating among the labor unions. In this country the average worker certainly needs to be assured at the lowest possible rates against five different contingencies: Untimely death, superannuation, accidents, illnesses and unemployment. Two of these contingencies the state of Massachusetts is already attempting to cover with its admirable scheme of savings bank life insurance and old age annuities. These are in some respects the most fundamental needs of the citizen—life insurance and pensions. The statistics necessary for fixing the rates have been most carefully worked out. The scientific aspects are best understood. So that they naturally have come first in planning for the wage earner's welfare. Later on New England thrift will assuredly take hold of the other great problems and solve them in an equally satisfactory American way.

It is a pity that what gives pleasure to so many cannot be respected and the vandalism stopped.

NEW SUNDAY LAW.

Bills Signed by Governor Permitting Sale of Fruit, etc., on Sunday.

Under the new laws to which Governor Draper affixed his signature yesterday the sale of fruit, candy, soda water and ice cream is permitted on Sundays and certain necessary work is also permitted.

The Governor was urged to veto the bills by the New England Sabbath Protective League as it involved the letting down the bars on the Lord's day and he was urged to sign it by members of both parties in the legislature.

The so-called Sunday fruit bill permits those whose business it is every day in the week to sell fruit, soda, candy and ice cream to sell those articles on Sunday, if specially licensed so to do. In Boston the act takes effect on its passage and the excise board is entrusted with the licensing. There is a referendum as far as cities and towns outside of Boston are concerned, for before any Sunday licenses can be granted the provisions of the act must be accepted.

Before the bill becomes operative in Quincy therefore, the act must be accepted.

After it has been accepted it will be necessary for a license to be granted by the City Council before a fruit store can remain open on Sunday.

The second bill signed merely provides that such work of necessity such as the mending of leaks etc., may be done on permission of the local authorities.

Reliability and honesty always wins out and that is the reason of the success of R. E. Foy & Co., the South Quincy grocers, they give their customers just what they advertise, and the goods are always as advertised. Years of this treatment not only holds old customers but soon begets new ones.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS.

Visit Soldier's Home with good Things for the Veterans.

On Wednesday about twenty members of the Paul Revere Corps, No. 103, laden with boxes containing cigars, tobacco, fruit, books and other goodies for room 88 of which the Corps is the patron, wended their way to the Soldier's home, Chelsea. On their arrival lunch was served after which all were escorted over the home.

At 2.15 P. M. assembly call was blown by the bugler, an dall of the old veterans who were able gathered in Peter Smith hall to listen to an entertainment provided for them by members of the visiting Corps. The program which was of two hours' duration consisted of piano solo by Miss Edgely of Exeter, N. H., and Miss Barnes of Dorchester; vocal solos by Miss Elvira Ewell and Mrs. Morton of this city and Mrs. Smith of Dorchester; readings by Mrs. A. G. Fletcher, president of the Corps, Mrs. K. A. Blaisdell of Neponset and Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong of Dorchester.

The day was enjoyed by all and was manifested by the veterans, by the hearty hand clasp, and God bless you for the afternoon spent with them and the rousing cheer given for Corps 103.

Much credit for the success of the visit is due the committee especially Mrs. Alice M. Smith and the chairman Mrs. Edith B. Wolfe.

During the entertainment a poem written by Mrs. Agnes G. Fletcher and dedicated to "Our Boys in Blue" was read. Space does not permit of its publication.

DISPLAY OF BULB PLANTS.

The annual May flower show of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society will be held at Horticultural hall, today and Sunday.

Features of this exhibition will be the displays of late flowering bulbous plants, including Darwin tulips and narcissi which, owing to the very favorable season, are now in the perfection of bloom. There will be also a fine show of calceolarias, pelargoniums, and other seasonable greenhouse plants, and especially an interesting collection of flowering trees and shrubs from the Boston park department.

The exhibition will be open free today from twelve to six o'clock and on Sunday from two to six.

For good domestic or foreign granite the firm of John R. Richards at Quincy Adams ranks as one of the best. As they give personal attention to every detail good work results. They not only have a large assortment of monuments and tablets ready for inspection but execute at short notice lettering, carving and statuary.

—John R. Graham of Bangor, Me., formerly of Quincy, offers some figures regarding freight carrying by street railroads which surprised some of those who heard him speak before the merchants, says the Boston Record. He said that the Old Colony Street Railway in this state took in $45,000 for freight last year, and that on a road with but 1200 inhabitants beside it running out from Bangor over $25,000 had been taken in for freight.

TROLLEY FREIGHT INSPECTION TRIP

City Council Visits Cities Where It is In Operation

In order that the members of the City Council might personally inform themselves upon all matters pertaining to the trolley freight subject, Chairman Moir of the Committee on Streets, before whom the petition of the Old Colony Street railway, for approval of its operating a trolley freight on its lines in the City of Quincy, is pending, extended them an invitation to accompany the committee on a tour of inspection in some of the places where the trolley freight is in operation.

The street railway company furnished the council with a special car and extended to them every opportunity to investigate in any way they desired. The committee were informed that they could go anywhere they desired and make inquiries at will.

The special car containing the party left Quincy Square at 10 o'clock and ran direct to Brockton where the first stop was made. In the party were Chairman Moir of the Street Committee, President Hobbs, Councilmen Whiton, Gardner, Gilson, Flynn, McDevitt, Carey, Beal, Smith, Bean and Hadlock, City Engineer Sargent, City Messenger Tirrell and the clerk of the council. Other members of the council had planned to go but were kept away by the bad weather and by business engagements.

George Dunford general freight agent of the railway company was also present to furnish any information as to the operating of the system as was also Gen. Supt. Conway of the Old Colony system and Supt. Gammons of the Quincy division.

Arriving at Brockton the first stop was made at the freight house which was found to be much larger than any freight house in Quincy. The building was situated on a side street and a spur track from the main line enabled the cars to be unloaded directly into the building. It was explained that the company had three ways of receiving and delivering packages, and the charges depended upon which method they were shipped by. That the merchandise was delivered at the freight house where the person to whom they were consigned could come with their own team and take them away or the company would deliver them at the consignee's place of business. If the party came for the goods themselves, the charge would be less than if delivered by the company. Another way was that if goods were brought to the terminal the company would deliver them to the consignee or if desired the company would take the goods from the consignee, transport them and deliver them to the consignee.

After inspecting the terminal the party were requested to separate and visit any place of business they desired independently and make any inquiries they saw fit as to the service and as to the desirability of a trolley freight. This they did and when the party gathered together again and compared notes all had the same report to make. This was that the trolley freight was a grand good thing and that they did not know how they had been able to get along so long without it.

At 12.30 a start was made for Taunton. When near the Brockton fair grounds the car was halted on a siding while a lunch that had been prepared was enjoyed. While on this siding a freight car from Fall River passed. The party was informed that the car contained freight that had arrived that morning from New York by boat and that it would be delivered in Brockton by 1 o'clock.

The car was halted while the councilmen boarded it and inspected the freight carried while it was in transit. After lunch the trip was continued and Taunton was reached at 2 o'clock. Here the freight terminal was inspected and an opportunity given the members to visit the business houses and make what inquiries they desired. The same replies as to its desirability were received here as in Brockton.

Chairman Moir was then asked by Supt. Conway where he then desired to go and after some consultation it was announced that they would go to Fall River and New Bedford. Fall River was reached at 4 o'clock and a half hour spent here in examining the terminal and in questioning the merchants. New Bedford was reached at 5.15 and the same method was pursued here as in other cities visited.

At 5.45 the start for Quincy 53 miles away. The trip home was made through Middleboro, Bridgewater and Brockton thence to Quincy which was reached at 9.55 the run from New Bedford having been made in a little over four hours. In all the party had travelled about 135 miles and aside from the valuable information accumulated in the trolley freight line it was a very enjoyable trip as it took them through a very pretty bit of country much of which has been opened up by the advent of the electric cars.

Owing to the length of the trip time was not available to stop at any hotel for dinner or supper but the wants of the inner man were well taken care of, as the party carried a large supply of chicken and ham sandwiches, fruit, fancy crackers, hot coffee and cake with which the keen appetites were appeased.

The railway officials were most cordial during the trip ready and willing to do anything the party desired that they might obtain all information possible and when Supt. Conway left them at his home in Braintree he was given a vote of thanks.

CHAMPION WRESTLERS.

Some interesting wrestling matches were held at the Y. M. C. A. gym Saturday evening to decide who were champions in the Bantam and Lightweight classes. The final bout in the former class between J. W. Wilson and R. Merritt, who were very evenly matched in strength and weight, was very fast. Finally the superior knowledge of the game won out for Mr. Wilson, making him champion in the 115 pound class.

The 135 pound class final was between E. V. Wickey and P. K. Griffin, who proved to be very evenly matched.

Two preliminary bouts between them resulted in no "fall." The third bout was to continue until a "Fall" was awarded. After a half hour of strenuous wrestling with no result, Mr. Griffin withdrew, leaving the well-earned championship to Mr. Wickey. Medals were awarded the victors in each class. Thomas Moran acted as referee. G. S. Maxwell, timer.

WATER WILL BE BETTER.

The continued bad odor of the Metropolitan water is still the cause of much complaint. Metropolitan officials state that the peculiar odor is caused by a minute organism called Asterionella, which has been unusually prevalent all the spring. Weekly tests show a slight decrease in the volume of the Asterionella, and it is hoped that it will disappear in a short time as June is the month in which water systems affected usually become clear of the growth.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE.

The alarm from box 72 at 7.48 this morning was for a fire in the Madison House on South street, where a mattress was burned. A quick response by the fire department and speedy work upon arrival, saved what might have been quite a blaze, for the house is a large wooden structure and would have burned quite easily. The loss is estimated at $10. Mr. Knight is proprietor of the Madison House.

DEFAULT WAS REMOVED.

Thomas Turner one of the crowd arrested in the gambling raid in the Poland building two weeks ago and who was defaulted in court last Saturday came into court this morning. After explaining why he was not present Saturday the court ordered the default removed.

Turner then retracted his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of nolo contendere which was accepted. He was then fined $5 which he paid.

QUANTUM WATER SUPPLY PROBLEM

City Will Immediately Lay New Main From Atlantic.

The question of supplying Quantum with water which has been under discussion for a long time has been settled by Mayor Shea who has decided to lay a new main to this section from Atlantic. Up to the present time Quantum has had to depend upon the City of Boston for its water.

There has been more or less complaint and discussion over the water supply but the matter never came to a head until this year when the city of Boston absolutely refused to longer supply the residents with water.

The city of Boston then made a proposition to the city of Quincy to purchase its main and services at Quantum.

The price per foot however for the twenty year old mains was more than the city could put in new mains for.

Mayor Shea made Boston an offer for its old mains but was not able to reach any agreement.

It was then determined that the only thing for Quincy to do was to lay its own main.

The pipe necessary for this extension has been ordered and as soon as it arrives active work will be commenced. It is proposed to tap the present main at the junction of Atlantic and Quantum streets.

In the mean time the residents will get their supply of water from the city of Boston mains as they have in the past, Mayor Shea having made an agreement with Mayor Hibbard of Boston Saturday to that effect.

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

Stormy weather kept some children from attending the party given for them on Saturday afternoon at the clubhouse of the Quincy Women's club, but over seventy gathered. The afternoon was arranged by Miss Edith Randall of the Program committee, assisted by Mrs. Francis Abele, Jr., of the Philanthropy committee.

The party was made possible by various donations of money from club members and cake from club members.

For an hour the children were entertained with legerdemain and thoroughly enjoyed it. Dancing followed which was equally enjoyable.

The only disappointment was the non arrival of the ice cream but the committee was equal to the emergency and made up bowls of fruit punch which proved satisfactory and the first party for children of club members will be recorded as a great success in every way.

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

House on Main Street entered this Morning. Valuables Taken.

A daring daylight robbery took place this morning, when the house of Mrs. Rose Spektor, 160 Main street, was entered and two gold watches, a gold bracelet and $8 in money taken. No body was at home at the time. Mrs. Spektor having gone to store on an errand.

She left one of the kitchen windows open a little and it was here that the burglar gained entrance. It was an easy matter to push up the window and crawl in and although the house is in the thickly settled Ghetto district of the east side the burglar entered unmolested.

It was evidently a person who was familiar with the conditions and knew all about the house, because nothing was disturbed and nothing taken except above named articles. All the stuff taken was in a bureau drawer in a bedroom of the house. The drawer was locked and the key deposited under a pillow on the bed. Everything looked to be all right when the woman returned. The drawer was locked and the key in its accustomed place under the pillow. Upon opening the drawer however it was discovered that the watches, bracelet and money were gone. The police were notified at once but no clue as to the identity of the culprit had been found up to this noon.

BASEBALL.

Rain Stops Games Scheduled for Saturday.

All the local ball games, in fact nearly all the games in the East were postponed on Saturday on account of the rain and cold. The National league teams playing in the East all called off their games, while nearly every college, high school and amateur game scheduled was postponed.

Some rare sport was on the card for Quincy on Saturday too. Makaria and Roxbury were billed to play at Merry Mount park, the local team with four straight wins, being all ready to make it five. At Atlantic, Joe Ford's Quincy team was carded to meet the Atlantic team, 1908 champions of the city. Both teams had strong batting orders made up and a hot game was assured.

At Ward Two playground the Bigelows and the U. S. S. Salem were down for a game. The Salem boys have a fast team and were out to break the winning streak of the Bigelows, who haven't been trimmed this season.

The Fore River Apprentices were to play the Dorchester at Dorchester on Saturday, but didn't go at all, while the Quincy Points cancelled their game with the Baracas of North Weymouth.

Besides those already named, the Excelsior class of Norfolk Downs, the Adams A. A. and several other teams all had games. All these games however will probably be played off sometime during the season.

Quincy High has two games down this week. On Wednesday the Melrose team will be entertained at the Park and on Friday the team goes to Dedham. Quincy defeated both in football and will endeavor to repeat in the national game.

Manager James Falvey of the Bates Avenue Stars has a few open dates that he would like to fill. His address is 18 Bates avenue and the team is ready to meet any 11-12 year old club in the city.

Anniversary week.
Don't wait till 1915 to make Quincy better. Now is the appointed time.

An "All Georgia campaign" against tuberculosis has been auspiciously started at Augusta, Ga., and great results are expected.

The city of Boston has just received nearly $1,400,000 for liquor licenses, but will have to pay it all out for police protection.

Schools for technical training are bound to come, and labor unions that oppose them are as densely unprogressive as they are selfish.

A Chicago clergyman declares that $1,000 a year is the smallest income on which a couple should get married,
but occasionally a girl is found who is willing to take a chance on $900 a year with the right young man.

This is cleaning up week. Get busy and make the city teams work overtime carrying off your back yard rubbish. This week they will take yard rubbish as well as ashes. Don't let the team get by without a contribution from you.

Don't postpone too long ordering your winter's supply of coal. The price may go up again.

No matter how busy the editor may be, and how rushed with work, he has always the consolation of thinking that perhaps two men will come into his office and take up fifteen minutes
of his time asking him to decide a bet.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

It is amusing says the Spencer Leader to follow the thought of an editorial writer in the Boston Post,
who condemns the American fashion
of annihilating time, gulping our work,
the interminable hustle of American life. If there is any spot on earth
where time is gulped and annihilated,
where everything is in a constant,
never-ending rush, it is a modern daily newspaper office. But physicians, it is said, rarely take the medicine which they prescribe for others.

Newspapers of both Somerville and Revere are urging a large expenditure for streets. Clean, hard streets with no dust are the best sort of an advertisement for a city. We are proud of our streets in this city and for many years we have led the way.
We cannot afford to let the other suburbs get ahead of us. There should be no curtailing in that appropriation.
Good roads by day and well-lighted thoroughfares at night bring the best people to a city.—Malden News.

The entries for the early closing events at the Brockton fair have been announced, and any day now we may hear of further plans for the coming fall festival days. The flight of time is marvelous; it hardly seems possible
that since the last fair we have passed through a long and wearisome winter
and are well into the gladsome days that ought to be summertime and are well on the way toward another October joy.—Brockton Enterprise.

COUNSEL FEES AND EXPENSES

Convicted Man and His Mother Say

There is No Ground For Claim That Money Was Spent to Protect Har-
try's Name From Public Scandal—Former Counsel Is Suing For Settlement of Bill of About $70,000

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 24.—
Harry K. Thaw and his mother, Mary
C. Thaw, both issued statements last night attacking the affidavit made and statement issued in New York
Saturday by Clifford W. Hartridge, formerly of counsel for Thaw, in which the lawyer said that he spent approximately $40,000 to conciliate persons who would otherwise have injured his client. Hartridge is suing for counsel fees and issued his statement after a motion had been made by Mrs. Thaw calling for a bill of particulars in his suit.

Harry Thaw is in the Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane near here and his mother has been almost constantly in touch with him. Her statement says in part:

"While sorry for the state of mind
that inspired it, I read the extraordinary affidavit and statement of Mr. Hartridge with no small satisfaction. They show the groundlessness of his claims. I never asked him to 'hush' anything.

"It is news to me that I asked him
to keep my son out of Matteawan.
That question was not raised from the time I met Mr. Hartridge until Mr.
Delmas was in charge and the trial half over, at Mr. Jerome's instigation."

Harry Thaw's statement is similar to that of his mother, but in addition it bristles with personal attacks upon Hartridge. The statement says,
among other things:

"The affidavit published by C. W.
Hartridge is composed of falsehoods
from beginning to end. Were there any truth in it I should have him disbarred. But there is no truth in it.
He never spent $40,000 nor $100,000
nor $100 in 'hush money' as he pretends.

"Any newspaper man in New York
can tell you that Hartridge's pretense of having suppressed anything is humbug. A person like Hartridge
could not close one eyelash of the thousand-eyed press. All Hartridge
does is to repeat vaguely some fabrication, then pretend he spent money to keep this from the knowledge of the district attorney or the newspapers."

The affidavit was filed in the United States circuit court at New York
by Hartridge in opposition to the motion made on behalf of Thaw's mother to compel the lawyer to submit a bill
of particulars in his suit to recover
legal and other expenses at the trials amounting to $70,739.
Hartridge's affidavit declares that he expended more than $40,000 in protecting his client's reputation outside of the legal expenses incident upon the trials. These sums, he declares, were paid out at the request of Mrs. Thaw to protect her son's name from public scandal, and from the accusation of guilt and offenses
and misconduct involving great moral turpitude, and in protecting him from the machinations and attacks of numerous people.

STANDS WELL WITH TAFT
Hammond May Be Offered the Post of Minister to China

Washington, May 24.—While it is impossible to obtain any confirmation of the report that President Taft will tender the post of minister to China to John H. Hammond, it is believed here that such an offer will be made.
Among the many reports in circulation here about the matter is one that the president will tender the place to Hammond in appreciation of his services to the Republican party during the past campaign, but that Hammond will officially reply that he does not want public office and could not leave his private business interests to accept one.

Veterans In Fatal Quarrel
Bristol, R. I., May 24.—A finding that Albert Morris, a veteran in the Rhode Island Soldiers' Home, came to his death as the result of a blow on the head delivered by John McKenna, another veteran, was rendered by the coroner. McKenna is in jail, awaiting a hearing. It is alleged that the men had quarreled.

Sunday Shindy In Paris
Paris, May 24.—The revolutionary socialists' annual demonstration before the monument to the Communists, in which many dismissed postal employees took part, was marked by violent scuffles with the police. A large number on both sides were injured and about twenty arrests were made.

Crack Runners Beaten
Toronto, May 24.—Percy Sellen,
the middle distance Canadian, ran Henri St. Yves and John D. March,
the winners of the American and Canadian derby Marathon races, off their feet in a fifteen mile race at Hendon's Point.

GREAT BOOM SEEMS NEAR

Much to Be Done in New England in Way of Construction

Boston, May 24.—Industrial expansion now in progress or in prospect in New England promises to make the present year notable for commercial growth in this section.

In Massachusetts, Rhode Island,
New Hampshire and Maine, new mills
and additions to existing plants already under construction or planned,
number more than one hundred.
About half of the number are in Massachusetts.

Contracts awarded thus far this year for new construction in New England exceed $54,000,000. This is more than double the amount for the corresponding period of last year and far ahead of the figures for many years.

The greatest activity is shown in the textile industry, of the establishment of which on a firm basis in the United States the present year is practically the centenary.

STEERS CREATE A PANIC

Four Jump Into River, While Policeman Brings Down a Fifth

New York, May 24.—Five steers broke away from a herd of 200 being unloaded from a cattle boat in the North river and created a panic on the West Side.

Four of the animals leaped into the river and started swimming for the New Jersey shore, while the fifth ran wild for many blocks, knocking down pedestrians and spreading terror in its path until brought down by a bullet fired by a policeman. More than fifty shots were fired before the animal was killed.

Of the other runaways, two swam across the river and were captured in Hoboken. The third was killed in midstream after being injured, and the fourth was caught after swimming a quarter of a mile along the waterfront.

"HOLMES" TO FIGURE IN PATRICK CASE

Decision on Motion For a New Trial Expected This Week

New York, May 24.—Albert T.
Patrick, the alleged murderer of William M. Rice, will be aided in his next fight for freedom by Dr. Joseph Bell, the original of Sherlock Holmes and physician in ordinary to King Edward.

A decision is expected next Friday
from the supreme court on the motion of Patrick's lawyers for a new trial,
and in the event of its being granted,
sensational developments are promised in the celebrated case.

ICE BLOCKADE CONTINUES

Great Fields Hold Newfoundland Harbors In Their Embrace

St. John's, May 24.—With little slackening, the Labrador current continues to carry with it on its course past the eastern Newfoundland
ports a steady procession of ice cakes, constituting fields of almost intermin-able length.

Occasionally there is a rift in the procession, and all such opportunities
are eagerly awaited by the steamers,
either on the ocean side, awaiting entrance to the harbor, or penned in the harbor, anxious to begin their voyages.

Three steamers successfully ran the blockade Sunday, while another had to return after finding it impossible to penetrate the formations farther north.

SHOWS RUN AS USUAL

McClellan Fails to Sit on Lid at Coney Island as Expected

New York, May 24.—Two hundred thousand persons, according to estimate, went to Coney Island Sunday to watch the police clap on the lid as threatened by Mayor McClellan's recent declaration that the Sunday closing law would be enforced.

Those who expected a clash between the law and the showmen were disappointed, for no friction whatever occurred. All amusement resorts ran as usual and only six arrests were made during the day.

The general gallery of the island was not disturbed, which leads to the belief that gambling and questionable places alone are to be molested.

Counterfeiting Plant Unearthed
New York, May 24.—A fully equipped counterfeiting plant for the making of spurious coins from 5 to 50 cent pieces was discovered in a tenement
on the East Side. Detectives arrested the occupants of the apartment, a young Italian woman and three men.

Five Children Made Orphans
Lowell, Mass., May 24.—Five children were orphaned when Mrs.
Johanna Robinson of East Chelmsford was struck and killed by an electric car while leading her cow across the tracks. She was 57 years old and lost her husband four weeks ago.

FIRE FIGHTERS BURNED

Explosion When Blaze Was Thought

to Have Been Subdued

Cambridge, Mass., May 24.—

Twelve firemen and four railroad employees were badly burned, and others slightly injured by a gas explosion in the Boston and Maine freight yards
at East Cambridge.

The blaze at first was a small one in a little structure into which ran the pipes from four or five of the big gas tanks where the railroad company manufactures its gas for the cars. After a few minutes' work it was thought the fire was extinguished
and the men were about to withdraw
when there was a terrific explosion which wrecked the structure and a huge sheet of flame enveloped the bystanders.

The clothes were burned off of Fire Chief Bunker and all of the men were badly burned.

Long tongues of flame streamed out of the gas pipes and the firemen had to stand at a distance on account of the danger of the explosion of the big tanks. The monetary loss was comparatively small and the cause of the fire is not known.

WOMAN FATALLY CRUSHED

Other Persons Have a Narrow Escape

In Elevator Accident

Fitchburg, Mass., May 24.—An elevator accident at the Johnsonia

hotel in this city resulted in the death of Miss Mary Cronin, aged 50. Miss Cronin, who was employed in the kitchen of the hotel, became wedged between the top floor and the car and two doctors and members of the fire department were summoned to extricate her. After an hour's work firemen and physicians finally succeeded in getting her free, but it was too late to save her life.

The releasing of Miss Cronin caused
the elevator to fall to the fourth floor,
one flight below, and two members of the fire department and two doctors who were leaning over the car in their efforts to extricate the woman fell with it. All were more or less shaken up and bruised.

Providence, May 24.—Investigation

by the local police into the murder on May 10 of Miss Laura E. Register has failed to develop anything new and the case is as great a mystery as ever.

Chief Inspector Horton has received from New York a report from the detectives of that city to the effect that a former suitor of Miss Register had been given a careful questioning and had satisfactorily cleared himself from any entanglement in the case.

A MITS STABBING WOMAN

Former Labor Leader Is Locked Up In

New York Without Bail

New York, May 24.—Cornelius P.

Shea, former president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, is locked up without bail pending the outcome of the injuries of Alice Walsh, a young woman whom he admits, according to the police, having stabbed more than twenty times with a pocketknife after a quarrel in his apartment in this city.

The woman has been variously reported as recovering and dying, but it is said at the hospital that no definite prediction as to the outcome of her injuries can be made.

Shea's labor friends have rallied to his support. He has a wife and children in Boston.

Senators Expected to Put in a Busy

Week in Tariff Discussion

Washington, May 24.—The senate

program for this week includes nothing but the tariff, and there is no prospect for any of that spice which is said to be the result of variety.

There is now a possibility that the sessions will be lengthened into the night.

It is proposed in case of night sittings that the daily sessions shall begin at 1 in the morning and end at 11
at night.

QUICKLY MADE THEIR ESCAPE

Bandits' Plans For Robbing
Passenger Train Well Laid

WITHIN ONE MILE OF OMAHA

Four Men Wearing Long Raincoats
and Having Features Entirely Masked Secure Mail Pouches and Loot Them In a Deep Cut—Reward
of $5000 Each For Capture of Robbers Offered by the Railroad

Omaha, May 24.—Although the police and the sheriff have had large forces of men searching the country around the scene of a hold-up of a Union Pacific passenger train three miles west of Omaha, little progress has been made toward tracing the escaped robbers.

The empty mail pouches taken from the train were found some distance from the place where the robbery occurred. They had been cut open and their contents had been removed, the outlaws overlooking only one package.

That the robbers had laid their plans well is apparent. They dropped from sight so quickly that not a single person has been able to give a clue to the direction in which they went. All four of the men wore long raincoats
and their features were entirely masked, giving no chance to members of the train crew to identify them.

What means of escape the robbers selected is indefinite, but officers believe that they had either an automobile or a fast horse. The fact that only two of the rifled pouches have been found indicates that they were in no hurry to divide their loot, and Captain Savage of the Omaha detective department believes his men will be able to find some trace of the outlaws before they can get far away.

The robbery took place within a mile of the city limits. Two of the robbers climbed onto the engine with drawn revolvers and forced the engineer to stop the train. The engine crew was ordered out of the cab and two of the robbers stood guard while the other two escorted the engineer and fireman to the rear. The quarrel was apparently well acquainted with the ground, as they forced the train to stop in a deep cut.

There were eight clerks in the mail car and they were forced to open the door. The chief clerk was singled out and asked to point out the registered mail. This he did and the robbers gathered up seven pouches and the leader then remarked: "This is all we can get into our automobile."

Continuous shooting was kept up during the robbery, evidently to intimidate passengers and crew. A flagman who went to the rear narrowly escaped being shot. Several passengers who had not retired started to get out of the vestibules, but the robbers ordered them back into the cars.

The train was stopped only fifteen minutes and made a quick run to the Union station, where the police were quickly notified. Within half an hour a big squad of police started for the scene of the hold-up. Sheriff Bralley and a force of deputies also started out within a short time.

The registered pouches were all destined to eastern points, the greater part of them being for Chicago and New York. The robber who entered the car asked for the "bank mail,"
but whether there was any great amount of money in the pouches is not known. Union Pacific officials at once offered a reward of $5000 each for the capture of the robbers.

PLEADED IN VAIN

Coolies Forced to Sail on Ship on Which They Had Mutinied

New York, May 24.—Defiant, but overpowered, twenty Chinese coolies
who mutinied and attempted to desert the Norwegian tramp steamer
Hercules when she arrived here recently, were forced to depart with the vessel Sunday, when she passed out
the Hook, bound for Sydney.

The Chinamen alleged cruel treatment and insufficient food and begged to be allowed to remain here, but the Norwegian consul declined in favor of the skipper of the Hercules.

Probably Beyond Salvage Vineyard Haven, Mass., May 24.—
The battering of the heavy north-

her so badly as to preclude further hopes of salvage. The schooner was valued at $70,000.

urday. The mercury fell to 10 degrees below zero.

FIREMEN HOLD THEIR GROUND

Sympathizers With Strikers Assume Responsibility For Damage Done
Thus Far—Governor Communicates
With Sheriffs and Urges Prompt Action For Protection of Railroad
Employees and Property

Augusta, Ga., May 24.—The Georgia railroad is completely tied up by the firemen's strike. The management is not trying to move trains, simply announcing that it has the men, the means and the equipment to proceed, and will do so when the state announces it is ready to protect its property and employees.

The striking firemen are standing firm. They assert that they have not been and will not be party to any violence. Their sympathizers, they say, have done all the damage that has been done. General Manager Scott, at 6 o'clock last night, made the announcement that no trains were moving.

Governor Smith telegraphed the sheriff of McDuffie county to co-operate with the municipal authorities and to summon all deputies necessary to protect life and property. It is in this county that Thomson, where the crowd issued their ultimatum Saturday night that no trains should pass carrying either non-union firemen or negro firemen, is situated.

Governor Smith has asked the sheriff there also to keep him fully advised of the situation. The governor, moreover, has wired the sheriffs of Rockdale and DeKalb counties, giving them information that engineers complain of having been stoned at Conyers and Lithonia and urging upon them prompt action for the protection of the railroad's employees and property.

From the offices of the Georgia railroad here it was announced that all freight accumulated at Atlanta for Augusta and all points beyond will be moved by the Central of Georgia and Seaboard Air Lines.

The Georgia railroad freight station
here was opened today for moving freight to consignees, but shippers are required to withhold all shipments
until further notice.

The Georgia railroad is 171 miles long from Atlanta to Augusta and has branches at Camack to Macon, at Barnett to Washington, at Union
Point to White Plains and at Union Point to Athens. It is owned by a stock company and is being operated by the Louisville and Nashville as lessee. It employs 2400 to 2500 men, 400 of whom are in the train service. Its last monthly payroll was $40,000.

Emma Goldman Protests Against Denial of Right of Free Speech

New York, May 24.—Although proposing to discuss nothing more revolutionary than "The Modern Drama as a Disseminator of Radical Thought," Emma Goldman was prevented by the police from addressing a crowd of several hundred persons who assembled in a hall in Harlem
to hear her.

She protested vigorously against what she termed a denial of the right of free speech, but eventually left the hall, accompanied by Alexander Berkman, her associate in anarchistic activities.

The police had difficulty in dispersing those who had paid for admission to the hall and in one instance at least had to resort to blows. Two arrests were made.

BATTLESHIP STUCK FAST

Accident Which Will Postpone Launching For Couple of Weeks.

Brest, May 24.—The battleship Danton is still on the ways, where she stuck Saturday at her launching.
All of the efforts of the tugs to release
the battleship have failed and it will be a fortnight before the launch can be completed.

The accident is attributed to the insufficient incline of the ways and the sinking of the supports under the immense weight, which caused the hull to deviate from her course.

JUNE MAGAZINES.

A line in the June Lippincott's describes one of its two departments as "same, stimulating, optimistic," which adjectives might with equal appropriateness be applied to the entire magazine. To date it has made no effort to reform the universe, even though it must be conceded that to a greater or less extent the universe
does need reforming. Lippincott's mission is solely to entertain, and right nobly does it fulfill it. The June issue opens with a stirring complete novel of the "Zenda" type, by Grace McGowan Cooke, whose ability as a successful writer has been demonstrated by a long list of successful books. Her new tale is entitled "The Royal Line," and the leading character is the reigning princess of Waldavia, a small European principality.

Leading articles in Technical World
for June, are: Slaughter of the Innocents, Dr. Alvin Davison; Power from Sunlight, Winthrop Packard; Making
Oats Self-Supporting, F. G. Moorhead; Divining Rod Still Mystifies, H. G.
Hunting; Experimenting with Death, Roy Crandall; Real Conservation of our Resources, Edward G. Acheson; Lost Art of Tempering Copper Rediscovered, Roland Ashford Phillips; A Ray of Hope for the Hopeless, H. G.
Hunting; Building the World's Most Beautiful Road, Dr. Alfred Gradenwitz; Who Own the Earth? VI. The Oil Industry.—Henry M. Hyde.

The June Suburban Life is an outdoor number throughout. The cover itself, with its striking bunch of strawberries, suggests the garden and its delights. The leading article is entitled "What the Camper Needs to know about Tenting," and offers many suggestions to people who are planning their vacations. "Of Books and Gardens" is a delightful contribution
from the pen of that popular writer, Miss Zona Gale. "What Are We Going to Do about Our Roads?" is a pertinent question discussed with authority by Allerton S. Cushman, Assistant Director of the United States Department of Public Roads. "The June-planted vegetable garden," "Good Taste in the Arrangement of Cut-flowers," "Ten of My Boys" is a well-written and entertaining article contributed by Prof. F. A. Waugh, of the Massachusetts State College of Agriculture, and demonstrates the value
of an agricultural college education.

Everybody's June fiction is rather out of the ordinary. In the first place, Eleanor Abbott maintains the standard set by her famous prize stories. In "Along the Ripply River" she tells of love and adventure and heroism with all her usual charm and a little more than her usual vigor, and out of it all evolves an absorbingly interesting tale. Robert Dunn recounts the insubordination of one of Uncle Sam's sailors who blonded his hair for the good of the service. It was wrong of the sailor, but here's three cheers and a pardon for "The Peroxide Plugman." Anna Yeaman Condit tells the dear, absurd, and wholly delightful troubles of Johnnie Stillman
at a children's party. "When Hearts are Trumps," she calls it. For the genuine article in extravagant humor
see "The Saturday Afternoon P.
Porter," Emerson Browne's. "The Spectacular Suicide of Slothful Slack" runs a close second to Samuel G.
Blythe's "The Search for a Hard-Boiled Egg." And in "The Lost Lumber Lead" Lucia Chamberlain has written a story of mystery and adventure that haunts the memory.

GENTLEMEN—I wish to tell you of a fact which I regard as very remarkable. All my life I have been troubled with a quantity of dandruff on my head and in my hair. About a year ago I got a bottle of Sage and Sulphur and used it just once, expecting of course to continue the treatment, but neglected it for several days, and before I got around to use it again I found I was completely cured, my scalp remaining clean and smooth with not a trace of dandruff ever since. Wm. B. Young, Jr.,

LETTER TO THE PUBLIC.

Boston, Mass., May 24, 1909.
To the Citizens of Massachusetts:

The Committee on Metropolitan Affairs has at last reported to the Legislature a bill for the revision of the Boston City charter based upon the recommendations of the Boston Finance Commission. The members of the Committee are to be congratulated upon the results of their labors. They have been subjected to all sorts of political pressure, but they have shown commendable public spirit and have kept in mind the interests of the citizens of Boston. They deserve praise for the satisfactory results which are embodied in the bill and are entitled to the support of their fellow members of the Legislature.

The bill as reported is divided into two parts. The first part embodies the administrative features of the recommendations of the Finance Commission. It provides for a permanent finance commission, the administration of departments by trained experts approved by the Civil Service Commission, the initiative of the budget by the mayor, more careful safeguarding of long time contracts entered into by the city, increase in the power of the auditor, carefully drawn provisions preventing the interference of the city council in matters of city contracts and city labor, the regular publication of a "City Record" and various other excellent details.

The second or political part of the bill is referred to the people in alternative form. The first plan provides for a two year term for mayor, a city council of thirty-six, (twenty-seven elected by wards and nine at large) with minority representation, and a return to the old convention system. The second plan calls for a four year term for the mayor subject to recall after two years, a city council of nine members elected at large for three year terms, and nominations by petition with the abolition of party designations on the ballot. Whichever plan is favored by the majority of those who vote upon these alternative propositions at the state election will become law.

As can at once be seen, the latter features of the bill are a compromise due to certain political considerations which could not be wholly without. The Committee, however, has carefully preserved in its draft all the essential features of the charter amendments recommended by the Boston Finance Commission. Some of these it recommends that the Legislature enact at once and the others it gives the people an opportunity to obtain by declaring at the state election for plan two.

The revelations of the recent Finance Commission have made clearly evident the necessity for the careful and unceasing watchfulness which a permanent finance commission will make possible. The proposal to have the Civil Service Commission certify as to the character, training and ability of proposed heads of departments meets the necessity for a higher grade of men in these places which has been so painfully evident in recent years. The other administrative features of the bill are equally commendable.

As for the so-called political features of the bill, the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs deserves praise for insisting that the citizens of this city should have an opportunity to adopt all the recommendations of the Boston Finance Commission. It is now for those who have been calling for the improved municipal machinery recommended by the Finance Commission to support this bill in its entirety and then to put before the citizens the importance of adopting plan two at the state election.

It is of the utmost importance that the bill should not be hacked to pieces by the various political forces which will undoubtedly try to secure its amendment in the Legislature and thus defeat the principles of the bill. Any amendment is bound to throw open a way for changes which will render the bill less satisfactory. The people of this city and of the State of Massachusetts have grown tired of the pulling and hauling upon this question which has been going on within the past few months and will not tolerate any further change in the draft as submitted. As this Committee gathers the temper of the people of this city at the meetings which it has arranged and held in all parts of Boston and from a large number of citizens with whom its members are in daily touch, it feels confident that the voters will give their heartiest support to the bill just as it is drafted and will recognize that any attempt to amend is bound to result in perpetuating the evils of the present system.

Every right minded citizen of Boston and every man in Massachusetts who desires to see this city and state make commercial, industrial and civic progress should actively and persistently exert his influence to secure the enactment of the bill without amendment of any kind. Executive Committee of the Committee of One Hundred Morton Prince, Chairman; Robert J. Bottomly, Secretary.

SUPREME COURT SAYS ONE PONY EXPRESS MUST BE GRANTED.

Judge Braley's statement made in the supreme court that the privilege of carrying liquor must be granted by town authorities to at least one of the bona-fide express companies who are applicants, puts a number of towns and cities in an untenable position. In the cities of Malden and Everett, for example, pony express licenses have been universally denied.

Last year Malden, with a population of about 40,000 granted 30 such licenses. This year none were granted. Some eight or ten disappointed expressmen combined under the firm name, Malden Interstate Express Company, and propose to deliver liquor from Portsmouth, N. H. Operating under the interstate law they can deliver orders for wet goods placed through their office.

Pony licenses were granted in Everett last year. This year the ministers and temperance people succeeded in influencing the board of aldermen to grant none. This city of 30,000 people was not kept from filling the cup that cheers on their own buffets, for the Charlestown grocers immediately began to deliver orders in Everett. A driver of a wagon was hailed into court as a test case, and Judge Bruce of the Malden court decided that licensed grocers could deliver with their own teams.

Melrose followed the lead of Malden and Everett, and the aldermen voted about ten days ago to grant no licenses.

Perhaps the place which will be the most radically effected by this opinion of Judge Bruce's, is the city of Lynn. Here no pony licenses were granted and twenty interstate express companies are now in operation.

After being cut off from all communication with the convival world for a year, the "wets" of Wakefield made the pony express license an issue in the campaign last February, and as a result three pony express licenses were granted April 17. Three others were rejected. During the previous year some citizens trundled kegs from the freight station to their homes in perambulators, while others rolled their brews in front of them. The sentiment against any pony licenses was extremely strong in Natick. In Framingham neither pony licenses nor druggists' liquor licenses of the sixth class were granted, and the town does not appear to be restive under the resulting dryness.

The Somerville aldermen to date, have granted 15 pony licenses, as against 30 last year. They have already granted 28 druggists' sixth class liquor licenses with the prospect of more being added to the list. Though some opposition was expressed, it did not attain any large proportions.

Manchester is one of the localities where the town authorities will likely be called on to rescind their action as they have granted no delivering licenses either this or last year. In President Taft's prospective summer home town of Beverly good cheer for the troop which follows on his train has already been assured by the vote of the board of aldermen. Out of ten applicants, six were granted licenses, in comparison with two successful applicants last year. Since then a motion to reconsider has been filed and the case comes up again next Tuesday.

Delcavre King, attorney for the Massachusetts No License League, feels that the sentiment of the League is rather contrary to the granting of pony licenses. "It is a pretty tough question. We make our argument on the issue, 'Saloon or no saloon,' and try not to get side-tracked from it. It appears to me that that the pony licenses are the one side of the liquor question which isn't clear in our own minds. In some places the pony license system seems to work well. Towns in which they have been ruled out have in some instances gone wet at the next election."

"This year we put no bill in before the Legislature on the pony express question, which will have still another phase when the interstate law goes into effect next January on the sending of liquor in C. O. D. packages from other states into Massachusetts. "In Quincy, where my home is, 21 pony express licenses were granted within the month, which is thirty per cent. more than last year. I think they have probably granted too many this year. That is just the difficulty with the system; it is hard to draw the line between Tom Jones, who does a legitimate express business, and John Smith, whom you suspect to be a trifle shady."

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY LEDGER.

SERIOUSLY ILL.

Alderman Donnelly Dying at His Wollaston Home.

Alderman Daniel Donnelly of Boston who has been living at Wollaston for some time is seriously ill and the attending physicians give but little hope for his recovery. Alderman Donnelly called "the honest blacksmith" who is a unique figure in Boston politics has been a sufferer from tuberculosis for two years. He has made a plucky fight against the disease but all to no avail.

HAVE THE MEASLES.

Visiting the cruiser Salem at the Fore River yards by the public has been stopped for the present owing to several of the crew being sick with the measles. Ever since the cruiser has been at the Fore River she has had hundreds of visitors especially on Sundays.

Yesterday several hundred visited the Fore River to see friends and to go over the ship but came away disappointed as the vessel was in quarantine. It is probable that the sick men will be taken to the marine hospital.

Saturday five members of the crew were taken ill with the measles and the ship was immediately put in quarantine. It is probable that the sick men will be taken to the marine hospital.

Crime and the Telephone.

From the beginning to the end of a transaction in crime the telephone comes into use, serving both sides with equal fidelity, says a writer in Appleton's Magazine. The thief uses it to determine which house he may safely rob. The man next door sees the burglar and calls up the police. The police arrive, catch the burglar and telephone for the Black Maria to take him to jail. The thief telephones a lawyer to defend him. The lawyer telephones for the bondsman to bail out his client, and the banker telephones the sheriff that the bondsman's check is good. When the day of trial comes the clerk of the court, being a kind gentleman, telephones to the burglar's lawyer; the sheriff telephones witnesses to be present. When the burglar is convicted and sentenced the sheriff uses long distance to tell the warden of the penitentiary when his prisoner will be delivered. After that the telephone line is kept hot by influential politicians petitioning the governor for a pardon.

An Embarrassing Moment.

The author of "Collections and Recollections" relates a personal experience of having said a "thing one would rather have left unsaid." Even after the lapse of twenty years, he adds, the recollection of the sensations of the moment turns him hot with chagrin.

A remarkably pompous clergyman, a diocesan inspector of schools, once showed me a theme on a Scriptural subject written by a girl who was trying to pass from the rank of a pupil teacher to the rank of schoolmistress. The theme was full of absurd mistakes, over which the inspector laughed uproariously.

"Well, what do you think of that?" he inquired when I handed back the paper.

"Oh," said I in perfectly good faith, "the mistakes are bad enough, but the writing is far worse. It really is a disgrace."

"The writing? What, my writing?" said the inspector. "I copied the theme out myself."

TROLLEY FREIGHT IN MIDDLEBORO

What It Has Done for That City It May Do for Quincy.

An article in a morning paper has this to say about the trolley freight in Middleboro:

The experience of Middleboro merchants shows what the trolley express lines are doing to divert business from the cities which they do not tap. Middleboro is 35 miles from Boston and 24 miles from Providence, but there are frequent trains to Boston, and the Providence line is an inferior railroad service. As a rule the Middleboro merchant buys from Boston wholesalers and jobbers, but if he wishes a quick delivery he sends to Providence. Middleboro business men say they save time on emergency orders by buying at Providence by telephone. They order any time before noon, and by mid-afternoon the goods are delivered at their store doors by the trolley express. If they sent to Boston, they assert, the delays in delivery to the railroad and in transmission to their stores would make a difference of several hours.

Boston appears to be losing business in this section because of the efficiency of the trolley shipment system, although the great railway line from Providence is a roundabout route.

ASSOCIATES AT FUNERAL

Many Organizations Attend Services of Hon. W. B. Rice

The funeral of Hon. William B. Rice was held Monday afternoon from his late home 215 Adams street and was largely attended by relatives, friends and business associates. Services were conducted by Rev. Ellery C. Butler, pastor of the First church and consisted of scripture reading, prayer and a brief eulogy on the life of Mr. Rice. Mr. Butler spoke of the energetic and steadfast life that Mr. Rice had lived. He said Mr. Rice was an excellent example of the man who goes out into the world with a firm purpose to succeed and fulfills his purpose by the optimistic faith in God and Man.

During the services the Albion quartet of Boston sang "Crossing the Bar," "Sunset" and "O Paradise." Interment was in Forest Hills cemetery.

The services were attended by delegations from the Algonquin club, Union club, Boot and Shoe club, New England Shoe and Leather association, of which Mr. Rice was at one time president and vice president, and several shoe concerns in which he was a director.

Representatives were also present from the Continental National bank and Franklin Savings bank and several members of the board of directors of the City Hospital, a gift of Mr. Rice to the city.

The New England Boot and Shoe Association was represented by Joseph R. Leeson, Andrew G. Webster, Charles C. Hoyt and J. Frank McElwain of Boston and John A. Frye of Marlboro. Mayor Parsons of Marlboro and A. Shuman of Boston were also present.

SUNDAY WORK.

Chief of Police to Decide What Work is Necessary to be Done.

The new law legalizing certain work on Sundays puts the whole matter in the hands of the police authorities in each city to decide what is necessary work to be done on that day. The bill was asked for particularly by gas and electric lighting companies and street railway companies although as passed its application can be made more general.

Under the law the Chief of Police may issue a permit for the performance on the Lord's day of such necessary work or labor which in his judgment could not be performed on any other day without serious suffering, loss, damage or public inconvenience and upon such terms and conditions as he deems reasonable.

Such a permit however shall not cover more than one day and shall not be issued more than six days prior to the day for which it is passed.

It will be seen therefore that the bars of the Lord's day are not broken down to any extent. There often arises cases when it is absolutely necessary to perform certain work on Sundays but until this law was passed it was illegal.

The passage of the law was doubtless due to the efforts made in Boston last year to strictly enforce the law and not a few were hauled into court and fined.

CONTAGIOUS WARD.

A building permit has been issued to the City Hospital for the erection of a contagious ward near the present hospital building. The building will be of brick and two stories high. Its dimensions are 36 by 75 feet.

It seems that one might almost dare
to let the furnace fire go out.

Wisconsin has passed a law prohibiting swearing. Hereafter customers will converse with their ice men in the deaf and dumb alphabet.

The complaint that an income tax would make us a nation of liars apparently comes largely from the people who are afraid to trust themselves.

The sugar trust has been cheating
the government for ten years. Yet the government is kinder to the sugar trust than to any other in the country.

Spain now has equal commercial privileges with the United States in the Philippines. So ends the war.

The Wisconsin Legislature has killed the bill designed to grant the suffrage to women. Those wicked, wicked men!

Having been caught in the act of stealing some $2,000,000, the sugar trust seems quite likely to suffer the pain of seeing some half dozen of its $13 a week employees sent to the penitentiary for it.

If Senator Lodge would give his whole attention to tariff revision and let charter revision for Boston alone,
it would be better for him, for the country and for the city.

If Congress has to stay in session
all summer, it will certainly put fans,
ice and mint juleps on the free list.

Viewed simply as a question of bookkeeping, the $10,000,000 that Spain has decided to spend on a new navy ought to be credited to the sinking fund.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

In a sense, the late Henry Rogers
was a good man and a useful citizen.
His private life was above reproach.
He had a very likable and human side, as his friendships showed. He gave much in charity and he was more than generous to his native town. But these things ought not to exempt him from condemnation—the methods by which he made his money.
In the world of affairs he was a demoralizing force. He and men like him are responsible in no small part
for the decay of public conscience,
for the demoralization of politics, for the too easy belief that the end justifies the means. Such a life, though it may bring large in the imagination, is not in the true sense successful. "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" The facile standard of "business honesty" cannot supersede
the eternal principles of rightness—

A THRIVING INDUSTRY.

The German Seltzer Co. doing a Large Business.

One of Quincy's industries of which
but little is known is that of the German Seltzer Co. whose bottling establishment is located on Gay street.
The business of the company is in the bottling of seltzer water and tonics which are being used today by many families. When the company started a year ago its equipment comprised 1000 siphons. Today the company has 8000 in use.

German Seltzer is city water mixed with carbonated gas. In other words it is very similar to the soda water used at all fountains put up in a convenient form for household use. The only difference is that the pressure of ordinary soda water is from 90 to 100 pounds while seltzer water is bottled at a pressure of from 150 to 200
pounds.

The water used is thoroughly filtered before it is mixed with the gas.
It first passes through a charcoal filter, then through a cotton filter and lastly through a stone filter from which it enters the carbonator where it is mixed with the gas. The siphons to be filled are held in an iron holder
so that if they burst under the pressure no damage will be done.

This year a tonic department has been added by the company and in this branch the same care is used as to cleanliness, two Baltimore Crown filters being used.

All bottles used for the tonic are thoroughly washed by an automatic washer which forces water into them
under pressure, the washing machine
at the same time turning inside the bottle very rapidly so that it reaches every corner of the bottle. The siphons are then allowed to drain until they are to be used for bottling the syrup.

DAYS OF DIZZINESS

Come to Hundreds of Quincy People.
There are days of dizziness;
Spells of headache, sideache, backache;

Sometimes rheumatic pains:
Often urinary disorders.
All tell you plainly the kidneys are sick.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney ills.

Here is proof in Quincy.
Mrs. George L. Mott, living at 99
North street, Quincy, Mass., says:
"I have every reason for entertaining
a very high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint, after everything
I tried had failed to help me. Prior to using this remedy I was troubled
a great deal with headaches and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times
that I would have to grasp something for support to keep from falling. My eyesight was affected and spots would seem to float before me. My back also greatly annoyed me. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at the Cox drug store and began their use. I was helped from the first and after I had taken the contents of five boxes, my case being of long standing,
I was cured. Other members of my family have used Doan's Kidney Pills
with equally good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50
cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,
New York, sole agents for the United States.

Supreme Court Decides Against
Cardenio F. King

WILL REMAIN IN STATE PRISON

Man Who Astonished Country by His Meteoric Career In World of Finance Will Continue to Engage in Occupation of Operating Knitting Machine—Bad News Conveyed to Him by His Wife

Boston, May 25.—Cardenio F.
King, the one-time financier, promoter, stock broker and publisher,
must serve his full sentence of from ten to fourteen years at hard labor
in state prison.

CARDENIO F. KING.

By a decision of the full bench of the supreme court, handed down yesterday, all the exceptions taken by his counsel at the time of King's trial are overruled and the former newspaper reporter, whose meteoric career in the world of finance astonished the country, now stands convicted of larceny from those who answered his glowing advertisements, without possible hope of legal recourse except for an executive pardon.

Mrs. King went to the prison to break the news to her husband. The interview in the presence of a prison
official was an affecting one, but King took the tidings very stoically. Mrs.
King lost her composure entirely before taking her leave for another month, when the prison rules allow her another visit of one hour.

Warden Bridges talked for a few minutes with Mrs. King before she left in a nearly hysterical condition.

Since his incarceration began last winter King has enjoyed very good health and the prison officials say that he is today in even better condition
than when he entered the institution.
Each morning immediately after breakfast he marches with a squad to the knitting mill and spends the day
in operating a hosiery machine.

ESTATE OF $100,000,000

Vast Fortune of the Late Henry Rogers Said to Be Free and Clear

Boston, May 25.—The Post says:
Henry H. Rogers left over $100,000,- 000 behind him. This is the estimate of one of his closest friends and business acquaintances. This intimate of the late Standard Oil manager was acquainted, through conversations with Rogers, with the size of the fortune. The estate is free and clear.

The discovery by the world at large that Rogers was a $100,000,000 man,
and not, as had been supposed, a $50,000,000 man with his money tied up in the Virginian railway indefinitely, will come as an astonishing surprise to those who have followed his career from the outside.

SOLDIERS KILL SIX RIOTERS

Result of Row Over Relief For Earthquake Sufferers

Reggio, Italy, May 25.—At Sinopoli, a small village, the populace became enraged over the manner in which they have been neglected in the distribution of relief to the earthquake sufferers.

They made a hostile demonstration against the authorities and attacked the barracks. Several soldiers were wounded and a volley was fired at the rioters, killing six of them and wounding several others.

OPPOSITION TO TAFT

It Results in Dover Being Sidetracked
on a Fat Position

Washington, May 25.—Elmer Dover, former secretary of the Republican national committee, whose appointment as national bank examiner at New York has been held up by the comptroller of the currency,
will be offered a similar post in some other district, it is said.

When it was announced that Dover would receive the appointment at New York a number of protests were made to the president to the effect that a position paying $12,000 a year was too high a reward for Dover, who, it was asserted, was opposed to Taft's nomination up to the very last moment
and was replaced on the national committee because of this antagonistic
attitude toward the candidate.

President Taft had agreed to the appointment as a favor to some of Dover's friends, but he was somewhat taken aback by the facts, when ascertained, as to the emoluments of the national bank examinership at New York.

BODY IN SWAMP POOL

Indications Point to Probable Murder
of Unknown Man

Hooksett, N. H., May 25.—A bullet wound in the right temple and a hole or depression on the left of the skull, made apparently by a blow
from a blunt instrument, were disclosed by the autopsy on the body of a man found in Hinman's pond. The body was weighted with a heavy piece of granite. At the other end the rope was wound half a dozen times about the man's body at the waist.

The body was in an advanced stage of decomposition and had evidently been in the water for months. It was that of a man six feet tall, who probably weighed 200 pounds and was perhaps 60 years old. His clothing was black and of good texture. In the pockets were a Boston and Maine rebate check dated Oct. 1, 1908, the punches showing that it was used between Manchester and Hooksett, and 63 cents.

Hinman's pond is a deserted swamp pool rarely visited.

WORLD'S CHAMPION
HIGH JUMPER

Miss Edith M. Kolstad of Woodward Breaks Record

"The world's champion girl high jumper" is the title now given to Miss Edith Marie Kolstad of 9 Moscow street, Atlantic, a freshman in Woodward Institute of this city. In the annual field day games of the school held at Merrymount park, Miss Kolstad cleared the bar at 4 feet 3 inches, this being 1-4 of an inch better than the record held by Miss Helen "Dot" Clark of Brookline a Vassar senior.

Up to three weeks ago Miss Kolstad had never jumped before, but Miss Martha Macarty physical instructor at the school noticing the ease the girl had in jumping in the gym, advised her and coached her to practice for the field day. Miss Kolstad took the advice and now she is hailed as champion of the world. Three competitors from each class were entered in the jump, but only two came anywhere near Miss Kolstad's jump. These were Miss Pearl Hayden and Miss Helen Callahan, both seniors, who topped the bar at 4 feet.

The world's champion is a charming little Miss and bears her honor modestly. She is but 14 years old and is just ten inches taller than the height she jumped. She is of a retiring disposition and does not think it is such a wonderful feat to jump 4 feet 3 inches, saying that she thought girls in the Vassar senior class ought to jump a good deal higher.

At present Miss Kolstad does not intend going to college, although she is an excellent student and heretofore has cared more for study than for athletics. She is fond of algebra and the languages and stands near the head of her class in general work. Her spare time outside of study and school hours has been spent in the open air, bicycle riding being her favorite pastime.

Miss Kolstad says however that now she has won the world's championship she wants to keep it for Woodward and intends to practice at it in the gym and later in her own yard when the school closes for the summer.

Witnesses of the jump say Miss Kolstad had three or four inches to spare in going over, and the opinion is that with practice she will make a mark that will stand for years to come.

KICKAPOO SAGWA
WHAT IT IS?

The Indian remedy for the stomach, for the liver and the great digestive tracts. In the early days there were plenty of Indians of all tribes, circumstances, and habits. They inhabited the cold mountains, the hot plains, the dewy forests, the malarial rivers. They lived lives of hardy fatigue and exposure—hunting, fishing, travelling, watching, fighting. Often they ate hugely at great feasts. Often they slept wet, worn out, hungry. Sometimes food was plentiful and rich, sometimes scarce and miserable. And yet, despite it all, nobody found any sick, ailing, miserable, dyspeptic, complaining Indians. Life meant health from the cradle to the grave. They did not know what sickness was. They did not suffer with chronic debility or nervous exhaustion. They were not continually tired, drowsy, and half sick, as are the people of the present day. Their perfect health was the result of their keeping their stomachs and livers in sound condition. If at any time they needed medicine, they doctored themselves with simple herbs, barks, gums, and laves, the same as Sagwa is made of.

The following is an example of the value of Sagwa in the home and also an illustration of how the users of Sagwa become attached to it.

Letters dated Feb. 26th, 1908 from Mrs. E. Cummins, 1453 Longfellow St., Borough of Bronx, to The Kickapoo

Medicine Co., Clintonville, Conn.: "I have been using Kickapoo Sagwa for seventeen or eighteen years. You may not believe it, but I have used practically no other medicine in that time but Sagwa and Kickapoo Worm Killer—Sagwa for myself and Kickapoo Worm Killer for the children. I could write you hundreds of testimonials if I had time. I am certainly a good advertiser for you. If any of the neighbors say, 'Oh, Mrs. Cummins, I am all broken up,' I always answer, 'Why don't you take a bottle of Sagwa?' and in that way I have sold a great many bottles. Even my grocery boy uses it. He had stomach trouble, and I gave him a book you sent me. I am a sure believer in Kickapoo Medicines. When any of the family come in tired and played out, I tell them to take a little Sagwa. I always buy three bottles at a time, and am never without it."

This is a very friendly letter, but Mrs. Cummins would not have written it in that style if she had not cause to, by many years' experience with Kickapoo Sagwa as the best medicine for the stomach that she can get anywhere.

If you wish to test Sagwa before purchasing, we will gladly send you a free trial bottle by mail.

The Kickapoo Remedies are for sale at all drug stores. The Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Clintonville, Conn.

SUPREME COURT
SHOWS DIGNITY

Sheriff, Deputy and Others

Found Guilty of Contempt

MUST APPEAR FOR SENTENCE

Long Pending Case Against Tennessee Officials Who Permitted Lynching of Negro Sentenced to Death, Who Had Been Granted an Appeal, Results in Action Never Before Taken by High Tribunal

Washington, May 25.—Contempt of the supreme court of the United States will be punished by that highest court. It will be the first time that the most august tribunal in the land has undertaken to mete out a penalty for so serious an offense. Moreover, the importance of the occasion will be enhanced by the number of defendants.

The proceedings will take place in the cases of Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Sheriff Gibson of Hamilton county, Tenn., and four other residents of that county, named respectively Williams, Nolan, Padgett and May. These men were declared by the court yesterday to be guilty of an act of contempt in joining in 1905 in a conspiracy to lynch a negro named Johnson, who had been sentenced to death by the local courts, on the charge of rape, and in whose case the supreme court had interfered to the extent of granting an appeal which had the effect of a supersedeas.

On the night after the announcement of the court's action, Johnson was taken out of the jail in Chattanooga by a mob and lynched. There was no resistance by the jail authorities and Shipp and a number of his deputies, as well as about twenty citizens, were proceeded against on the charge of contempt of the federal court.

The case has been pending ever since, and the number of defendants was gradually reduced to nine. Of these nine three were found guilty yesterday while the other six were ordered to be brought into court for sentence. They will be taken into custody immediately and will appear in court in charge of Marshal Wright. The sentence may be either fine or imprisonment or both.

The case is regarded as of exceptional interest, because it is practically the first time that the court has ever undertaken to assert its dignity or to resent acts or words reflecting upon it. In one previous case, some years ago, a defendant was fined for some expression of contempt, but the case was so comparatively insignificant as virtually to leave the present proceeding standing alone.

In the cases of Shipp and Gibson, the court in effect declares that there may be contempt in a failure by officers of the law to prevent a crime in contempt of the court, and, taking cognizance of an offense at so great a distance, the court for the first time asserts by its action its right to compel the proper respect for and treatment of its orders in all parts of the union.

AMONG THE WOMEN'S CLUBS

Active Club Life Suspended
During Summer Months

The club season is over for the summer and this column will be discontinued until fall. The editor is considering asking for designs suitable for a heading for this column and offering prizes to High or Woodward students for the best design submitted and approved by competent judges.

Mrs. Thomas Fenno of Hancock street is hostess for the Hospital Aid association meeting tomorrow afternoon.

The Brightelmstone club of Brighton is having an outing this afternoon, making an excursion to the Arnold Arboretum, where just now there is a beautiful display of lilacs and early flowering shrubs.

The Cleveland Leader reports 835 club women in Chicago and only three babies among them. Club women in Quincy make a much better showing for at the children's party of the Quincy Women's club last week they mustered over seventy and there were more at home. A good showing in a 250 membership and again demonstrates that the Quincy club is an exceptional one in more ways than one.

Mrs. Mary J. W. Overholser of Wellesley has again been elected a member of the school board in that town. Mrs. Overholser is a well known club woman and was one of the interesting speakers in the club calendar of 1908-09 of the Quincy Women's club, speaking under the auspices of the Arts and Crafts committee.

For the closing meeting on Wednesday afternoon June 2 of the Mothers' association an especially pleasing program has been prepared. It will be a children's entertainment arranged by Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis and the play "Little Miss Rip van Winkle" will be given by children under the direction of Mrs. Davis. It promises to be a happy time for the children.

Mrs. Edward B. Marsh, president. Mrs. George W. Morton, past president and Mrs. E. C. Butler, were delegates from the Quincy Alliance to attend the Anniversary Week meetings this week in Boston.

The second and last card party for the benefit of the Quincy Day Nursery will be given on Friday afternoon at the club house of the Quincy Women's club and its success is assured in every way as there are many subscribers planning to attend.

The N. E. Associate Alliance meets in the Second Congregational church (Unitarian) corner of Church and North Common Streets, Lynn on Thursday, June 3. Morning session 10:30. Box luncheon at noon. Afternoon session at 2. Cordial invitation is extended to all Alliance members.

Abigail Adams Circle, No. 529, C. of F. of A., are to hold memorial services after their business meeting Tuesday evening, June 1st, at eight o'clock. All companions and friends are invited to attend. Companions should wear their mourning bows.

ANNUAL MEETING QUINCY Y. M. C. A.

Bills of Current Year Paid Including Last Year's Deficit

The annual meeting of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association was held at the Association Building Tuesday evening. After listening to reports of the year, which were ordered printed, J. A. Sedgwick, chairman of the nominating committee reported the following gentlemen for reelection for three years.—A. D. Albee, H. B. Bailey, R. D. Chase, W. F. Cummings, George H. Brown, E. D. Gourd.

A. N. Murray, was nominated for two years to fill a vacancy. The report was accepted and all were unanimously elected.

After adjournment the Directors met for the first meeting of the new year and elected the following officers:—President, R. D. Chase; Vice President, George A. Sidelinger; Clerk, E. D. Gourd; Treasurer, W. F. Cummings; Auditor, J. A. Sedgwick. The general secretary, Mr. Gay, was also reelected for another year.

The pleasing and altogether very satisfactory phase of these two meetings was the announcement by the chairman of the finance committee, G. A. Sidelinger that all bills for the year just closed are paid and in addition to this the clearing off of the entire deficit of $874.00 carried over from the preceding year. So leaving the Association entirely clear of current indebtedness. When it is considered that this has been done in face of the general business depression it is indeed a remarkable showing. The details of this report as of all of the departments will be given in full at an early date.

WOODWARD INSTITUTE.

Supt. and Teachers Elected for Ensuing year.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Woodward Institute for girls on Tuesday the following teachers were elected:—principal, Frederic W. Plummer, Charlotte J. Burgess, stenography and typewriting; Abbie O. Stoddard, natural sciences; Grace S. Burke, Greek and mathematics, Mary W. Dinneen, English and Latin; Addie W. Towne, French and German; Anna W. Pinkham, English; Martha E. Macarty, physical training; Georgina C. Lane, art; John D. Buckingham, vocal music; Susie T. Sprout, household science.

The annual graduation exercises at the school will be held June 16. The address will be delivered by Dean Hubert of Cambridge and the diplomas will be presented by Rev. William J. Heath of Atlantic.

Frank E. Parlin was reelected as superintendent.

HOSPITAL BEING ENLARGED.

The new ward, building at the City Hospital is not a contagious ward as announced in the list of building permits but the ward contemplated for some time by Mr. William B. Rice for the enlargement of the facilities of the present hospital.

It will be of brick and extend to the west parallel with the present ward and contain on the first floor a large airy ward for women and on the second floor several rooms for private patients.

More room especially for women and private patients has been needed for some time and the generosity which makes the new ward possible is appreciated by the Hospital staff.

When a contagious ward is built, if it is built, it will be a separate building and at some distance from the present Hospital.

The increased room will be a financial help to the Hospital as more paying patients can be accommodated.

CRUISER SALEM PLANS.

Will Leave Fore River June 5 and go to Cape Verde Islands.

The scout cruiser Salem undergoing repairs at the Fore River shipyard is due to leave the yard June 5. She will go to Naragansett bay for coal and from there she sails for the Cape Verde islands to join the Birmingham and Chester and will probably return to the New England coast June 15.

Soon after her return she will take on board a water consumption test outfit and carefully repeat her recent trials including the boiler test and 24 hour full speed run with the Chester.

How is the lid to be at Houghs
Neck this summer, on or off?

It is somewhat of a mystery how all the common victualers at Houghs
Neck can get a living.

Straw hats and the cold easterly wind Tuesday did not make a very good combination.

The Quincy junk collector who was fined $10 for stealing a sweater at Weymouth will have hard work getting a license to do a junk collecting business in Quincy if he has not already received one.

It was suggested through the Watertown newspaper last week that when Col. Roosevelt returns from Africa he be invited to that town to kill off the parrots. We knew that Watertown had a large club of women but did not know before just how the men regarded the club.

We are too modest and space would not permit of our publishing all the good things being said about the Ledger but we do appreciate the friendly letters and words which come to us so frequently of late. We know we are getting out a good paper and the words of commendation from our readers show that the reading public and advertisers also know it. But we are not content to stop at "good"
but intend to progress and broaden out every part of the Ledger until it is the best possible.

Local news is the watchword. The paper is non partisan and its columns are open for the discussion of city
and civic matters in fact invites correspondence on any local subject.

Every year for several years past petitions have been forwarded to the City Council asking for a license to conduct a pawnbroker's shop. Up to the present time however no such licenses have been granted as the city has no ordinance covering pawn-brokers.

There is a question in the minds of many if the time has come for pawnshops in Quincy.

Without question there are many whose circumstances almost forces
them to seek temporary loans from pawnshops. There are others however, a shiftless class who are habitual customers of these licensed sharks.
Hundreds of men who spend their earnings for drink are obliged to resort to these places for relief while others whom misfortune has overtaken seek them out to realize money that they may keep the wolf from the door.

That many of this class now patronize the shops in Boston there can be no question, yet it is advisable to have them near at hand where they can be easier reached? With a pawnshop near at hand would not parties be tempted to patronize them whereas if they were obliged to go to Boston
they would get along without their aid.

One of the most important matters
that the City Council is called to act upon each year is the acceptance of
new streets.

Land speculators open up a new tract of land, and cut it up into house lots. Streets are laid out through it and it is put on the market.

The streets that are laid out are usually narrow. The loom is taken off the top and they are given high sounding names. No attempt is made to thoroughly build the street. That would cost too much money and all the land speculator desires is to get the land off his hands.

A few houses are built and then the City Council is asked to expend thousands of dollars in building these streets that should have been done by the land speculators. The abutters find fault because the street is not accepted and there is a general kick
when in the spring and fall of the year they are obliged to wade through mud a foot deep.

The land speculator does not care
how much they kick. He has got his money and is busy looking for new lots to develop.

That is the situation that confronts
the City Council every year.

There is an ordinance in the city charter which says what condition a street must be in before the city can accept it as a public way.

Except for the first year when the ordinance was adopted it has been almost a dead letter until this year.

Several public hearings have been held on streets thus far by the Council and several more hearings have been advertised. The order for these hearings state that public necessity and convenience require that the streets be laid out under the act authorizing the assessment of betterments.

This means that if the Council so desires it can order the street laid out under this act and a proportional part of the cost is assessed upon the abutters.

As a rule this does not meet with the approval of the abutters and there is a general kick. The only way therefore is when people buy lots on new land to force the speculators to build the streets as they should in the first place.

Act Quickly

and you'll save yourself a lot of suffering and trouble. If you have a sudden chill—or taken cold—if you have colic, cramp or diarrhoea, don't wait a minute. Take at once a teaspoonful of Perry Davis' Painkiller
in half a glass of hot water or milk.
You'll be safe and on the right road
to quick recovery. Then you'll escape serious illness. But you ought

Y. M. C. A. AND SOCIAL SERVICE.

At the conference of North American employed officers of the Young Men's Christian Association the first week in June, at Omaha, the general
theme will be Present Day Objective and Relations of the Y. M. C. A. Interpreted this means "the association's mission to the men and boys of the continent." Important parts of the program will be special reports of commissions which have made investigations into the mission of the association to high school boys; to the native born of foreign parentage; to men and boys in and from the country;
and to men and boys of the churches.
An increase of ten million dollars in association property the past year and a projected increase of nine million suggest the scale on which these
"missions" may be conducted.

The most significant development in recent years has been the increasing emphasis laid on social service. While no less stress is placed on "personal salvation," the idea of "social salvation" applied to bettering conditions
of life, has taken strong hold.

The 609 city associations and the 225 railroad branches on the continent, besides the others, are opening better and more commodious buildings and extending their work, not only to provide for the bodily comfort of men—places where they can eat and sleep and play and study under the most favorable circumstances
—but also to discover and meet new needs. Some of the most effective work is done at isolated railroad stations where the need is great but organization for improvement difficult.
Special cars are run out on different lines to construction camps.

Efforts aimed to better living and working conditions in the cotton districts of the South, in the railroad construction camps of the West, in the congested portions of industrial cities,
in mining and lumber camps are vital parts of the association's industrial work. In view of criticisms that at times the association has catered too much to the man with the "white-collar job," this growing part of the movement is especially significant.
Much attention is given to the fore-born. Special secretaries are provided in home fields, at foreign ports of embarkation and at American ports of entry to protect the immigrant from "sharpies," to place information about the new country in his hands, to make his trip to interior parts as safe and easy as possible, and later to teach him English when he is ready to become a bread-winner. English, personal and domestic economy, hygiene and good citizenship were taught to six thousand of these men
the past year.

The boys' work representing a membership of 150,000 boys under seventeen years of age, aims to meet "all the needs of all the boys of every community." This involves co-operation with every agency working in behalf of boys. The object is not only to help them individually but to help adjust their environment for normal growth. The campaign for better moral conditions among high school boys and the increasing attention paid to the recreative and educational needs of wage-earning boys, ninety per cent of whom are said to have less than six years of schooling are prominent features.

Increasing work is done in rural communities and small towns where very little equipment is used, except that provided by such agencies as churches, school houses, town halls
and libraries where men and boys are enlisted in a campaign for the social,
physical, intellectual and religious welfare of their neighborhood. The Country Life Commission and the association leaders have been mutually helpful.

Increasing effort toward efficient citizenship was brought out at a recent dinner of the Educational Directors' Association of Greater New York.
Particular emphasis was laid on the importance not only of increasing the working efficiency of men, thus raising their earning power, but also of strengthening higher ideals of citizenship. The 48,000 students in day and night educational classes this year, and the half million dollars spent in this work, indicate in part the association's conception of its function in increasing social welfare
by increasing the wage-earning power and efficiency of bread-winners. At one time this was held too "secular"
to be included in a movement primarily religious. The change during the past twenty years has been tremendous.

The physical work is undergoing a radical change. Emphasis is placed not only on "floor work" in the gymnasium but on improving public health, preventing tuberculosis, encouraging and conducting playgrounds, recreation centers and baths,
and improving conditions of employment, all in the heartiest co-operation with other special agencies. In an eastern city last year volunteers taught hundreds of boys to swim. Lectures are given on personal, domestic and public hygiene, and on first aid in industrial plants. The association has been instrumental in helping secure playgrounds and in many cases
other arrangements could be made.

The religious department has a definite part in such movements and developments. It has co-operated with all other departments, realizing that often to make the religious tenets of the movement effective, an outlet for social service must be offered. This was looked upon at first with some suspicion; it seemed too radical a departure from traditional ideas of religious effort. But now even the most conservative are beginning to see the importance of objectifying the Christian ideal in service, both "individual"

and "social." The foreign missionary nowadays is sent out to preach
"social salvation" as well as "individual repentance." A large part of his work, at least at first, lies in bettering sanitary conditions and ministering to the needs of a whole community
besides trying to extend the "kingdom of God" by an individual selective process. The association has caught this spirit in introducing modern types of physical training in the Orient.

Thus the Y. M. C. A. is rapidly occupying a larger place in modern social life. It has been suggested that in time a local association, besides its other functions, may become a training centre of "clearing house" for social service.—The Survey.

WANT SLEEP RATHER THAN RECREATION

Daylight Movement Rejected by Government Clerks

Washington, May 26.—The daylight hours movement has failed miserably
in Washington. The government clerks have decided that they prefer
the present 9 to 4:30 arrangements,
and have voted down the proposed reform by two to one.

The cabinet officers, in whose departments the clerks were allowed to pass judgment on the daylight working scheme, profess to be greatly surprised at the result. The chief reason given for rejecting the proposal was simply that the clerks preferred sleep to recreation. They decided that the hour in bed in the morning was worth
two or three on the ball field or golf course in the afternoon.

There was another reason which influenced the clerks. It was a dread suspicion that congress might perpetuate the early working part of the scheme.

FIRST OF ITS KIND.

Big World's Shoe and Leather Fair to be Held at Boston During July.

This historic city, already the great summer vacation mecca of the continent, will have a special interest for visitors from outside its borders during the month of July this year, and even the people of Boston itself will not be obliged to wait until 1920, in order to enjoy an interesting World's Exposition.

During the month in question the First World's Shoe and Leather Fair, with exhibits representing $150,000 worth of space, is to be held in its magnificent new reinforced concrete building on the Charles River Embankment, fronting the beautiful Charles River basin in Cambridge, just across from the metropolis itself.

It is to be an actual working demonstration of the twentieth century American shoe manufactory, carried on under the inspiration of music, public assemblies and exhibits of art as applied to modern shoemak-ing, and it will unquestionably be something that will not only interest every person wearing shoes, but will be an education, even to many who are already engaged in the shoe and leather business.

It is designed to make this a permanent shoe and leather fair, and its importance will be readily understood by all who know anything about the extent of the shoe and leather industry of New England—the greatest centre of this business in the entire world.

Thousands of shoe manufacturers,
wholesalers, retailers and travelling salesmen from all over the United States and Canada, together with many from foreign countries are expected to visit the exposition, and the fact that all of the New England railroads, have arranged for special excursions to Boston, in connection with the exposition, is a guarantee that there will also be a large attendance
on the part of the general public.

Many of the shoe men from the West and South will combine a visit to the Fair with their annual vacation outing, so that Boston and New England will benefit from the exposition in a double sense.
There will be an informal house-
warming at the building on May 26th,
and the formal opening exercises will take place July 1st, and will be attended by many distinguished officials and other invited guests. If Congress adjourns in time, it is hoped to have President Taft present.

The building is a permanent structure, situated on the Charles River Embankment, about midway between the Harvard and West Boston bridges.
It has five domes, representing America, Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia. It measures 500 feet by 200 feet, and is two stories high, except under
the monitor roof and main dome,
where there is a space 50 feet wide by almost 500 feet long and 50 feet high.
In this space is to be an exhibition of the shoe and leather industry ten times as large as any similar display ever attempted.

There could scarcely be a more ideal location for an exposition. The building fronts upon the magnificent new Charles River basin, which is being created at a cost of several millions of dollars, and its wide and beautiful sweep of water helps to make the site of the Fair building one of the coolest in this part of the State.
The view embraces the gilded dome
of the State House, the new $3,000,000
Cambridge bridge, historic Bunker Hill monument, many of the prominent architectural features. The basin itself will be a very paradise for the owners of motor boats, canoes and sailboats.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Polly, a child of the circus, is brought up by Toby, a clown, and by a boss canvasman called "Muvver Jim." She learns to ride Bingo, a circus horse, and grows to womanhood knowing no life except that of the circus. II—A church near the circus lot interests Polly. Jim reproves her for her reckless riding. III—Polly urges Bingo to unprecedented speed and falls. Toby and Jim carry the injured girl to the parsonage nearby. IV—The Rev. John Douglas, much to Deacon Elverson's disgust, takes Polly into the parsonage. Toby and "Muvver Jim" are received kindly by Douglas, who has placed Polly in charge of his colored servant, Mandy. Douglas promises to care for the girl until she is well. V—When Polly becomes conscious she declares that she must rejoin the circus at once. "Are you a sky pilot?" she asks the minister. Her mother was killed riding a circus horse, and her father "got his'n in a lion's cage."

"Are you goin' to do a stunt while I am here?"

"I preach every Sunday, if that's what you mean. I preach this mornin'."

"Is this Sunday?" she asked, sitting up with renewed energy and looking about the room as though everything had changed color.

"Yes."

"And you got a matinee?" she exclaimed incredulously.

"We have services," he corrected, gently.

"We rest up on Sundays," she said in a tone of deep commiseration.

"Oh, I see," he answered, feeling it no time to enter upon another discussion as to the comparative advantages of their two professions.

"What are you goin' to spiel about today?"

"About Ruth and Naomi!"

"Ruth and who?"

"Naomi," he repeated.

"Naomi," she echoed, tilting her head from side to side as she listened to the soft cadences of the word. "I never heard that name before. It 'd look awful swell on a billboard, wouldn't it?"

"It's a Bible name, honey," Mandy said, eager to get into the conversation. "Dar's a buful picture bout her. I seed it."

"I like to look at pictures," Polly answered tentatively. Mandy crossed the room to fetch the large Bible with its steel engravings.

"We got a girl named Ruth in our 'leap of death' stunt. Some of the folks is kinder down on 'er, but I ain't."

"She might have told Douglas more of her forlorn little friend, but just then Mandy came to the bed hugging a large, old fashioned Bible, and Douglas helped to place the ponderous book before the invalid."

"See, honey, dar dey is," the old woman said, pointing to the picture of Ruth and Naomi.

"Them's crackerjacks, ain't they?" Polly gasped, and her eyes shone with wonder. "Which one's Ruth?"

"Dis one," said Mandy, pointing with her thumb.

"Why, they're dressed just like our chariot drivers. What does it say about 'em?"

"You can read it for yourself," Douglas answered gently. There was something pathetic in the eagerness of the starved little mind.

"Well, I ain't much on readin'—out loud," she faltered, growing suddenly conscious of her deficiencies. "Read it for me, will you?"

"Certainly." And he drew his chair nearer to the bed. One strong hand supported the other half of the Bible and his deep, full voice pronounced the solemn words in which Ruth pleaded so many years before.

"Entreat me not to leave thee," he read, "for to return from following after thee, for whither thou goest I will go, and where thou lodgest I will lodge. Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God."

He stopped to ponder over the poetry of the lines.

"Kind of pretty, ain't it?" Polly said softly. She felt awkward and constrained and a little overawed.

"There are far more beautiful things than that," Douglas assured her enthusiastically as the echo of many such rang in his ears.

"There are?" And her eyes opened wide with wonder.

"Yes, indeed," he replied, pitying more and more the starvation of mind and longing to bring to it floods of light and enrichment.

"I guess I'd like to hear you spiel," she said, studying him solemnly.

"You would?" he asked eagerly.

"Is there any more to that story?" she asked, ignoring his question.

"Yes, indeed."

"Would you read me a little more?" She was very humble now.

"Where thou diest will I die, and there will I be buried. The Lord do so to me, and more 'also,' if aught but death part me and thee."

Their eyes met. There was a long pause. Suddenly the sharp, sweet notes of the church bell brought John Douglas to his feet with a start of surprise.

"Have you got to go?" Polly asked regretfully.

"Yes, I must, but I'll read the rest from the church. Open the window, Mandy!" And he passed out of the door and quickly down the stairs.

CHAPTER VI.

WHEN John Douglas' uncle offered to educate his nephew for the ministry the boy was less enthusiastic than his mother. He did not remonstrate, however, for it had been the custom of generations for at least one son of each Douglas family to preach the gospel of Calvinism, and his father's career as an architect and landscape gardener had not left him much capital.

Douglas senior had been recognized as an artist by the few who understood his talents, but there is small demand for the builder of picturesque houses in the little business towns of the middle west, and at last he passed away, leaving his son only the burden of his financial failure and an ardent desire to succeed in the profession in which his father had failed so badly.

The hopeless, defeated look on the departed man's face had always haunted the boy, who was artist enough to feel his father's genius intuitively and human enough to resent the injustice of his fate.

But his mother had suffered so much because of the impractical efforts of her husband that she disapproved of the early training of the son toward drawing and mathematics and tried to direct his thoughts toward words and Bible history. When he went away for his college course she was less in touch with him and he was able to devote to his art. He spent his vacations in a neighboring city before a drawing board in the office of a distinguished architect, his father's friend.

Douglas was not a brilliant divinity student, and he was relieved at last when he received his degree in theology and found himself appointed to a small church in the middle west.

His step was very bright the morning he first went up the path that led to his new home. His art sense was charmed by the picturesque approach to the church and parsonage. The view toward the true colored spire was unobstructed, for the church had been built on the outskirts of the town to allow for a growth that had not materialized. He threw up his head and gazed at the blue hills, with their background of soft, slow moving clouds. The smell of the fresh earth, the bursting of the buds, the forming of new life, set him thrilling with a joy that was very new to him.

He stopped halfway up the path and considered the advantages of a new front to the narrow carved cottage, and when his foot touched the first step of the vine covered porch he was far more concerned about a new portico than with any thought of his first sermon.

His speculations were abruptly cut short by Mandy, who bustled out of the door with a wide smile of welcome on her black face and an unmistakable ambition to take him immediately under her motherly wing. She was much concerned because the church people had not met the new pastor at the station and brought him to the house. Upon learning that Douglas had purposely avoided their escort, preferring to come to his new home the first time alone, she made up her mind that she was going to like him.

Mandy had long been a fixture in the parsonage. She and her worse half, Hasty Jones, had come to know and discuss the weaknesses of the many clergymen who had come and gone, the deacons and the congregation, both individually and collectively. She confided to Hasty that she didn't "blame de new parson fer not wantin' to mix up wid dat ar crowd."

In the study that night, when she and Hasty helped Douglas to unpack his many boxes of books, they were as eager as children about the drawings and pictures which he showed them. His mind had gone beyond the parsonage front now, and he described to them the advantage of adding an extra ten feet to the church spire.

Mandy felt herself almost an artist when she and Hasty bade the pastor good night, for she was still quivering from the contagion of Douglas' enthusiasm. Here, at last, was a master who could do something besides find fault with her.

"I jes' wan' to be on de groun' de first time dat Mars Douglas and dat ere Deacon Strong clinches," she said to Hasty as they locked the doors and turned out the hall light. "Did you done see his jaw?" she whispered.

"He look laughin' enough now, but jes' you wait till he done set dat 'ere jaw o' his'n, and dar ain't nobody what's goin' ter unset it."

"I jes' wan' to be on de groun' de first time dat Mars Douglas and dat ere Deacon Strong clinches," she said to Hasty as they locked the doors and turned out the hall light. "Did you done see his jaw?" she whispered.

"He look laughin' enough now, but jes' you wait till he done set dat 'ere jaw o' his'n, and dar ain't nobody what's goin' ter unset it."

"I don't like no woman what's allus braggin' 'bout her clean floors," answered Mandy shortly. She turned out the last light and tiptoed upstairs, trying not to disturb the pastor.

John Douglas was busy already with pencil and paper, making notes of the plans for the church and parsonage, which he would perfect later on. Alas, for Douglas' day dreams! It was not many weeks before he understood with a heavy heart that the deacons were far too dull and uninspired to share his faith in beauty as an aid to man's spiritual uplift.

"We think we've done pretty well by this church," said Deacon Strong, who was the business head, the political boss and the moral mentor of the small town's affairs. "Just you worry along with the preachin', young man, and we'll attend to the buyin' and buildin' operations."

Douglas' mind was too active to content itself wholly with the writing of sermons and the routine of formal pastoral calls. He was a keen humanitarians, so little by little he came to be interested in the heart stories and disappointments of many of the village unfortunates, some of whom were outside his congregation. The mentally sick, the despondent, who needed words of hope and courage more than dry talks on theology, found in him an ever ready friend and adviser, and these came to love and depend on him. But he was never popular with the creed bound element of the church.

The chief feature of the meeting was the pledging by the ladies of $200 towards the $3,000 that the men agreed to raise to get the Houghs Neck Steamboat Company to run a boat from Boston to the beach.

It was also voted to hold a May pole party for the children on Saturday afternoon. The following committee of arrangements was chosen: Mrs. Neil J. Regan, chairman, Mrs. Alfred N. LaBrecque, Mrs. Jason L. Harvey, Mrs. Anthony Medrose, Mrs. Edward Smeady, Mrs. Alexander Boutlier, Mrs. Philip Catarius, Mrs. Edna Catarius, Mrs. Clara Catarius, Mrs. David Fenner, Mrs. Oliver G. Fostick, Mrs. Richard Ring, Mrs. Addison R. Hammond, Mrs. Archie F. Baird and Mrs. Waldo L. Hutchins.

PICKED UP BY STEAMER

Abandoned Vessel in Port Where Her Crew Had Just Been Landed

Vineyard Haven, Mass., May 26.—The crew of the Machias, Me., schooner Alaska, from St. George, S. I., for Lubec, Me., with a cargo of coal, were landed here last night by a Gloucester mackerel schooner, the men having abandoned their vessel yesterday afternoon.

While the schooner was endeavoring to enter Vineyard Sound in a heavy northeast wind and rough sea, the port main rigging gave way and the mainmast went by the board, with sails, rigging and everything attached, together with the head of the foremast and jibboom.

One hour after the schooner had been abandoned, steamer Onondaga, from Charleston for Boston, picked up the Alaska and towed her to this port. The Onondaga left her second mate and one man on the schooner and proceeded to Boston.

STABBED BY A WOMAN

Youth Believed to Have Gone Into Woods and Died

Norwood, Mass., May 26.—Somewhere in the vicinity of this town, probably dead by this time, is Frank Bertuccio, 19 years old, who was last seen with a deep stiletto wound in his stomach.

He was stabbed by Mrs. Marie Pugitoni, who conducts a lodging house, where Bertuccio was an inmate. The young man had entered the woman's room, according to the story she told the police, and had asked her to run away with him and to take with her her husband's money, attempting to enforce his demands at the point of a revolver.

Mrs. Pugitoni says she picked up a stiletto and stabbed Bertuccio in the stomach. He ran out of the house, with blood streaming from his body. The local police think it possible that he found his way to the nearby woods and died.

SUPPER AT THE DOWNS.

Many attended the supper held in the vestry of the Park and Downs Congregational church by the Woman's Missionary society on Wednesday evening. This was the fourth of a series held once a month and which have proved very successful. Piano duets by Miss Nettie Gram and Miss Freda Klingenhagen were enjoyed. The aprons and pickles which were placed on sale met with ready purchasers. On the committee for the evening were: Mrs. H. A. Podbury, Mrs. Reginald Shaw, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. L. A. Shay, Miss Mary Tobey and Miss Martha Tobey.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE.

Mrs. Howard D. Fowler, branch secretary and members of St. Chrysostom's Branch of the Girls' Friendly society attended the annual tea and reunion at Mechanics' hall, Boston Wednesday afternoon. At seven o'clock the signal was given to form the procession to go to Trinity church where a most impressive service was held. The Rev. Philip M. Rhinelander preached the sermon taking for his text—"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." It was an inspiring sight to see nearly twelve hundred members and associates with their banners in Trinity and the clergymen who are chaplains of the Branches occupying the choir stalls. The G. F. S. was organized in England in 1875 and now count their membership 302,000 and branches exist in far away India, Africa, New Zealand and Australia.

RETIREMENT OF MISS E. A. NEWCOMB

For Fifty-two Years a Teacher at the Willard School

It was with genuine feelings of regret that many of the former pupils, now living in Quincy learned that Miss Emeline A. Newcomb had tendered her resignation to take effect at the end of the present term. For fifty-two years Miss Newcomb has been a teacher in the public schools of Quincy and what is more remarkable is that all these years were spent at the Willard school.

Many of her former pupils have grown to man and womanhood and have today children attending this same school and doubtless some are in the room presided over by Miss Newcomb.

It was in April 1857 that Miss Newcomb began to teach, within a few weeks of the inauguration of President Buchanan and while H. J. Gardner was the Governor of the good old Bay State.

Quincy then had a population of 6,000 about the present number of pupils in the public schools.

She began her duties at the old Willard building and her service has been unbroken up to the present time.

During these fifty-two years it is estimated that over 3,000 different children have been pupils in the rooms taught by Miss Newcomb.

As one of her former pupils said at the public reception tendered Miss Newcomb on the completion of her fifty years of service, she was strict in discipline but always fair.

The building in which Miss Newcomb first taught was far different from the large well appointed present school house. The old building was enlarged several times but was eventually destroyed by fire, the present building being erected in 1891.

Not only was Miss Newcomb loyal to her pupils but to her co-workers as well, a fact borne out by an incident that took place some years ago. There had been some talk of the school committee giving Miss Newcomb a testimonial. She declined however with the remark if there was any money to be expended she would rather it be used in paying the teachers' better salaries.

Upon the completion of her golden anniversary as a teacher in 1907 she was given a reception by the teachers in High school hall. It was the first public reception held in the new hall and was attended by many of those who had first and last been connected with the public schools of Quincy including George I. Aldrich, and Herbert W. Lull former superintendents.

On this occasion Miss Newcomb was assisted in receiving by Supt. Parlin and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Pollard while teachers from the Willard school acted as ushers. At the conclusion of the reception that was followed by congratulatory addresses Miss Newcomb was presented with a purse of $250 in gold.

The reception closed with dancing Dr. J. A. Gordon a former member of the school board and Miss Newcomb leading off the first dance.

BOYS' CLUB IN MINSTRELS

City Officials and Business Men Get Knocked

The enterprising and hustling Boys' Club of Christ church gave a minstrel show Wednesday night in the Parish house and it was up to the usual high standard of shows given by Christ church clubs. Henry French trained the boys and certainly did excellent work, their chorus and ends having their work down to perfection. The boys were helped a lot, too, by Prof. Frank Wrigley who presided at the piano.

Thomas H. Veale was the interlocutor and filled the bill in good style. On the ends were Richard Tappenden, John Brown, Ralph Prout, Theodore Turner, Lawrence McIntosh, George Flowers, John Marshall and Harry Warrington. In the circle were the following:

Bertram Gillis, Warren Skinner, Robert Brown, Frank Stronach, Wellington Owens, Everett McLaughlin, Arthur Leslie, Fred Barnicoat, Russell Veal, Wm. Star, Andrew McIntosh, Edward Skinner.

The show opened with a grand chorus by the entire company, entitled "Any Old Place in Yankee Land." This was followed by a specialty introducing the song hit "Meet Me Dear on Saturday," by Albert Rendle, Everett Marshall, James Smith and John Dickie. The next was the "Tinkers Song" by Elton Chase, Will Clark, Peter Williams, William Rendle and Nowell Wrigley, followed by a chorus by the company "Yip-I-Addy-I-Ay."

Four end songs followed Ralph Prout singing the catchy hit "I'd rather be a minstrel man than a multimillionaire." Will Clark sang that Southern plantation song "Mandy Lane," Lawrence McCarthy sang "Pay more Attention to Me," while Nowell Wrigley made a big hit with the popular ditty "I Remember You." Master Elton Chase then gave a specialty entitled "Sydia."

Four end songs followed "It Looks Like a Big Night Tonight" being well rendered by Richard Tappenden, "A Hamcock Built for Two" by Sam Curtis; "I Used to be Afraid to go Home in the Dark," by John Marshall and "Harvest Moon" by Elton Chase.

Between the songs jokes and local hits were made, knocking many of the city officials and business men of Quincy.

The performance ended with a grand finale by the entire circle and company, introducing Punk Hanson and Restless Sam.

For the first attempt in this line, the show proved to be a grand success in every way. The boys will probably and they will do well to make the show an annual affair.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Young friends of Miss Beulah Collett of Wayland street gave her a surprise party Wednesday evening on her thirteenth birthday. William Cahill presented her with a gold bracelet in behalf of her young friends she also received a signet ring from her uncle I. Wendall Gammons, and several other remembrances. They had a jolly time playing games until supper was served when Miss Ruth Cahill played the march to go to the dining room.

Those present were the Misses Hazel and Lucy Laurence of Melrose Highlands, Janice Gammons of South Braintree, Sadie Manning of Malden, Edith Smith, Edna Gray, Margaret Taylor, Dorothy Stevens, Irene Curwin, Lula Whalen, Kathleen Jones, Marion Clifford, Elizabeth Merrill, Edmund Taylor, Dana Cahill, Leonard Cross, Sydney Bedwell, Fred Kingsbury, Harry Collett, William Talbot and Bowdoin and Ralph Smith of Wollaston.

MISS ADAH A. BARTLETT.

Funeral services for Miss Adah A. Bartlett were held Wednesday afternoon at her late home 406 Granite street and were largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong of Christ church conducted the services. Delegations were present from the Rebekah lodge and from the Ladies Auxiliary, Sons of Veterans, of which organizations the deceased was a member. Burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

One of Fergusons Horses so Badly Injured he had to be Killed.

There was a lively runaway on Hancock street early this morning which resulted in one of a pair of valuable horses being so badly injured that he had to be killed. The team was one of J. G. and B. S. Fergusons and one of the pair of horses was a green one who had been at work but three days.

Just as the team was approaching Irwins restaurant opposite the car barn the bridle of one of the horses slipped off. This started the green horse and they started to run.

The thing happened so quickly that the two men on the team were unable to control the frightened animals and they dashed with terrific force against a telephone pole.

The force of the shock broke one of the horse's legs and threw both men out but they fortunately escaped serious injury. The injured animal ran two or three hundred feet before he fell. It was found that he was so badly injured that he had to be killed. The team was wedged against the telephone pole and did not capsize.

The pole and one of the whiffletrees was broken however.

Word was telephoned to the company's office and another horse was brought out.

HISTORIC QUINCY.

C. H. Johnson Gives his Lecture before Patriotic Societies.

Charles H. Johnson gave his lecture on historic Quincy, past and present, illustrated by many stereoscopic views at Colonial hall Wednesday evening before the members of the Grand Army, Woman's Relief corps, Spanish War Veterans, Sons of Veterans, the Ladies Aid and Ladies Auxiliary societies.

Although there were many other social events in progress the same evening there was a good attendance. The lecture is that given by Mr. Johnson on several other occasions and while many of those present had seen it at other times it is a lecture that is well worth hearing a second time.

ENJOYABLE CONCERT.

That given Under Auspices of the Y. P. R. U. a Rare Treat.

One of the most enjoyable concerts heard for a long time was that at the First church chapel Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Young Peoples Religious Union.

The concert was given by the Lansing Boston Mandolin orchestra of twenty-five pieces assisted by Mrs. Isabelle Davis reader, Miss Gladys E. Moore banjoist, Miss Frances McGarrah pianist and a quintette of mandolins, mandocello and guitar composed of Miss A. E. Dean, Miss Vora Moore, Miss Gladys E. Moore, R. L. Lansing and G. L. Lansing.

A large and appreciative audience was in attendance, the young ladies of the Union officiating as ushers.

Selections by the orchestra opened and closed the program and had in all four numbers.

These numbers, as in fact all the instrumental numbers, were a musical treat and the audience showed its appreciation in its demand for encores which were accorded.

The second number was a banjo solo by Miss Gladys E. Moore and for an encore she played a duet with Mr. Lansing which was beautifully rendered and was a rare treat.

The selection Magnolia serenade by the quintette was also finely rendered and well deserved the encore it received.

Mr. Lansing was down for two banjo solos and he sustained his well earned reputation as being a master of the banjo. Under his skillful playing the instrument almost seemed to talk.

The other numbers on the program were by Mrs. Isabelle Davis, of this city. Of the rendering of her numbers little can be added to what has many times been said of her readings. Quincy audiences always enjoy hearing her and she never appeared to better advantage than on this occasion.

In her second number Millais' "Huguenots" she had a Mendelssohn accompaniment the rendering of which called forth unusual applause.

As a whole it was a delightful concert.

—Claiming that he is the advance agent of the Robbins Circus Co., which he says is to visit this city, a man is going about endeavoring to unco the grain merchants of Boston out of money, by placing large orders with them and receiving a commission. The police have sent out a warning that the man is a fraud and that no such circus is due to arrive here. The man is described as being about 35, 160 pounds, dark complexion, black hair, small black mustache, black derby, long gray raincoat and rather shabby clothing. He has printed bills with him which are ready to fill out and with which he dupes the merchants.

A pamphlet of interest to the traveling public has just been issued. It is a manual of summer resorts for 1909, containing a list of boarding houses, and hotels on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, and useful information about mountain and seashore resorts. It is well illustrated and readable. The manual can be obtained of A. B. Smith, Gen. Pass. Agent, New Haven, Conn., or at Boston office.

The rumors of extravagance in the authorization of expenditures of public money by the Cuban government has evidently created an unfavorable impression in official circles in Washington and will be deplored by all who wish the new republic every
good.

The fact that the Senate's tariff bill has practically no defenders in the press of the country is not without significance. Is the Senate right in its judgment of public sentiment, or are the newspapers throughout the country all wrong?

John Witherspoon, president of Princeton college and a signer of the Declaration of Independence, whose statue was unveiled recently in Washington, is the only clergyman who signed the Declaration. He is, also,
the only signer except Benjamin Franklin to have a statue erected in his honor in any of the numerous squares and circles and open spaces
of the national capital.

There seems to be conflicting testimony regarding the ability with which Regis H. Post, Governor of Porto Rico, has administered his difficult office, but the impression prevails that he has been wanting in some degree
in that fact so essential to the successful administration of a country inhabited by people of Spanish descend. President Taft is not likely to remove Governor Post at the instance of any Porto Rican, but if the people of the island refrain from attacks on the Governor, there would seem to be good reason to believe that his tenure of office will be short-lived.

The ninth week of the tariff Congress was notable chiefly in that it made clear to both the friends and the critics of the bill that Senator Aldrich is in absolute control of the situation and it is evident that the leaders have a firmer grasp than they had a week ago on every Senator who has been supporting the bill. A review of the tariff situation a week ago demonstrated that the leaders had adopted a policy of making voluntary concessions by reducing rates on a number of articles. This policy was continued last week and, presumably,
will be a feature of nature considerations of the bill. Most of the amendments which have been offered by the Finance Committee have provided for lower rates, either in specific terms or in changes of classification
which effect reductions.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Ten million dollars could be spent to greater advantage in perfecting
our railway block signals than in attempting to signal Mars.—Providence Journal.

Governor John F. Shaforth of Colorado has accepted membership on the national committee having in charge the proposed change in the date for presidential inaugurations, making in all forty-six governors of States and Territories who have joined in the movement.

A daylight savings bill has been introduced by Representative Peters of Massachusetts. The measure provides for "four April small hours," and "four September long hours." The plan is to shorten the hour between two and three o'clock on the morning of each of the first four Sundays in April to forty minutes, and to make the hour between two and three o'clock in the morning of each of the first four Sundays in September consist of eighty minutes. The measure provides that the arrangement of time shall be known as universal time and shall not affect Greenwich time as used for the purpose of astronomy and navigation.—Boston Transcript.

The college student has much to answer for, but there is one insinuation that he might really be spared.
Why does the world go on urging him not to be conceited? This bit of advice is not only stale, but uncalled for.
A distinguished State officer, speaking at the recent Cornell dinner, could not keep from shouting out that hoary slander: "My advice to the college graduate would be this: Rid yourself
of any idea that a college education gives you a monopoly of knowledge and wisdom." The thing for the college man to avoid is the mistake of assuming, on graduation, that things are all wrong." But, as a matter of fact, the college student who looks upon his diploma as a certificate of eligibility to a ten-thousand-dollar job is to be found only in tradition and the comic weeklies. The average undergraduate does not know much, but we must do him the credit of acknowledging that he is quite aware of the fact. Like Peggotty, Noddy Boffin and Joe Gargery, he will readily admit that wisdom, learning, special ability and anything else that comes out of books, are not in his line. Every alumnus who, out of a fortune made in soap, gives alma mater a new hall of sciences takes care to impress on the college graduate his striking inferiority to the average office-boy. And as for finding fault with established things, would that more college graduates did. The readiness with which men will step from the tradition of alma mater to the tradition of the broker's office is often very disheartening.—N. Y. Evening Post.

FIVE MONTHS'

Congressman Lorimer Elected
Senator From Illinois

DEMOCRATS LINE UP FOR HIM

His Political Sagacity Shown by Fact That He Had Not Received a Vote
Up to a Few Days Ago, While Hopkins Was Almost Within Winning Distance—A Self-Made Man of British Birth

Springfield, Ill., May 27.—Congressman William Lorimer of Chicago is the Junior United States senator from Illinois. He was elected on the 95th ballot in the joint assembly,
by a coalition of 53 Democrats and 55
Republican votes, to fill the vacancy from Illinois, which has existed in the senate since the term of Albert
J. Hopkins, Republican primary candidate for re-election, expired on March 4. The deadlock has existed since last January.

REPRESENTATIVE LORIMER.

Speaker Shurtliff, elected to the chair of the house last January by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats, cast the vote which insured Lorimer's election. Lorimer received a total of 108 to 90 for Hopkins, who had received about that number since the deadlock began.

Most of the leaders express satisfaction with the outcome. The outward quietness with which the election was brought about testifies to the consummate political prowess of Lorimer. Until a few days ago he had not received a vote for senator, while Hopkins, who went before the legislature with the indorsement of the primary election of the Republicans of Illinois, had kept within 20 or 30 votes of a majority during the five months of the deadlock. A few days ago Lorimer received one vote and rumor began to travel that he was to be elected by a carefully arranged bi-partisan coalition.

After his election Lorimer thanked the Democrats for their support and announced that he had always been
and always would be a Republican.

Although William Lorimer's progress in politics has been steady and consistent from the time when he began securing city contracts for his firm of contractors until he was elected to the United States senate he can never be president, for he was born in England.

Mr. Lorimer's biography in the congressional directory is one of the briefest, about fifty words, and omits
to mention that he first saw the light in 1861. At the age of 5 he was brought to this country by his parents. At the age of 12 he worked as a sign painter's apprentice. Later he labored at the stockyards, of which,
in after years, he was to be known as the "boss." Next he gathered nickels on a street car.

Meanwhile he had become a political factor. He became a contractor, was called the "blonde boss" in the newspapers and was counted on to deliver the packing house district to the Republican ticket. In 1882 he was defeated for a county office, but three years later he was elected to the Fiftifourth congress, where he has remained, with the exception of one term, ever since.

The Fifty-seventh congress saw him
not, for he was beaten in his own stockyards district by John J. Feely, 25 years old. This was in the second district, Lorimer then moved into the Sixth district, which promptly sent him back to Washington.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward"SAGE AND SULPHURMade Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

JEROME'S UNIQUE
APPEAL TO VOTERS

Does Not Appear to Take Well
With Large Audience

New York, May 27.—William T.
Jerome, district attorney of New York, took his seat at Cooper Union
last night after an evening unique
in the political annals of the city,
during which he attempted to explain
the administration of his office, pursuant to his agreement to "give an account of his stewardship."

Hundreds of questions were literally hurled at him, and after a turbulent meeting the 2000 or more persons who packed Cooper Union declined to register a vote of confidence. An attempt to bring about such a vote was made, but it was hissed down by Jerome's opponents.

What effect this will have on Jerome's political ambitions is problematical.

SPENT FIVE DAYS IN AN OPEN BOAT

Castaways Had Severe Experience Off Cape Breton

North Sydney, N. S., May 27.—
Weakened by hunger and thirst
and exhausted by almost unceasing labor
at the oars during five days of ex-posure in an open boat, two castaways, Robert Lewis and Guillaums Troquer, who were members of the crew of a French fishing schooner, arrived here. They were lost in a fog
while tending trawls off Cape North.
The only food they had was a small quantity of mouldy biscuit and dirty water, which was spared to make it
last as long as possible.

On the evening of the fifth day they made a landing at Cape Dauphin, on the north Cape Breton shore. Daniel McLennan cared for them until they had regained strength to row in their dory to North Sydney, whence they will be forwarded to St. Pierre, Miq.

SIX ARRESTS MADE

Secret Service Men Descend Upon a Counterfeiting Plant

New York, May 27.—Captain Flynn
of the secret service and six secret service men raided an alleged counterfeiting plant on a lonely farm four miles from Wilton, Conn. Three men were arrested and a complete plant for making silver coins was confiscated. In addition presses for making paper money were seized, with a quantity of the Indian head $5 silver certificates.

Upon information procured three additional arrests were made in New York. The Connecticut prisoners are all Italians and are being held in the farmhouse.

MAUDE ADAMS AT HARVARD STADIUM IN "JOAN OF ARC"

The extraordinarily large number of persons employed in the Charles Frohman production of "Joan of Arc," with Maude Adams as Joan, in the Stadium at Harvard on Tuesday night,
June 22d, offers many opportunities for striking tableaux and stirring situations. With a supporting company of 1,300 members it is now impossible to hold rehearsals of the entire production, but these will be held in the Stadium itself during the week commencing Monday.

No stage in the country is large enough to hold the entire company,
but Miss Adams has solved this difficulty by rehearsing her company in groups on the stage of the Empire theatre in New York, during her spare time between performances of
"What Every Woman Knows," in which she is now appearing. Preparations for the forthcoming production of "Joan of Arc," which will be the largest ever attempted in this country, are now being completed by a large staff of assistants under the direction of Charles Frohman. A very important feature of the presentation of this spectacular and gorgeous historical drama will be the fact that every person in the audience will be able to hear every word spoken by the actors. It will not matter where one is seated, as every location in the vast open air auditorium will give the same opportunities of hearing very clearly and distinctly the voices of the actors. The acoustic properties of the Stadium have been thoroughly tested and the results have been more pleasing than had been previously anticipated.

REASONS FOR FREE HIDES AND LEATHER.

Ex-Gov. Douglas of Massachusetts
Presents Some Unanswerable Arguments.

The boot and shoe manufacturers of this country are facing a crisis even greater than many of them realize.
Under present conditions, that is,
with present duties on hides and leather, it does not take a prophet to foretell in a general way what will happen. The logic of tariff events has already proceeded far enough to indicate clearly the goal toward which we are rapidly travelling. This is no less than a gigantic trust controlling the beef packing, leather tanning and shoe manufacturing industries of this country.

This trust will, of course, be built around the present Beef Trust.

Such a trust is inevitable, providing the present duty of 15 per cent. remains on hides. The advantage given by this duty to the Beef Trust, as the original owner of hides, is so great that competition with it will be hopeless, as soon as it can establish itself in the leather tanning and shoe manufacturing industries.

Under the monopolistic influence of the tariff on hides, the Beef Packers' Trust has already made great headway. It now controls directly about 55 per cent. of the hides of this country. Indirectly, it is reasonably certain that it controls a large part of the 45 per cent. of hides which it does not take out of cattle. To make its monopoly of the raw material of leather still more complete, it has recently gone into the hide buying business. Thus, the independent tanner is left with only a very restricted supply of raw material. If he could buy foreign hides without the payment of the 15 per cent. duty he would have some chance to compete with the packer tanners and the price of leather would be more likely to be reasonable. There is, however, no certainty of fair and reasonable prices for leather unless both hides and leather are put on the free list.

The Beef Packers' monopoly has already gone so far that it is only a question
of a very short time when free hides,
without free leather, would be of little or no avail to shoe manufacturers and other users of leather.

As our grazing lands are growing less and less each year and as we now have to import one-third of the hides consumed, we must either increase the taxes on the masses for the benefit of an almost insignificant few or see this few decline. No civilized country can raise enough cattle to furnish hides and leather for domestic use. Adequate grazing lands do not exist in highly populated and civilized countries. A tax on hides in this country, therefore, necessarily means a tax on footwear for $7,000-000 of people. It can never mean anything else.

It is a mistake, however, to assume that the cattle raisers benefit appreciably by the duty on hides. Both the facts and the logic of conditions
are against such an assumption.
A comparison of the prices of cattle,
hides and leather for the last twelve years indicates that there is practically no relation or connection between the prices of cattle and hides and not a close connection between the prices of hides and leather.
The cattle raisers get nothing, or next to nothing, from the duties on hides and leather. They are, however, by these duties, compelled to pay materially higher prices for shoes, harnesses, saddles and other leather goods.

In view of all the facts, there is no sound reason for retaining the duty on hides in order to protect cattle raisers or farmers. There is sound reason in favor of free hides in order to provide as cheap raw materials as possible to the tanning and shoe manufacturing industries, both of which are of great importance to all of our people. If the duty on hides is retained, it will be retained at the behest of the Beef Trust and for the purpose of enabling it to hold and extend its already great and harmful monopoly.
Congress will not do its duty to our $7,000,000 of shoe-wearing people unless it repeals the duty on hides. In my opinion, it should also put leather
on the free list.

In conclusion I wish to say that I hold somewhat different opinions from those held by some other shoe manufacturers. I am not afraid of free shoes if I can have free hides and free leather. I would gladly swap any doubtful benefit from the duty on shoes for the certain benefits of free
hides and leather.

ROOSEVELT'S CHARACTERISTICS.

The veto of the Fay bill by Governor
Draper shows the people of this commonwealth that the Governor, like President Roosevelt believes in a "square deal."

The eight hour law was well enough
as it was and this attempt to prevent a man from working if he wanted to
was an unwarranted interference with the rights of the man who earns his living by day work, while the attempt to hold over the head of a contractor or employer the threat of a fine and imprisonment, if a man was found working, whether the employer was responsible or not was a direct interference with the "bill of rights" for which our ancestors contended.

How such legislation could be pushed through both branches of the Massachusetts legislature has been a wonder to every thinking man in the state, and it is mightily fortunate that there is a man in the governor's chair like Eben S. Draper, who has sand enough to stand fair and square for what is right without first considering personal consequences.

But this was characteristic of the man when acting as lieutenant governor and the people had reason to believe he could be depended on when he became governor.

The governor's veto message was one of the ablest, straightforward documents, that has ever been sent to the Massachusetts legislature and it should set the members to thinking.

IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Don't Mistake the Cause of Your Troubles. A Quincy Citizen
Shows How to Cure Them.

Many people never suspect their kidneys. If suffering from a lame, weak or aching back they think that it is only a muscular weakness; when urinary trouble sets in they think it will soon correct itself. And so it is with all the other symptoms of kidney disorders. That is just where the danger lies. You must cure these troubles or they may lead to diabetes or Bright's disease. The best remedy to use is Doan's Kidney Pills. It cures all ills which are caused by weak or diseased kidneys. Quincy people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. E. Burke, living at 143 Quincy
St., Quincy, Mass., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent remedy
for kidney trouble, both my husband and myself having used them
and the results were of the most satisfactory nature. Mr. Burke had such a severe pain in his back that he could hardly do his work, but Doan's Kidney Pills fixed him up in good shape. They were procured from the Cox Drug Store
and have our highest recommendation."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50
cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo,

States.

The Billiken club met with Miss Ardella Barber Tuesday evening, and quite a lot of sewing was accomplished. Refreshments were served at ten-thirty and the members made plans to meet with Miss Martha Jenkins for the next meeting.

Small asserted that the story he told the captain was untrue. He said he invented it with the purpose of being discharged from duty on the bark. He said that when the murders were committed he was a soldier in Portland, Me.

NORTH DAKOTA.

Report That Defects Have Been Discovered in Her Armor Plates.

A despatch from Washington, D. C., states that a defective armor plate has been discovered in the construction of the battleships North Dakota and Delaware. The discovery was first made at the Fore River works where the North Dakota is building. The faulty plates passed all tests of the inspectors at the Steel mills and at the yard, and it was not until the plate had been fitted to the ship that the defect was discovered. The defect was found in one of the plates in the main armor belt and is what is known as a "spall."

Considerable uneasiness has been caused in the Navy department by the discovery of the defect and has resulted in a special investigation board to test the plate. It is said that this "spalling" or chipping is liable to happen any time as it is caused by internal stretching after the plate is put in place.

The plate wherein the defect was found is a big 2,500 ton plate, 15 feet long, 8 feet wide and 11 inches thick. A section about 3 feet square is all that is "spalled," but this will necessitate the putting in of a new plate. Officials of the Fore River Company when seen this morning said that it was true that there was a defect in one of the plates. These plates it was said are heated red hot and after being placed in position they are cooled by cold water being thrown upon them. This sudden cooling causes a contraction and a piece is liable to chip off.

In fact that is something that frequently happens and is nothing alarming and is no evidence of inferior work.

The only difference in this case however was that the piece chipped off was larger than usual. The Fore River employees made the discovery and reported it to the government inspectors who on account of the size of the spall notified the authorities at Washington.

BOOST IN MEAT PRICES

From Ten to Fifteen Percent Higher in New York City

New York, May 27.—Adjusting themselves to conditions as reported from Chicago, retail prices of meats in New York jumped from 10 to 15 percent Wednesday.

Market conditions caused the rise in beef, mutton and pork, and poultry followed in sympathy. Further advances are expected, when wholesale prices, it is predicted, will also go up to meet light cattle receipts in Chicago.

FOR SALE.

I have plans at my office showing the property cut up into lots. The property can be purchased as a whole if so desired. This is the best opportunity ever presented to purchase a nice home or a choice house lot at a very reasonable price, the location being one of the best for residential or investment purposes.

How do you expect to endure the broiling days of summer if you prepare all the food over a glowing coal fire?

You need a "New Perfection" Oil Stove that will do the cooking without cooking the cook. It concentrates plenty of heat under the pot and diffuses little or none through the room.

besides being the perfect stove for summer use is just as efficient for year round use. Does anything any other stove will do. QUINCY HIGH 3
MELROSE HIGH 0Good Work of Home Team
Prevents Visitors Scoring

"Stan" Bates was in rare form Wednesday afternoon when he held the strong Melrose team to three little hits, two of these being of the scratch order and the third being a Texas leaguer which dropped between the infield and the outer garden. Incidentally he scored a shutout, Melrose being unable to get a single man over the coveted plate while Quincy tallied three times.

Bates also fanned seven and passed but one, so altogether he had a good day. Dike his opponent on the slab, also pitched a good game only six hits being registered off his delivery. Two of these were Texas boys, but were bunched at opportune times. Melrose made four errors that counted in the run getting while Quincy's three misplays did no harm, except to make "Stan" put on steam and stop the trouble.

The game was well played as a whole and was interesting to watch. Quincy started off with two runs in the first. Manning got a base on balls and went to second on "Stan" Bates' hit. The two then pulled off a double steal, but when Manning tried to score on McCarthy's bunt, he was nailed at the plate. McCarthy immediately stole second and after Tabb had skied to McLetchie, Chapman drove a stinging single to centre that scored Bates and McCarthy.

Quincy's third and last alley came in the fourth inning, being the result of a combination of a hit, a pass and an error. The local boys had men on bases several times after that, but the necessary bingles were not forthcoming.

For Quincy Galvin, Howe and "Russ" Bates played fine ball, while "Buck" was the star for Melrose, getting two of the three hits and fielding his position without an error, accepting seven chances. Wentworth and McLetchie also played well for Melrose. The score:

CITY HOSPITAL IS REMEMBERED

Will of Hon. W. B. Rice
Public Bequests Of $245,000

The Quincy City Hospital was handsomely remembered by Hon. William B. Rice whose will was filed for probate at Dedham Thursday the sum of $20,000 being left for this institution which he was largely instrumental in establishing.

In addition to this he directs that his executors and trustees shall expend not less than $200,000 to found and endorse some charitable institution to bear his name.

He suggests that it be either a hospital, a home for the aged, a home for unfortunate or a school for teaching men and women to earn their own living.

Where this home is to be erected is left for the executors and trustees to decide and there is a possibility that Quincy may benefit in this direction.

To each and every person in the employ of Rice & Hutchins, the firm of which he was the head, at its Boston store and office or in the testator's own office, who had been employed for one year at least, $50; five years, $100; ten years, $500.

He directs that a sum not less than $25,000 be expended for the town of Hudson, and suggests that the money be used to build a hospital, a manual training school or for the establishment of a system of district nurses.

The bulk of the property is left to the family. He gives the homestead in Quincy and all the furnishings to the widow, Emma L. Rice, besides $100,000 in cash, the house and farm at Peterboro, N. H., and $15,000 a year for life.

Each of his three children, Harry L. Rice, Frederick B. Rice and Mary S. Bigelow, is left a yearly income of $20,000 from a trust fund yielding $60,000 annually.

To each of the grandchildren there is left $20,000 and to each nephew $5,000. To a grandson, William B. Rice 2d, is left $50,000, under conditions that he connect himself with the business with which the testator was so long identified.

There are left $5,000 to Sarah E. Perry, $10,000 to John D. Hardy, $5,000 to Sarah W. Ackerman and $10,000 each to the children of Charles W. Curtis of Marlboro.

The estate left is valued at about $1,000,000 according to the estimates. The executors and trustees named are Moorfield Storey, of Lincoln, John D. Harvey of Wellesley, Harry L. and Fred B. Rice. The will comes up for allowance at Dedham June 9.

NEW FLOWER QUEEN

Two part Cantata Presented by Atlantic Young Ladies.

One of the prettiest affairs ever held in Atlantic Music hall, took place Thursday evening when "The New Flower Queen" was presented by the young ladies of Atlantic assisted by Misses Edith Siles and Elizabeth J. Emerson of West Roxbury. Mrs. L. J. Child of Roxbury was instructor and the results of her tedious efforts and long rehearsals with the girls was clearly shown. From beginning to end it was a musical cantata in which some of the best town singers appeared, each mastering their part well.

The stage was very artistically decorated with quantities of lilacs and green and with each young lady bearing the flower which she represented. Most effective scenes were produced. Great credit is due and many thanks are extended to Mrs. Leon H. Bean who served as accompanist. Few people realize what a responsible position she held and how faithful she has been throughout all of the rehearsals which have lasted over two months.

Misses Hazel Davidson, Alice Waterhouse, Corinne Ratcliffe and Jean Arthur served as ushers and looked very attractive in their light flowered muslins, most appropriate for the occasion.

The personifications were as follows:

Recluse—Mrs. L. J. Child.
Rose—Miss Edith Siles.
Snowflake—Miss Annie B. Harding.
Japanica—Miss Maude E. Read.
Lily—Miss Elizabeth J. Emerson.
Crocus—Miss Margaret L. Read.
Dahlia—Miss Marguerite H. Hill.
Dandelion—Miss Dorothy E. Wallis.
Hollyhock—Miss E. J. Emerson.
Mignonette—Miss Winifred Cole.
Lily of the Valley—Miss Adelaide Figenbaum.
Heliotrope—Miss May Knapp.
Violet—Miss Ouida Keay.
Tulip—Miss Nettie D. Coombs.
Poppies—Mildred Bean, Laura Bean, Helen Brown, Esther Briggs, Louise Churchill, Myrtle Coombs, Clara Von Emden, May Aherne, Alena Kilpatrick, Lucie Whittier, Hattie Waterhouse, Louise Wilson and Winifred Pratt.

Semi-Chorus—Grace De Wolfe, Gretchen Young, Marjorie Young, Pearl Kearney, Ruth Backus, Augusta MacMahon, Estelle Salls, Ivy, Agnes Kinniburgh.

Heather Bells—Louise Carter, Augusta MacMahon, Estelle Salls, Edith Leeco, Cora Pratt, Gladys Hill, Dorothy Priest, Miriam Priest, Hazel Leeco, May Dexter, Mary Creedon, Mary Brown, Annabell Brown, Collina Brown, Anna Lawrence, Marion Wilson.

The estate left is valued at about $1,000,000 according to the estimates. The executors and trustees named are Moorfield Storey, of Lincoln, John D. Harvey of Wellesley, Harry L. and Fred B. Rice. The will comes up for allowance at Dedham June 9.

May might well be called the purple month for on every hand the fragrance of the lilac fills the air and from the trellis hang beautiful clusters of wisteria. The wisteria seems to be particularly profuse in blossoms this season.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

Seventeen pairs of shoes have been ordered in Brockton for the little Princess Juliana. The Brockton shoemakers beat the Dutch.—Providence Journal.

Ten years ago the war between the United States and the Philippine Republic was waging at its fiercest. This week Aguinaldo is the guest of Vice Governor Forbes at the latter's country place, and is being entertained like any civilized being. He is no longer a mere savage.—Springfield Republican.

While on guard at the gate leading from the palace garden into Molenstraat at the Hague, a sergeant of grenadiers observed the approach of a white perambulator pushed by a nurse. Suddenly realizing that it was the little Princess Juliana taking her first airing, he came to attention and presented arms. In the afternoon the sergeant was told by his colonel to repair to the palace in full uniform, as the prince consort wanted to speak to him. The prince told him that he had seen the salute from the window and presented him with a banknote to provide himself with a souvenir of the first salute to her royal highness, Princess Juliana of Holland.

The chief purpose of a city school board directly or through its board of supervision should be to secure efficient teachers, and to eliminate the inefficient.

The Boston School Board has set an entirely new standard in saying that at the age of seventy inefficiency is uniformly an established fact. This may be a stroke of genius, it may be a great psychological, physiological and professional discovery, or it may be merely artful dodging of all responsibility. If the former, it is a great blessing to the school and children; if the latter, it is merely a convenience and relief to the members of the school board. If the latter, it is a terrible price to pay for the convenience and comfort of five men.—Journal of Education.

Little wrong can be done by the man who begins the day right, said Rev. Roger S. Forbes of Dorchester at Anniversary Week morning prayer at King's Chapel Wednesday. Each morning all men should pray. Men's prayers are wishes put in the form of resolves, and those who turn their thoughts for a short time at the beginning of each day's work to the best that is in them, will find the day more cheerful and their hands more ready to do good. Daily sanctification means daily cheerfulness, and when a man gives himself, he liberates himself.

"There was once a great lecturer and noted man who had to spend part of his life in a Western mine," Mr. Forbes continued. "Each morning before he went down in the darkness to work he went to the top of a nearby hill in order that, as he said, he might begin the day with the long view. Man needs the companionship of the heavens, and it is possible for all men, the most active included, to give a few moments to morning resolutions. One of the greatest of soldiers, a man who spent as much of his life in the saddle as in the study, Samuel Chapman Armstrong, said that prayer was the greatest thing in the world. Men may wish that the world be better or hope that the coming of the Lord will be soon, but there is always one thing that they can do—make today the best that they are able."—Boston Transcript.

COUNT BONI GAINS VICTORY

His Children Cannot Be Visited
by Prince de Sagan

MOTHER IS GIVEN CUSTODY

Court Decides, However, That Father Alone Can Choose Their Instructor and College in Which They Are to Be Educated—Princess Did Not Impose Upon Children Influence of Her New Husband

Paris, May 28.—The decision of the superior court on Count Boni de Castellane's appeal of the case brought by him for the custody of the children was handed down Thursday, and is a partial victory for the count.

It confirmed the decision of the lower court giving the mother the custody of the children, but it set forth that the father alone had the right to choose their instructor and designate the college in which they are to be educated.

Furthermore, Prince Helle de Sagan is specifically excluded from the list of persons authorized to visit the children.

If the parents cannot agree on a school for the two eldest boys within a fortnight they are to be sent to the Lycée of Janson, where only the mother, the grandmother and George Gould may visit them.

The decision sets forth also that "whatever the character and past of the Prince de Sagan, it is not true that the princess imposed upon her children the influence of her new husband to prejudice their affection for their father."

GREAT STRIKE IN PROSPECT

Street Cars in Philadelphia May Be Soon Tied Up by Employees

Philadelphia, May 28.—In accordance with resolutions adopted at meetings of street car men in all parts of the city last week, a mass meeting of motormen and conductors was held here last night.

When the resolutions to cease work because of the failure of President Parsons to treat with the men's representatives were passed they included a paragraph stating that the resolutions were to be placed in the hands of the executive committee of the national organization, to be made effective at such time as they should deem expedient. It was also decided that every effort would be made to protect the company's property from rioters.

RATS START A FIRE

Gnawed Matches Which Had Been Dropped in Lumber Schooner

Jamestown, R. I., May 28.—Rats gnawing matches caused the fire which burned the after part of the schooner Aetna and damaged part of her cargo.

When the cargo of lumber was being stowed at Georgetown, S. C., one of the hands dropped a dozen matches in the after part of the schooner. The fire started in this place. When the Jamestown firemen threw a hawser to the schooner five rodents quickly crawled over the rope to shore. A number of rats invaded the schooner while she was lying at anchor at Georgetown.

CONFESSES TO KILLING

Quarrel Over a Loan of $23 Led Elepo to Take Lender's Life

Bennington, Vt., May 28.—Attorney General Sargent says that a confession has been secured from Mikel Eleppo, who is charged with shooting and killing Luigi Pinelo last Tuesday.

According to Sargent, the prisoner said that there had been a quarrel over the loan of $23 which he had received from Pinelo, and that he shot Pinelo because the latter had threatened to get a police officer to help him collect the amount of the loan from Eleppo.

TAFT IS CRITICISED

Negroes Who Opposed His Election Have No Apology to Offer

Columbus, O., May 28.—After a prolonged debate and discussion, the National Negro American league adopted resolutions condemning what the league alleges to be the policy of retrogression advocated by President Taft and declared it had no apology to offer for its stand against him previous to his election.

Appointments made by the president are criticised, especially those of Democrats with alleged ante-bellum tendencies. The attitude of the president has had an effect prejudicial to the negro in industrial life, it is declared, inasmuch as membership in labor unions, which they have held for years, now has been seriously objected to.

The resolutions denounce the "executive color line policy" of President Taft and demand that he square his policies with the Chicago platform so far as the 14th and 15th amendments are concerned.

TAFT A PROGRESSIVE

Roosevelt's Policies and Principles Will Continue, Says Clevs

New York, May 28.—"President Taft will voice into our laws what Roosevelt voiced into the nation's heart. Those, therefore, who are so mistaken as to suppose that President Roosevelt's policies and moral principles may become a dead letter in this administration will be undeceived. They will discover that President Taft is not a reactionary, but a progressive."

This prediction was made by Henry Clevs, the New York banker, in an address at the service dedicatory of the Roosevelt memorial window at the Metropolitan Temple, this city.

Mr. Clevs' address was primarily a review of the achievements and acts of the former president. The leading characteristic of Roosevelt could be described, he said, in these words: "He made the American people think."

GOVERNOR HASKELL AGAIN INDICTED

Five Others Implicated in Alleged Town Lot Frauds

Tulsa, Okla., May 28.—Indictments charging fraud in the Muskogee town lot cases were returned by the United States grand jury against Governor Haskell, F. B. Severs, W. T. Hutchins, C. W. Turner, A. Z. English and W. R. Eaton.

The accused men are charged with obtaining titles from the government to town lots in Muskogee by illegal methods. Bond in each case was fixed at $5000 and was promptly furnished. It is thought the cases will be heard at an early date.

This is the second indictment of Haskell in the Tulsa case. The first bills were dismissed on a technicality. The hearing before the grand jury had many sensational features. Numerous witnesses testified.

A WIDE-AWAKE NEWSY

Prevents Kidnapping of Little Girl in a New York Street

New York, May 28.—A small newsboy who saw a man rush up to a taxicab with a 5-year-old girl checked what the police say was an attempted kidnapping last night. He called a policeman and the man, who gave the name of George Deunzio, was arrested. The child proved to be Bertha Schmitt, the daughter of a baker.

A crowd threatening violence followed the prisoner to a police station. Deunzio's son told the police that his father's mind was unbalanced.

NO CONCESSIONS

Demands of Japanese Laborers Refused by Hawaiian Planters

Honolulu, May 28.—No concessions in the way of higher prices will be made to 8000 striking Japanese sugar plantation laborers, according to a resolution adopted by the Planters' association. The meeting was attended by plantation managers from all parts of the Hawaiian group.

A detail of police has been dispatched to Hahuku, the section lying in the northern part of the Island of Oahu, as a precautionary measure.

Burlington, Vt., May 28.—An injunction restraining the Consolidated Rendering company from discharging its waste products into Lake Champlain and thereby polluting the waters of the lake and the atmosphere in the neighborhood, was granted in the Chittenden county court here.

Against Use of Tobacco

Denver, May 28.—Clergymen and laymen should not use tobacco, but it is not contrary to the principles of the church for Presbyterians judges to grant saloon licenses. This was the decision of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church.

New Balloon Gets a Wetdown
Springfield, Mass., May 28.—The new balloon Springfield made its maiden trip in a rainstorm, landing safely on Greylock mountain, fifty miles west of this city. The greater part of the trip was above the clouds.

Deceitful Appearances.
A remarkable experience once befell Mark Twain in Australia, which, he said, determined him never again to judge by appearances. He had just landed at an Australian port, and, to his chagrin, there was no porter in sight to carry his luggage. Seeing a rough looking, badly dressed old fellow leaning idly against a post with his hands in his pockets, the author beckoned to him and said:
"See here, if you'll carry these bags up to the hotel I'll give you half a dollar."

The man scowled darkly, and, taking three or four golden sovereigns from his pocket, he deliberately threw them into the sea, scowled at Mark Twain again and walked away without a word.

Both Tainted.

"You are in the employ of that millionaire up on the hill, aren't you?" snapped the sharp faced woman who ran the butter and egg shop.

"Yes, ma'am," responded the man in the white apron, "and I want two pounds of butter for my master's table. He said he'd send to town after it, only the roads are so bad."

"He did, eh? Well, we are not particular about his trade. Did you tell him I said his money was tainted?"

"Indeed, I did."

"And what did he say?"

DOUBLE CRISIS FACES GEORGIA

Twelve Trains Carrying Mail to Be Started Today

RACE QUESTION LOOMS LARGE

Trouble May Result If Negro Firemen Take Places on Engines—Arbitration Question Must Be Settled at Once—National Government Deems It Inadvisable at This Time to Actively Interfere

Atlanta, May 28.—A double crisis is expected today in the Georgia railroad strike. First will be the starting of twelve trains which, although carrying mail only, will go through a community intensely interested as to whether white or black firemen will feed the engines and inclined to draw inferences from the makeup of the crews. The community en masse has supported the racial contention of the strikers and grave fear is felt here among the men who have been working for some solution of the difficulty.

The second consideration is the fact that the fate of the attempts at arbitration may be known today. It is reported that Commissioner of Labor Neill has notified General Manager Scott of the railroad that he must before noon make final his decision as to whether he will accept arbitration. The determination to run the mail trains leaves two problems still open for settlement: First, in what manner the negro shall be allowed to work; second, the question of the interference with interstate commerce and its possible result in federal intervention. The conferees believe that a great gain had been made in eliminating the postoffice department's dilemma, leaving the federal part of the problem for the interstate commerce commission only.

Peaceful Solution Anticipated
Washington, May 28.—Federal intervention at present in the strike of the firemen on the Georgia railroad is unlikely. Commissioner of Labor Neill, one of the mediators under the Erdman act, is on the ground and is keeping in touch with the situation. It is hoped that the state authorities will be able to handle the situation, which is recognized as delicate. Under the circumstances, it is thought to be inadvisable for the government at this time actively to interfere, lest such action induce serious trouble between the races. Generally, in official circles, the belief is entertained that a peaceful solution will be reached through arbitration.

Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission, the other member of the board of mediation, will not go to Georgia unless his presence there is required by Neill. The postoffice department is proceeding cautiously, although the strike is seriously interfering with the movement of mails. No decision has been reached regarding the suggestion of Vice President Ball of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen that the postoffice department designate a representative to confer with him in an effort to get the mails through. This phase of the case, however, will be brought to the attention of Postmaster General Hitchcock, who will return here today.

Negroes For Mail Trains
Augusta, Ga., May 28.—The crews of the mail trains to be started out of Augusta, Atlanta and other terminal points along the Georgia railroad today are to be made up at the general offices of the road here. The mail clerks will all be negroes. There will be twelve crews handling ten trains. Ten of the firemen marked up for the trips are negroes.

OBSERVANCE OF SUNDAY
Too Strict in Forefathers' Days, According to Presbyterians
Savannah, Ga., May 28.—Strict observance of the Sabbath is obsolete, according to a report made to the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church in session here. "We are persuaded," says the committee on Sunday observance, "that the observance of the Lord's Day after the scriptural manner and as practiced by our forefathers is to a large extent a thing of the past."

Exploding Powder Burns Students
Watertown, Wis., May 28.—Four students at Northwestern (Lutheran) university were badly burned, one perhaps fatally, by an explosion of powder while they were loading shells in preparation for a sham battle by a cadet company.

Killed by Batted Ball
Boston, May 28.—John Badgley, aged 22, of Plainfield, Conn., a student at the New England automobile school, this city, died from the effects of an injury received while playing ball. Badgley was hit on the head by a batted ball.

to the number of blows struck by each.

A bitter attack upon the author of an article in the New York Times, charging that Bailey had played into the hands of Senator Aldrich by his course in demanding an immediate vote on the income tax amendment,
and had thus caused a split of the forces supporting such an amendment, was made by Bailey on the floor of the senate. Manning accosted Bailey after the adjournment of the session to inform him that he was inaccurate in suggesting Republican senators as a possible source of inspiration for the article.

According to both Manning and Bailey, the former disclaimed authorship for the story and at the same time stated that the inspiration for it had been Bailey's demands for immediate vote and his "hazing" of Republican senators who favored the income tax proposition, but who did not support him in his demands for a vote at the present time.

Mr. Bailey asked who did write the article and at the same time declared,
it is said, that the man who had written it was a "liar." According to both men Bailey's language was very emphatic and Manning responded that he "had not had the honor to write the story." Bailey says that the word "honor" was emphasized in a manner intended to be offensive.

The conversation was begun in front of the main door of the senate chamber and was continued through the corridor leading to the senate committee on finance. Several persons heard the word "liar" exclaimed
in a loud voice and then saw Bailey and Manning clinch. The latter claims Bailey hit him first. In the mixup Manning struck Bailey with his umbrella, knocking off the senator's hat,
and Bailey grabbed Manning by the throat.

Just at that moment the elevator
stopped at the senate floor and Senator Clapp, without waiting to learn the cause of the disturbance, threw his arms around Bailey, who at that time seemed to be in position to do serious injury to the newspaper correspondent, a young man of slight build.

The Texas senator struggled desperately to break from his restraint,
but Clapp tightened his hold and newspaper correspondents pushed Manning away and insisted upon his leaving the corridor.

The speech by Bailey in regard to the newspaper article was one of the most scathing arraignments of a newspaper correspondent that has ever been given in the senate. The senator not only asserted that the writer of the article was "an infamous liar," but that he was a "miserable creature, unfit to associate with honest men."

In this vein he talked for considerable time. Manning also is a souther-ner, being a native of South Carolina.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

Falling Hair Dandruff
Ayer's Hair Vigor promptly destroys the germs that cause falling hair. It nourishes the hair-bulbs, restores them to health. The hair stops falling out, grows more rapidly.
We wish you to positively and distinctly understand that Ayer's Hair Vigor does not affect the color of the hair, even to the slightest degree.

RALSTON SHOES are so constructed as to preserve best pleases your fancy with the knowledge that you are not sacrificing comfort for style.

Your feet will take as naturally to a pair of RALSTON SHOES as a duck takes to water—no cramping; no breaking in Ralstons; for they are foot-moulded when in process of manufacture.

If your feet bother you—wear RALSTON SHOES. Let

WIFE NOT A BREAD WINNER

Friends of Dr. Patten See a Divorce
Cause in His Writings

Philadelphia, May 28.—A serious difference upon social questions affecting the home prompted Mrs.
Charlotte K. Patten to secure a divorce from her husband, Dr. Simon N. Patten, professor of political economy at the University of Pennsylvania, and a noted writer and authority upon economics and sociology.

Those who know Patten say there is an undercurrent to the point of his writings and the doctrines which he has frequently enunciated concerning
the woman who is married.

They strongly hint that the cause of the separation may possibly be found there. Patten believes that where the wife is capable of performing some work she should contribute to the income of the home. She should be a breadwinner equally as well as her husband.

Mrs. Patten does not coincide with these views. Patten is in his 60th year and Mrs. Patten is about 25 years younger.

HAD UP-TO-DATE PLANT

But Alleged Counterfeiters Could Not Escape Secret Service Men

New Haven, May 28.—Three of the five men captured at the Joseph Farrell farmhouse in Wilton in a raid made by secret service agents, and who are charged with counterfeiting,
were brought here for safe keeping.

The federal officers say that a complete counterfeiting outfit was found in the place and there was also about the house and garden an ingenious system of electric wires to give alarm of the approach of anyone.

A considerable quantity of silver bullion, besides dies and other machinery, was also found there, it is said. A number of half dollars said to have been similar in composition and weight to those minted in the government mints were also found
there.

Two of the men captured in the raid
are still at the farmhouse under guard.

LEPROSY COLONY
IS OVERCROWDEDGreat Increase of Disease Reported In Bay State

Boston, May 28.—So great has been the increase of lepers in this state
during the past few years that the facilities provided at the leper colony on Penikese Island are proving inadequate to accommodate all the patients.

David F. Tilley of the state board of charities and Dr. Proctor, in charge of the leper colony on the island, appeared before the house committee on rules at the state house in favor of the petition of the board for money to build a new concrete building to house
all the lepers sent to the island.

Dr. Proctor stated that five years ago there was not a known case of leprosy in the state, but today he knows of thirteen.

capture of Frank Sodo and Giovanni Attardi, held here for an attempt to tamper with state witnesses, the local police believe they have captured
two of a gang of desperate criminals.

Papers were found on them, one of which was a letter head of Gasparo Tedeschi of Palermo, Italy, suspected of complicity in the murder of Lieutenant Petrosino of the New York
police force, and another of Giovanni Pecoraro, who became notorious through his connection with the famous "barrel" murder case in New York.

DEER KILLING IN ORDER

Farmers Complain That Animals Are Eating Up Their Crops

Ware, Mass., May 28.—Farmers in the district known as Ware Town are up in arms over deer that have been eating up their crops. They say they will shoot the deer and eat the carcasses.

The deer have appeared in herds ranging from fifteen to thirty-six,
in orchards and clover plots. All along the row of farmhouses farmers tell woeful tales of the destruction of their property.

THE SALVATION OF TAFT.

A year ago the "toughest place in the world" was said to be Taft, Mont.
It had one store, twenty-six saloons,
and an undertaking establishment.
Two years ago it did not even exist;
but the construction of a great tunnel on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St.
Paul Railroad called it into existence
with a population of a thousand men.
"With the men came all those vicious institutions which prey upon them—
saloons, houses of ill-fame, and gambling-dens." The story of its redemption, which is said to read "like a passage from the Gospels," is given in The Home Herald (Chicago), and runs
in this wise:

"The Y. M. C. A. has attacked similar problems in other places with success, but even those who knew its work discouraged any attempt at Taft.
The town, they said, was too tough.
In the face of this well-meant advice
Mr. Morrison, a secretary of the association, went onto the ground, and with the help of the company established a pleasant and attractive Y. M.
C. A. room. Up to this time the men had been cashing their pay-checks in saloons, there being no other place to cash them. Mr. Morrison arranged with a banker in a near-by town to undertake this business. On the next day, the money was shipped into Taft,

and Mr. Morrison, armed with a revolver, rode with it from the train to the camp. There he cashed the checks, encouraging the men to leave over all surplus funds with him for deposit in the bank. The result was that over $2,000 was left with him, all of which in the regular course of events, would have gone over the bars. Opposition grew hot against him, of course, and on two occasions the saloonkeepers caused his arrest on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. At other times they threatened his life,
and a threat is no idle thing in Taft,
where the melting of snow each spring discloses the skeletons of men killed during the winter. None of these things deterred him, however;
he continued to fight the liquor element and urge the strict enforcement of the laws. With the aid of the sheriff, who stood at his side with drawn revolver, he gathered a company and held meetings before the most notorious resorts. In the face of the piano inside and the jeering crowds
in the windows, the Gospel finally conquered; men and women were drawn out of the houses to gather about the cart which served as a pulpit, and more than one found eternal life.

"The great test came on Christmas
of last year, when the camp was given its first birthday. So certain was the foreman that the majority of his workmen would be incapacitated for labor through drink, that he took the precaution of ordering 200 extra men to start work on the twenty-first. Gamblers, prostitutes, and bootleggers flocked into town in anticipation of the day. But Mr. Morrison was ready for them. On the night before Christmas he held a meeting in the camp, and talked the matter over with the boys. There, after prayer and a brief speech, they pledged themselves to fool the whole crowd of devils by boycotting the town on Christmas. A tree was arranged 'in the camp, a photograph played during the day, and Mr. Morrison showed pictures in the afternoon and evening. The result—wonderful to everyone from the superintendent down—
was that only two men out of the whole number were unable to report
for work next day, and the gamblers
in disgust declared that there was not enough money spent in Taft to pay for calling a quorum."

"Those who approved the experiment
said, 'Don't preach religion; just make yourselves useful to the men.' But it was preaching which the men wanted.
They said to Mr. Morrison time and again, 'Don't close your meeting, partner, until you pray for us.' It was the distinctly religious element in the work which made its success possible.
Taft has proved again what needed no
proof, that there is 'no other name under heaven by which men can be saved.'"

The success of the work in Taft and in other construction camps has encouraged the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. to extend this work to all camps in the country; and contractors and railroads are said to be contributing generously to this end, "recognizing that no sum is too large to pay in return for sobriety and steadiness in the men."—The Literary Digest.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES.

Exercises appropriate to Memorial day were held at 8 o'clock this morning at the High school. The pupils assembled in the hall and the exercises were opened by Head Master Cleveland who made a few introductory remarks and introduced Col. Charles H. Porter.

Col. Porter spoke briefly on the causes and results of the civil war.
During the exercises the school
sang "Our Native Land" "Star Spangled Banner" "To Thee O Country" and "America." The High school orchestra furnished music.

A special Memorial Day number of the Quincy Daily Ledger will be issued Saturday with special and appropriate features. An edition of 3000 or more will be printed and more if necessary. A good opportunity for the wideawake merchant.

ODDITIES IN BILLS.

Freak Measures Introduced in the Legislatures.

SCHEME TO BENEFIT WOMEN.

Why Wisconsin Legislator Would End Deception as to Sizes of Their Shoes—Skunks Protected in an Indiana Measure—Make Water Wagon
a Common Carrier in Oklahoma Plan.

A bill in the Wisconsin legislature is designed to force shoe dealers to properly label women's shoes as to size. It was prepared by ex-Assemblyman Daggett of Milwaukee, who when a member of the lower house eight years ago made his sole claim to fame in the introduction of a bill to forbid the wearing of corsets by men or women.
He said he didn't believe women needed corsets, because his wife wore none,
and that a corset was an inducement
to immorality in its effect on the vital organs. He now says that the American woman's shoe is largely responsible for the title "the weaker sex," for the woman who cannot stand comfortably because of a small shoe is unable to perform her part of the world's work properly.

Of the freak propositions introduced in the Oklahoma legislature that by Representative Bill Durant, a Choctaw
Indian, to make the water wagon a common carrier would possibly be termed the oddest anywhere except in state wide prohibition Oklahoma. But, taking the business world into consideration, the strangest is the measure introduced by Senator Reuben Roddie to limit the number of banks in a town by providing extremely high capitalization in proportion to the town's population.

Such a measure has actually become a necessity in Oklahoma because of the adoption in Guthrie of the guarantee bank deposit law. So many new banks were started when it became known that deposits were being guaranteed that the banking business of towns was badly split up, and numerous failures were feared.

Representative A. Ward Copley of Detroit has introduced a bill in the Michigan legislature to prohibit "joy rides." It makes it a felony for any chauffeur to use a car without the owner's permission and for any one to ride in a car that is borrowed without the formality of saying "by your leave." At present the Michigan laws do not have jurisdiction over this offense, and the employers have no recourse but to "fire" the offending chauffeur. The practice has resulted in a number of serious accidents.

A. J. Cameron, a New York bookbinder, will present a bill to the Maine legislature for the interest on his claim for binding, which was adjusted in 1901. The state has never paid interest on its claims, and a creditor has sometimes been fortunate if he got the amount of the original bill. Cameron did a job for the state in 1878, but it was not until 1901 that he received his pay. Now he wants the interest, about $2,000.

A freak bill appears on the calendar
of the Indiana legislature, but its peculiarity was not intentional. It provides for the protection of wild fur bearing animals. A lynx eyed farmer discovered that muskrats and skunks
will be protected, and he has pointed out that the ditches and earthworks that protect the farmer's land would be ruined by muskrats. As to skunks,
he says, no argument is needed.

The bachelor tax bill by Senator Claude H. H. Austin, Tex., is not the only odd measure pending before the Texas legislature. Bills have been introduced making it a felony to play baseball on Sunday. The blue laws of Texas are to be still further strengthened if pending measures are passed by prohibiting the sale of any article of merchandise on Sunday.
This will close the drug stores along with all other businesses.

Representative J. M. Davis has introduced a bill into the Kansas legislature that provides for a bounty of 5 cents for each crow killed in Kansas and 1 cent for each egg of a crow destroyed. Some Kansas counties are infested with crows at certain times of the year. They appear in great flocks, run apple crops and do considerable damage to the corn.

A resolution has been introduced in the Iowa legislature prohibiting legislators from smoking in chambers and from putting their feet on desks while dictating to feminine committee clerks and stenographers.

Postal Course For Schools.

Postmaster O. C. W. Lang of Bayonne, N. J., recently sent to the board of education a communication asking that the pupils in the public schools be taught how to address and mail letters, how to make out a money order and how to register letters. The postmaster said that he had printed fifty booklets containing information, and he suggested that these be distributed.
The board adopted the suggestions,
and hereafter the pupils in all the public schools will receive instruction in postal matters once or twice a week.

Great Dock System.

Rio Janeiro proposes to construct the greatest dock system in South America. It is not in the whole western hemisphere. The plans call for about ten miles of docks in addition to the two miles already provided for. The idea is that the additional docks shall consist of first of three great piers built at a distance of 1,115 feet from each other. Completed, these docks will have a frontage of 62,320 feet, or about twelve miles. The additions planned will cost about $19,000,000.

Last Monday we gave the citizens of Quincy some of the most sensational bargains in Office Furniture ever known.
We have now decided to close out our entire line of high grade upholstered leather furniture. It isn't a question of how much we lose or how much you gain—it's a business more with us and there'll be a lot of lucky ones telling their friends in years to come how cheaply they bought that beautiful Turkish all leather chair or couch or sofa. This lot consists of about 50 pieces of the finest grade leather furniture. It will be closed out at from 1-3 to 1-2 its value. We want the room and will refuse no reasonable offer.

CHAMPIONS OPEN SEASON.

Atlantic Plays First Game Tomorrow
—Other Games

If the weather is pleasant, tomorrow will see many good ball games in Quincy. At Merry Mount park in the lower field Makaria will play the Lindens. Makaria is still undefeated this year and will try hard to keep a clean sheet.

At Ward two the undefeated Big-lows will cross bats with the Healey Sleever team of South Boston. The combination from the Peninsula are playing fast ball, but will have to travel some to get away from the East Side boys of this town. "Lefty" Ford will pitch for the local lads and south-side slants will keep his opponents guessing all the time.

At the Fore River athletic field the Apprentices are billed to play the strong Russell A. A. of Malden, the 16-17 year old champions of the state.
The shipyard lads say they will make the champs step some to pass them
and they have been practicing every day for the game.

The Atlantics, semi-pro champions
of Quincy in 1908 will go to Melrose
where they will meet a team representing that town. This will be the first game of the season for the champs, but they expect to start the season with a victory.

Quincy Independents will play Wolburn at Woburn tomorrow and "Joe" Ford says he has a swell team of fielders and batters.

Besides these games there are numerous other contests of smaller teams.
With so many games on the bill, the fans will not have to go far to strike
an interesting contest.

In tomorrow's Ledger we will print
a story of the games to be played on Monday, the holiday. Watch for the story.

MRS. ALFRED SAMPSON.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. widow of Alfred Sampson formerly of Quincy
who died Tuesday in New Bedford was held Thursday afternoon from the Bethany church. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Edwin N.
Hardy pastor of the church.

During the services Mrs. Emma S.
Moore sang "Lead Kindly Light"
"Passing out of the Shadow" and
"Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."
The services were largely attended and there were many beautiful flowers.
The burial was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

—Thursday, Aug. 5 will be New England day at the Seattle ex-

attle has entered actively into the matter of caring for visitors from the New England States, and the ground floor of the Haller Building has been secured for club room purposes.

QUINCY HIGH FIELD SPORTS

Honors Go to Class of '09
with a total of 36 points

The annual interclass track and field games of the Quincy High school were held this morning on the new track at Merrymount park. The senior class won the meet with a total of 36 points, the post-graduates coming second with 24. The other classes finished in order 1919 getting 9 points, 1911 getting 4 and 1912 getting only one.

Marceau of 1909 was the star performer of the day capturing the mile, half-mile and quarter mile runs and setting up new high school records in each event. He clipped about half a minute off the mile record held by Lucy, doing it in 4 minutes, 44 1-5 seconds, the old record being 5.14. In the half and quarter he also ran a classy race a second of the old half mile record and two seconds of the former quarter record.

In the interclass half mile relay race for the championship of the school the post-grads won. The P.
G.'s team was composed of Gore,
Howe, Baker and S. Bates, who simply ran away from the other teams.

In the 100-yd. dash there was some dispute as to the winner, the officials declaring that Gore was fouled by Prout of 1911. This race was not counted in the points, but will be run over again next week. The summary:
100 yd. dash—Won by H. Prout
'11; second Gore '08; third Clapp '12.
Time 11 seconds. (Protested.)

Mile run—Won by Marceau '09;

record.)

Running Broad Jump—Won by Berry '09; second R. Bates '10; third Bullock '09. Distance 18 feet, 8 inches.

220 yd. dash—Won by Gore '08; H.
Prout '11 second; E. Prout '12, third.

Pop Gleason AND Tommy Luck

By EPES W. SARGENT.

WITH a blare of brass and the sob of the wood wind the Sixth Separate company of the state militia stepped briskly past to the air of a popular song. Pop Gleason's feet involuntarily kept time to the marked beat, but his face showed signs of disapproval.

"They ought to play 'Georgia,' not them vod-e-ville things," he confided to Cap Johnson. "When we was with Sherman you bet we didn't have no such music."

"The times is changed, Pop," was the sad reply. "I guess they'll make fun of our fife and drums."

"Let 'em," scolded Pop. "I'm kinder sorry we didn't stay to Pleasantville."

"It's the last rally," said Cap charitably. "We will see some of the boys for the last time, I guess."

Pop shook his head sadly. The division commander had asked that all nearby G. A. R. posts join in the Rutledge celebration. The membership was fast growing smaller, and he hoped that here, where the general lay at rest on the hillside, they would hold their last rally after the Memorial day parade. The Beemansville post was a little nervous about its fife and drum corps, with its limited repertory of military airs. So far even the smallest posts had brought along the regular band from their home town.

Then from the direction of the station came the shrill tones of the fife and the rattle of the drums, and to the saucy strains of "The Girl I Left Behind Me" the Poston post footed it bravely through the mud to its place in line.

Just back of the music trudged a tiny youngster, his little uniform complete even to the sword that clanked with true martial spirit at his side. On every hand murmurs of applause ran through the crowds that lined the sidewalks. Pop chuckled.

"There's a boy for you," he smiled to Cap. "There's not many inches to him, but every inch a soldier for all that. He might be a West Point graduate."

"That's what," agreed Cap. "I guess he was born a soldier."

"Wish I had a little grandson like," lamented Pop, "but I guess—His voice sank into his snowy beard. Somewhere he had a little grandson, but he had never seen him. When Dick had married the Spencer girl against his wishes there had been an angry scene, and Dick had hung out of the house. Later he had sought reconciliation, but his father would have none of it, even after the boy had been born.

He watched with unseeing eyes the other detachments go past. They had been waiting the arrival of the special from the east with the paraders, and now that these had found their places the word was passed, and the head of the procession moved out.

It was a long trudge for the veterans through the streets to the cemetery. More than one dropped out to wait for the ambulances that closed up the line. But they were all there around the marble shaft that commemorated the leader under whom so many of them had fought, and they listened, some with streaming eyes, to the vibrant words of the principal speaker, their division commander.

None realized better than he how fast the death roll grew, and he spoke frankly and tenderly of the gaps that had been made in their ranks, winding up with a farewell to those whom he might never meet again.

It was too much for some of the veterans, and they groped their way through the speakers' stand. The governor was yet to speak, but they did not care for his coldly polished phrases, and they sought the quieter parts where already the tiny flags marked the resting places of the hero dead.

Pop Gleason was one of those who slipped away and with tear dimmed eyes wandered down the green aisles. He did not mark where he was going; he simply wanted to get away. Perhaps he would be among those who were absent next year. Would Dick come and lay flowers on his grave? He wondered if Dick were here. Some one had told him that the boy had joined the national guard.

"Hello!" Pop started and looked down. The little veteran who had headed the Poston boys was sitting on a horse block and eying him curiously. "You tired, too?" asked the boy.

Pop seated himself on the cold stone and drew the little fellow on his knee. "Yes, I'm tired, too," he agreed. "The old man's getting feeble, laddie. I can remember the time when I'd march all day and then fight all night if I had to. I was with Sherman on his way to the sea. I guess you never heard tell on that, did yer?"

"My grandpa, he was with 'em, too," said the boy proudly.

"What was your grandpa's name?" he demanded tremulously.

"Thomas Sidney Luck," said the boy promptly. Pop's head drooped. For a moment he had hoped that this might be his own little grandson, this soldierly little lad.

"My mamma says that my grandpa was the bravest man that ever was," continued the youngster. "He killed millions and millions of men, and he wore a sword just like mine, and when he said 'Fire!' all the other soldiers shot off their guns, and then the enemy ran away and grandpa chased 'em. He was awfully brave, but he can't run now," he added inconsequentially.

"There's lots of us who fought then, who can't run now," said Pop sadly. "We didn't run then," he added, "unless it was after the enemy."

"I know," agreed the boy. "My grandpa would have died sooner; he said so. I'm sorry for boys what ain't got soldier grandpas. There's Izzy Isaacs. His pa runs a clothing store, and he didn't even know there was a war until he come to school."

"It's a fine thing," declared Pop, "a thing to remember with pride, my boy. Never forget that your grandfather was a soldier. And never let him be ashamed of you."

"Father!" Pop stiffened suddenly. His son towered above him. "I was looking for Tommy Luck," went on Dick. "The exercises are over, and the post wants its little mascot. Poor little chap! I guess he's tired out."

"Dog tired, but too much a soldier to admit it," said the old man. "He's game, Dick. I wish I had a little grandson like that."

"We wrote you when Georgie came," he reminded. "We called him after you, sir."

"I know," said Pop wearily. "I was an old fool, my boy. I am sorry now. The words of my old commander sank in, and I came away to think it over. I'm not long for here, Dick. If you can forgive an old man I'll try to make up to you all these years. Sitting here with this little soldier lad has done me a heap of good. I want little Georgie to know me and be as proud of me as Tommy is of his grandpa. Why, old Tom Luck was only my sergeant, but the lad here says he killed millions and millions. I want my little grandson to feel as proud of me, though I don't know that I ever killed that many men."

He rose uncertainly to his feet and with his son's arm through his treaded the crowds that thronged the city of the dead where had been born again the father love that is stronger than hate and hurt pride, and Pop Gleason, with his own little grandson upon his knee, laid his head against the soft yellow curls as he retold the story of the march to the sea, while the boy's parents looked with pitying eyes upon those who mourned their soldier dead and rejoiced that their own hero had been dead to them was alive.

WHO MARCHES NEXT MEMORIAL DAY?

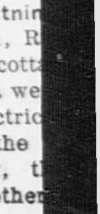

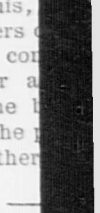

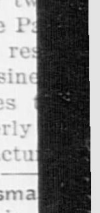

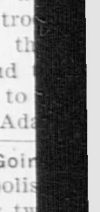

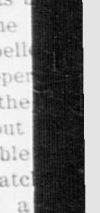

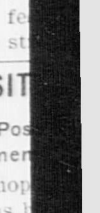

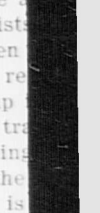

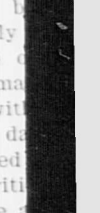

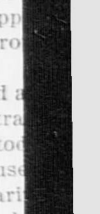

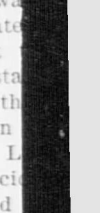

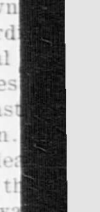

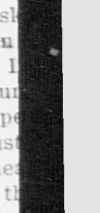

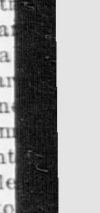

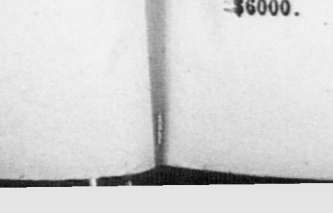

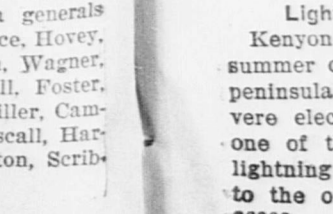

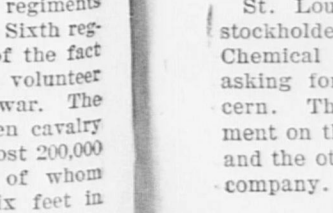

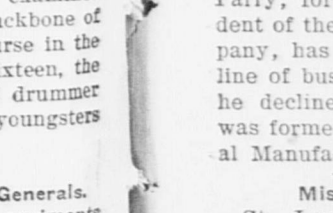

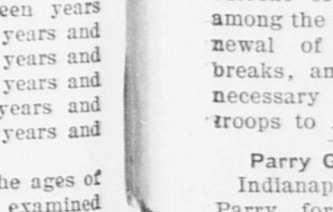

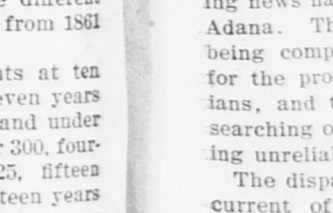

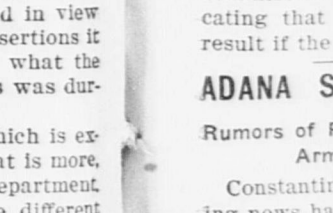

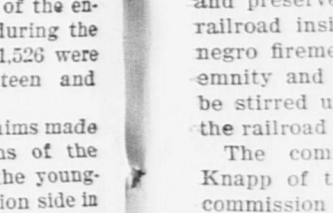

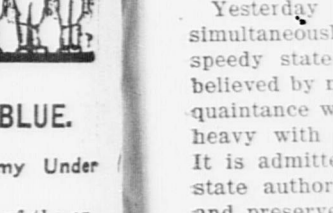

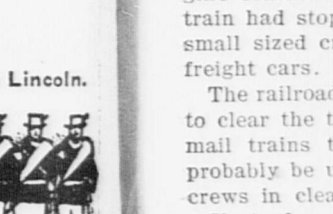

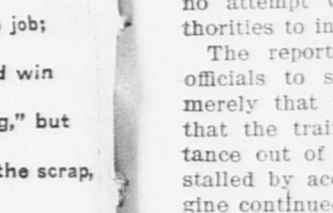

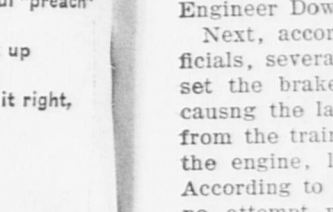

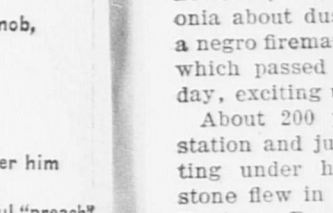

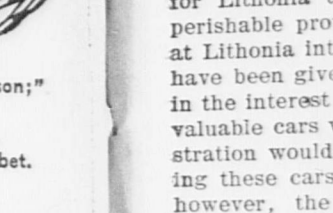

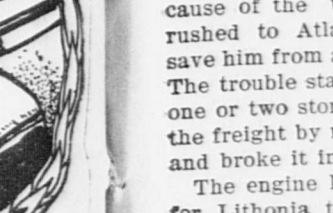

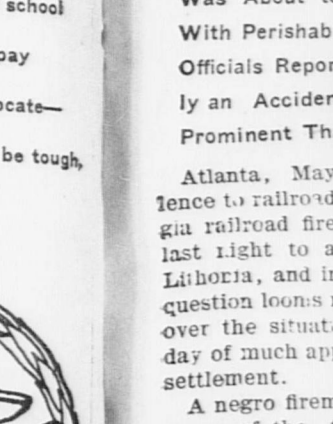

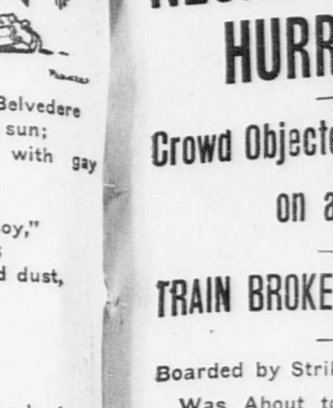

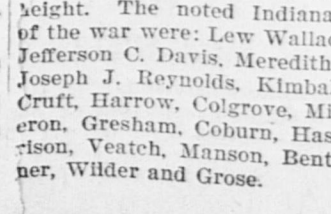

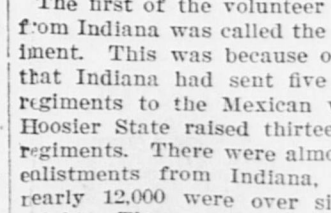

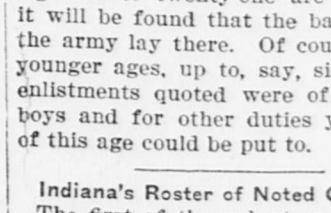

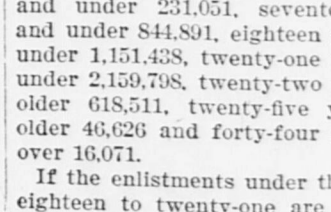

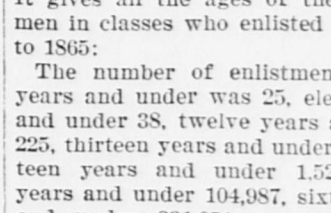

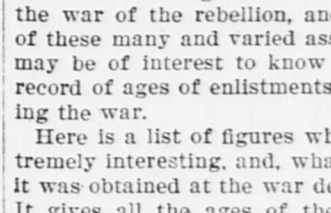

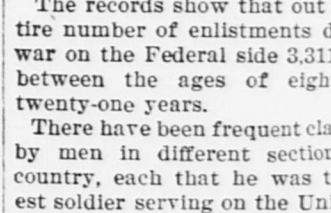

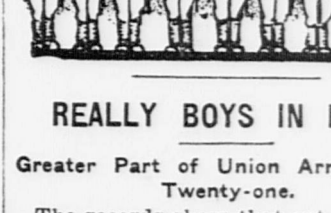

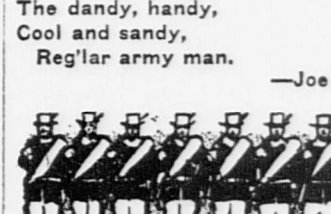

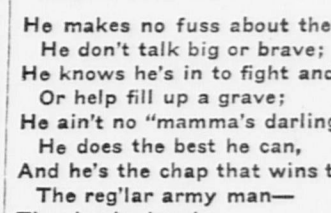

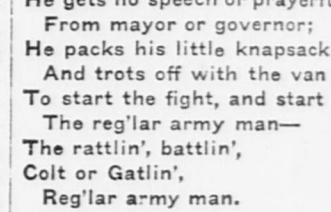

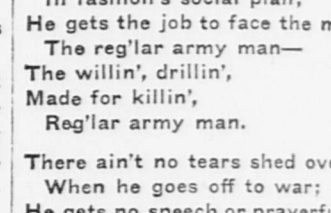

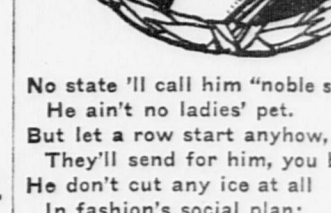

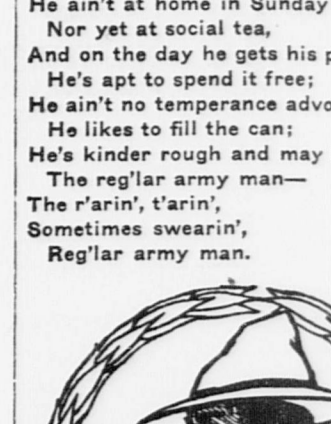

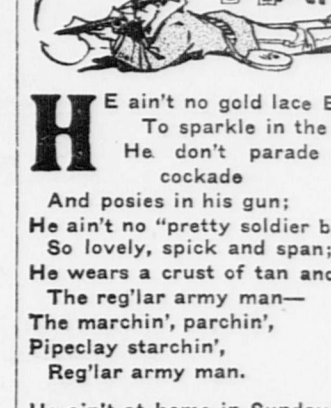

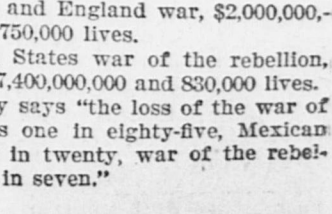

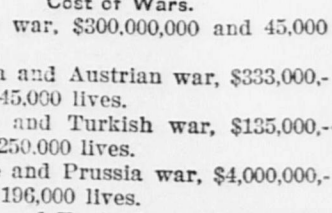

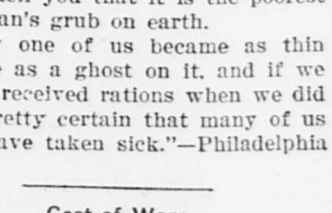

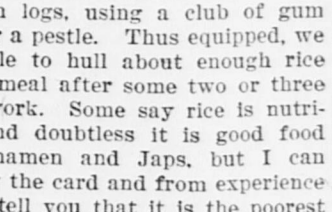

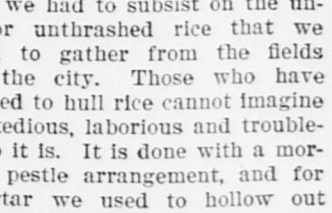

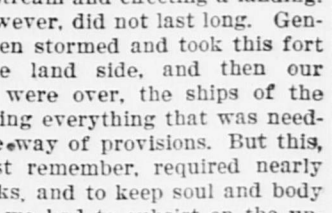

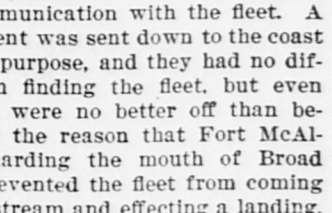

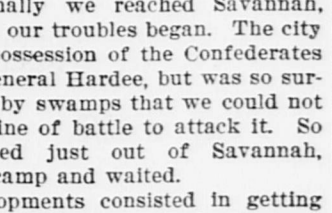

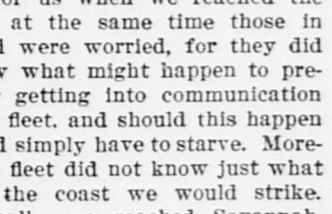

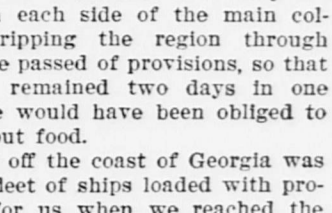

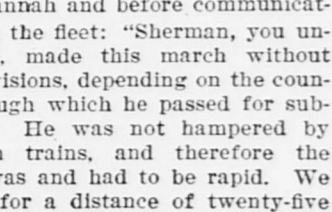

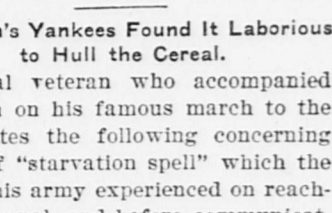

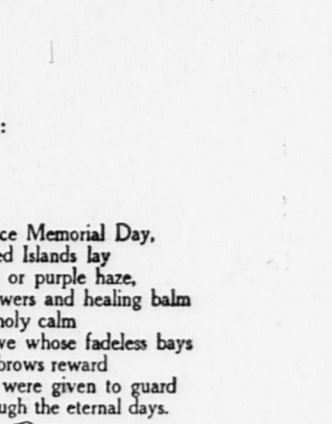

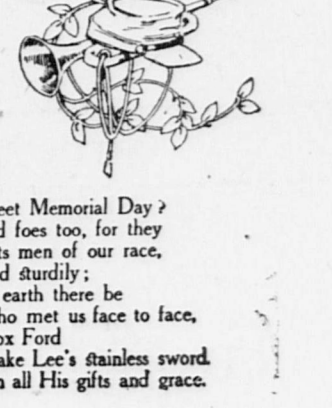

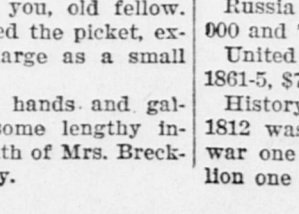

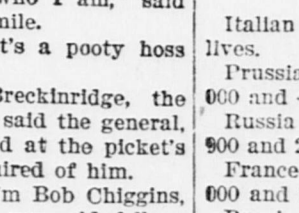

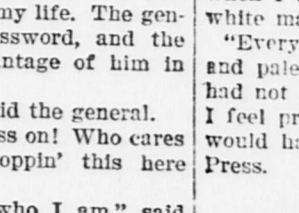

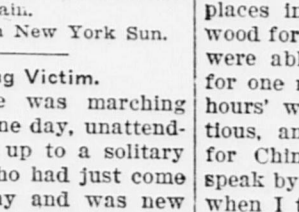

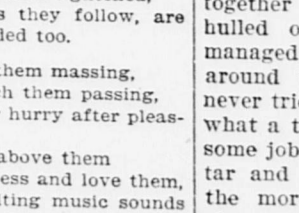

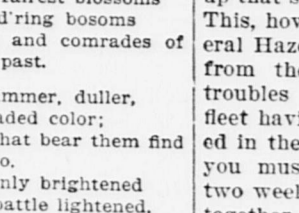

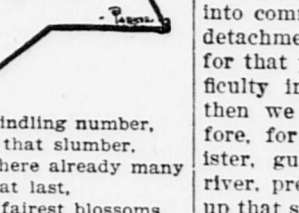

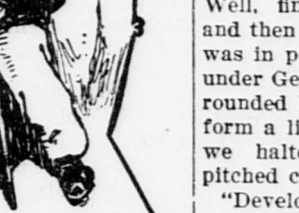

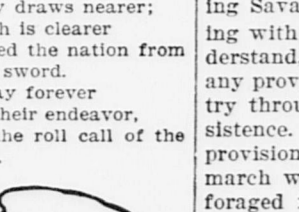

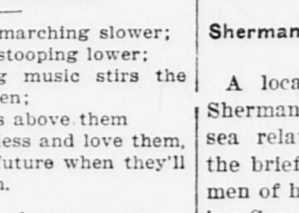

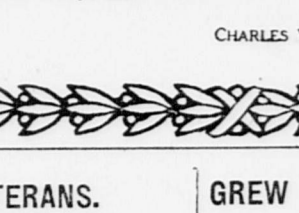

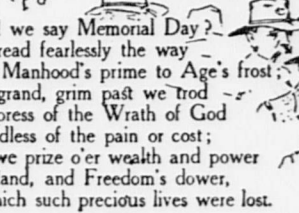

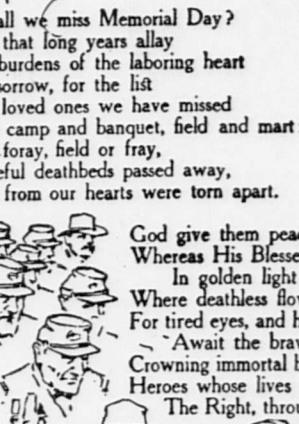

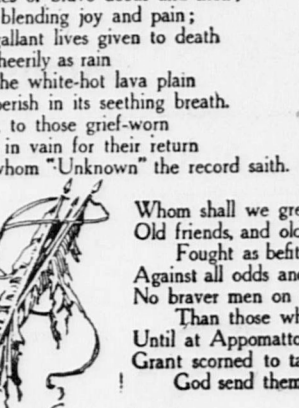

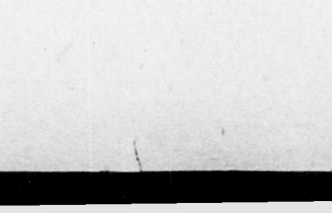

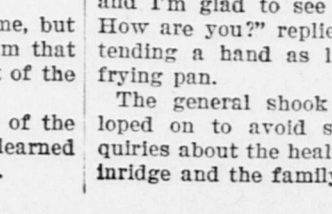

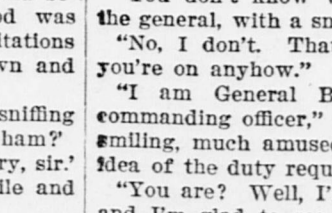

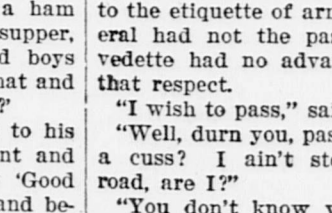

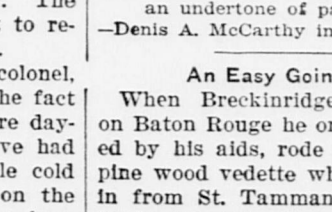

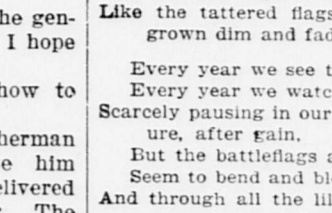

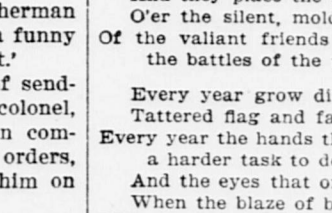

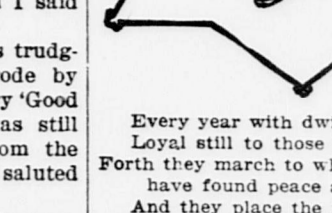

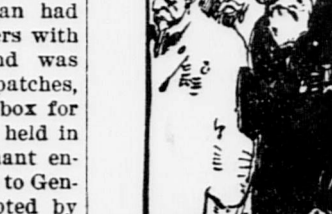

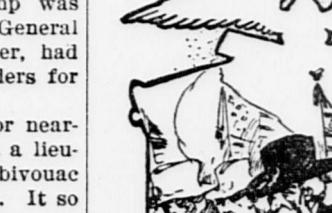

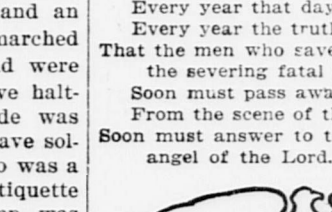

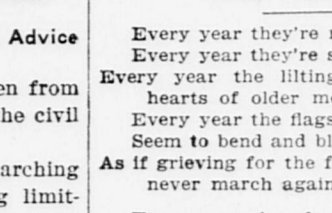

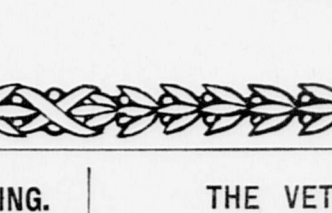

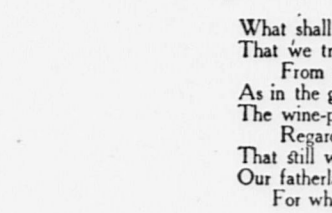

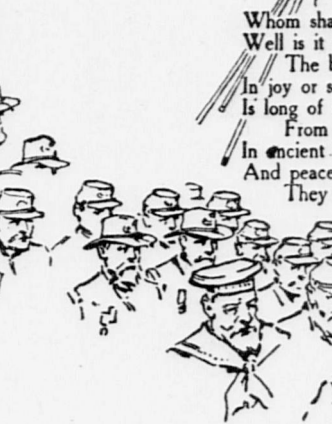

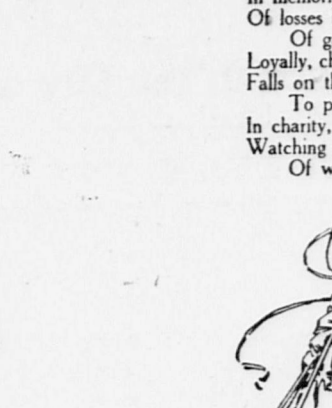

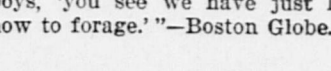

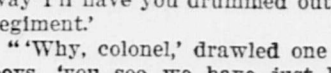

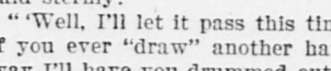

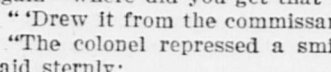

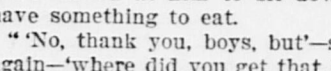

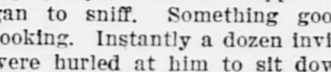

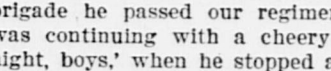

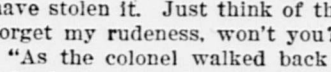

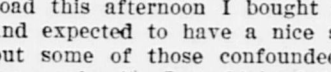

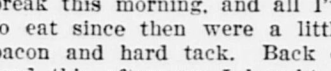

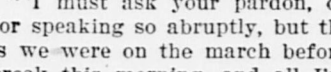

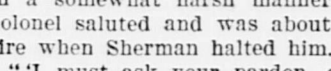

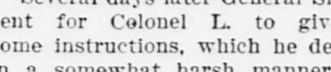

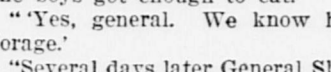

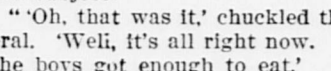

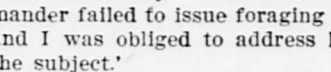

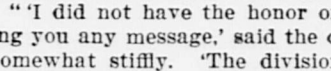

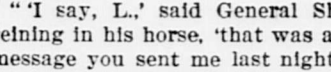

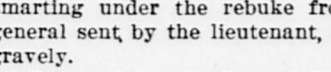

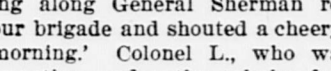

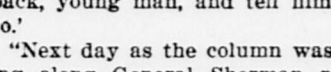

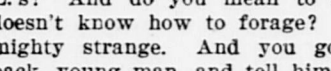

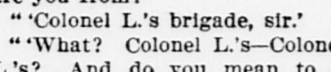

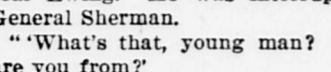

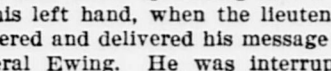

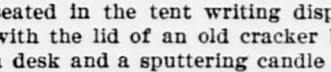

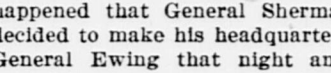

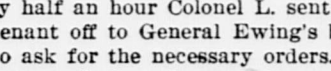

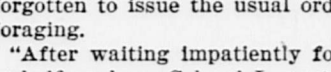

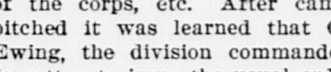

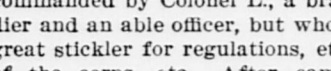

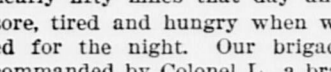

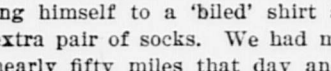

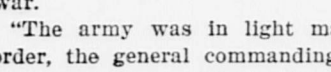

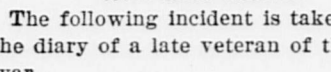

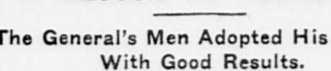

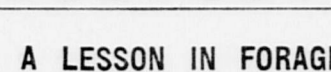

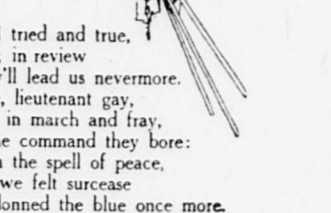

Who marches next Memorial Day? Speak up, brave comrades: let men say "The Post turns out in force this year. Grant's veterans, Sherman's infantry, Sheridan's tireless cavalry. Farragut's sea-dogs without peer; Tiresias and fearless in the past, Bear yourselves proudly to the last, Though years fly fast and death draws near.

Who'll bear the dear old flag—the bright Tri-colored banner, red and white As sunset's glory, spotless snow, On whose broad field of heavenly blue The golden stars of staidhood true Like bivouac fires dimly glow? 'Tis but a wisp of silk: the daff Light as a boy's slight wand. You laugh— They seemed so, forty years ago.

Who'll lead us through the crowded streets While cornet's blare and bass drum beats Help us to keep unwonted time To martial strains that give new life To memories of those years of strife And trial in yon Southern clime, Wherein we poured our Youth's sweet blood And Manhood's strength, like the perfume That censors waste in fanes sublime?

Not the old colonel tried and true, Nor his stout major, in review Or march they'll lead us neversore. Some captain brave, lieutenant gay, Or sergeant proved in march and fray, Succeeds to the command they bore: When, waking from the spell of peace, In memories proud we felt surcease Of pain and donned the blue once more.

In memories of brave deeds and men;
Of losses blending joy and pain;
Of gallant lives given to death
Loyally, cheerily as rain.
Falls on the white-hot lava plain
To perish in its seething breath.
In charity, to those grief-worn
Watching in vain for their return
Of whom "Unknown" the record saith.

Whom shall we greet Memorial Day?
Old friends and old foes too, for they Fought as befits men of our race,
Against all odds and stoutly;
No braver men on earth there be
Than those who met us face to face,
Until at Appomattox Ford
Grant scorned to take Lee's stainless sword.
God send them all His gifts and grace.

Whom shall we miss Memorial Day?
Well is it that long years ally
The burdens of the laboring hand
In joy or sorrow, for the list
Is long of loved ones we have missed
From camp and banquet, field and mart:
In ancient foray, field or fray,
And peaceful deathbeds passed away,
They from our hearts were torn apart.

God give them peace Memorial Day,
Whereas His Blessed lands lay
In golden light or purple haze,
Where deathless flowers and healing balm
For tired eyes, and holy calm
Await the brave whose fadeless bays
Crowning immortal brows reward
Heroes whose lives were given to guard
The Right, through the eternal days.

What shall we say Memorial Day?
That we tread fearlessly the way
From Manhood's prime to Age's frost
As in the grand, grim past we trod
The wine-press of the Wrath of God
Regardless of the pain or cost;
That still we prize o'er wealth and power
Our fatherland, and Freedom's dower,
For which such precious lives were lost.

A LESSON IN FORAGING.

The General's Men Adopted His Advice With Good Results.

The following incident is taken from the diary of a late veteran of the civil war.

"The army was in light marching order, the general commanding limiting himself to a 'biled' shirt and an extra pair of socks. We had marched nearly fifty miles that day and were sore, tired and hungry when we halted for the night. Our brigade was commanded by Colonel L., a brave soldier and an able officer, but who was a great stickler for regulations, etiquette of the corps, etc. After camp was pitched it was learned that General Ewing, the division commander, had forgotten to issue the usual orders for foraging.

"After waiting impatiently for nearly half an hour Colonel L. sent a lieutenant off to General Ewing's bivouac to ask for the necessary orders. It so happened that General Sherman had decided to make his headquarters with General Ewing that night and was seated in the tent writing dispatches, with the lid of an old cracker box for a desk and a sputtering candle held in his left hand, when the lieutenant entered and delivered his message to General Ewing. He was interrupted by General Sherman.

"What's that, young man? Where are you from?"

"Colonel L.'s brigade, sir."

"What? Colonel L.'s—Colonel John L.'s? And do you mean to say he doesn't know how to forage? That's mighty strange. And you go right back, young man, and tell him I said so."

"Next day as the column was trudging along General Sherman rode by our brigade and shouted a cheery 'Good morning,' Colonel L., who was still smarting under the rebuke from the general sent by the lieutenant, saluted gravely.

"I say, L., said General Sherman reining in his horse, 'that was a funny message you sent me last night.'"

"I did not have the honor of sending you any message," said the colonel, somewhat stiffly. The division commander failed to issue foraging orders, and I was obliged to address him on the subject."

"Oh, that was it," chuckled the general. "Well, it's all right now. I hope the boys got enough to eat."

"Yes, general. We know how to forage."

"Several days later General Sherman sent for Colonel L. to give him some instructions, which he delivered in a somewhat harsh manner. The colonel saluted and was about to retire when Sherman halted him.

"I must ask your pardon, colonel, for speaking so abruptly, but the fact is we were on the march before day-break this morning, and all I've had to eat since then were a little cold bacon and hard tack. Back on the road this afternoon I bought a ham and expected to have a nice supper, but some of those confounded boys have stolen it. Just think of that and forget my rudeness, won't you?"

"As the colonel walked back to his brigade he passed our regiment and was continuing with a cheery 'Good night, boys,' when he stopped and began to sniff. Something good was cooking. Instantly a dozen invitations were hurled at him to sit down and have something to eat.

"No, thank you, boys, but—sniffing again—where did you get that ham?"

"Drew it from the commissary, sir."

"The colonel repressed a smile and said sternly:

"Well, I'll let it pass this time, but if you ever 'draw' another ham that way I'll have you drummed out of the regiment."

"Why, colonel," drawled one of the boys, "you see we have just learned how to forage."—Boston Globe.

THE VETERANS.

Every year they're marching slower;
Every year they're stooping lower;
Every year the lilting music stirs the Hearts of older men;
Every year the flags above them
Seem to bend and bless and love them,
As if grieving for the future when they'll Never march again.

Every year that day draws nearer;
Every year the truth is clearer
That the men who saved the nation from
The severing fatal sword.
Soon must pass away forever
From the scene of their endeavor,
Soon must answer to the roll call of the Angel of the Lord.

Every year with dwindling number,
Loyal still to those that slumber,
Forth they march to where already many
Have found peace at last,
And they place the fairest blossoms
O'er the silent, mold'ring bones
Of the valiant friends and comrades of
The battles of the past.

Every year grow dimmer, duller,
Tattered flag and faded color;
Every year the hands that bear them find
A harder task to do,
And the eyes that only brightened
When the blaze of battle lightened,
Like the tattered flags they follow, are Grown dim and faded too.

Every year we see them massing,
Every year we watch them passing,
Scarcely pausing in our hurry after peace—
After rain.

But the battlefields above them
Seem to bend and bless and love them,
And through all the lilting music sounds
An undertone of pain.

—Denis A. McCarthy in New York Sun.

An Easy Going Victim.

When Breckinridge was marching on Baton Rouge he one day, unattended by his aids, rode up to a solitary pine wood vedette who had just come in from St. Tammany and was new to the etiquette of army life. The general had not the password, and the vedette had no advantage of him in that respect.

"I wish to pass," said the general. "Well, darn you, pass on! Who cares a cuss? I ain't stoppin' this here road, are I?"

NEGRO FIREMAN HURRIED AWAY

Crowd Objected to His Presence
on an Engine

TRAIN BROKEN INTO SECTIONS

Boarded by Strike Sympathizers as It Was About to Leave For Atlanta With Perishable Provisions—County Officials Report That It Was Merely an Accident—Race Issue More Prominent Than Ever

Atlanta, May 29.—The first violence to railroad property in the Georgia railroad firemen's strike occurred last night as a moving freight at Lithonia, and in consequence the race question loomed more sharply than ever over the situation, notwithstanding a day of much apparent progress toward settlement.

A negro fireman was apparently the cause of the trouble and he was rushed to Atlanta on an engine to save him from a threatening situation. The trouble started in the throwing of one or two stones and the boarding of the freight by men who set the brakes and broke it into three sections.

The engine left here late yesterday for Lithonia to bring a trainload of perishable provisions from the siding at Lithonia into Atlanta. Assurances have been given for several days that in the interest of local shippers whose valuable cars were tied up no demonstration would be made against hauling these cars to Atlanta. When, however, the engine reached Lithonia about dusk it was seen to carry a negro fireman, as did the mail trains which passed Lithonia earlier in the day, exciting unfavorable comments.

About 200 people gathered at the station and just as the train was getting under headway, it is said, a stone flew in the cab window and hit Engineer Downing.

Next, according to the railroad officials, several men boarded the cars, set the brakes and cut off the air, causing the last car to break loose from the train. They also uncoupled the engine, leaving its load stalled. According to the railroad's statement no attempt was made by local authorities to interfere with the attack.

The report telephoned by county officials to state officials here said merely that there was no violence, that the train had run a short distance out of Lithonia, where it was stalled by accident and that the engine continued to Atlanta. After the train had stopped, said the report, a small sized crowd swarmed upon the freight cars.

The railroad authorities will attempt to clear the track at Lithonia for the mail trains today and deputies will probably be used to protect the train crews in clearing the track.

Yesterday brought forth almost simultaneously the possibilities of speedy state or federal intervention believed by many persons of wide acquaintance with local conditions to be heavy with danger of race trouble. It is admitted that either federal or state authorities can run the trains and preserve armed order, but if the railroad insists on its rights to hire negro firemen it is feared that racial enmity and reprisals on negroes will be stirred up in regions remote from the railroad tracks.

The coming today of Chairman Knapp of the interstate commerce commission is regarded here as indicating that federal intervention may result if the strike is prolonged.

ADANA SITUATION SERIOUS

Rumors of Possible Renewal of Anti-Armenian Outbreaks

Constantinople, May 29.—Disquieting news has been received here from Adana. The Moslems are resenting being compelled to make restitution for the property stolen from Armenians, and the troops employed in searching out such property are proving unreliable.

The dispatches say that rumors are current of a reactionary movement among the troops and of a possible renewal of the anti-Armenian outbreaks, and that it will probably be necessary to send a fresh draft of troops to Adana.

Parry Going Into New Business
Indianapolis, May 29.—David M. Parry, for twenty-seven years president of the Parry Manufacturing company, has resigned to take up a new line of business, the nature of which he declines to make public. Parry was formerly president of the National Manufacturers' association.

Mismanagement Alleged
St. Louis, May 29.—Twenty-nine stockholders of the Sanitol Laboratory chemical company joined in a suit asking for a receiver for the concern. The bill charges mismanagement on the part of President Luyties and the other executive officers of the company.

Lightning Starts $6000 Fire
Kenyon, R. I., May 29.—Three summer cottages on the Charlestown peninsula were destroyed during a severe electrical storm, during which one of the cottages was struck by lightning, the blaze communicating to the other cottages. The loss is $6000.

NOTICE

The office of the Quincy Daily Ledger will be closed all day Monday May 31 and no paper will be issued on that day. On Tuesday a special edition containing news of Memorial Sunday and Memorial day exercises will be issued at the usual hour.

The Commissioner has found it far too expensive to use the oil dust preventive preparation on the streets in the center, where they are much in use, and they will be watered by the watering car, the same as the past few years.

What would be a great factor in the growth of our city is an industrial school. We have already the best schools in the country along certain lines but the industrial world is sadly in need of educated and competent workmen. On every side the call comes from the manufacturer for trained help. At the Fore River Ship-building plant they have schools for their apprentices. A thoroughly equipped manual training school is almost a necessity.

Under the recent law passed by the legislature it will be possible for stores that sell fruit, ice cream and confectionery during week days to keep open on Sundays provided they are so licensed by the City Council. Before the law becomes operative however the act must be accepted by the City Council in cities. In towns the act must be accepted by the voters at a regular meeting.

The law differs somewhat from that relating to common victuallers. In case of common victuallers the city can charge no fee for the license. The city however can charge a fee not exceeding $5 for a license for a fruit or confectionery store.

Much time is consumed by the City Council every year in discussing licenses of various kinds, and now that the law is so that most every kind of business may keep open on Sundays as well as week days it seems almost useless to grant licenses but let anyone who desires keep open.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.

Edgar Emery met with a painful accident this morning which may cost him the loss of one of his eyes.

He was on board the Madgeekew when he slipped and fell. His head struck the centreboard breaking his eye glasses, the broken glass entering one of his eyes. It is feared he may lose the sight of his eye.

Col. Abner B. Packard camp, S. of V., cordially invite all sons and grandsons of the War of the Rebellion to attend church with them on Sunday and parade with them on Monday.

OPENING GAME
ON MONDAYNew Quincy team will meet
Taunton at South Quincy

The big noise in local baseball on Monday, Memorial Day, will be the opening game of the Old Colony league, when the Quincy team will have as opponents the Taunton team, pennant winners last year. The game will be played on the Water street grounds at 10.30 in the morning.

Mayor Shea will officially open the season by throwing the first ball over the plate and there will be a band concert and flag raising. It is the first time that Quincy has had league baseball, that is where teams outside the city were members of the league. Manager Sydney Patterson has gathered together a fast bunch of ball tossers to represent the city and keep Quincy in the first ranks of baseball.

The opener is sure to be a hummer, as the locals are anxious to capture the first game and get a good start, while the Taunton tossers are desirous of living up to the name of "champions." Both teams will fight every inch of the ground and if the weather is fair the game will be worth going a long distance to see.

In the Quincy team several local men will be seen. Behind the bat Fred Smith will work and the fans will surely see some classy backstop work when Fred gets into gear. The box question is doubtful, as "Sid" Patterson has not decided on his slab partner. "Sid" may twirl the game in the morning, but will probably rest until afternoon. He has lines out for a star workman to assist him on the mound.

On first base "Dick" Hayes of Cambridge will be seen. Hayes was last year with Elizabeth, N. J., and tried out with Haverhill this spring. He is one of the best fielding first basemen outside the major leagues and should give a good exhibition on the initial sack this year.

Spiller, who will be remembered as a star member of the old West Quincy champs, will cover the pivot position and as a side partner will have Louis Courtney of Randolph, last year with Randolph in the Old Colony league and this spring with Brockton. George Donaher of West Quincy will play third and he needs no introduction to local fans.

A fast outfield has been signed as well. In the left garden "Billy" Dugan will look after things. Billy played this field for the Dewey Old Colony team last year and is a big favorite at Weymouth. Another local man will be seen in the middle pasture, George Fallon, last year with the Quincy Independents. George is a fast fielder and swell batter.

In the right garden the spare pitcher will probably take care of things as the league rules put a limit on the salary roll.

In Taunton the Quincy boys have a worthy opponent as they have the star pitcher of the league in "Buck" O'Brien. O'Brien went to Indianapolis this spring with Dan Howley of Weymouth, but the Western champs had such a string of stars, O'Brien was sent home. He is a corker, though, and will show some class Monday.

The field is now ready for the games with grandstand and fence erected. The general admission will be 25 cents, ladies and children being admitted for 10 cents. The management expects a big crowd for the opener and will be prepared to handle them.

In the afternoon the boys go to Rockland and a big crowd of rooters will go along to cheer them on to victory.

At Merry Mount park in the morning the Atlantic champions will play Makaria. By this game the series of last year will be recalled, when Atlantic and Makaria fought it out, Atlantic finally winning. Makaria will try to turn the tables Saturday. In the afternoon Atlantic plays Malden at the Ward Six playground.

The Biglows have two games scheduled also for Monday. In the morning they go to the Dunbar avenue grounds, Dorchester, where they will try conclusions with the fast Roger Wolcott team. For the past two or three years the Biglows have tried to get a game with this team, but some reason or other couldn't seem to connect. Beat'em Biglows now that you have the chance.

In the afternoon they play at home, having as guests the Highland A. A. of Melrose. They have a clean string of wins so far and hope to keep up the record on Monday.

Double headers are the rule also for the Fore River Apprentices and likewise the numerous other teams in the city. The old national pastime will certainly be worked Monday, if Mr. Weatherman only favors us with a pleasant day.

Monday night Quincy Music hall will have a big two hour Vaudeville and Moving Picture Show; three high priced acts; four thousand feet of moving pictures and two latest illustrated songs. The stage in Music hall is equipped as complete as any stage in Boston, therefore acts can be put on just as good as in Boston.

Aunt Jerusha, who was Mrs. James McDonald, then opened the album and brought to view many interesting photos of her relatives and friends.

Are doctors good for anything?
Foolish question! Yet some people act as if a medicine could take the place of a doctor! The best medicine in the world cannot do this. Have a family doctor, consult him frequently. If we did not believe doctors endorsed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds, we would not offer it to you.

FLAGS DOWN CELLAR.

Trouble at Brighton School Because British Flags Were Used.

Frederick A. Tupper a former master of the Quincy High school came into prominence at the Brighton High school Friday according to a morning paper because he kept the American flags in the cellar and had the platform decorated with two English flags.

When the local Grand Army Post went to the school to hold exercises they were surprised to see no American flag in sight and only British flags used in the decoration.

Mr. Tupper when asked where the flags were replied that they were in the cellar. The Grand Army refused to go on with the exercises until the American flags were displayed.

After some discussion the flags were brought up from the cellar.

A special meeting of the Post was held that night to take action and the matter will be reported to the National G. A. R.

SPRING RECEPTION.

Colonial Dames Entertain at Dorothy Q. House and Plant Tree.

The annual spring reception of the Massachusetts society of Colonial Dames was held Friday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the historic Dorothy Q. house.

The old house never looked more attractive than it did on this occasion. The parlor and dining room looked particularly attractive being decorated with blue and gold Iris flowers, the colors of the Dames as well as roses and lilacs.

Mrs. Barrett Wendall, president of the Dames presided and also poured tea at the lunch which followed the reception. At 3.30 the guests assembled in the kitchen where Miss Annie Beecher Scoville read an interesting paper on "Indian Homes of New England."

It was planned that Miss Scoville should read her paper from the new summer house just built at the Hancock street end of the main walk while the guests occupied seats on the lawn. The cool damp weather however prevented this.

After the reading of the paper the Dames repaired to the lawn where a Linden tree was planted. Each of the members of the society participated in this part of the program by throwing a shovelfull of earth about the roots.

The reception was largely attended and to many it was their first visit to this famous old house and they took great enjoyment in examining the many things of a historic nature with which the house is stored. They were also much interested in the quaint rooms, the secret chamber, the massive fireplaces and the rooms which have been made famous by their occupants of other years.

REMEMBERED BY PATRONS.

Miss Cora Stackpole and Miss Mary Bean of Dennen's restaurant, who sever their connections with the establishment tonight, were pleasantly remembered by the regular patrons last evening. Miss Stackpole was presented with a gold watch and Miss Bean with a silver mounted toilet set. The presentation speech was made by Henry P. Kittredge and was a complete surprise to the young ladies who were greatly pleased with their gifts.

An advertiser whose contract for advertising in the Ledger ran out this month was asked if he wished to renew. "Renew! Why of course! How else would people know I was in business. Just got an order for $25 worth of work from a lady who said she had discovered me in the Ledger and I was just the man she had been looking for. No don't stop my ad."

IMPERIAL SCOTS
AT MUSIC HALLConcert Under Auspices of Fore River Athletic Club

Music hall was crowded last night at the concert given by the Imperial Scots Concert company under the auspices of the Fore River athletic club. It was one of the best concerts ever given in this city and was given by one of the greatest concert companies that ever visited this country. The company has been touring this country and Canada for the past year and every city they have visited their voices have left golden memories. There appearance here in Quincy is their last before they sail for their native country, Scotland, where they will receive a great reception on their return.

The four stars of the company are J. M. Hamilton, Fred Barclay, Miss Ruby Seath Grant and Miss Annie MacKay. All four are performers of the first water and their acts were some of the best ever seen in this town. The singing of the famous Scotch song "Afton Water" by J. M. Hamilton was one of the best numbers on the excellent program. Mr. Hamilton is known as the Caruso of Scottish song, his name being a household name in Scotland, and for that matter all over the world where the Scottish tongue is spoken. He has appeared before the humblest as well as the highest citizens in the country, including lords, dukes, earls and members of the royal family. His singing of Irish songs is also known all over the world.

The comic songs of Fred Barclay were well received by the large audience. He is the smallest comedian singing Scotch songs today and he brought down the house with his grotesque mannerisms and abundant humors. Miss Ruby Seath Grant, Scotland's prima donna, has a beautiful soprano voice and a charming stage presence and has well been called the Patti of Scottish song. Her singing of that beautiful Irish song "Killarney" was one of the best things ever heard in Music Hall.

Miss Annie MacKay, the accompanist, is a brilliant performer and she helped a lot to make the concert a success. Her playing of the "Scottish Airs" and "Gems from the Operas" was one of the features of the concert.

TO "OUR BOYS IN BLUE."

Agnes G. Fletcher.

It was way back in the year sixty-one, That our first hard battle begun, And our boys went out their country to save.

The home of the true and the home of the brave, The boys were younger then than they are now, Though the hand of Father Time has rested lightly on their brow.

Their eyes are more dim and their step is slower too, But their hearts have kept, just as young and true, As when they parted from loved ones perhaps never to return.

Some sad and dejected, some loving, though stern, How many their lives lost, no one can tell, So fast came the bullets, and so many fell.

And the prayers went out for those boys in blue, That they might be kept ever loyal and true.

But the women at home did not sit down and weep, But gallantly worked, their courage to keep.

So we have come, to help make this day, One to be remembered; and to say A few kind words of love and cheer, And sing a few songs for those gathered here.

For we cannot do too much for these brave boys Who gave up their homes, their pleasures and joys, To fight for our Country's flag, Long years have passed since that war was ended.

But the women still to their duties have tended, And their love like the leaves of the ivy green, In little acts of kindness are seen.

And so till the end, till life be gone, We will cheerily sing and work along, With love, that is stronger than that of old.

For the boys who were so brave and bold, And as when time was young and your lives full of gladness, We will always be cheerful and think not of sadness.

So keep up, brave hearts, and what-e'er the days bring, Thank God for it all; yes, everything.

POLLY of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO
COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY DODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Polly, a child of the circus, is brought up by Toby, a clown, and by a boss canvasman called "Muvver Jim." She learns to ride Bingo, a circus horse, and grows to womanhood knowing no life except that of the circus. II—A church near the circus lot interests Polly. Jim reproves her for her reckless riding. III—Polly urges Bingo to unprecedented speed and falls. Toby and Jim carry the injured girl to the parsonage nearby. IV—The Rev. John Douglas, much to Deacon Elverson's disgust, takes Polly into the parsonage. Toby and "Muvver Jim" are received kindly by Douglas, who has placed Polly in charge of his colored servant, Mandy. Douglas promises to care for the girl until she is well. V—When Polly becomes conscious she declares that she must rejoin the circus at once. "Are you a sky pilot?" she asks the minister. Her mother was killed riding a circus horse, and her father "got his'n in a lion's cage."

Mandy had her wish about being on the spot the first time that the parson's jaw squared itself at Deacon Strong. The deacon had called at the parsonage to demand that Douglas put a stop to the boys playing baseball in the adjoining lot on Sunday. Douglas had been unable to see the deacon's point of view. He declared that baseball was a healthy and harmless form of exercise, that the air was meant to be breathed and that the boys who enjoyed the game on Sunday were principally those who were kept indoors by work on other days. The close of the interview was unsatisfactory both to Douglas and the deacon.

"They kinder made me cold an' prickly all up an' down de back," Mandy said later when she described their talk to Hasty. "Dat 'ere deacon don't know nuffin 'bout gittin' roun' de parson." She tossed her head with a feeling of superiority. She knew the way. Make him forget himself with a laugh. Excite his sympathy with some village underdog.

CHAPTER VII.

MANDY had secretly enjoyed the commotion caused by the little circus rider being left in the parsonage, at first because of her inborn love of mischief and later because Polly had become second in her heart only to the pastor. She went about her work, crooning softly during the days of Polly's convalescence. The deep, steady voice of the pastor reading aloud in the pretty window overhead was company. She would often climb the stairs to tell them some bit of village gossip and leave them laughing at a quaint comment about some inquisitive sister of the church who had happened to incur her displeasure.

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden beneath the window, and Mandy fluttered about arranging the cushions with motherly solicitude.

More days slipped by and Polly began to creep through the little, soft leaved trees at the back of the church and to look for the deep, blue, sweet scented violets. When she was able Douglas took her with him to visit some of the outlying houses of the poor. Her woman's instinct was quick to perceive many small needs in their lives that he had overlooked and to suggest simple, inexpensive joys that made them her devoted friends.

Their evenings were divided between making plans for these unfortunates and reading aloud from the Bible or other books.

When Polly gained courage, Douglas sometimes persuaded her to read to him, and the little corrections that he made at these times soon became noticeable in her manner of speech. She was so eager, so starved for knowledge that she drank it as fast as he could give it. It was during their talks about grammar that Mandy generally fell asleep in her rocker, her unfinished sewing still in her lap.

When a letter came from Jim and Toby it was always shared equally by Mandy and Hasty, Polly and the pastor. But at last a letter came from Jim only, and Douglas, who was asked to read it, faltered and stopped after the first few words.

"It's no use my tryin' to keep it from you any longer, Polly," the letter began. "We ain't got Toby with us no more. He didn't have no accident; it wasn't that. He just seemed kinder sick an' allin' like ever since the night we had to leave you behind. I used to get him warm drinks an' things an' try to pull him through, but he was always a-chillin' and a-achin'. If it wasn't one thing it was another. I done all I knowed you'd 'a' wanted me to, an' the rest of the folks was mighty white to him too. I guess they kinder felt how lonesome he was. He couldn't get no more laughs in the show, so Barker had to put on another man with him. That kinder hurt him, too, I s'pose, an' showed him the way that things was a-goin'." It was just after that he wrote the parson a-tellin' him to never let you come back. He seemed to 'a' got an idee in his head that you was happier where you was. He wouldn't let me tell you 'bout his feelin' rocky, 'cause he thought it might mebbe

As spring came on Douglas carried Polly down to the sunlit garden.

make you come back. 'She's diff'runt from us,' he was allus a-sayin'. 'I never speeted to keep 'er.'"

Douglas stopped. Polly was waiting, her face white and drawn. He had not told her of Toby's letter because with it had come a request to "say nothin' ter the kid."

He felt that Polly was controlling herself with an effort until he should reach the end of Jim's letter, so he hurried on.

"The parson's promise didn't get to him none too quick," he read. "That seemed to be what he was waitin' for. He give up the night it come, an' I got him a little room in a hotel after the show an' let one of the other fellows get the stuff out o' town, so's I could stay with him up to the finish. It come round mornin'. There wasn't much to it—he just seemed tired an' peaceful-like. 'I'm glad he wrote what he did,' he said, meanin' the parson. 'She knows, she allus knows,' he whispered, meanin' you, Polly, an' then he was on his way. He'd already give me what was saved up for you, an' I'm sendin' it along with this.' A blue money order for $250 had fluttered from the envelope when Douglas opened it.

"I got everything ready afore I went on the next day, an' I went up an' saw the little spot on the hill where they was goin' to stow him. It looked kinder nice, an' the digger's wife said she'd put some flowers on it now an' then. It was you what made me think o' that, Polly, 'cause it seemed to me what you would 'a' done. You was allus so daffy about flowers, you an' him."

"I guess this letter's too long for me to be a-sayin' much about the show, but the 'leapa-death' girl got her'n last week. She wasn't strong enough for the job now. I done what I could for her outside the show, 'cause I knowed how you was allus a-feelin' 'bout her. I guess the 'leapa-death's' husband is goin' to jump his job soon, if he gets enough saved up, 'cause him an' Barker can't hit it off no more. We got a good deal o' trouble among the animals too. None o' the snakes is sheddin' like they ought to, an' Jumbo's a-carryin' a sixteen foot bandage around that trunk o' his'n 'cause he got too fresh with Trixy's grub the other night, an' the new giraffe's got the croup in that seven foot neck o' his'n. I guess you'll think I got the pip for fair this time, so I'll just get on to myself now an' cut this short. I'll be writin' you ag'in when we hit Morgan-town."

"YOUR OLD MUVVER JIM."

Douglas laid the letter gently on the table, his hand still resting upon it. He looked helplessly at the little, shrunken figure in the opposite chair. Polly had made no sound, but her head had slipped lower and lower, and she now sat very quietly with her face in her hands. She had been taught by Toby and Jim never to whimper.

"What a plucky lot they are!" thought Douglas as he considered these three lonely souls, each accepting whatever fate brought with no rebellion or even surprise. It was a strange world of stoics in which these children of the amusement arena fought and lost. They came and went like phantoms, with as little consciousness of their own best interests as of the great, moving powers of the world about them. They felt no throes of envy, no bitterness. They loved and worked and "went their way."

For once the pastor was powerless in the presence of grief. Both he and Mandy left the room quietly, feeling that Polly wished to be spared the outburst of tears that a sympathetic word might bring upon her. They allowed her to remain alone for a time; then Mandy entered softly with a tender good night, and Douglas followed her cheerily as though nothing at all had happened.

It was many weeks before Polly again became a companion to Douglas and Mandy, but they did not intrude upon her grief. They waited patiently for the time when youth should again assert itself and bring back their laughing mate to them.

CHAPTER VIII.

WHEN Polly understood that Toby was actually gone it seemed to her that she could never laugh again. She had been too young to realize the inevitableness of death when it came to her mother, and now she could scarcely believe that Toby would never, never come back to her. She felt that she must be able to drag him back; that she could not go on without him. She wanted to tell him how grateful she was for all his care of her. She thought of the thousand little things that she might have done for him. She longed to recall every impatient word to him. His gentle, reproachful eyes were always haunting her. "You must come back, Toby!" she cried. "You must!"

It was only when body and mind had worn themselves out with yearning that a numbness at last crept over her, and out of this grew a gradual consciousness of things about her and a returning sense of her obligation to others. She tried to answer in her old, smiling way and to keep her mind upon what they were saying instead of letting it wander away to the past.

Douglas and Mandy were overjoyed to see the color creeping back to her cheeks.

She joined the pastor again in his visits to the poor. The women of the town would often see them passing and would either whisper to each other, shrug their shoulders or lift their eyebrows with smiling insinuations, but Polly and the pastor were too much absorbed in each other to take much notice of what was going on about them.

They had not gone for their walk today because Mandy had needed Polly to help make ready for the social to be held in the Sunday school room tonight.

Early in the afternoon Polly had seen Douglas shut himself up in the study, and she was sure that he was writing, so when the village children stopped in on the way from school for Mandy's new made cookies she used her customary trick to get them away. "Tag, you're it!" she cried and then dashed out the back door, pursued by the laughing, screaming youngsters. Mandy followed the children to the porch and stood looking after them as the mad little band scurried about the back yard, darted in and out among the trees, then up the side of the wooded hill, just beyond the church.

The leaves once more were red and yellow on the trees, but today the air was warm and the children were wearing their summer dresses. Polly's little girlish figure looked almost tall by comparison with the children about her. She wore a plain, simple gown of white, which Mandy had helped her to make. It had been cut ankle length, for Polly was now seventeen. Her quaint, old fashioned manner, her serious eyes and her trick of knotting her heavy brown hair low on her neck made her seem older.

Mandy waited until the children had disappeared over the hill, then began bustling about, looking for the step-ladder which Hasty had left under the vines of the porch. It had been a busy day at the parsonage. A social always meant perturbation for Mandy. She called sharply to Hasty as he came down the path which made a short cut to the village.

"So's youse back, is yo'?" she asked sarcastically.

"Sure I's back," answered Hasty good naturedly as he sank upon an empty box that had held some things for the social and pretended to wipe the perspiration from his forehead.

"Massa John done send yo' to de postoffice two hours ago," said Mandy as she took the letters and papers from his hand. "Five minutes is plenty ob time for any nigger to do dat job."

"I done been detained," Hasty drawled.

"Youse always 'tained when dar's any work a-goin' on," Mandy snapped at him.

Why Overheat Yourself?

Much of your summer pleasure depends upon having a cool and comfortable kitchen. Why not be prepared for hot days before they come.

LETTER FROM THE CAPITAL.

Washington, May 22, 1909.
The Senate leaders are far from satisfied with the progress being made on the tariff bill, and with a desire to call a halt on speeches for home consumption and to have the tariff debate confined to the specific questions under consideration, they intend to do everything in their power to limit the scope of the discussion. Hereafter the tariff orators are to be held within bounds and will not be permitted to discuss the fundamentals of free trade and protection; the trust question, the political situation, freight rates and other economic subjects. On Thursday of this week, after a long debate in which almost everything except the pending amendment was discussed, Senator Tillman suggested that the time had come when something ought to be done to put an end to "this useless wrangle" and said he was weary of sitting in the Senate with nothing to do except listen to professions of political faith by Republicans and Democrats, and in this he voiced the sentiments of many others. Senator Aldrich, chairman of the Finance Committee, intends at an early date, to invoke a rule that no Senator shall speak more than twice on any one question in debate on the same day without the permission of the Senate, and he intends, also, to insist that the Senate confine itself to consideration of the paragraphs under consideration. It is hoped, in this way, to dispose of the bill before the summer is over.

Since the Sperry board made its report on changes in the navy regulations Secretary Meyer has been applying himself industriously to the subject and he has decided, practically, to formulate a plan of his own for navy yard reorganization, founded on the basic principle that the highest possible degree of efficiency adroit shall be the controlling purposes of every change and of his entire administration. Brief as has been his experience at the head of the Navy Department, Mr. Meyer has grasped already this basic proposition that the efficiency of the fleet is the great essential and that all else must bend to that end. While efficiency and economy will be promoted in the navy yards, they are to be recognized as of secondary importance.

In the days of the Roosevelt administration visitors to the Senate galleries were always sure to get a glimpse of Vice President Fairbanks, hear his sonorous tones, and view the dignity of mien with which he presided over the body. He was always in his seat and seemed to believe that it was the duty of the Vice President to remain near the Senate. Vice President Sherman takes another view and believes that the Vice President should have the same leisure as any other member of the Senate. He knows there are many capable hands in which to trust the gavel and he has taken several afternoons off to play golf and has made several trips to his home on business. He calls Senator Frye to the chair whenever it is possible, knowing that he is entrusting the business of the Senate to one of the most exact and capable officers who ever presided over the Upper House of Congress. When Senator Frye is absent Mr. Sherman calls on any one who happens to catch his eye. One day this week four different Senators alternated in the chair. The consensus of opinion is that Mr. Sherman is right in escaping at times from the bombardment of oratorical periods.

After no little discussion and five weeks' work, the name of Jefferson Davis, president of the late Southern Confederacy, has been restored to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge. When Mr. Davis was Secretary of War, in the fifties, his name formed part of the legend originally cut into the tablet, but it was erased from the stone in 1862 by order of Secretary Caleb Smith of the Interior Department. President Roosevelt ordered its restoration, forty-seven years later, just before his retirement from office, and his action was the result of urgent appeals of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

Prominent members of the Association of State and National Food and Dairy Departments are considering the advisability of asking Congress at its next session, to enact legislation providing for supervision of all factories which prepare food products entering into interstate commerce. The advocates of such a measure maintain that it could be drawn along lines similar to that providing for the inspection of meat and meat products. Many Congressmen are of the opinion, however, that such legislation, if enacted, would not stand the tests of the courts, and they maintain that it is doubtful if the meat inspection law would be upheld by the Supreme Court, were it taken before that tribunal. The packers have been so benefitted by the law that they have not been disposed to subject it to the tests of the courts. It is doubtful if the purveyors of food products generally would be equally benefitted, and it is feared that, were an attempt made to so far extend the system, the entire legislative structure would fall. It is considered extremely doubtful, therefore, if Congress could be induced to extend the policy of federal inspection.

DEPARTMENT OF MASSACHUSETTS.

GENERAL ORDER NO. 1

In compliance with the laws of our Order, our established custom and general orders from headquarters, the comrades of this Post will observe Monday the thirty-first of May as Memorial Day. Comrades let us observe Memorial Day with reverence and thoughtfulness. Let us bring our fairest blossoms and with loving thought place them upon the graves of our departed comrades. See that not a single soldier's grave be forgotten. Let the flag they loved so well wave over each. Let us conduct the services of the day in such a manner that the young may be impressed with its sacredness and learn to cherish the memory of those who sacrificed so much for their country. Reverence for the dead is one of the noblest sentiments of the human heart, and all true Americans should cultivate this sentiment for the memories of our brave union soldiers, who freely offered their lives that our country might not be torn asunder and that justice and equal rights might prevail. The Grave of every Union soldier is a shrine of Liberty.

How sound they sleep, no more the joyous shout,
No revelle awakes them to the light,
The tattoo beats for them a long, long night,
They need no sound of taps, their lights are out.

No more the drum-beat summons them to arms,
No more for them the deadly picket post,
No weary march to meet the armed host,
Here let them rest, secure from war's alarm.

On Sunday, May 30, the Post will assemble at headquarters at 9 o'clock A. M. in full uniform for the purpose of attending services at the Methodist Episcopal church, West Quincy.

SUMMER AMUSEMENTS

Castle Square Theatre.

The second week of "The Geisha" begins at the Castle Square on Monday. During the past week this musical comedy has aroused no little sensation by its brightness, its humor, its music, and its scenic spectacle, and it is having as fine a production as it has ever before received in Boston. The John Craig Stock Company, with the addition of a chorus of forty expert singers, is proving again its skill and its safety to say that thousands will want to listen to and laugh at "The Geisha" over and over again. The dominating characters of "The Geisha" are Molly Seamore and O. Mimosa San and as acted by Mary Young and Louise Le Baron the yoffer the height of vivacity, of loveliness and of the charms of melody. Around them cluster a delightful group of Japanese and English, and the one Chinaman among them all, by name Wun Hi, is acted by Donald Meek with a mirthfulness that keeps the audience persistently in a roar. In the other leading roles are seen Mr. Craig, Theodore Friebeus, William Everts, Mabel Colcord, and Gertrude Bailey.

Keith's Theatre.

Bert Leslie, who divided honors with Hattie Williams in "Fluffy Ruffles" last season, will be the principal attraction at Keith's theatre the week of May 31st. Mr. Leslie in his "Hogan" sketches, with his outlandish slang, has always been a prime favorite in vaudeville and he will no doubt receive a warm reception. Another popular favorite will be Stuart Barnes, the monologist who has been seen at this house before this season and made a big hit. An acrobatic feature of even greater interest will be that of the Willy Pantzer Troupe, the midget acrobats who do some astounding feats. Charles and Fanny Van, who proved great favorites last week, will remain for another. Others on the bill are the Five Salvagis with their sensational dances; the Big City Four, one of the best male quartettes now on the stage; Paul Klisist; Jennings and Renfrow, the comedians; the Daleys in a rolling skating act and others.

Majestic Theatre.

The always buoyant Miss Lulu Glaser will bring a new Viennese operetta to the Majestic theatre, opening next Monday night. There will be Saturday matinees only. This new musical play, which has been voted the greatest success that Miss Glaser has enjoyed since the days of "Dolly Varden" is called "Mlle. Mischief" and the fun and comedy contained therein is said to live up to its engaging title. Its music, which is by Carl M. Ziehrer, one of the most popular of Austrian composers, is said to possess the triple rhythm one associates with the gay gardens of Vienna. Strauss, Lehar and Ziehrer built their first fame. The story of "Mlle. Mischief" involves a series of complications arising from a wager which Rosette (an artist's model) has made that she will spend twenty-four hours as a soldier at the Fremstad barracks. Miss Glaser's supporting company includes Alexander Clarke, William Russell, Roy Atwell, Robert Broderick, Frank H. Huntington, W. P. Carleton, Gertrude Darrell, Josie Intropoli, Ada Henry and Ethel Intropoli.

Park Theatre.

"The Travelling Salesman" has scored an emphatic success in Boston and is now in the second month of its engagement, and a striking feature of the audiences now testing the capacity of the Park theatre is that they are made up in the major part, of strangers from all parts of the New England States who have heard and read of James Forbes', the now international playwright's latest and newest creation of "Bob Bland", the modern drummer as known from Portland, Maine to Portland, Oregon, and whose philosophical wit and sayings not only amuse the audience while it listens, but repeats chucklingly afterwards, which is understandable as it comes straight out of the living vernacular of the hour. "The Travelling Salesman" is simultaneously amusing Boston and Chicago, while at the same time Arthur Forbes' companion play, "The Chorus Lady" is pleasing audiences in London, England. Both plays present types of real human nature that are expertly and humorously drawn and are manifestly the fruit of sharp, yet tolerant observations of life and are fraught with extremely comical reflections which have their source in a sunny and philosophical mind. Mark Smith, Rosalind Coghlan, James O'Neill, Jr., and Diana Huneker, head a cast that play in a lively, cyclonic fashion that sustains the story to the very last word of the final curtain. There will be the usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Orpheum Theatre.

Billy Clifford fresh from his starring triumph in "The Girl At Elm Hall" will come to the Orpheum Theatre next week bringing with him an entire new repertoire of songs and stories. His name on any program is assurance of at least one half hour of good solid fun. The European sensation, Lindy will be another pleasing number. Lindy has for some time had the theatre-going people guessing as to his or her sex. Dancing divinity and singing in clear soprano voice it is difficult to believe that he is a man, but although much is left to the imagination of the audience, some of the doubts are cleared up at the finish of his act. Conates and Grundy's Vaternelson Trusthas been called America's favorite colored act, and if there are any better acts that have never been in Boston this season, Lee Kohlmar will make his debut in vaudeville, presenting "A Lesson in German." We are all familiar with Mr. Kohlmar as the original "August Pooms" in the "Music Master." Ed Latell, the unique comedian, the Kohler Trio, operatic soloists and several other big acts make up the balance of the bill.

Wonderland Open.

Wonderland enters upon its fourth season today, Saturday, the doors will be thrown open at one o'clock to the inspiring strains of patriotic music by Teet's Victory Band of Boston and the throwing to the breeze of thousands of flags and streamers. The management promises a "1915" year at this most popular recreation park down by the sea at Revere Beach with twenty cents worth of entertainment and enjoyment for every ten cents spent. Novelty and satisfaction will be the watchwords for the season with a continuance of the good order which has always prevailed at this resort and has given it the name of the best conducted enterprise of the kind in America. The fixed and changeable features of the program for the year will be the best possible to obtain. Admission to the park and to its many attractions will be on a new plan destined to prove very popular, one feature of which will be a combination ticket admitting to the grounds and to ten of the inside shows.

A BOSTON GIRL'S BUDGET.

Commencements and the Shoe and Leather Fair Prove the Hub's Supremacy Above and Below—Hot Air on Boston Common Will Be Studied From a New Kiosk Put There by the Weather Bureau—A Real Greek Woman Says Nice Things About the American Athenians—A Fruit and Vegetable Famine May Follow the New Fad for Trimming Hats with Natural Objects.

Another architectural adornment on Boston's classic Common. The weather bureau has introduced an innovation which is arousing a great deal of curiosity among old and young alike. Many people have not yet discovered the purpose of the little pigeon-house-pagoda-like thing and varying and weird functions are attributed to it. It's a Kiosk, which will be in operation shortly, after which the mysterious five holes and faucet on one side of the steel structure will divulge their secrets to the passers-by.

The question has arisen as to what the "bump of forgettery" is leading us to. A specialist on mental subjects has come to the conclusion that as a people our memories are much shorter now than fifty years ago. As it is, the person who can remember details of the previous week's happenings—unless he or she leads an unusually quiet life—is considered remarkable. The intense lives which most people in the city and some in the country live from day to day, and the increasing competition and struggle in the business world tends to obliterate quickly all but the very important events of each day. At the present rate, a century hence will discover a race of people devoid of memories, according to the prognostications of this eminent scientist.

Across Boston's broad Back Bay basin affairs of the nation's head and foot will be especially well administered this year. Harvard's Commencement will be exceptionally brilliant. Nearer to town the First World's Shoe and Leather fair is shortly to open in its magnificent, new reinforced concrete building, on the Cambridge esplanade. The latter will be visited by every New Englander from the barefoot boy to the well groomed millionaire.

Boston marketmen and florists are in increasing fear of a famine in vegetables and natural flowers, since the new millinery fad struck Smith college and bids fair to spread. If every up-to-date young lady at the Northampton institution continues to require fresh trimming on from two to ten hats a day, according to the nature of her diversions, the truck farms and meadows in the western part of the state will soon be devastated. Nevertheless, it's a pretty idea, and getting back to nature in this manner must be a great improvement on the conventional forms of artificial head dress. And just think, too—these hats cost only fifteen cents apiece and include the pleasure of gathering wild flowers or invading the truck farm! Consider also the temptation of a bunch of pretty radishes, dangling just over your nose half an hour before lunch time!

Rarely has Boston received a higher compliment than that paid the city and its people by Demetra Vaka, the charming wife of Kenneth Brown, the author. Instead of calling them cold and reserved according to tradition she says, "I have found Bostonians to be the warmest-hearted people in America, and I have lived in the South for two years. Money does not slap you in the face like it does in New York; you can wear old clothes and not feel you are worse than your neighbor." Mrs. Brown finds great delight in Beacon hill and South Boston, but does not approve of Commonwealth avenue or the Back Bay for residential purposes. Mrs. Brown is the author of a story of Turkish harem life recently published, having been a native of Greece and spent a part of her youth in Constantinople. Ethel Angier.

RALSTON SHOES are so constructed as to preserve the natural tread line of the foot regardless of the style of the shoe. In other words you can select the style of toe which best pleases your fancy with the knowledge that you are not sacrificing comfort for style.

Your feet will take as naturally to a pair of RALSTON SHOES as a duck takes to water—no cramping; no breaking in Ralstons; for they are foot-moulded when in process of manufacture.

If your feet bother you—wear RALSTON SHOES. Let us show you the styles we carry.
